SUPERVISED PLAY PROGRAM STARTING WITH SWIM CLASSES

Swimming instruction classes at McClymont Park pool beginning late Wednesday afternoon will officially herald the opening of the supervised playground program for the current season. The Civic Centre administration and the Red Cross are co-operating to make these classes possible in Prince Rupert. The classes, under the direction of Miss Marjorie Jackson, will follow the methods and technique laid down by the Red Cross in their current swimming and water safety campaign.

Miss Jackson has recently returned from Vancouver where she completed the intensive training course operated by the Red Cross as a means of training personnel to further the good cause of water safety.

Any non-swimmer between the ages of 5 and 13 years will be registered for the initial classes, either at the Civic Centre prior to Wednesday's first class or at the classes themselves. Suitable arrangements to avoid classes for those in other age groups will be made dependent upon the desires or response to these classes.

Other plans for the supervised playground season include supervision of McClymont Park during afternoons and evenings by Miss Laverne Linney. Seal Cove playground to be under the watchful eye of the popular and genial Mr. Ferguson while children's activities at Alder Park will also be supervised.

Activities to be arranged and directed by the staff will include many interesting contests and events designed to help the children make constructive use of their leisure time throughout the summer.

20 YEARS AGO ... In ... RUPERT SPORT

C. L. Youngman beat N. W. Pringle 6-0 and 6-2 in the last game of the first round of the Regimental tennis tournament. Youngman later lost to Nicholas R. Howard defeated S. P. McMordie, 6-0, 6-0, in the semi-final. A. H. Carmichael and J. W. Nicholls will meet in the other semi-final.

The Grand Terminals won from the Moose in the Mobley Cup football series by 4-1. Stars for the Terminals were Dickens with three goals, Paddy O'Donnell, W. Mitchell and Farquhar. Wilson scored the only goal for the Moose.

Harry Love and George Tite, who had accompanied the baseball team to Ketchikan, returned. They had a rainy 11-hour trip north but the return was made in 12 hours under ideal weather conditions.

TALKATIVE TREES
Poplars are called the "whispering trees" because one leaf hitting against another makes a whispering sound.

SHORT SPORT

Boston Red Sox paid a reported $2,900 to the minor league Providence club for rookie pitcher George Herman Ruth 32 years ago today. Five years later the Red Sox sold Ruth to the New York Yankees where he shifted to the outfield and became the greatest home run hitter of all time.

Howie Morenz turned professional with Montreal Canadiens 23 years ago. The Stratford, Ont., streak, one of hockey's most colorful figures, twice led the National League in scoring and was a three-time winner of the Hart trophy for the league's most valuable player. He died March 8, 1937, from complications following a hockey injury.

The oldtimers among the cock-fighting communities of Cumberland, Westmorland and North Lancashire aren't very happy these days. The sport is dying out and they miss also the excitement of keeping one step ahead of the police. The sport was dealt a severe, if not mortal blow, by the rationing of feeding stuffs in the last two years of the war and, in common with pigeon fanciers, cock-fighters were compelled to reduce their stock of birds. On top of this setback, mourned an old-timer, the youngsters now are following the greyhounds and find "it too much bother to breed the cocks, to feed them and to teach them (after they have had boxing gloves put on them) to fight in barns and such-like places."

The old-timer, who believes he "and the missus" are the last of the old brigade, said the business is "too finicky" for the youngsters. "Even the excitement of keeping out of the clutches of the police doesn't attract them. I don't know what people are coming to." He recalled that "half the pleasure of the old days

Many Women Workers In New South Wales

SYDNEY, Australia. — Though many industries complain of shortage of female help, there are estimated to be 245,000 women wage earners in New South Wales, Australia's most populous state, compared with 168,000 at the start of the war.

The wartime troubles of the British Press are exemplified by one editor who, after his staff had gone to war, carried on with two journalists, one 70 and the other 83, while a printer 70 years of age was recalled from retirement.

was in laying a false trail for the police."

