Molotov Rejects British Voting Plan at Conference

Paris Parley Is Still Dealing with Procedure

PARIS (CP) — Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia today rejected the proposed British amendment on voting procedure for the Paris peace conference, asserting it was "calculated to upset the decision of the council of foreign ministers and replace it with a new one." Canada, China, the United States and Norway supported the British compromise which would have permitted the conference to make recommendations to the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Russia and the United States on five peace treaties either by two-thirds or simple majority vote.

EARTHQUAKE IS INTENSE

However No Great Damage Was Done by Violent Tremor in Caribbean Area

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — One of the greatest earthquakes in the history of the West Indies, equalling if not exceeding the intensity of that of 1918, was recorded yesterday but it was evidently centred in deep water off to the north of Puerto Rico and no serious damage has been reported. Buildings shook and seismograph needles fluttered violently.

PILOT SEARCH ABANDONED

Joe Barber, New York Has Never Been Found

EDMONTON — One of the most prolonged aerial and ground searches in the history of the Northwest came to an end as officials at Northwest Air Command here announced that they were calling off the month-old search for Joe Barber, Jamestown, N.Y., civilian pilot.

The hunt for Barber began after his plane disappeared June 23 while en route to Alaska. He was flying one of two planes being ferried to Fairbanks, Alaska, at the time he disappeared. The pilot of the second aircraft reported that Barber suddenly veered away from the Alaska Highway, which both had been following.

An intensive aerial search resulted in the missing aircraft being located on a creek bed about 180 miles northwest of Fort Nelson, R.C.A.F. men dropped the grounded machine by parachute but could find no trace of the pilot.

An experienced bushman was flown to the scene to try to track down the pilot and later an eleven-man army rescue squad under command of Capt. G. G. Brown of the P.P.C.L.I. Calgary, carried out an intensive ground search without result.

WHO WINS BIG SALVAGE PRIZE?
LONDON — Who is entitled to a rich salvage prize of a $4,500,000 cargo of the American freighter American Farmer which was badly damaged after a collision in the Atlantic Ocean last Wednesday and was abandoned by her crew? This is a posing international question which is claiming the attention even of the British Admiralty.

