Thirty-Two Are Missing From Yukon Wreck

PRINCE RUPERT TO GET RADAR

First passenger liner operating out of Prince Rupert to be equipped with radar navigational facilities will be the Canadian National Steamships Prince Rupert. Already the ship has been inspected for the installation which will be made possibly within the next few weeks. It is expected it will be of the utmost value in navigating under fog and other hazardous sailing conditions.

Relieving Starvation

OTTAWA — Leaders of the world's exporting nations are taking steps to avert mass starvation in the ravaged lands abroad.

Canadian food authorities are reviewing the situation to see by how much Canada's already heavy food exports can be increased and tomorrow the cabinet will gather to hear the information that the agriculture minister, James Gardiner, will bring from Europe.

In the United States President Truman has called upon storekeepers and other distributors to start informal rationing of foods that may be scarce in the months immediately ahead. He has banned the use of wheat for making of alcohol and beer.

In Britain, the people have been told that their meagre rations are to be reduced to the lowest levels prevailing during the war.

Prison Hunger Strike Still

KINGSTON, Ont.—It is learned that 40 or 50 of some 150 convicts in the Kingston penitentiary who started a partial hunger strike last Friday are still refusing anything but dry bread. It is reported that about 70 prisoners were still on their partial hunger strike at breakfast yesterday and about 40 were refusing food at a later meal.

PRESSING FOR SHIP SUBSIDY

Further Message to Ottawa Asks at Least Six Monthly Sailings Through This Port

Renewing its representations to the minister of trade and commerce, Hon. James A. MacKinnon, in advocacy of the renewal of a policy of federal subsidy for an ocean steamship service out of Prince Rupert, the Prince Rupert Industrial Development Committee, representing the city council, Chamber of Commerce and labor organizations, has sent a further message to the minister pointing out that, in view of possible movement of grain and export of fish and forest products, a subsidy be granted for six monthly sailings to the United Kingdom and such additional sailings as may be required to handle the traffic.

The message is as follows:

Further to our memorandum presented in September we urgently request the government's granting a steamship subsidy to the United Kingdom on the basis of six monthly sailings as and when required to establish Prince Rupert as a deepsea port.

We view possible movement of grain and district export production of 500,000 cases of canned fish and forest produce available here and on the west coast of Vancouver Island as sufficient to warrant the establishment of the service as requested.

Henry J. Kaiser, U.S. west coast industrialist, and Philip Murray, president of the United Steel Workers and the C.I.O., announce that Kaiser accepts the president's compromise wage proposal for his California steel plant. Kaiser, left, and Murray are shown arriving at the White House, Washington, D.C., for their talk with the president. His plant is now one of the few not in the nation-wide strike involving 1,600,000 workers.

NEW PHASE OF DEVELOPMENT

Attitude of Civilian World Must Be Changed, Declares General Burns

OTTAWA — The director of Veterans' Rehabilitation has called for a new phase of national development. Major General Thomas Burns says this country needs a period of more intensive utilization of resources to the end that its population may be better fed, housed and clothed and have better chances for education and recreation.

Gen. Burns said underlying everything in the civilian world there is lacking the sense of common purpose men had in the service. General Burns said the returning veteran finds himself in an individualistic, chaotic, not to say indifferent and selfish world.

Ministers Statement

Rations to Be Improved—Early Repatriation Promised

OTTAWA — Air Minister Gibson announced last night that immediate representations are being made to British authorities regarding the standard of rations issued to the Canadian forces.

In a statement issued after day-long conferences with chiefs of the Royal Canadian Air Force staff, Colonel Gibson said R.C.A.F. establishments are being scaled down as rapidly as possible. He added: "It certainly is not our intention to keep any man overseas any longer than is absolutely necessary."

The statement was prompted by a sit-down strike staged by some 1500 R.C.A.F. personnel at Odiham, Hampshire, England, in protest against what they termed the slowness of the government repatriation program and the quality of their rations.

Meantime, the sit-down strike of R.C.A.F. personnel at the Hampshire air station will continue. This decision was reached by the strikers last night. The men have decided to continue the strike which began Tuesday despite assurances from the station commander, Group Captain N. W. Timmerman of Kingston, Ont., that men to replace them would be sent to the United Kingdom at the end of February.

