Back to "Old Times"

Although the manager of the Ganadian Shipbuilding and Repairing Association, organization of the "active" shipbuilding concerns of this country, says that inquiries have been received from all over the world for Canadian-built ships and that there is enough work on hand to keep Canadian yards fully busy for five years, the Canadian National Railways shipyard at Prince Rupert has now slipped back into its prewar status.

Possibly as unfortunate as the apparent fact that Prince Rupert is now out of the shipbuilding business is our seeming acceptance of what was probably the determined intention from the start—namely to close down the dry dock almost altogether.

While the countless people in Europe and Asia die for lack of food supposedly because of congested ports whose facilities are so glutted they cannot handle more, Prince Rupert's big grain elevator stands. empty and the railway line into Prince Rupert, the advantages of which were so amply demonstrated during the business of war and destruction, is starving for traffic again. If anybody in a position to do so is really interested in getting the traffic this way, either from the standpoint of doing something toward facilitating the relief of the world food situation or in providing business for this port and railway, they are, to say the least of it, mighty slow in getting anything accomplished.

Now the latest paradox adversely affecting Prince Rupert is that in regard to the movement of timber and lumber. Buyers at home and abroad are clamoring for forest products, both raw and manufactured. Timber shippers and exporters say they would like to use the port of Prince Rupert to facilitate the movement of the products to market. Yet here again there seems to be some adverse influence which prevents or hampers the use of this port.

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, which has agitated without success to get action in connection with shipbuilding activity and grain shipping, has now resolved to interest itself in the matter of developing waterborne shipments of timber through this port. It is to be hoped it will have better luck in this regard than was obtained on the other matters. It will, no doubt, meet with opposition, obstacles, subterfuges and excuses in this campaign too. Are we to succumb in frustration to them all?

We had thought a while ago that Prince Rupert was really going to step out and fight for the continued recognition of the position which was so amply exploited during the emergency of war. But, unfortunately, a state of lethargy seems to have set in. Could it be that the people of Prince Rupert are content to slip back into the restful ease of the "good old days" which, with all their inertia, leisure and tranquility, might not have been so good after all.

The shipyard is about as dead as it ever was. The elevator is still and empty. Except for some cleaning up that is still going on our railway and wharves are back to the old even tenor of their ways. We are reduced again to fishing as our main industry and hopeful that the tourist traffic will bring us a measure of summer business.

Are we satisfied with the way things are going? Are we going to sit back and take it?

A diplomat is a man who can say the nastiest things in the nicest way.

Not Only Money and Profit

Money and profit are by no means the only thing that motivate the businessman. He has many other motivations. With the great majority of today's executives, the most powerful motivation of all is satisfaction in managing an organism that provides jobs for fellowcitizens, which gives the community good products and services at a good

If any proof of this be needed, look at the record of recent years. Why didn't scores and hundreds of businessmen shut up shop and retire to leisure in the country? Why did they fight their way through material shortages, labor shortages and troubles, government red tape and all the other multitudinous plagues that have beset them? With towering taxes on their personal and on their company's income, there was no hope of riches. A sense of duty and of responsibility—that's what kept them going. And the duties and responsibilities of peacetime are almost as compelling as those of war-

No, the businessman who tells his friends and neighbors about the enterprise system and why it holds out the best hope for the best life for everybody in the community won't be doing so only to make profits bigger. —Financial Post.

Many a girl who puts up a swell front in society is flat busted at home.

The Regimental Band

The commanding officer of the Prince Rupert Regiment tells us that the regimental band is in need of recruits. We are glad to commend joining up with the band to any players of instruments or young men interested in music. Under the direction of Sgt. Peter Lien, one of the city's best known and most accomplished musical directors, there is here the opportunity to gain valuable tuition and directed practice. And of equal satisfaction to new members of the band, as it has been to those who have been in the band since its inception some three years ago, should be the fact that they will be rendering the community a real service as participants in a creditable musical organization which the community needs and which it appears is to be the only body of its kind in Prince Rupert.

Regimental bands in other places have brought credit and pleasure, and in some cases fame, to their communities. A good, strong regimental band would be a real asset to this city. The present band, although not great in numbers, has already served us well on occasion and is the organized nucleus of what, if the strength can be obtained, could be developed into an aggregation of which both its members and the community could well be proud.