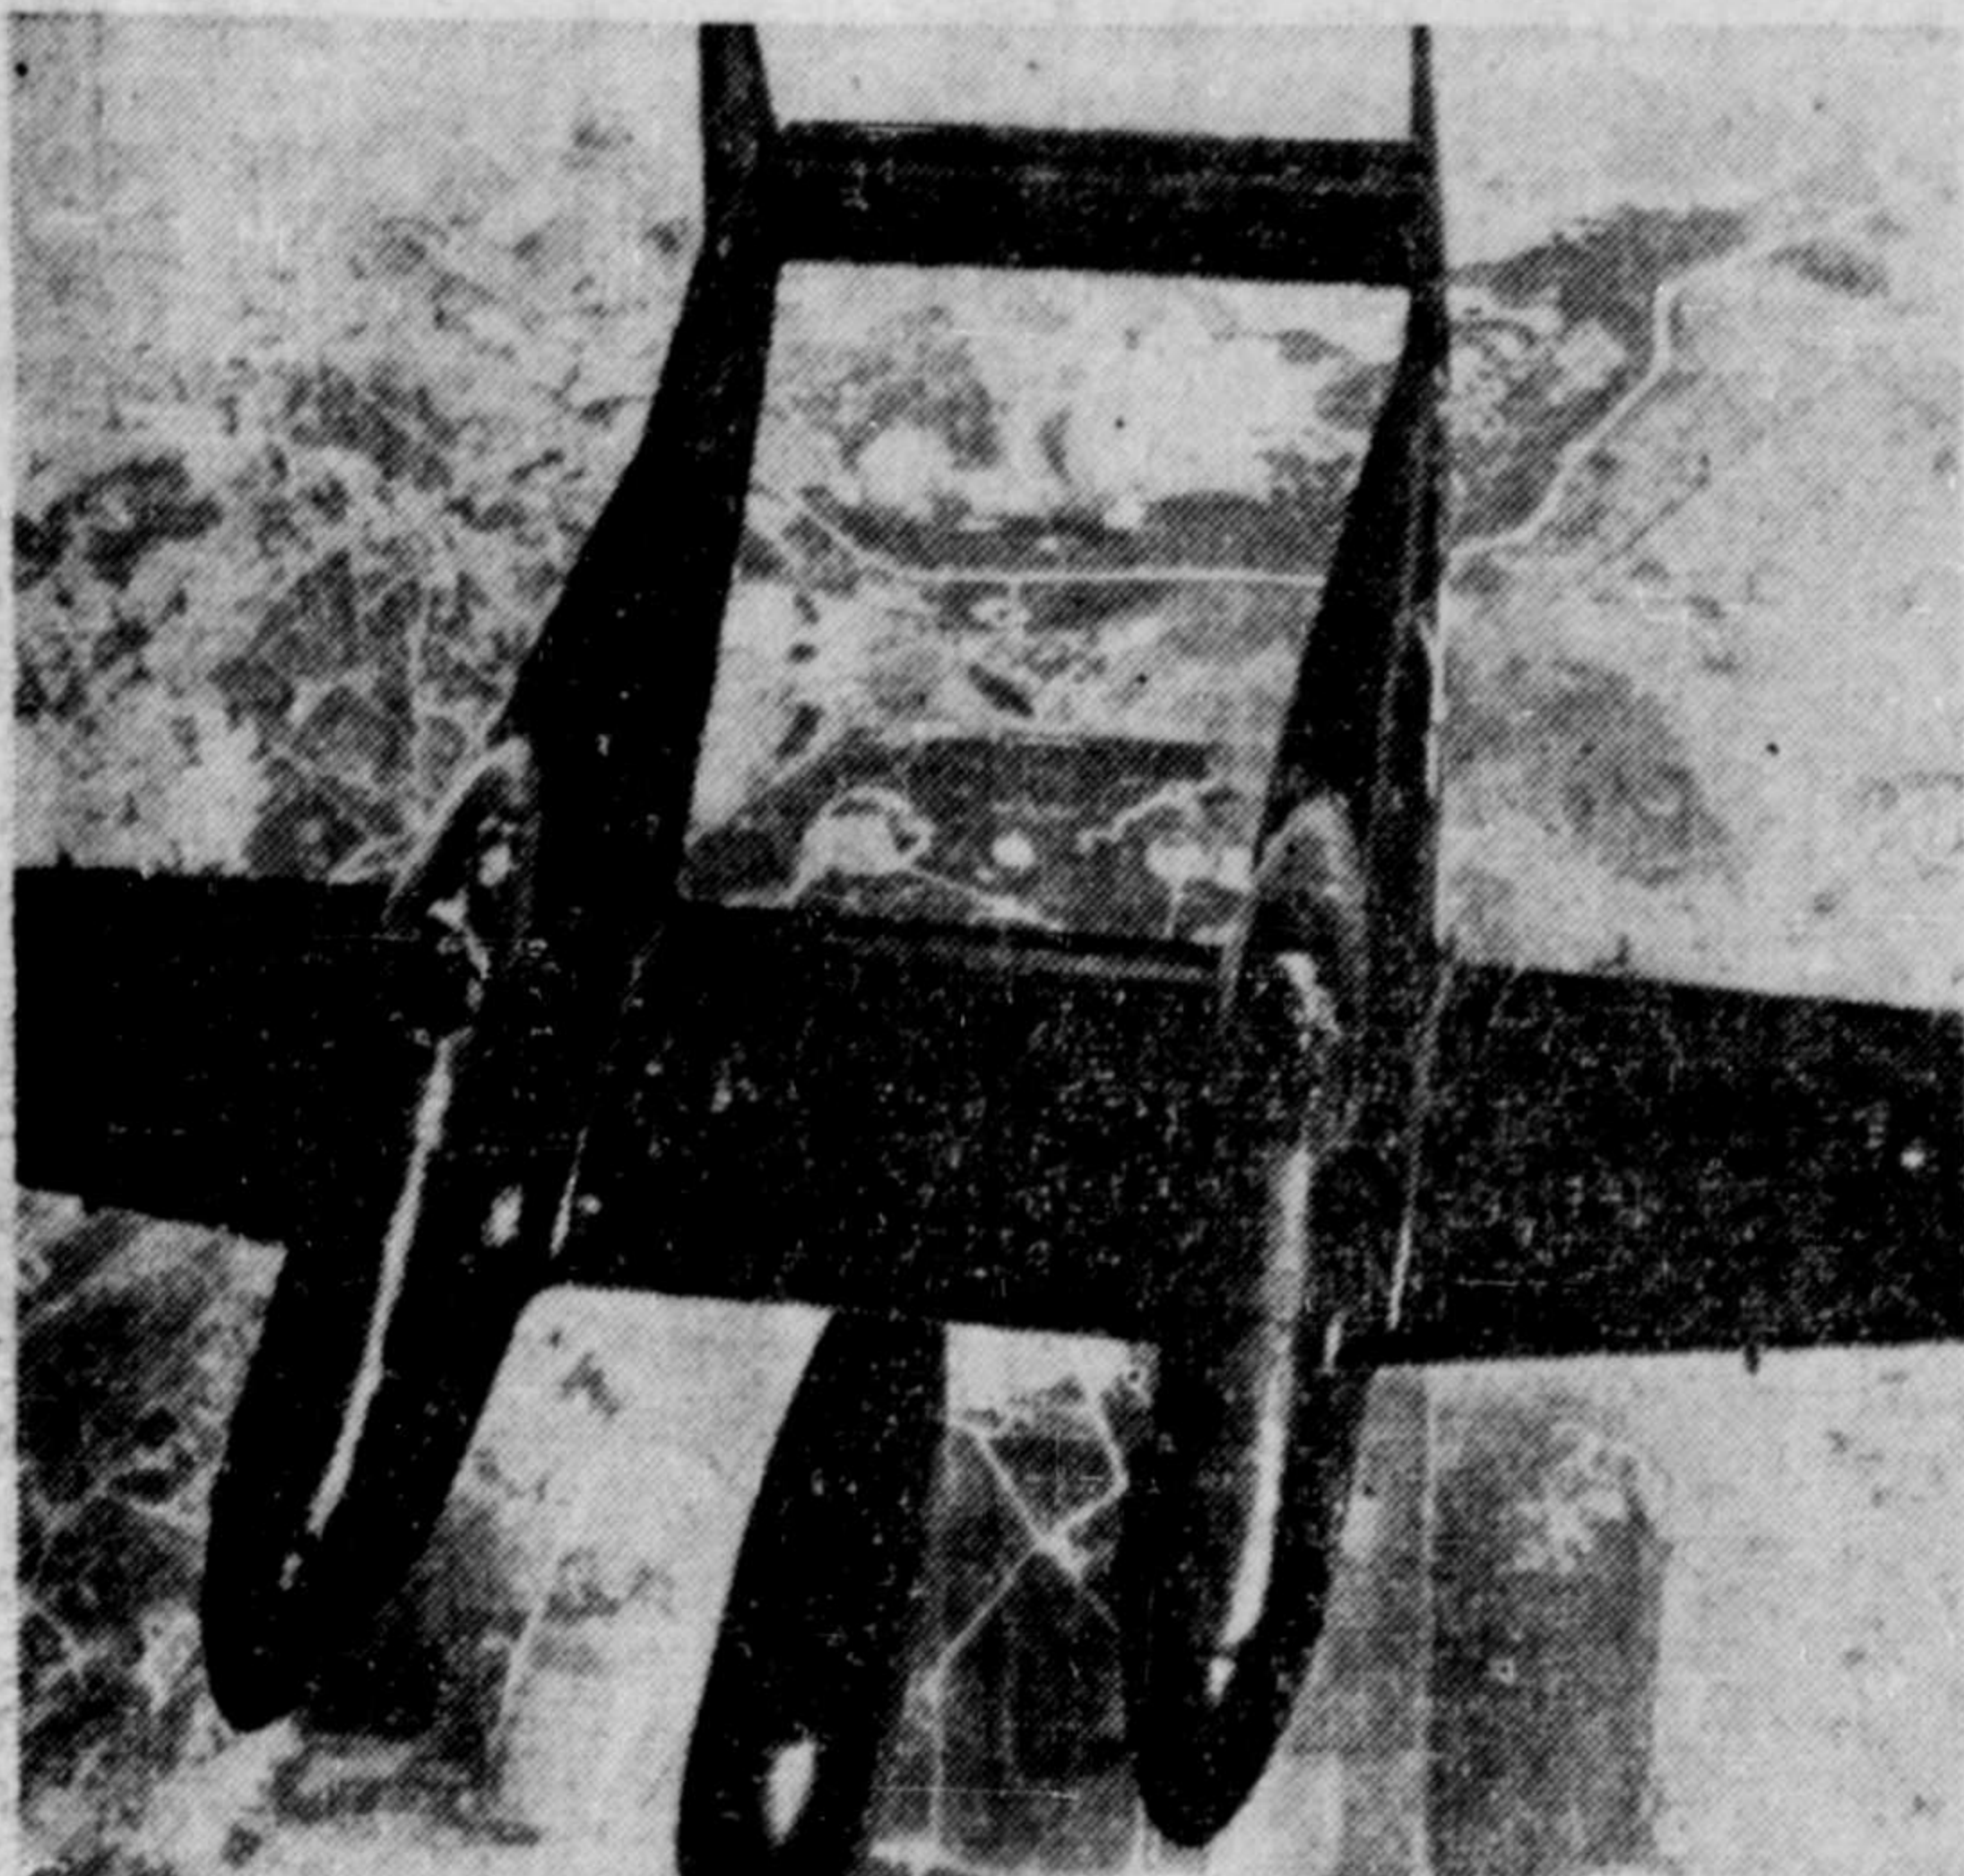

The British ship Elizabeth claims to have put a crew aboard the American Farmer and started towing her to the Welsh port of Cardiff. Then the American Ranger came along and put a party of engineers aboard, pulling down the British flag and forcing the British salvage crew off.

The United States destroyer Peary also took a hand in convey.

Lloyds of London announced last week that the 8,000-ton American Farmer had sunk in the Atlantic 400 miles west of the English Channel after a collision. The Lloyd's announcement confirmed an SOS radio call picked up by the Radio Marine Corps station in Chatham, Mass. The SOS call said the American Farmer sank after colliding with the vessel William J. Riddle. The Coast Guard in New York reported that "all passengers, the crew and the master" of the American Farmer were saved by quick rescue work by the crew of the William J. Riddle.