RATINGS MAY REJOIN ACTIVE NAVAL FORCE

OTTAWA — The Royal Canadian Navy announced today the terms under which former naval ratings can re-enter the Canadian Naval service, either for the interim period, which extends to September 30, 1947, or for the five-year period. Ratings who had good war records will be allowed to count their previous service for advancement, progressive pay and good conduct medals. Those choosing to serve until September 30, 1947, will rejoin the reserve forces which are expected to number about 18,000.

AURORA HITS WIRE SERVICE

TORONTO — Aurora Borealis (northern lights), plague of communications systems, disrupted telegraph and telephone facilities today in what some communications authorities believe as "among the worst such disturbances in modern history."

Electrical disturbances set up by the aurora tend to strike transmission wires and either disrupt communications entirely or garble words, messages and signals. Interference was not so heavy east of Montreal as it was in Ontario and Western Canada.

THREE OCEAN FLIGHTS NOW

NUERNBERG (CP)—The British government disclosed officially today that Rudolf Hess flew to Scotland in 1941 with proposals to unseat the Churchill government and make peace with a new cabinet which would assure the Nazis a free hand in continental Europe.

Reports of the interrogations of Hess, obtained after he parachuted into Scotland on May 24, 1941, disclosed that the Nazi deputy leader came to convince Britain that "Hitler would sincerely regret the collapse of the British Empire."

He also sought to show Britain that the "avaricious Americans" had evil designs on the Empire and that Canada would "certainly be incorporated into the United States."

Cambrai Chapter, I.O.D.E., which has taken an interest in Conrad Street elementary school since its opening, has donated $25 toward the purchase of rhythm band instruments for the school, which Principal R. G. Moore feels will create the basis of music appreciation in many of its pupils.

The instruments, mainly of the percussion type, will teach the youngsters to keep time musically and form the background for more advanced musical training Mr. Moore feels.

"It was very good of Cambrai Chapter and we were pleased to get the donation," he said.

Last year, the Chapter donated $40 for the purchase of records for the school's gramophone.

All Others Land At Seward

No More Rescue Craft Expected — Lists Being Checked

KETCHIKAN, Alaska — The U. S. Coastguard has announced that 32 persons were not accounted for when survivors of the the wrecked liner Yukon were landed at Seward. The coastguard report said rescue vessels had brought 465 persons off the grounded and broken vessel to Seward and that no more rescue craft are expected.

Following the return of rescue vessels to Seward Wednesday night and today with the last known load of survivors from the wrecked liner, crew and passenger lists were being checked and re-checked to learn the names of the missing and unaccounted for persons.

All Seward is watching the seas for any straggling small craft which might come in with some of the 32.

Rescuers have found no bodies and have removed the last of the Yukon's crew and passengers from the grounded, broken vessel and from the nearby shore.

When mercy craft unloaded the last group of survivors at Seward and the count was made, the Coastguard said that 465 had been carried to safety. Passengers and crew, according to lists announced by the Alaska Steamship Co. and the Army, numbered 497.

There had been reports from rescued passengers and members of the crew that casualties had been seen but none of these could be verified.

The cutter Onondaga said all survivors had been rescued and the Yukon abandoned.

Seward opened its doors to the survivors and the steamer Alaska was due early today to carry the survivors to Seattle which was the destination of the ill-fated Yukon.

We Need a Coastguard

A large proportion of the survivors of the wreck of the steamer Yukon, one of the greatest ship disasters in many years in northern waters, owe their lives to the United States Coastguard which was on the job when needed and carried out an epic work of resourcefulness and heroism with effectiveness and dispatch in the face of greatest difficulties. The whole story of the disaster is, of course, not told as yet but it is already clear that it was a noble job which the Coastguard did in those merciless and wintry seas off the desolate and rockbound coast of western Alaska.

The purpose of this comment, although it is fitting that we should do so, is not to extol the United States Coastguard but to reflect that it would be well that the British Columbia coast, shipping off which is growing in volume and importance year after year, should be similarly equipped with a coastguard service which it is not today. The fact of the matter is that this western coast of Canada is pitifully ill-equipped to meet such a disaster as that of the ill-fated Yukon should it ever occur. If such an emergency should arise, and there are places on this coast which it is quite possible, there might easily be heavy mortal toll for mere lack of adequate rescue facilities.