Tom Waugh, well known Newmarket racehorse trainer, died recently in hospital at this famous racetrack town. He was 72 years old.

Sports enthusiasts in the Lakeland district of Lancashire are upset. They charge that book-makers are invading village sports, with one declaring he saw bets "being taken on an egg and spoon race." The question came into prominence when a 1-year old boy, racing under an assumed name, won a professional cross-country race at Kendal sports, where book-makers were offering 20 to 1 against him. S. G. Lewis, headmaster of Windermere Grammar School reported the incident and said he "condemned the organization of professional races for children." The boy concerned was upset about what he had done and "it is only fair to him to say he was not aware of its wide implications." Lewis said "I wonder if the public realizes that these children running in professional sports are treated as horses or dogs? The whole business is a matter of grave public concern." A promoter in the district said he was in sympathy with the headmaster's view but added that "unless there is betting on all the events the public won't support our sports."

PLAN HOCKEY'S HALL OF FAME

Construction of Kingston Memorial to Start When Building Restrictions Permit

KINGSTON, Ont. — Choice of a site for hockey's Hall of Fame in this city which lays claim to being the birthplace of Canada's chief winter sport is to be made in the near future although much planning remains to be done before actual construction can be started.

Capt. James T. Sutherland, the prime mover in the campaign which brought the hockey Hall of Fame here, says in a progress report that construction is expected to start as soon as building restrictions permit.

The promoters are intent on a memorial "which will be a most acceptable tribute dedicated to perpetuate the memories of the men who have done so much to develop hockey, nationally and internationally and as players and executives."

Recently a delegation from the local committee, including an architect and a building contractor, visited the Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., and obtained much useful information. The members attended a ceremony at which Governor Dewey of New York unveiled a bronze monument to the late Judge K. M. Landis, former baseball czar.

Financial objective of the Hockey Hall of Fame is $50,000 and Captain Sutherland reports that $33,000 has already been received from organizations and individuals although so far there has been no special campaign for funds.

The National Hockey League donated $7,500 and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association $10,000. The city of Kingston gave $5,000. Other donations have come from the Ontario Hockey Association and the United States Amateur Hockey Association. Individual donors include George McNamara, John David Eaton, Mrs. James Richardson, Reginald Crawford, Captain Sutherland and Walter A. Brown, president of the Boston Arena Corporation.

Trophies Are Being Donated

Mayor Stuart Crawford of Kingston, president of the Hall of Fame, has received two handsome trophies, one from J. Gill Gardiner of Brockville and F. L. Bishop of North Battleford, Sask. These and other hockey trophies which have been offered are to be placed in the museum section on the second floor of the projected building.

The committee plans to have framed photographs of all the hockey immortals selected for the shrine hung in the building. The board of governors, which selects those to be honored, consists of Lester Patrick of New York Rangers, Frank Sargent of Port Arthur, former C.A.H.A. president, President Mervyn (Red) Dutton of the N.H.L., Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the O.H.A., Art Ross of Boston Bruins, James Fitzgerald, Toronto sports writer, Baz O'Meara, Montreal sports writer, Abbie Coe, Winnipeg newspaperman, and Wes McKnight, Toronto radio executive and sportscaster.

Nine players have been selected and their names have been inscribed in the magnificent International Honor Roll Book, in illuminated Old English type. All are immortals of the sport—Howe Morenz, George Vezina, Frank McGe, Hobie Baker, Charles (Chuck) Gardiner, Harvey Pulford, Eddie Gerard, Hod Stuart and Tom Phillips. Six men have been selected as "builders of hockey"—John Ross Robert-

THE PHYSICALLY DISABLED VETERAN - A straightforward approach to his employment

HERE ARE THE FACTS:

The job efficiency and working habits of the physically disabled are well illustrated by a survey of 100 firms employing substantial numbers of disabled. Of the 100 firms, 55 found absenteeism lower for the physically disabled, 40 found it the same as with the so-called able bodied, and only 5 found it higher for the physically disabled. Labour turnover was lower for the physically disabled in 83 cases, the same in 16 and higher for the disabled in only 1 case. The accident rate was lower for the physically disabled in 57 cases, the same in both groups in 41 cases and higher among physically disabled in only 2 cases. Productivity among the disabled was lower in 10 cases only. In 66 cases this was considered the same, and in 24 cases productivity was higher among the disabled.