The survivors of the sinking had since been transferred to the Benjamin Goodhue and are believed on their way to New York, the Coast Guard said. Both the Goodhue and the St. Washington responded to the SOS by the American Farmer and stood by to assist the Riddle.

The American Farmer was owned by the U.S. Lines and was built in 1945. She sailed for London from Baltimore on July 15, and was in collision while on her return voyage to New York. The American Farmer was described by the Coast Guard as an 8858-ton freighter.

Throw Up Palestine

Jewish Agency Will Not Accept Partition—Underground Still Threatens—Meet in London

JERUSALEM — The Jewish Agency, in an official statement, declares the British plan for the quadruple partition of Palestine is not only unacceptable but is not even a basis for discussion.

The underground radio of the organization which admitted responsibility for the recent bombing of the King David Hotel says that imposition of another curfew by the British would be ignored and resisted and, if there was any attack upon the residents there would be 1000 British casualties in addition to Jews.

Meanwhile in London Prime Minister Clement Attlee, who returned home from the Paris peace conference, has been discussing the Palestine situation with Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, recovering from his illness, and Sir John Shaw, who recently returned from Palestine, having been one of the survivors of the King David Hotel bombing. Unless the United States approved of the British partition plan, the British may turn the whole question of Palestine over to the United Nations.

Wages Increased; Strike Is Ended

PARIS — Having accepted a 25 per cent wage increase with prospects of a reclassification which may make it even more, French transportation and communication workers have ended the strike and returned to work today.

The Ketchikan delegates will arrive Wednesday afternoon by aircraft, and the Juneau and Haines delegates will arrive at practically the same time on the Princess Norah. Leader of the Ketchikan delegation will be W. C. Stump, past president of the Ketchikan Chamber of Commerce, who will be their official speaker.

Other delegates from Ketchikan are: Past President, Ralph Bartholomew; Secretary, Ronald Milligan; William Baker, editor of the Ketchikan Chronicle; Emery Tobin, editor of the Alaska Sportsman; B. Frank Heinzelman, regional forester.

Paige and his wife hope to average 400 miles daily in their 1933 model—and expect to make the trip in three weeks. They left Halifax on July 31.

If they win the medal, they plan to stick on the car and drive back to Halifax in October.

LOCAL SKIPPER MAKES EMERGENCY RUN TO SAVE AILING SHIPMATE

How a Prince Rupert halibut skipper won a grim, 10-hour race through the Gulf of Alaska to save the life of one of his shipmates, stricken with acute appendicitis, was revealed here at the week-end with the arrival of the halibut boat Miss Jean which returned minus one of her crew.

The stricken man, Harold Grindstrand, a Prince Rupert fisherman, was taken by Capt. Paul Johansen to Kodiak hospital where he was operated on within an hour of arrival. A forced, 86-mile run was made from Portlock Bank where the Miss Jean had been fishing.

Grindstrand, a brother of Erling Grindstrand, who is a former president of the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union and a director of the Prince Rupert Co-operative, is now reported to be progressing favorably after the operation.

The Miss Jean arrived in Port Friday with 56,000 pounds of halibut, which was sold to the Co-op.

According to Capt. Johansen, the Miss Jean was fishing on Portlock Bank one evening, when Grindstrand, who was unhooking halibut from the gear which was being hauled in, was overcome with a sudden pain in his abdomen. Fearing the man's trouble to be appendicitis, he headed the vessel for the nearest port, Kodiak, where they arrived 10 hours later.

During the 10-hour run, ice packs were placed on Grindstrand's body to relieve his pain. On their arrival at Kodiak, Grindstrand was taken to the Catholic hospital where he was operated on a few minutes after entering the institution.

Temperatures for the next few days will be 11 to 15 degrees cooler than Sunday when maximums of 97 at Kamloops for the interior and 78 at Comox for the coast were recorded.

Prince Rupert, Queen Charlottes and North Coast — Cloudy with widely scattered rain showers. Northwest winds ten miles per hour. Little change in temperature. Minimums expected tonight: Port Hardy 52, Massett 42, Prince Rupert 42.

CANADA'S PEACE PART

PRIME Minister Mackenzie King, in the course of presenting Canada's case at the Paris peace conference where he made the very useful suggestion that Big Four foreign ministers might consider new proposals arising out of the conference while the parley was in progress rather than waiting until it is over, complained in the usual diplomatic and gentle King manner that Canada felt she was not being allowed a measure of participation in peace negotiations compatible with the great part she played in the war.

Mr. King was, apparently, in typically statesmanlike and tactful form in his utterance at the conference. He is not given to ill-considered or violent complaints but, when he does complain, it may be assumed by all and sundry that the complaint is justifiable and has not been made without full and careful consideration.