And it would appear to be easier today than it has ever been for the coasts of Canada to become equipped with an adequate coastguard. There are many naval ships now available which could with a minimum of change be converted into admirable coastguard vessels. And, as a result of the war, there are many men already well trained for just such work as would be entailed in coastguard service.

The idea of a Canadian coastguard is by no means a new one. It has been advocated for years. The Yukon disaster merely emphasizes the need and exemplifies what a well trained, organized and equipped coastguard service is capable of doing in saving good human lives. It is a protective service which we can ill afford to be longer without.

George Arliss

George Arliss, who died in London Tuesday night, was one of the world's greatest actors.

A half century behind the footlights and before the camera made him one of the leading figures of the English speaking stage on both sides of the Atlantic and wherever films penetrated in the far corners of the world.

Essentially a character actor, he portrayed historical personages with scholarly meticulousness and won probably his greatest fame in the name role of "Disraeli," a play which ran for five seasons in America beginning in 1911 and was revived 20 years later in firm form to attain world-wide distribution. Similarly, his portrayal of the Rajah of Rukh in "The Green Goddess" ran two years in the United States, a full year in London and then scored as a talkie.

Two full seasons were marked up in 1928-29 for his interpretation of Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice." It set an American record for Shakespearean box office receipts.

Arliss's diction, in these and all the other parts which he essayed, was one of the outstanding characteristics of his artistry. An uncanny instinct for what the stage calls "pace" marked him above most of his fellows.

Arliss, born in the Bloomsbury section of London April 10, 1868, took to the stage in 1887.

His first starring role was essayed August 18, 1908, when he appeared at the Belasco Theatre, New York, in Fritz Molnar's "The Devil." A rival producer put on the same play at another theatre that night and there was a sharp bit of theatrical war in which the Arliss production triumphed. Thereafter his name always was up in the lights.

Arliss began his screen career in 1920, alternating it with continued stage successes until "talkies" appeared. Then he virtually gave up footlight work for the Klieg lights. He filmed his big stage hits and followed with portrayals of Voltaire, the first Baron Rothschild, and an array of similar characters based chiefly on history.

Our Best Citizen

Someone in the House of Commons missed a chance for fame by not moving an amendment to the measure providing for the $2,000 salary increase for M.P.'s and Senators.

This amendment would have been to postpone the starting of the new salary rate until the freeze on salaries had been thawed. Wage rates have gone up; the unions saw to that. Professional people in business for themselves have done well.

But it would be inflationary to permit the salaried citizen to share in the prosperity. The salaried citizen, in general, has been the fellow who has bought a home, complete with mortgage. He is the chap who buys life insurance. He is the one who got no relief when the compulsory savings angle of the income tax was removed. He is the fellow who is least likely to be able to earn some extras the tax inspector won't hear about. He is the one, in fact, most likely not to try to cheat the crown of its exactions. He does the least kicking of all in the community.

Which doubtless is the reason that no M.P. of any party thought it worth while to try to do anything dramatic for his betterment in this great, if transient prosperity.

LETTERBOX

THE POWER QUESTION

Editor, Daily News:

Tuesday's paper reports that the city council has committed itself to "give favorable consideration to any request by the Northern B.C. Power Co. to extend its existing franchise, providing such a request is accompanied by a guarantee to establish a pulp mill."

This action will bear close examination by all citizens.

Canada is suffering from the failure of our governments to carry through an effective post-war plan for jobs and prosperity. This has allowed the giant industries of this country to embark on a sit-down strike. Big Business says in effect: "No production till employment drives down wages. No production till unions are smashed. No production until price ceilings are lifted. No production till business gets tax relief. No production till we have enough 'inducements.' In a word, no production till we can have an orgy of 'superprofits.'"

These policies would contract markets to the point where a catastrophic depression would descend on Canada in a very short time.

Prince Rupert feels this "strike" very acutely because there is no variety of local industries to absorb those laid off.

That is why I have been pointing out, along with others, for some years now, that industrial development of this rich area is basic to our city's future. The keys to industrial development are cheap hydro-electric power and cheap, efficient transportation. Your readers are well acquainted with transportation needs. I should like to briefly comment on the power question.