IN CANADA today approximately 25,000 veterans have some type of physical disability as an aftermath of war. The vast majority of them who are ready for employment are being absorbed into the country's economy, and are providing proof that a physical disability need not be a job handicap. There are, among those employed, full-time farmers, log scalers, telephone linemen, clerks, accountants, watch makers. There is scarcely a field in which physically disabled veterans are not successful.

The answer to successful employment of the physically disabled is in a normal approach. They are normal people. There are many things they can do. There are few of which they are not capable. They should be employed, as are the so-called able bodied, on the basis of what they can do. If, for instance, a job does not require the use of legs, then that job can be done efficiently by a double leg amputee.

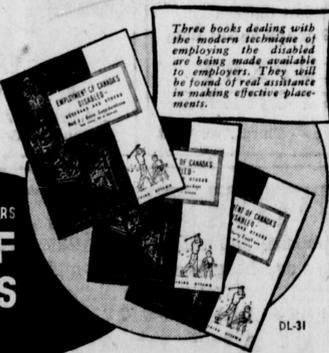

As with the so-called able bodied, factors other than physical are important. These are things such as knowledge, personal suitability and aptitude. The physically disabled should be employed, as in the case of others, with these things in mind. They do not want employment on the basis of charity, or because it is felt the country owes them a living.

Before the physically disabled veteran enters the employment stream, through treatment his disability has been reduced to the minimum. Where required, he has been supplied with appliances to replace, insofar as possible, the lost physical capacities. Many have received specialized training in occupations in which their disability is not a handicap.

Available to the veteran and to industry are the services of men specially trained in the employment of the physically disabled. In the Department of Veterans Affairs these men are known as Casualty Rehabilitation Officers. The Department of Labour makes assistance available through the Special Placement Section of the National Employment Service.

If you wish assistance in the employment of the physically disabled, discuss it with these officers. They are at your service to assist in analyzing job requirements and assessing the capacity of the veteran.

Sight Restored By Cornea Graft

ADELAIDE, Australia, (C)—Mrs. Katherine Raynor, 50, of Melbourne, has just seen her daughter Patricia, who is leaving for Canada soon to marry, for the first time in seven years.

Mrs. Raynor lost her sight in 1939. A tennis ball damaged the cornea of her right eye, and two months later she ran a stick into her left eye, which had to be removed.

She twice had corneas grafted on the right eye, but each time the operation was unsuccessful. Surgeons discovered that the donor of a cornea must be of a blood group compatible with the person who receives it.

Then a woman was admitted to Adelaide Hospital for the removal of an eye. She was the same blood group as Mrs. Raynor, and donated the cornea to her. Surgeons again operated on Mrs. Raynor, and the operation was successful.

'Father' Duncan's Inspiring Story

Founded Two Exemplary Indian Villages But Died of Broken Heart

A story of 60 years of inspiring missionizing work among the natives of this part of the coast whom he led from depths of barbarism to a high status of enlightened and industrious Christian citizenship was unfolded to the appreciative interest of the Prince Rupert Gyró Club at its last luncheon meeting. The missionary whose great career was reviewed was "Father" William Duncan, crusading "Apostle of the North" who started his work in Port Simpson in 1857, founded two villages of Christian people—Old Metlakatla and the new—and ultimately died in 1918 of a broken heart over the frustration of his ideals by nefarious influences of United States government officials. The speaker who told the story was J. A. Findlay, assistant Indian Agent at Prince Rupert, who for several years has worked among the natives of this district and has learned to respect them greatly for their fine characteristics which, unfortunately, are seen and understood too little by the people who live in the cities and do not encounter them at their best.