The people of Canada will be better off if Mr. King to a man when he suggests that Canada, which played such a big part in winning the war, feels, in view of her effort, that she might be permitted to play a little larger part in framing the peace. In the doing of this statesmen of the calibre and ability of Mr. King have talents which could well be used. Of course, he would be too modest himself to make, or possibly even think, of such a suggestion.

Men learn to talk in a few months. Then spend the rest of their lives learning to keep still.

FUTILITY OF STRIKE

THE FUTILITY of the strike has once more been cogently demonstrated. Eight hundred foundry workers in Vancouver returned to work today after seventy-seven days of idleness following their walk-out. As for the dispute, it is still, as it was the day the strike started, pending the outcome of negotiation. Work could have been going on just as well as not while the negotiation was in progress. The only thing the strike may have been instrumental in accomplishing was speeding up the settlement. Even that is a hypothetical assumption. What the strike did do, however, was deprive 800 men of their regular pay for 77 days, upset the production and organization of the operators and deprive the consuming public of badly needed goods and services. The least loss probably was that suffered by the operators themselves. Much more serious was the loss of the strikers. The consuming public, as usual, was indifferently left to suffer disappointment and inconvenience.

If you want people to think you're wise, talk to 'em in language they can't understand.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

ONE of the big problems in community service today is the one of bringing the business and professional men of the community to the realization that their town is a business and that as citizens they have a responsibility to keep that town in business. Any business that does not keep pace with the progress of its particular industry and allied lines is not going to stay in business very long. So it is with every town. Problems of many kinds are confronting all towns today, and someone—some individual or some organization—must give the time and the energy to meet these problems and attempt to solve them for the best interests of the community, or that community is not going to stay in business.

If a resolution being proposed by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce is adopted at the convention in Terrace this week of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia, the Dominion government will be requested to immediately institute and vigorously pursue an aggressive policy of selected immigration. COMPLETION OF NORTHERN ROAD

Building of Hansard-McBride Link is Being Requested

Immediate completion by the provincial government with federal assistance of the last gap of the northern transprovincial highway between Hansard and McBride is urged in a resolution to be presented by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce to the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia at its annual convention at Terrace this week.

The resolution, in its where-ases, points out that many inquiries have been received indicating a great interest in motor-traffic from Edmonton westward to Prince George and Prince Rupert, that the Hansard-McBride link is all that is required to complete the northern transprovincial highway and connect it with the highway systems of northern and central Alberta and that the northern highway cannot serve its full purpose while this link is still missing.

LETTERBOX

REMOVING BARRICADES

Editor,

Daily News,

On Sunday, the surface of Third Avenue between First Street and Third Street was sealed. Barricades were erected to prevent traffic from using Third Avenue until such time as the materials were properly set.

In spite of the fact that these barricades were there it was found that a number of car owners drove by the ends and used the street.

This work was done on a Sunday to inconvenience traffic as little as possible and at more expense to the City as we have to pay double time for labor on Sundays.

The people of Prince Rupert are demanding that work be done on the streets and are quick to complain if the work is not done.

In spite of this the public is not co-operating, as evidenced by the action on Sunday.

I have personally issued instructions that all persons removing barricades or travelling on streets which have been barricaded are to be prosecuted.

H. M. DAGGETT,
Mayor.

HAIL'S HAVOC

NORFOLK, Eng. — Freak hailstorms in Norfolk have destroyed nearly 30,000 acres of crops, reckoned as worth about $80,000, and ruined scores of small farmers. Within a 20-mile strip of country from Downham Market to Fakenham, only three-quarters of a mile wide, acres of wheat and barley have been ruined.

TORQUAY, Eng. — More than 200 holiday-makers were marooned for an hour here recently when a mooring rope parted and the paddle steamer Pride of Devon was swept by a gale across a line of moored yachts.

CUPID VERSUS SCHOOL BOARDS

VICTORIA, B.C. — The shortage of teachers in British Columbia is worse now than it was during the war years and the small towns and rural areas are feeling the shortage more than the cities.

This situation was indicated here during the conference of school inspectors from all parts of the province. C. B. Conway, principal of the summer school which was in progress here at the same time as the school inspectors were meeting, reported many inspectors were making frequent trips to the summer school in searches, often in vain, for teachers to fill vacancies in their districts.

Dr. Conway gave two reasons why the teacher shortage is now worse than during the war—the post-war boom in marriages and the number of women who are resuming homemaking now that their husbands have been discharged from the services.

"This shortage has been coming on for years," he said. "Many men coming back from the forces aren't going back into the teaching profession or returning to it because it is so poorly paid. There are a number of potential teachers at the University of B.C. but it will take them two or three years to complete their training." It is anticipated that some the forth, may have to remain

THE PHYSICALLY DISABLED VETERAN

SECOND IN A SERIES ON THEIR EMPLOYMENT

W. W. SMITH

CASUALTY REHABILITATION SECTION
DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Here's a man who serves both the DISABLED VETERAN and YOU!

