OTTAWA (CP) — Majority opinion of justice of the Supreme Court of Canada is that the federal government has the power to deport between ten and fifteen thousand of 24,000 Japanese in Canada, it was disclosed in the judgment which was handed down today. Three justices were of the opinion that orders-in-council authorizing deportation of the Japanese were not ultra vires of the Governor-General in Council either in whole or in part. Two justices were of the opinion that the Governor-in-Council has the authority to deport Japanese nationals, British subjects of Japanese origin and Canadian-born Japanese who requested that they be sent to Japan but did not have the power to deport wives and children of men in the three classes.

C. N. PICKETTERS "MEET" BOAT AT TOP OF RAMP

Neither the C.N.R. nor the weather showed much sympathy for the little band of "Jobs For All" picketers, whose perseverance supported them in their slogan march on wind-swept Second Street this morning. They seek contracts for Prince Rupert Dry Dock.

The picketers—three in number—followed up their Saturday morning display with a demonstration when the steamer Prince Rupert docked shortly before noon today—although considerably removed from the C.N.R. wharf.

Denied access to C.N.R. property by railway authorities, the little group took their stand on Second Street not far from the top of the ramp to the wharf. They paraded up and down the street carrying their placards which sometimes threatened to get out of control in the strong wind.

Mrs. J. R. Blakey, picket captain, looked at the flow of automobile traffic which whizzed by, and calculated maybe they had made a tactical mistake in not picketing on Sixth Street where most of the pedestrian traffic from the boats enter the downtown area.

"We'll picket on Sixth Street next time," she said confidentially.

Although lacking in numbers, the three picketers were not lacking in signs. Two of the picketers carried two signs each.

Spy 'Master Mind' Is Taken By Police

The agent, whom the newspaper identified as operating under the alias of "Arthur Adams," said that "Adams" was reported to have been in the pay of the Soviet espionage service since 1938.

The Journal said that "Adams" had been trailed by counter espionage agents since he entered Canada last December, and picked up by the R.C.M.P. last Friday.

Espionage and Treason

There is something sinister about espionage. Like propaganda, it is a form of conflict that goes on between the actual fighting of the wars. It is an unseen, subtle and passive activity which continues unabated during the days of so-called peace. Because its methods are overt and dark, espionage is regarded as an insidious profession. A type of treachery is often part of the technique. Yet the secret agent must have an integrity, an endurance, a purpose such as few people are called upon to exercise in their every day affairs. So, despite the stigmas that might attach to it, the spy must have a very definite form of honor and certainly he must have a measure of courage that many people do not possess.

There is no particular reason for us to hate Russia the more because we find out that she has been practising espionage in a large scale in Canada. If Russia has not the atomic secrets that we have, we should not be surprised if she should endeavour to get them. If the shoe were on the other foot and Russia had the atomic secrets and would not divulge them to us, we would probably endeavour to obtain them ourselves although our methods might differ.

In fact, we would be derelict in our own defence if we did not endeavour to obtain the weapons which might mean the difference between our extermination and our salvation.

Conversely, it is also our duty to see that none of our secret information is allowed to pass into the hands of those who might use it against us.

There can, of course, be no excuse for the traitors among our own people who would consciously abet in the passing on of our secret information to unauthorized persons of other nations who seek surreptitiously in any way to obtain it. Their category might be considered even lower than that of the soldier who in heat of losing battle might go over to the enemy and fight against his comrades. The name for the offence is treason and the punishment for treason is death. The only thing we can hope for now is that it may yet be shown that there were no Canadians who were consciously culpable of conspiracy to pass out secrets vital to our own defence.

Why Ceilings Are Necessary

It is easy to understand why people consider the high cost of living the chief problem facing them. It is that which most closely affects their daily lives, their material possessions, their pocketbooks.

The most numerous class—the great middle class, comprising white-collar workers, farmers, professional men and women—feel this pinch of rising costs severely. Often it means the difference between sending Jean or John away to the school they had their heart set on or finding a less satisfactory education near home. Sometimes it actually means the difference between getting an education and going to work. Clothing and feeding the family are other troublesome problems. Some talk of wages being too low and others of prices being too high but it's all one.

Severe and annoying as is the shortage of housing, this concerns only a minority. That is why it is considered secondary in importance. People have put up temporarily with miserable living quarters before this and have come through. But soaring costs mean deprivation.