Case Before Court Again

Defence Makes New Appeal in New Zealand Cause Celebre

AUCKLAND, N.Z .- New Zealand's most notable cause celebre, which is like the Dreyfus case in the persistence with which it comes forward for revision, has again come before the courts. This is the Eric Mareo murder case, in which a new appeal i being sought.

It is 11 years now since the tragedy which led to Mareo being sentenced to death for the murder of his beautiful young wife. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, but since then there has been an appeal, a retrial, three petitions to Parliament for revision, and notable English toxologists have written monographs on the case and its findings.

The case provided one of the greatest sensations in New Zealand criminal history even when . . it first occurred. Both parties were known throughout the country. Mareo came here early in the thirties after much experience in Europe and like a meteor became almost overnight the most prominent musical personality in New Zealand. He had a gift for making music that created something of a revolution in a not notably musical country.

Day-old bread is easier to slice

TRY THIS TONIGHT

Do what thousands are doing to wake up smiling each morning and stry bright all day. Drink a cupful of delicious Ovaltine before retiring. Ovaltine acts in three ways, to help bring sparkling morning freshness. First, taken warm at bedtime, it fosters sound, refreshing sleep, without drugs.

Second, it supplies essential food elements to rebuild vitality while you sleep! Third, it also furnishes important ritamins and minerals in a delicious, more natural way for all-round bealth and vigour. So why not try Ovaltine starting muight for morning freshness and buoyant days.

THE "STAFF OF LIFE"-We and members of the family are have all heard that bread is "the less likely to eat more of it than each loaf by cutting b read thin-The government announced ner. If you take a second slice some time ago the objective of make it a half slice. Never reeducing Canada's consumption move the crusts; always eat f wheat by 10 per cent so that them. Bring the loaf to the table xports could be proportionately and slice as needed. Put the ncreased. Here is something on loaf on the table at the last minute and return it to the bread box as soon as the meal is over to minimize drying out.

> -Dry and use the crumbs from the bread board. It's surprising how they mount up. Make toast as needed. Watch the toast and don't let it burn.

Make open-faced sandwiches stead of the double or triple decker variety. Replace the main dish sandwich with a large bow! heart soup or salad and a bread accompaniment. Eliminate the toast garnish commonly served with many foods. less it uses up stale bread which would be wasted other-

We often serve bread unnecessarily. When meat, potatoes, vegetables and dessert are served the only members of the family likely to need bread too are he hollow-legged 'teen agers. Cut out all unnecessary eating etween meals. Let the fruit bowl replace the cookie jar. Mak! "cup of tea" just a cup of tea.

SECRETS OF SALAD - The great secrets of good salad making to keep them simple, crips and fresh, with, a good contrast of color and texture of ingredients and lastly, an appetizing salad dressing.

The Agriculture Department Consumer Section suggests this basic Cooked Salad Dressing 114 curs of milk, two teaspoons salt, three tablespoons of flour four toblespoons of sugar, two tablespeens of mustard, two eggs 114 curs of vinegar, few grains

LADIES' LOUNGE - For the past few nights we have described some of the rooms in the Centre that are set aside for use of adult members only such as the Common Lounge and the Games Room. We pointed out how convenient it would be for business men to aron into the games room for a quick game of snooker, pool or table tennis during the odd spare hour. Tonight we'd like to bring to the attention of the ladies that there is a most charming room—large, airy and beautifully furnished-set aside for their use. It is conveniently situated next door to and across the hall from it is the kitchenette-equipped with hot plate, kettle, cups and saucers and plates. The Ladies' Lounge is a pleasant place to rest after a busy hour of shopping and a quiet spot to chat with a friend.

DANCE PARTNERS TO WED-When dance star Johnny Coy, of Montreal, picked petite, brunette Dorothy Babb as his dancing partner some six months ago for a movie little did he realize he was choosing a partner for life. But today Miss Babb is wearing a three-carat diamond ring on her third finger, left the comfortable powder room hand, and the couple plan a summer wedding. Coy is being hailed in Hollywood as successor to recently retired Fred Astaire. Miss Babb is a native of Amarillo, Texas.