AVAILABLE across Canada at offices of the Department of Veterans Affairs are men known as Casualty Rehabilitation Officers. These men, the majority physically disabled themselves, have been trained in modern techniques of placing physically disabled in positions where they can be 100% efficient.

In the hospitals they work with the veteran, helping him select suitable vocations leading to successful placement. If training is indicated, they assist the veteran in selecting a proper course.

On the other side they work constantly with employers. They assist in carrying out analyses of the physical requirements of jobs so that physically disabled veterans capable of doing these jobs 100% efficiently may be placed in them.

They are, in effect, trained assistants available to the veteran and to employers both in placing physically disabled veterans and in adjusting their employment if unsatisfactorily placed. They co-operate with the Special Placements Section of the National Employment Service which also offers Canadian industry a specialized placement service for the physically handicapped.

Employers who can assist in providing opportunities for the physically handicapped veteran will find the services of the Casualty Rehabilitation Officer and the Special Placement Section of the National Employment Service readily available to them.

It's what a man CAN DO that counts

Issued under the authority of
HON. IAN A. MACKENZIE, MINISTER OF VETERANS AFFAIRS
DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Three books dealing with the modern technique of employing the disabled are being made available to employers. They will be found of real assistance in making effective placements.

Women Workers Have Own Hotel

SYDNEY, Australia (P)—A modern and luxurious hotel for women industrial workers has just been opened at Sydney's famed Bondi Beach. The hotel which houses 100 girls, has been established by a progressive firm of clothing manufacturers, to encourage women to join their staff. Ex-servicewomen and those who worked in industry during the war, are showing a marked preference for "glamor jobs" rather than factory work, but the clothing firm believes that by providing attractive accommodation they will persuade girls to re-enter the trade. The hotel, formerly used by the Royal Navy to accommodate Wrens, is well furnished and equipped.
There is a communal laundry,
hot and cold water in all bedrooms, and a spacious lounge and writing rooms on all floors.

HOW CAN I ???

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent the linen tablecloth from sticking to the table?

A. A piece of waxed paper or oilcloth placed under the linen which covers a table will prevent sticking to the polished surface during hot weather. It also prevents stains from overturned receptacles.

Q. How can I stop the bleeding of a deep cut?

A. Bind on tightly a handful of table salt. The salt will be very painful for awhile but it is healing and will stop the flow of blood.

Q. How can I give apple butter a better flavor and a richer color?

A. By putting some old-fashioned cinnamon drops in while it is cooking.

SAVOY DOWNS MOOSE 9 TO 1

Taking advantage of a brief break in the weather Sunday afternoon, Savoy and Moose baseball teams tangled for five innings of what was to have been a league double-header. Before they were rained out, Savoy inflicted a routine trimming on Moose, emerging by a score 9 to 1.

Watts and Nickerson, which was to have featured in the second game of the scheduled double-header, were smart enough not to show up in defiance of the weatherman. However, Savoy, which might have claimed victory by default, announce that they would rather play it out.

Savoy's big inning in their game with Moose was the fourth, in which they brought in five runs. Walter Johnson hit a three-bagger, heaviest slugging of the game.

Batteries were Bill and Vukovich for Savoy and Henry and Christopherson for Moose. Pitcher Alex Bill struck out four batters, while Moose moundsman Stu Henry struck out two.

MARTELL IS NEW CHAMP

Made Hole-in-One For First Time in History of Canadian Amateur Golf Final

EDMONTON. — Henry Martell, Edmonton policeman, on Saturday dethroned Kenney Black, Vancouver, defending champion, six and five in the final of the Dominion amateur golf championship. Martell did it with a seven-under-par performance including a hole-in-one on the twenty-fifth—the first ace in the fifty-one year history of the Canadian amateur final.

FASTBALL PLAY-OFFS TONIGHT

In the play-offs scheduled for tonight the Bo-Me-Hi team meets the leading General Motors and in the second game the Reserve Army meets 99 Taxi.

In the last meeting between Bo-Me-Hi and General Motors the General Motors hit on every cylinder to hand out a bad trimming to the young High School team. However, the students are determined to put up a better show tonight and, if they produce the fighting spirit that was lacking in their last game, they may hand out a surprise to the "murdering motors".

NEW FASTBALL RULES ARE OUT

Ground rules governing fast-ball at Gyro Park have been made public by Rep Rec Director Neil Reas following their approval by the executive members and team managers of the league. The rules were promulgated to avoid misunderstandings and arguments which had arisen owing to the physical features of the park. The rules follow:

On a fair fly ball hit to right field the batsman is allowed two bases only if the ball lands on or over the bank anywhere in fair territory down to the end of the rock in right centre field.

The batsman must make whatever base or bases he can if:

(1) The ball lands in the field short of the bank.

(2) The ball is played by a fielder and subsequently goes over the bank.