The whole industrial history of this continent for the last generation shows that industries gather where there are raw materials and cheap power. To say "cheap power" means to say "public power." Ontario has become Canada's leading industrial province because the government there provides power at rates which are themselves an inducement to industry—eliminating the onerous tribute of millions yearly exacted from industrial and domestic consumers by such concerns as the B.C. Electric.

In two election campaigns I have proposed on behalf of the Labor-Progressive Party government action to provide cheap power in this area as an indispensable stimulus to industrial development. Other local bodies have also spoken in favor of such action.

THIS AND THAT

"Father, I'd like you to know Mr. Duffy."

Now, the giant concern which stands behind the Northern B.C. Power Company steps in and wields a club with which they hope to frustrate any such plans. Capitalizing on the deep local anxiety at our post-war fate they say: "Forget all these ideas of public power and we will build a pulp mill." They even imply that public power must not be publicly discussed—or no pulp mill.

I submit that to entrust our power resources to any private concern is to hamstring this area's great industrial future. The surest way to bring industry—including pulp mills—here (and there are many concerns that could operate with a profit locally) is to offer them cheap public power.

The B.C. Power Commission, already producing public power in B.C., should expropriate the Northern B.C. Power Co. and develop local power resources for industrial and domestic consumers at as close to cost price as possible. That would be the best possible "inducement" to industry.

The very least the council should do at this stage is to ask the B.C. Power Commission to determine the rates at which public power can be produced in this area. What has kept this commission away so far?

Many cities have learned through experience to enlist expert advice in dealing with power questions. Whatever the outcome such a course might not seem out of place here.

Appeasement, or any form of capitulation to the people wielding a club against Canada and Prince Rupert, is a pathetically short-sighted policy which can lead only to disaster. Labor and all progressive citizens should press for a solution that meets both immediate and long-term needs.

Reservation Goes To Lone Survivor

HOQUIUM, Wash., (P) — Sixty-nine year old Elliott Anderson, last living member of the Ozette tribe, has been disclosed as the sole owner of an Indian reservation at the tip of Washington's Olympic Peninsula. Anderson came into possession of the reservation, a mile square of timbered land near Neah Bay, back in 1936 when the only other survivor of the Ozettes, Charles Weberhard, died. It's too lonely for Anderson on his reservation so he lives with members of the Makah tribe, also near Neah Bay.

Restore Sundials To Palace Garden

LONDON, ©—Sixteenth century sundials, removed during air raids from the stately gardens of Hampton Court Palace are to be restored.

Sundials were the official timekeepers when Henry VIII resided at the palace. They were moved in 1940 because of the danger that bomb blast might bend the iron indicators, displacing the time "shadows." Though bombs crashed around the palace boundaries, the massive stone architecture bears few scars. Of particular interest to tourists is a grape vine, 700 years old, which continues to bear fruit each year within a steam-heated greenhouse.

ASK OVERTIME FOR SCHOOL ENGINEERS

The International Union of Operating Engineers has asked to meet the school board to discuss a collective bargaining agreement and rates of pay for heating plant engineers in local schools but, since the suggested date was set at the board's March meeting, possible wage increases were not allowed for in the school estimates which were arrived at last night.

"They have asked to meet us in March but, in the meantime, we will have to proceed with the estimates," Dr. R. G. Large, the board chairman said.

"If the union asks for something and it's too late, it is their funeral," Trustee Angus Macdonald assented.

Failure to include a possible wage increase in the year's estimates would make it difficult for the school board to agree to an up-step in salary schedule for the heating plant operators.

The union claimed that, during the current cold weather, the school engineers have been working "around the clock" to keep the schools warm and suggests that they should be paid overtime rates.

SCRAMBLE FOR NEWS

CHURCHILL, Manitoba, © — "Waiting for the Train to Come In" is more than a popular song title in Churchill.

Every Sunday when the weekly train reaches "end of steel" after an irregular, 1,000-mile run from Winnipeg, men, women and children in this tiny Hudson Bay settlement race aboard in a scramble for whatever newspapers and magazines the newsboy has left.

With mail from Winnipeg slow and irregular, the 128 persons in this conglomerate community of the Muskox base force are in quarters four and a half miles away, the competition promises to be keener than ever.