That is why ceilings should be kept on the price of essential goods.

Letters to the Editor

MR. LITTLE REPLIES

Editor, Daily News:
Would you please permit me space to reply to two letters affecting our goodwill and operation, under the heading of "Power Franchise," signed by Angus McDonald, and "Power and Industries," signed by Mr. Mickleburgh.

Answering Mr. McDonald's letter first the Power Corporation, or the Northern B. C. Power Corporation Co. Ltd., did not make promises in exchange for the franchise. The assets of the city power and light department, were offered for competitive sale with certain stipulations. When the vote was taken by the ratepayers the Power Corporation was successful by majority vote upon which was set out in By-law 682 (the bylaw voted upon) paragraph 35 as follows: "The Company, that is the Power Corporation or its assignee, the Northern British Columbia Power Co. Ltd., will place at the disposal of the Corporation (City) and the Board of Trade its Industrial Research Department and endeavour in every way to induce the establishment and the fostering of new industries in the City." We are still quite prepared to carry out this clause and have been attempting to do so for a number of years.

Mr. McDonald goes on to say we have not been bothered to maintain our lines. What his implications are by that I don't know because the less interruptions a utility has the less expense of operation.

When Mother Nature goes on a rampage, which she frequently does, not only in this area but in other parts of the world, it not only affects us but also rail, road, telephone and telegraph communication and frequently there is not much that one can do about it. Utilities as a rule prefer to have continuity of service. This applies not only to the management but also to the line staff, particularly if they have to turn out in stormy weather in the middle of the night, when even if they are earning double time, they would much prefer to be sitting comfortably at home. As an example, our last interruption the trouble was due to two trees sliding down the mountain at different points on the Escal, which necessitated bringing in the Dry Dock steam plant and sending seven men up the river to clear the trouble, which cost us, in the final check-up, for standby, labor, boat, etc, over $1,000. This is one of the many reasons why utilities prefer continuity of service to interruptions and also why no utility, either on this or any other continent, will guarantee complete continuous service. If a customer absolutely requires a continuous service, they usually install standby which, although costlier, usually takes them over until the utility resumes normal service. I hope this deals with Mr. McDonald's letter to his satisfaction.

Dealing with Mr. Mickleburgh's letter under "Power and Industries" I cannot understand his attitude in this respect as he, I noted, was the only one, apart from the secretary, who was taking down verbatim the views expressed and the discussion involved. The Northern B. C. Power Co. Ltd. did not say that they would bring in a pulp mill if their franchise was extended, nor had the writer any authority to make such an offer. The answer came from a leading question by, I believe, His Worship the Mayor, who asked "assuming your principals decided to install a pulp mill in the vicinity, would they want an extension of your franchise?" I answered that, as the installation of a 250-ton mill with increased power facilities would require an additional investment of one and three-quarter million for power and a mill about ten million, I thought that this would require an extension of the franchise of at least 20 years to recoup them for their investment.

New Home Plans

The quiet dignity and hospitable charm of Colonial architecture are embodied in this home for well planned building and comfortable living in this home. White wood sliding exterior favors a shingled roof; the garage and L-porch are integrated in the exterior design. Spacious living room with fireplace; square dining room and well equipped kitchen fill the lower portion of the house; the second floor has three cross ventilated bedrooms; and there is a full basement.

I am not entering into the merits or demerits of the political exposition contained in Mr. Mickleburgh's letter but I would like to say, if Prince Rupert is desirous of inducing large capital outlays in this area, we will have to approach these investors with a more conciliatory attitude than we have done in the past and we are now doing.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your consideration.

NEW LIGHT FOR FUTURE HOMES

Glowing Color Schemes to Be Applied to Whole House

NEW YORK —The homes of tomorrow generally will be smaller units than those today with large main rooms and small sleeping rooms, designed for the most comfortable living ever to have had. Their decoration will feature more rich glowing color and architectural uses of light.

That comes from Miss Bertha Schaefer, New York interior decorator, specialist in the decorative use of glowing color, paintings and light.

"The servant problem is particularly responsible for a trend toward less expansive living," said Miss Schaefer recently in her New York studio-gallery. "This does not indicate that all city dwellers will be squeezed into two and three-room apartments. But it does indicate there will be fewer eight and twelve-room units and more of four or five rooms. Furniture will be decidedly functional, such as a dining table that is also a library table or desk or that has a game table top.