If the ball is touched by a fielder or if the fielder makes such a play as would ordinarily be scored as an error, he is considered to have played the ball.

The fielder may, if he so desires, step on or climb up the bank to make the play.

On an overthrow to first base the base-runner may advance at the risk of being put out on the play unless the ball be interfered with or held by a spectator or coach of the runner's team; in which case the runner may advance to second base without liability to be put out on the play.

If a ball on an overthrow strikes a spectator who in no way interferes with the ball and the ball is then readily retrievable it shall be considered to be in play and base runners are liable to be legally retired at any base.

The Umpire in Chief shall have sole authority to make decisions on the rules, and his interpretation of any of them shall be final.

The 395-yrd par four 14th is a dog's leg to right, heavily treed on the left and the Seine River runs along the edge of the fairway on the right. The 245-yrd par three 15th, said to be the toughest par of the course, has two large trees eating onto the fairway on the right.

The 16th, 465 yards and a par five, demands straight hitting all the way. The 340-yrd par four 17th also calls for straight hitting as it is heavily bushed on both sides with a sand trap demanding a carry over of 200 yards to a well-guarded green.

The 18th, par four and 435 yards, is heavily treed on the right and bushed on the left with a deceiving deep gully in front of the green guarded by trees.

The 19th, a 325-yrd par four, has the Seine River on the right and a pond and deep gully 120 yards in length in the middle.

The 338-yrd par four 11th is a dog's leg to the left and is fairly heavily treed to the right with sandpits at the green.

The par five 12th, 467 yards and straight, is heavily bushed on the left and to a lesser extent on the other side. The tee shot on the 185-yrd par three 13th is played over a bend of the Seine River to a green falling slightly to the right. The fairway is heavily treed on both sides.

BIG TOURNEY AT WINNIPEG

Pro Golf Stars to Find Niakwa Tough Course

WINNIPEG, C.—No more appropriate name than Niakwa could have been chosen for the golf club where this year's $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association Open tournament will be played, starting this Wednesday. The name—Indian for Winding River—associates it with the Seine River which runs along its western boundary.

The 6,504-yard, par 72 layout, in the Winnipeg suburb of St. Vital, is not the longest course in the district but is generally conceded the toughest, requiring a premium on straight tee shots. It is well wooded, has many difficult natural hazards and is heavily trapped around the greens. The course record is a seven-under-par 65, shot by Eric Bannister of the Winnipeg St. Charles' club in 1931.

A description of each hole that the top linksmen of Canada and the United States will be up against follows:

The first is a 307-yard par four hole requiring a drive of at least 170 yards to clear a deep gully on its dog's leg to the left from the tee. The second, another dog's leg to the left, is a 347-yard par four with a bunker to right and trees on the left some distance from the green.

The 445-yard par four third hole is well-treed from tee to a well-guarded green. The fourth, another par four, is a duplicate of the third hole except for its distance, which is 10 yards shorter. The 484-yard par five fifth has a long, narrow fairway and a slight dog's leg to the left.

The sixth, a 193-yard par three, is treed from tee to green with sand pits on the sides and back of the green. Longest hole is the par five 553-yard seventh with trees on either side of the straight fairway and a small gully in front of the green.

Fence For Boundary
The 400-yard par four eighth has a slight dog's leg to the left with a large gully in front of the tee and green. On the right there is a fence as well as trees which are out-of-bounds. The short 125-yard par three ninth is protected with an exceptionally well-guarded green of several sand pits and trees.

The 10th, a 325-yard par four, has the Seine River on the right and a pond and deep gully 120 yards in length in the middle.

The par five 12th, 467 yards and straight, is heavily bushed on the left and to a lesser extent on the other side. The tee shot on the 185-yrd par three 13th is played over a bend of the Seine River to a green falling slightly to the right. The fairway is heavily treed on both sides.

The 395-yrd par four 14th is a dog's leg to right, heavily treed on the left and the Seine River runs along the edge of the fairway on the right. The 245-yrd par three 15th, said to be the toughest par of the course, has two large trees eating onto the fairway on the right.

The 16th, 465 yards and a par five, demands straight hitting all the way. The 340-yrd par four 17th also calls for straight hitting as it is heavily bushed on both sides with a sand trap demanding a carry over of 200 yards to a well-guarded green.

The 18th, par four and 435 yards, is heavily treed on the right and bushed on the left with a deceiving deep gully in front of the green guarded by trees.

The 19th, a 325-yrd par four, has the Seine River on the right and a pond and deep gully 120 yards in length in the middle.

OTTAWA—Commons gave second reading Monday to a bill extending to merchant seamen, not already covered by existing Dominion or provincial legislation, compensation for themselves and their dependents in the event of death or injuries in the course of their occupation.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE
Q. What should one say when an apology is offered?
A. Acknowledge it courteously and sincerely. A reluctance acceptance would be just as rude as not accepting at all.
Q. Is it all right to ask a person to return books which he has borrowed?
A. Yes. If a reasonable length of time has elapsed, one need not hesitate to do so.
Q. What is the meaning of "remolade" when on a menu card?
A. Sauce of olive oil, vinegar and mustard.