Starting at the beginning, Mr. Findlay recalled how William Duncan in 1856 had given up the promise of a successful business career in England to come to British Columbia and engage in missionary work. Arriving in Port Simpson he found aboriginal people of nine tribes, so barbarous and hostile that the white people had to live within the Hudson Bay Co. fort for safety.

In spite of numerous difficulties and dangers, however, Duncan was able to learn the language and converted many of the natives. Finding it impossible to carry on the work of Christianity at Port Simpson, in 1862 he moved with 50 followers, pledged to renounce forever various heathen practices and live as good and useful citizens, and founded the village of Metlakatla where the arts and industries were cultivated and the practices of civilization and good Christian citizenship set up. Here a population of 1900 was eventually built up but dissension over the land question and religious sectarianism arose and it was decided to find another spot to settle and continue practical Christianity along the border and liberal lines as expounded by Duncan. President Cleveland Gave Them Land Followed in 1888 the emigration from the old Metlakatla to the new on Annette Island where President Grover Cleveland of the United States had made available the site then known as Port Chester and now as Metlakatla. Here people who trekked north by canoe with nothing more than their personal effects built up, under Father Duncan's inspiration and guidance, the fine Christian and economically and industrially self-supporting village which was to become a model. It was a sad eventuality, however, that unscrupulous officialdom of the American Bureau of Education and Department of Interior, unbeknown to their superiors, should have undermined Duncan's authority and split his colony so that he died of a broken heart in 1918 before a senatorial investigation committee was finally able to bring to light the nefarious means that had been resorted to to get rid of his influence.

The speaker revealed how Duncan's name had become linked with those of Livingstone and Stanley with whom, indeed, advice and ideas had been exchanged in the work of bringing aboriginal peoples to Christianity and civilization. The fine precepts of teaching and training which had been inculcated by Duncan were to be seen in such exemplary native citizens as Thomas Hanbury, Henry Prevest, Stephen Ryan, Heber Clifton and Edward Gamble. Concluding, Mr. Findlay paid high tribute to the many fine attributes of the native people. He had found them to be keenly understanding, directly intelligent, simple yet with a keen sense of humor. As for their homes, there were many of such cleanliness that one could eat off the floor and, even at their worst, the Indians could not compare in squalor to the slums in which white people dwell in such cities as Vancouver and Montreal.

The struggle for freedom of the press commenced with the first introduction of the printing press into England about 1476 A.D., when it was put under license of the Star Chamber, a body completely controlled by the King.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE IS SUFFRAGETTE

Political Activity of Perop's Spouse May Lead to Women's Suffrage in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (C)—While President Juan Domingo Peron settles into his self-appointed task of revamping the nation's life to fit his pattern of "social justice," his attractive blonde wife is changing the traditional Argentine concepts of a woman's place in public affairs.

Wives of Latin American presidents rarely are well known to the public, and indeed Argentine wives generally are only remotely familiar with the business and professional preoccupations of their husbands. This is not so with the wife of Argentina's new president.

Alert and politically shrewd, Maria Eva Duarte de Peron has been credited by some with being one of the chief counsellors and advisers to the ex-strong man of the military government.

Recently she has projected herself in the glare of the public spotlight, and some see her as setting a precedent for more active participation in politics by Argentine women.

At former screen and radio actress, the Argentine president's wife first emerged as a public figure in politics during the campaign, and Peron's political leaders agree she was an asset on the vote-gathering trips.

It has been the exception rather than the rule for Peron to appear in public without her. Often she has made visits to factories and plants, exchanging views with the workers, while Peron has been occupied with other functions. And the workers have received her with the same enthusiasm that marks her husband's receptions by his laboring class supporters.