The camp has a three-page mimeographed daily publication known as "The Muskoxer" which condenses Luck Tracey's latest comic-strip activities, but even that and sport items, sent from Winnipeg by Canadian Army teletype, leave a slight gap for some people.

LONDON — Thirty-two members of the Canadian forces who served overseas and are now demobilized have been awarded scholarships by the British Council to enable them to study in Britain.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

February 6, 1921

The port of Prince Rupert exported $5,270,000 worth of goods to the United States in 1920, according to figures supplied by E. A. Wakefield, American Consul. The 1920 exports were $1,250,000 greater than in 1919.

David H. Hays, interested in Prince Rupert since 1904, died in Los Angeles. He was a brother of Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, and had extensive property interests in Prince Rupert.

It was announced in Vancouver that the Prince Rupert office of the federal public works department would be closed permanently and that administration of the Skeena district will be added to that of the Vancouver Island district.

RECREATION
COUNCIL GYMS
BY JIM NAST

HANDICRAFTS—I do not suppose this title will arouse any particular excitement in the reader of Rup-Rec column. Yet handicrafts have now achieved the prominence they deserve and newspapers and periodicals are full of articles, telling of the need for this form of constructive recreation in our lives—of the especially therapeutic value of handicrafts in convalescent hospitals—of useful trinkets that have grown out of hobbies—in short, of the need in the swiftly changing world of 1946 for man to have a healthy retreat from the strain of modern living, where he can enjoy the solid satisfaction of producing some useful or artistic article with his own two hands. Many good books are on the market giving advice on the types of handicrafts that may be undertaken in the home or club. They outline materials needed, with approximate costs, and in some cases, where materials may be obtained. For the simpler kinds of handicrafts, a skilled instructor is not necessary. All that is needed is a suitable room for a workshop; good lighting; work tables, benches; materials necessary for the particular handicraft; a good instruction book; plenty of enthusiasm and a little patience. It is hoped very much that the new Civic Centre will be the home of handicraft clubs but it should be stressed that hobbies and handicrafts cannot be sold to Mr. and Mrs. Citizen and their children as one would sell tickets to a show. The people of Prince Rupert must decide what handicrafts they want to start. They must initiate the project and, in putting their ideas into effect, all possible help and co-operation will be given at Prince Rupert's Civic Centre.

LADIES—The 14 ladies who attended the class at the I.O.D.E. Hall last evening were in tip top condition according to Instructor M. Jackson. They are all anxiously looking forward to enjoying the classes that will soon be held at the Civic Centre.

LEATHER PUSHERS ACTIVE—The boxers who meet on Wednesdays and Fridays at the Seal Cove School are showing a good deal of skill and class in their workouts. Fully equipped with headgear and rubber mouthpieces to protect the head and teeth from injury and resin boxing shoes from slipping on the canvas ring cover, the lads are fully safeguarded from any ill effects. New members who wish to learn the art of self-defence may feel perfectly secure under the vigilant eye of Coach Beggs.

CAPETOWN, (C)—An American company is to build a $5,625,000 factory at Port Elizabeth for the manufacture of tires and tubes, canvas rubber-soled footwear and rubber products for industrial and mining uses, including belting and hoses. The factory will employ about 800 people, mostly South Africans, and production is expected to begin early in 1947.

National Hockey— Hawks and Boston Tie

Chicago Beats New York—
Maple Leafs and Bruins Draw

CHICAGO — Chicago Black Hawks have pulled into a first place tie with Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League. The Black Hawks took over possession of the top spot with the Bruins when they whipped the last place New York Rangers last night in Chicago by a six to two score after Boston and the Toronto Maple Leafs had battled to a three all tie in Boston.

The Hawks were held in check in the first period and until midway through the second frame their attack started clicking then and before the period ended they had rammed in three goals. They scored another three in the final period to run away with the game. Max Bentley paced the attack, scoring two goals and assisting in another. The other Chicago goals were bagged by Pete Horeck, Clint Smith, George Allen and Reg Hamilton. Edgar LaPrade and Phil Watson scored for New York.

In the Boston-Toronto game, Turk Broda was in the nets for the Leafs for the first time in three years. The Leafs rallied with two goals in the third period to pull even with the Bruins and end up with a tie. Wally Stanowski, Gaye Stewart and Bob Davidson were the Leaf sharpshooters. The Boston goals were picked up by Murray Henderson, Bep Guildolin and Terry Reardon.