"In decoration we shall make more and unusual use of light, often using it architecturally. For instance, where you wish that a wall were not, you can 'eliminate' it by making it glow. It can be hung with pale colored curtains, lit from above with concealed fluorescent light so that it becomes a wall of light. Powerful light in lamps will be filtered through metal fins, which deflect it to certain objects.

Rich Colors To Be Used

"Instead of monotone rooms—all gray, all blue, etc.—we shall make much greater use of rich glowing color. And instead of considering only the color scheme of a room, we shall consider the color scheme of a house.

"For instance, in a house which I decorated recently, the walls of the large entrance hall were seafoam green with touches of white and strong green. On one side this led to a room with seafoam green paint and tangerine accents; on the other side to a living room whose soft green background was offset by brilliant chintzes in red, yellow and blue. These rooms, varied as they were, were tied together by the repetition of green."

Miss Schaefer, a decorator of years standing and a member of the American Institute of Decorators, combines her 57th Street studio for interior design with an art gallery featuring the work of modern painters and pottery designers.

News of Smithers

The local Oddfellows' Lodge held a highly enjoyable old-fashioned St. Valentine's basket social in the Smithers Town Hall last Friday night. Music for dancing was furnished by the Telkwa Orchestra. There were prizes for the best baskets.

Miss Dorothy Rand, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Rand, left at the end of the week for Winnipeg where she will take a business course.

There has been an epidemic of arm fractures for local young people including the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Glass, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sedgewick and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Buchanan.

G. R. (Dick) MacDonald who joined the Second Searchlight Battery in Prince Rupert in April 1940 returned to Smithers this week from overseas, having spent three years in England and Europe. "Dick" went through France two months after D-Day and saw service in Holland, Belgium and Germany with the Artillery. He married a Dutch girl in Holland and expects her to come to this country some time this summer. He is glad to be back and is glad the war is over. When asked what he thought of it he merely says it was a grim show. He was accompanied to Smithers by his brother, Andrew, who is with the Canadian National Railways in Vancouver.

The Hospital Auxiliary held a very successful tea in the Masonic Hall on Saturday afternoon under the capable direction of the President, Mrs. Grace Greene.

Dr. L. M. Greene tore the cartilage out of his knee while practicing on the slalom hill on Sunday. The doctor will be laid up for some time.

HOW CAN I ???

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I avoid watering of the eyes when peeling onions?

A. This will not happen if the onions are peeled under the running cold water faucet. When grinding, place a wet cloth over the top of the grinder and work underneath.

Q. How can I prevent hot brown bread from crumbling when cutting it?

A. Try using a silk or linen thread, instead of a knife, when cutting hot brown bread, and it will not crumble.

Q. How can I set the color when washing silk?

A. A little salt placed in the water when washing silk will usually set the color.

MIRRORS CREATE SPACIOUS EFFECT

Make Use of Full Windows At Winter Furniture Show

CHICAGO —Ideas for furnishing a house in a way that will make it appear more spacious as well as attractive were featured at the winter furniture show here.

This was done in many exhibits by using full windows and massive mirrors. Floor coverings were extended the full size of the room. Low chairs were used to create an illusion of height. Novel pastel color combinations played their part, too, in "stretching" a house.

Such was an exhibit created by Mabel Schamberg of Chicago and Dorothy Draper of New York. Their exhibit exemplified the delicate and individual touches given to many modern designs.

Ebony-finished bookcases and a Honduras mahogany cocktail table with a black glass top set before a sofa slipcovered in green and white striped material with a huge mirror above the lounge was an example of their idea of homefurnishing.

Sold 350 Pairs of Nylons On Tuesday

At least one local ladies' ready-to-wear store did a land-office business in selling of new nylon hosiery yesterday. This store reported having sold 350 pairs during the day with another fifty pair going out this morning by which time the stock was pretty well cleaned out.

FINAL QUILT FINE ARTICLE

Included in a shipment of clothing being sent overseas by the Red Shield Women's Auxiliary of the local Salvation Army Corps is a splendid quilt, made by members of the Good Cheer Club. The comforter was the last article made by the group and this kind act closes the efforts of the club.

PRINCE GEORGE

The Prince George Film Council held a meeting on Sunday evening with a view to reviving the interest of local organizations in the showing of the films available.