Small savings add up. And even a single person can budget her week's meat ration in such a way that a few tokens will remain. In time these will amount to a coupon, which can be turned into the local ration board or authorized coupon custodian and mean more meat for the hungry abroad.

To begin the week with a delectable dinner is a veal chop, breaded and baked, and served with browned potatoes, baked tomato and fresh green peas. Sausages are the answer to a tasty-tasty meal for Monday. Tuesday is for lining up a fish meal—with a planned left-over to use in a substantial dinner salad or creamed dish on Wednesday. Part of Thursday's beef round purchase is scheduled for a succulent Swiss steak. The remainder, augmented and given a nutrition boost with unrationed kidney, will make a toothsome pie for Saturday's dinner for two. An omelet dressed up with a cheese sauce of zesty character and accompanied with your choice of the season's gay vegetables is billed for Friday.

20 YEARS AGO

August 6, 1926
B. C. Keeley, Pacific coast manager of Canadian Government Merchant Marine proposed a busy shipping season for Prince Rupert while on a visit here. Mr. Keeley was on his way to Ottawa to arrange use of this port for shipments of grain to the Orient.

Articles of incorporation were filed at Juneau, Alaska, for the Alaska-Oriental Export Co. composed largely of Ketchikan people, who planned to use the port of Prince Rupert as shipping base for their operations.

An editorial in the Daily News remarked that Prince Rupert was receiving considerable publicity throughout the continent because of its grain elevator, which, opinion indicated, would be a big factor in making the port important in world trade.

FLORAL EMBLEMS OF PROVINCES

Saskatchewan Is Latest to Choose But Is Tiger Lily

About now, along the railway right-of-way and on the road allowances the lilium philadelphium andinum is spreading its orange patchwork over the Saskatchewan prairies, last of the official flower emblems of Canada's provinces to bloom.

The lilium philadelphium andinum, for those not up on the botanical names, is nothing more or less than the prairie lily, commonly known as the tiger lily, deep orange, dark-brown-spotted and prolific in some parts of the prairies.

Long since the Manitoba flower emblem has faded in this year of 1946—the delicate furred prairie ananome or crocus which earlier this year made a purple carpet of the prairie grassland from the Manitoba border clear through to the Rockies and on into them wherever the railway right-of-way allowed grass to grow in the mountain cuts.

Although six of the nine provinces have official flower emblems—and in Nova Scotia the official flower has found its way into the coat-of-arms. That flower is the trailing arbutus or mayflower, a tender, woodland barbing of spring in the Maritimes.

Ontario too adopted a spring flower, the trillium which grows pink or white and is native to the woodlands, one of the first signs each year that winter has gone for good.

Alberta's Wild Rose

In Alberta the wild rose (rose acicularis) was made the official floral emblem by an act passed by the Alberta Legislature in 1930. The children of the foothills province made the choice. Asked for their vote they called the wild rose, pink, five-petaled, hardy and sweet-scented, the most popular flower in the province. Mostly one finds it growing stunted but in remarkable along the railway tracks, or more lush and with a tendency to climb along meadow fences, and few western farm children but remembers the July of new-mown hay and the wild rose.

New Brunswick, the other province with an official flower emblem has the wild violet, another spring flower native to low-lying shady country, particularly woodlands where it comes in yellow, violet and white.

Quebec, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia have yet to choose flowers but in the Pacific Coast province natives have a soft spot for the pale cream-colored flower of the dogwood tree. For a time it was picked, or the trees cut down, in such numbers that warnings were sent out this tree and its flower might become extinct if picked too recklessly.

Ontario's trillium is a member of the lily family, one of about 30 species found in North America and Eastern Asia. It is a smooth low perennial with a shiny, simple stem bearing at the top a whorl of three leaves and a single conspicuous flower of three sepals, three petals, six stamens and three-celled ovary. The wake-robin and birth root, two other handsome spring flowers, are close relatives.

Just why Nova Scotia chose the trailing arbutus has been lost in antiquity, but it was officially adopted in 1901 under legislation introduced by Attorney-General Longley because Massachusetts in that year wanted to adopt the flower as its state emblem.

Said Longley: "It would be lamentable if rich and powerful Massachusetts were to steel this little ewe lamb of ours."

Before the last snow has melted the trailing arbutus comes to the wooded places of Nova Scotia and it appears with a thistle—tribute to the Scots who came to a new land—in the provincial coat-of-arms. Joseph Howe, in a poem to the Mayflower said: "Scotia asked and Flora gave Her"—the Mayflower.

New Brunswick chose the violet about five years ago, while the fleur de lys and the maple leaf show in Quebec's coat-of-arms, even though the province officially recognizes no flower.