Vancouver Man Out for Title

NEW YORK—Charles Walker of Vancouver has entered the walking event in the United States National Amateur Athletic Union senior indoor track and field championships. The meet is being held February 23 in Madison Square Garden in New York. Walker has been clocked in six minutes and 18 seconds for the mile walk. There is no official world title time for the distance, but the best any American has been able to do it in is six minutes and 26 seconds.

The George Matthews Adams Service, Inc.

SHORT SPORT

Two men, a horse and $1,170 are involved in one of the strangest bets for the Grand National at Liverpool in April. C. E. Edwards, 74-year old owner-trainer of Craven Arms, Shropshire, took exception to a statement by Bob Todd of Newmarket who said Edwards' 10-year old horse, Elsie, wouldn't even complete the course. Todd was willing to bet on it. Edwards took up the challenge and Todd has laid him $250 to £10. Bookmakers quote Elsie's win price variously from 100 to one to 200 to one. Elsie has never won a race or finished the course less than 400 yards behind the winner.

Stanley Matthews, Stoke City winger in the English Football League, made his 44th appearance in an international match—an English record—when he lined up for England against Belgium January 19. Matthews, aged 30, started as a football club office boy who for $4.50 a week spent the first half of each week cleaning boots that had been used in the previous week-end game.

Harry Hopman who captained Australia's winning tennis team in 1939, considers the only serious challenge received for this year's Davis Cup is from the United States. He considers France the second strongest challenger with Czechoslovakia "unknown" and Great Britain, Belgium and New Zealand as "weak." "The older players and the young promising 18 to 20-year olds in Great Britain seem much below Australian standards," he said.

The British Sportsman's Club, which entertained sportsmen who came to Britain from overseas before the war, resumed the practice in London when the Kilwis, New Zealand Army rugby club, was tendered a lunch by the club. Club president is the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada who is expected back in Britain soon.

Ned Tarleton of Liverpool, British and Empire featherweight champion, celebrated his 40th birthday January 14 this year. Tarleton, who started boxing 23 years ago and has had 10 British and two world title contests, says he has no intention of retiring. It is believed he is the oldest boxing champion in the world.

Ewart Astill, Leicestershire cricketer, has been appointed coach at Tonbridge School. Astill

Private Smith was in trouble again.

"What's the charge this time?" asked the commanding officer. "Insubordination, sir," said the sergeant-major. "On parade this morning Private Smith shouted to his platoon sergeant, 'Kiss me, Sergeant!'"

"And what do you have to say?"
"I reckon I was justified, sir," Smith answered. "We privates think we have a right to smell our rum ration."

Pacific Coast Junior Hockey Advances to Final

VANCOUVER, (C)—New Westminster Cubs defeated Vancouver White Spots 8 to 2 in the second game of a best of three semi-final series in the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League after having won the first game 8 to 4 on Monday. The New Westminster will now meet Nanaimo in the coast final.

Britain's Plans To Attract Tourists

LONDON, (C)—A drive to bring an unprecedented flow of tourists to Great Britain in 1947 is in the making with backing from hotels, transportation companies, municipalities and the government.

In hopes of attracting heavy expenditures of foreign exchange the Travel Association of Great Britain and Ireland is preparing a giant publicity campaign for 1946, chiefly in the form of moving pictures, the first of which will be released this spring.

Finances are raised by contributions from members. Lending full support to the drive, the government is doubling its usual contributions and duplicating each £1 subscribed.

Juvenile School Feature of Mill

BRADFORD, Eng. (C)—A training school where young employees are received when they "enter the mill" is a feature of the Grange Shed cotton mill in Bradford. Brightly-colored looms and skilled instructors are provided in a special room for the juveniles. They work here for about three months and are paid the standard rates of wages for young people. Until they are 21 trainees attend evening classes, fees being paid by their employers. The firm claims there are no blind alley jobs at Grange Shed and encourages parents to visit the mill to see their children in training. This welfare effort is one of many in the United Kingdom cotton industry.

SHARP PUPIL
A new system of memory training was being taught in a village school and the teacher was becoming enthusiastic.

"For instance," he said, "supposing you want to remember the name of the poet Bobby Burns. Fix in your mind's eye a picture of a policeman in flames. See—Bobby Burns?"