Williams Lake junior hockey players were here at the end of last week to engage in a series of games with Prince George juniors for the Mutual Life cup and the Northern British Columbia championship.

With Harry Peale of North Vancouver, grand leading knight for British Columbia in attendance, local Elks gathered in the ballroom of the Prince George Cafe last Thursday night to burn their mortgage. Speaker of the evening was A. McB. Young, first exalted ruler of the lodge.

WHAT'S DOING AT PRINCE RUPERT RECREATION COUNCIL GYMS BY JIM NAST

EDUCATION FOR LEISURE—Our education fails if we have not been trained for freedom. We need to be educated to use our leisure in such a way that it will furnish the deepest satisfaction to ourselves as well as leading to forms of conduct which are acceptable to the society in which we live. The Prince Rupert Civic Centre will provide an excellent medium for the enjoyment of healthy and constructive leisure-time activities. However it will also be necessary in the beginning to educate many of the younger people of the community to make use of the building and its equipment in the proper manner. A part of this instruction will be given by the Civic Centre staff and the Rup-Rec leaders but the major part of the education which will create the proper attitude towards the use and care of this publicly owned building must come from the parents, the schools and the churches. On the basis of recent experience one must admit the necessity of education for leisure.

SPIC AND SPAN—The Y.M.C.A. building has been closed for cleaning and polishing in preparation for the official opening of the Civic Centre on March 3. The Rup-Rec classes will, however, continue as scheduled tonight.

THE RUP-REC SHOW—The Rup-Rec show scheduled for March 8 is being polished up as well and recent rehearsals of music, dancing, singing and gymnastics make it appear that this will be an event worth seeing.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE—The Junior Boys class previously held at the Conrad Street School will be cancelled this evening to be combined with the St. Peter's junior group. This joint class will be conducted at the St. Peter's Community Hall at Seal Cove and all boys between the ages of 6 and 12 are invited to attend at 7:30 p.m.

WHAT'S ON TONIGHT?—Y.M.C.A.—Junior Girls, 6-7; Junior Boys, 7-8; Intermediate Boys, 8-9.
St. Peter's Community Hall—Junior Boys, 7:30-8:30.
Seal Cove School—Intermediate Boys boxing, 7:30-9.
I.O.D.E. Hall—Ladies class, 8-9:30.

MADRAS HIGHWAY PLANS SAIDAPET, Madras—H. R. Dogra, chief engineer for communications, told students of the Engineering College, Guindy that the Madras government has a scheme for constructing 56,000 miles of roads to connect all villages in the province with populations of more than 500.

LAUNCETON, Tasmania—Cut off from the rest of the world because their radio didn't work and no ship had called for several months, a man and his family living off the north coast of Tasmania did not hear until the middle of November that the war was over.

SIX WEEKS OLD, JUNIOR SHOWS TARZAN-LIKE QUALITIES—Although he is only six weeks old, Raymond Aichner, Jr., of Tarrytown, N.Y., has distinct leanings towards a Tarzanesque career. He will wrap his chubby fists around a stick and hang on, supporting his whole weight when the stick is raised. Or, as you see here, he will make a trapeze of his father's thumbs. Raymond weighed seven pounds three ounces at birth. We don't know what Johnny Weismuller weighed.

GOOD TOURIST TRAFFIC EXPECTED

Shortage of Cruise Vessels Will Be Felt—Local Traffic to be Put First

Tourist travel through Prince Rupert this year is expected to be "good" although it will not be as heavy as in normal years before the war, in the opinion of local officers of the Canadian National, Union and Canadian Pacific steamship companies.

A shortage of cruise vessels by Canadian National and Canadian Pacific will forestall an invasion by the hordes of tourists which passed through Prince Rupert in pre-war days but all three companies are looking forward to as much tourist traffic as they can accommodate—and more.

With only the Prince Rupert operating, Canadian National passenger officials here say that they could fill her with tourists every trip this summer but they plan to leave space for normal local north-south traffic which constitutes the bulk of their year-round business.

"We plan to look after our regular customers in spite of the size of the tourist trade although local people should not feel put out if they can't make last minute reservations," one passenger official said. "When the rush is on, reservations should be made well in advance."

Union Steamships, with two new converted corvettes coming into service possibly in June, may use the Catala to supplement their north coast run, according to Frank Skinner, their agent.

