Secretary of Commerce Wallace Resigns

American Foreign Policy Being Cleared Up Again

No Change Has Been Made and None Contemplated, President Truman Announces

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Acceding to the request of President Truman, Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace submitted his resignation from the administration. This was the latest development following the political crisis which developed earlier in the week when Wallace publicly disagreed with the foreign policy of Secretary of State James Byrnes, particularly in regard to Russia and Great Britain.

AMBASSADOR OF DULUTH

In addition to being vice-president of Trans-Canada Air Lines W. F. English has a new job acquired when he was in Duluth earlier this week for the opening of his new service between the Canadian Lakehead and the big American iron port. The mayor of Duluth personally appointed him an "Ambassador of the Duchy of Duluth" which is the local equivalent of the key to the city. He has an elaborate scroll for credential. The duchy has historical implications since Duluth was named for Sieur Du Lhut who raised the French flag in the name of his king on the shore of Lake Superior in 1679.

American foreign policy was somewhat cleared up as a result of Wallace's resignation together with a statement of President Truman that there had been no change in policy and none was contemplated.

Mr. Truman said he had asked Wallace to resign because of conflict of views between Wallace and the administration. He (the President) had complete confidence in Secretary of State Byrnes and the delegation to Paris, their policies having his complete endorsement.

four months while permanent dwellings take anything up to eight months. While the pace of new building has been discouraging, much has been accomplished in the repair of homes damaged by German bombs and rockets. Up to July 31, 620,000 had been repaired.

"For a government within 15 months of the end of a great war to be approaching the completion of 200,000 houses, in addition to having 159,000 building workers on war damage repairs, is a record this country has never before approached," said Health Minister Aneurin Bevan in defence of the Labor administration's housing progress.

The Conservative opposition takes the stand that private enterprise has not been given a fair chance and that Labor's planning has been poor.

Size of the housing problem is demonstrated by government figures that 200,000 houses were destroyed by enemy action and 250,000 more made uninhabitable while wartime marriages have increased the number of family units and only about 250,000 houses have been built since 1939 compared with a pre-war annual average of 300,000.

First Autumn Storm Batters Houses, Hits Communications

WINDS OF 40 MILES AN HOUR SWEEP 2.96 INCHES OF RAIN OVER CITY. NO MAJOR LOSS

First violent storm of the equinox season vibrated Prince Rupert citizens in their beds, knocked down communication wires outside the city, partially disrupted telephone service within the city, but caused no loss of life or serious property damage, a survey this morning revealed.

Gale warning posted along the north coast late Thursday were followed by winds which reached 40 miles an hour, churning up coastal waters from Queen Charlotte Sound northward. However, the provincial police offices here had received no word of vessels in distress up to noon today.

The storm reached its peak between 1 o'clock and 2 o'clock this morning, only a few hours before the autumn equinox, a period renowned annually for its violent weather.

Violent gusts of wind throughout the night shook houses and blew water under doors and in open windows as Prince Rupert slept, or tried to sleep. The rain—2.96 inches of it in the 24-hour period up to 10 o'clock this morning—was carried almost horizontally on the wind.

Telegraph and long distance telephone communications with Prince George, Edmonton and Vancouver were cut off early this morning when a tree fell across the wires at Sockeye, 17 miles southeast of Prince Rupert.

Telegraph company employees began repair work at daylight but learned of further breaks along the line when they got a service wire through at 11 o'clock. It was expected commercial service would be resumed this afternoon.

City telephone superintendent Bruce Love reported this morning that the storm had put between 200 and 300 local telephone lines out of commission. Force of the wind drove water into leaks in the lead-covered cables causing short circuits in lines scattered impartially throughout the city.

Tracking down the "leaks" and repairing them will be a big job, Mr. Love said, but workmen already have put a number of telephones back in service.

Damage on the local waterfront was negligible. Up-town, the heavy rainfall flooded several basements which were being pumped out this morning.

No damage was caused to the Canadian National Railway line by the storm, it was reported at Superintendent C. A. Berne's office. The storm was greatest between Prince Rupert and Pacific, its fringe extending as far east as Smithers.