FATHER AND SON SHARE PULPIT

Old-Time Christian Practice Urged by Rev. P. F. MacSween of Winnipeg

Father and son—Rev. Peter F. MacSween of Winnipeg and Rev. A. F. MacSween of Prince Rupert—shared the latter's pulpit in First Presbyterian Church at morning service yesterday. Mr. MacSween sr., in his sermon, urged the getting down to fundamentals in the acceptance of the Christian way of living. Pre-conceived ideas of easier and more modern means of getting spiritual satisfaction than by old-fashioned practice of belief should be dismissed. The sermon was based on the story of the Assyrian army captain, a great man but a leper, who came to Elisha to be cured, but had become indignant when told to cleanse himself in the waters of Jordan instead of the rivers of his own Damascus. Finally, he accepted Elisha's prescription and emerged a cured man after bathing in the waters of Jordan. Mrs. Gilbert Brown presided at the organ in the absence of Mrs. E. J. Smith.

Coast Halibut Catch Higher—Sockeye Run Very Fair

The records of the International Fisheries Commission indicate that for the period from the beginning of the 1946 season on May 1 to June 30, a total of 39,332,000 pounds of halibut was landed from Pacific coast waters as compared with 35,779,000 pounds in the corresponding period last year. The following total amounts of halibut have been landed in Pacific coast ports from Areas 2 and 3:

	Area 2	Area 3
U.S. Fleet	12,499,000	12,245,000
Can. Fleet	13,881,000	707,000
Total	26,380,000	12,952,000

Landings for the same period in 1945 were as follows:

	Area 2	Area 3
U.S. Fleet	12,667,000	11,156,000
Can. Fleet	11,518,000	438,000
Total	24,185,000	11,594,000

"Very fair" was the way that Harry Robins, manager of Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd. cannery at Port Edward, this morning described the first week of the sockeye fishing season on the Skeena River. Boats, he said, were getting as high as 150 fish per day from their gill nets. On the Skeena River there are about 750 boats out and on the Naas some 200. The first three days of the season was attended with very good results but the catches fell off toward the end of the week when heavy rain weather drove the fish deep.

On a week's cruise to Ketchikan and surrounding Alaska waters, Dr. R. G. Large, who met disaster there last year with the destruction by fire of his former cruiser Soogwills, left yesterday morning for the north with his Fusilier. Dr. Large's party includes C. G. Mills, Dr. J. P. Cade, James Parker and son, Dick.

On her regular weekly voyage, Union steamer Catala, Capt. Ernest Sheppard, somewhat later than usual, arrived in port at 10:30 last night from Vancouver, sailing several hours later for Stewart and other northern points whence she is due back here tomorrow morning to sail at 12:30 noon for the south. Union steamer Cassiar, Capt. Lorne Godfrey, returned to port at 7 o'clock yesterday morning from Massett Inlet points and sailed at midnight last night for Vancouver via the south end of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The 50-foot Seattle yacht Queter, skippered by D. O'Banion, docked here briefly on Saturday, sailing Sunday for Ketchikan on a north coast cruise. She carried a party of Seattle and Olympia people.

MURDER TALE IS EXCITING

"Three Strangers" Coming to Capitol Theatre This Tuesday and Wednesday

A tightly woven murder story plot enacted by a cast with Sydney Greenstreet, Peter Lorre and Geraldine Fitzgerald in the leading roles is the subject of an exciting picture, "Three Strangers," which comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here this Tuesday and Wednesday. The three strangers are a well-bred English woman unusually wrapped up in the influence of a Chinese goddess of human destinies (Miss Fitzgerald), a London barrister (Greenstreet), and a man, (Lorre) obviously of solid background, who, however, has deteriorated through the years. The meet on Chinese New Year identities, they make a joint wish for money. They acquire a sweepstake ticket which draws a horse and, in a quarrel over the sharing, Greenstreet kills Miss Fitzgerald. The horse on which they have the ticket wins the race, but it is useless for them to claim the prize money since to do so would be to link them with the murder. The final solution is for the guilty man to give himself up to the police whereupon the other is reunited with his little Cockney sweetheart.

INSTRUMENTS STOLEN FROM HALIBUT BOAT

Theft of a chronometer and barometer from the Vancouver halibut boat Alaverdy, moored at the government wharf, was reported to the city police on Sunday. The instruments are believed to have been taken on Saturday night when members of the crew were ashore. The Alaverdy is skippered by Capt. Lief Karstensen of New Westminster.