"Yes, I see," said a bright pupil. "But how is one to know it does not represent Robert Browning?"

Modern Etiquette BY ROBERTA LEE

Q. If a girl has several friends in a city where she is visiting, how should she notify them that she is in their city?

A. She can mail her visiting card to them, bearing her temporary address.

Q. How should one address a woman physician who is married, as "Doctor Smith," or as "Mrs. Smith?"

A. She should be addressed as "Doctor Smith."

Q. Isn't it proper for a wife to enter her husband's private office unannounced?

Church Choristers Begin Rehearsals

With the possibility of starting an active musical season by taking part in the opening ceremonies of the new Civic Centre building in April, the United Choristers, led by Peter Lien, began rehearsal this week after being inactive for almost a year. Composed of singers from several city church choirs, membership last year was about 35, a number which Choirmaster Lien hopes will be reached again this year. This week's rehearsal was held in St. Andrew's Cathedral Hall with 25 singers taking part. Mr. Lien feels that the group is fortunate this year in obtaining the talent of Allen Crawford as accompanist and he looks forward to a season which will take advantage of the facilities for musical presentation offered by the new Civic Centre building.

BULLETIN FOR

Dinner ProgramWith a touch of humor calculated to tease the sensibilities of loyal Prince Rupert citizens, the Kinsmen Club last night affixed the title "The Rain-Drop" on its bulletin publication and named Chairman N. M. Carter, Ray Allen and Alex Armstrong as publication committee."It was," said Mr. Carter, who piloted the motion, "a gag, but now we have the title so all we can do is make it a good bulletin."Held in Reid's Cafe, the meeting was attended by more than 30 members and guests. Entertainment feature was the showing of colored films of local scenes by George Peters, local camera hobbyist.Installed as new members were Jack McRae and R. G.

Best French FilmsLONDON. — The best French films are to be shown throughout Britain as the result of negotiations between J. Arthur Rank, millionaire British movie magnate, and French producers. Under the arrangement, the best British films will be distributed in France. French films to be shown here will be synchronized with English dialogue instead of the present practice of subtitled in English. E. T. Carr, managing director of the distributing firm of Eagle-Lion, stated that the first two French films to be distributed in Britain are Jean Cocteau's "Love Eternal" and the life story of Berlioz under the title "Symphonie Fan-

A PRECEDENT

A millowner was an employer of the old, old school.One day one of the oldest hands approached him. "I want next Friday off, sir," he said."What for?"
"Well, you see, it's like this.
It's my silver wedding, and me and the missus is going to have a bit of a do.""Oh, aye," said the employer.
"And is this going to happen every twenty-five years?"

MAPPING OF AUSTRALIASYDNEY, Australia. — Mapping of Australia's 3,000,000 square miles and the mainland territory is planned by survey sections of the Army and the Royal Australian Air Force. The two services plan to use modern radar map-making techniques.The project may take 20 years.
The R.A.F. expects to take five years to photograph the Commonwealth from the air; the army, 15 years to co-ordinate ground data.The Army director of survey says that 90 per cent of Australia is still inadequately mapped in detail. The bulk of maps of settled areas are based on old and erroneous information prepared by out-dated methods. By using radar between the mapping aircraft and the topographers, the ground surveyors' fixation range will be increased from about 30 miles to 200 miles.The plan is subject to Commonwealth government approval of a recommendation by the general staff that the Army Survey Corps be maintained at 10 times its one-war strength of 50 men.
The Survey Corps, aided by R.A.A.F. and U.S. Army Air Force photographers, mapped about 100,000 square miles in Australia and another 50,000 in the islands during the war. From the aerial surveys, the corps has built up in Melbourne a national library of more than 2,000,000 photographs.The corps printed for the Australian and U. S. forces 19,000,000 map sheets, mostly operational.
Five million of these maps were produced in the field by mobile lithographic units.

INTOLERABLE

She was obviously annoyed when she returned from her shopping expedition."John," she said to her husband, "I've just found that the woman next door has a coat exactly the same as mine."John looked up from his banking account, which he had been trying to balance."Well, my dear," he said, "I suppose you'll want me to buy a new coat?""Yes," she replied, "It would be cheaper than moving, wouldn't it?"