SHORTAGES HOLDING UP ON HOUSING

More Than 1,000,000 Men at Work But Plans For 200,000 Home May Not Be Fulfilled

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — Bunches of new homes are springing up like mushrooms all over Britain but the pace of construction is far too slow to satisfy the housing demands brought by six years of war.

Whole new communities of metal and concrete temporary houses have been set on bombed sites. Acres are covered by identical, flat-roofed dwellings that have a marked resemblance to oversize packing cases with doors and windows.

Elsewhere the traditional two-story brick house is being built, principally by municipal authorities for cheap rental to families of modest income.

Since it took office a year ago the Labor government has faced a constant clamoring for a speedup in the pace of building. Works Minister George Tomlinson has said 100,000 temporary and 100,000 permanent homes will be completed by the year-end, but the official housing figures suggest he will be disappointed.

Only 20,027 permanent dwellings were complete in England, Scotland and Wales between the end of the war and July 31 this year. The figure for temporaries is 40,425. In both categories the actual construction is well below the pre-election promises of all the major parties.

At the start delays were due primarily to shortage in the construction industry. Now more than 1,000,000 men are at work on building of all kinds, compared with less than 900,000 at the beginning of the year.

Shortage of Materials

The problem now is a shortage of almost all building materials. The number employed in making materials such as bricks, electrical equipment and bathtubs is only about two-thirds the pre-war level while the number using the material is nearly up to 1939. Hundreds of houses could be finished and ready for occupancy if window frames, drainpipes and other components were available.

Completion of temporary houses, made of prefabricated sections fastened together on top of concrete slabs, is taking about

MINISTER COMING HERE

IT IS QUITE some time since Prince Rupert had a visit from a federal cabinet minister so it is gratifying to hear that one is coming in a few days in the person of Mr. Bridges, the minister of fisheries. In fact the last federal cabinet minister to visit the city was a former minister of fisheries, Hon. Ernest Bertrand, who was here two or three years ago and who was so impressed with the need of fisheries float extension at this port that decision was soon made to proceed with the floats now under construction at Fairview Bay and which would have been ready for use long since had it not been for the difficulty of getting the necessary materials.

Since Prince Rupert is the principal fishing port on the British Columbia coast, it is logical that the fisheries minister should come here in any western tour—particularly a new minister like Mr. Bridges—for his picture of the industry could not be complete without seeing the situation here at first hand.

Doubtless, fisheries operators and fishermen will have matters to take up with Mr. Bridges. Since he is one of the members of the government, it would be appropriate that he should also be met by local representatives in connection with general developments of the port. One matter, of course, to be taken up and of particular interest to the fisheries will be the advisability of having the fisheries experimental station restored in whole or part to this port situated as it is in the centre of the great fishing grounds of the Canadian Pacific coast.

THE ATOMIC DANGER

THOSE were serious and realistic words by Mr. Churchill—that the use of the terrible instrument of atomic energy "might well lead not only to an end of civilization but to the disintegration of the world itself," meaning, of course, the physical destruction of the world.

Mr. Churchill was never known as a wishful thinker but one who faces the stern facts. He was the practical inspiration of the British people in the dark days when they stood with their backs to the wall and the possibility of physical destruction staring them in the face. Heed may well be taken of his latest words in denying the menace that it is capable of presenting to every living thing on earth. As Mr. Churchill suggests if we do not get on with the job of real peace making, a situation might well arise where it would be too late to save the world from cataclysmic destruction.

GENERAL STRIKE IS AIM

RESPONSIBLE labor leaders are convinced that communists in Canada and the United States are aiming at nothing short of a general strike, says Financial Post. This tragic goal has nothing to do with bettering conditions of Canadian or American workers but with exactly the reverse. The axiom of Communism is that the worse it gets with the people, the better it gets for the revolution.

That appears to be Moscow foreign policy just now and that policy, no matter how it may reverse or twist, has always been the policy of Canadian and American communists.

The theory is simple enough. Moscow can't hope to sell communism abroad if democratic capitalistic countries are prosperous. And even if there was no hope of exporting her doctrine there might be serious difficulty in holding the line at home. In recent weeks, indeed more and more reports of internal criticism in Russia have seeped through the iron curtain.