One of the new vessels is scheduled to take the run ordinarily handled by the Catala and it is anticipated that the Catala may be used on a run as far north as Port Hardy in conjunction with the new vessel and the Cardena.

"If the plan to have the Catala handle local traffic between Vancouver and Port Hardy is carried out, it would mean that the Cardena and the new ship would have fewer stops to make on their northern trips." Mr. Skinner said. "This would not only speed up the service to Prince Rupert and Stewart but it would also mean more accommodation for northern passengers."

The second of the two corvettes scheduled to go into service for the Union Steamships this summer will go on the Queen Charlotte Islands run. It is expected to handle a substantial tourist traffic through Prince Rupert.

Starting their summer schedule in June, Canadian Pacific coast steamships will have the Princess Louise and Princess Norah on the Alaska run to Skagway in addition to the regular weekly sailings of the Princess Adelaide between Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

C.P.R. local agent David Scott anticipates that tourist traffic on the company's ships will be "heavy" and that both the Norah and Louise will be booked solid during the summer schedules which contains six sailings to Alaska during each of the months of June, July and August.

Local hotels too, predict an increase of business as tourists take advantage of the first pleasure travel opportunities since early in the war. Hotel accommodation in the city is about 240 rooms.

Auto Traffic Depends on Road

Automobile traffic in Prince Rupert will depend, of course, on the condition of the Prince Rupert Highway connecting the city with the outside world. If the road is open and in good shape, there will, no doubt, be many people coming here from all parts of the continent in their cars.

TEEN-TOWNS SPREADING

VANCOUVER (C)—Ever since boys and girls at Penticton, B.C., formed a club with the idea of staging dances and other forms of entertainment to curb juvenile delinquency, teen-towns are springing up all over British Columbia.

At Vancouver, Donald Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, has announced he incorporated the B.C. Teen-towns Association under the provincial Societies Act with the aim of encouraging youth self-help movements.

Charters will be given all teen-towns with membership of 15 or more and a conference of all teen-town mayors will be held in Vancouver about the end of May.

W. J. "Billy" Finlay who has been actively associated with youth organizations for many years, has been made honorary adult adviser to British Columbia teen-towns.

He has sent out a four-page free newspaper to all teen-towners containing an organization chart, a suggested constitution and a plan of organization with the duties set out for every official in teen-town. Membership cards are also available for teen-towners that want them.

Members of teen-town range in age from 13 to 19 years and they elect a mayor, mayoress, city council and police force. They also elect committeemen in charge of sports and social activities.

Various organizations have rallied to the cause by offering their premises for classes in woodwork, moulding, model airplane building, photography, sewing and community halls for dances.

EXPERIMENTERS FAVOR SOIL SUBSTITUTES FOR SEED BOX

Amateur gardeners who plan to start seeds early this year may be interested in a substitute for soil which can be used in seed starters. This is vermiculite, a form of mica which is mined in Montana, then subjected to 2,000 degrees of heat. This expands the material 12 times and makes it light and highly absorbent.

A cubic foot of vermiculite weighs five pounds and has a water holding capacity of five gallons. It also holds air and retains the granular condition, which is ideal for aeration. The heat treatment makes it sterile, so that seeds grown in the material germinate more promptly and with a smaller loss than when planted in soil.

Vermiculite is used for concrete aggregate, and also for insulating buildings. It is generally obtainable at lumber yards. Some forms of the concrete aggregate are mixed with substances harmful to plants, so this should be avoided unless there is assurance that it is harmless. The insulating material, however, is harmless to plants and the particles are coarser and more suitable for filling a flat. It should be passed through a sieve, just as soil is, to separate the finer particles, which should be placed on top, in which to sow the seed.

Sow the seeds a little deeper than with soil. The vermiculite will hold water longer than soil and needs watering less often. The automatic wick method of watering may be used, or the flat may be subirrigated by first lining it with waterproof paper before it is filled, then placing a flower pot in the centre, around which the vermiculite is piled. An inch of coarse gravel at the bottom helps spread water evenly, when it is poured into the pot; and moisture is absorbed by the vermiculite from below as it evaporates above.

Vermiculite contains some potash but no nitrogen or phosphorus. These must be supplied in the water when the seedling plants are well started. A teaspoonful of balanced chemical fertilizer, such as 4-12-4, stirred in a gallon of water and used to water the plants weekly, gives good results. Take great care not to make the mixture too strong.