Serious unrest in Russia might be dangerous for all of us. It has always been a favorite device to dictators to distract attention from their own shortcomings by stirring up trouble abroad.

That sort of meddling, even if it does not lead to war, fits in perfectly with Soviet policy. For years the Russian people have been told that democracy and capitalism are doomed, that our high standard of living was a myth, that we were heading for industrial chaos and depression. That is why the communists are working for a general strike. That is why Canadian labor and management and capital should be on their guard against it.

ARCHIBALD IS SPEAKER

Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce will hitch itself into line with the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada by altering its fiscal year to begin July 1, rather than October 1. Motion to amend the constitution in that regard was approved at a dinner meeting of the group last night.

The change will become effective this year with inclusion of the amendment in the Junior Chamber's new constitution, which so far has not received the necessary approval of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

The Junior Chamber's 1946-47 officers, who will be elected at the annual meeting on October 17 will hold office until the end of June, rather than until October as in the past.

Guest speaker at last night's meeting was H. G. Archibald, M.P., who urged local groups to keep hammering for recognition of Prince Rupert's needs to the governmental authorities. He foresaw an expansion of industry to the west.

"Industry must expand into northwestern Canada," he asserted, "because, if it remains static, the growing taxation load will force a collapse of the economic framework. The future of central British Columbia is encouraging. I am certain that industry must expand in this direction."

President Clifford G. Ham, who appealed for an increased interest in the activities of the government, emphasizing that intelligent awareness of governmental actions is vital to good citizenship and to good government.

Harold Hampton, chairman of the Port Queen committee, reported briefly on the Junior Chamber's Port Queen campaign, and Tony Crawley, Port Day committee chairman, gave a similar account of Port Day.

LETTERBOX

ARCHIBALD ANSWERS
Editor, Daily News.

A letter appearing in the September 18 issue of your paper under the signature of J. R. Blakey posed several questions for me to answer.

First, Mr. Blakey states that the L.P.P. advocated a Liberal-Labor coalition composed of elements within the Liberal Party representing small business. Those small business elements within the Liberal Party were—Mitchell Hepburn, noted for strike breaking activity; Humphrey Mitchell, the minister of labor; Mr. Howe, the avowed representative of every major economic interest in Canada, and last but not least Mr. King himself whom Mr. Molotov advised Mr. Coldwell to support but who now heads the Government that arrested the only representative the L.P.P. had in Parliament and that in such a way that even the hated Tories protested without even mentioning the battle the C.C.F. put up. The coalition so well advocated by the L.P.P. now turns out not to be with the rapidly diminishing middle class but with spokesmen of monopoly, their natural ally.

In answer to the second point as to what stand the C.C.F. and myself are taking on the international question—the answer is always the same—a planned socialist economy which removes the contradictions of capital and thus removes the necessity of war. When I advocated such a step in the House in the discussion on the National Defence estimates the Minister of Veterans' Affairs (Ian McKenzie) stated that I was spreading indoctrinated communism. That from one of the nice capitalists.

ROTARIANS AMUSED BY MAGICIAN

How to make one doctor's watch disappear, then re-appear several minutes later in another doctor's vest pocket was demonstrated to the Prince Rupert Rotary Club Thursday afternoon by W. C. Rutherford, amateur Vancouver conjuror, who entertained the club at its weekly luncheon meeting.

Any good housewife, who is also a magician, might conjure the ten of clubs from the centre of a loaf of bread if she wants to impress her husband, merely by using Mr. Rutherford's secret "Abacadabra" incantation. At least magician Rutherford was able to.

Borrowing club president Dr.

L. W. Kergin's watch to perform a trick, Mr. Rutherford achieved such success that he himself was apparently nonplussed. He later exonerated himself by finding the missing timepiece in Dr. C. H. Hankinson's vest pocket.

To see a playing card, apparently safely locked into a picture frame, later come to light from the centre of a wrapped loaf of bread somewhat disconcerted the Rotarians as did Mr. Rutherford's version of the old shell

Pennant Race— Margin Is Unchanged

St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers Both Won Games Yesterday

BOSTON—The margin between St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers for the National League pennant remained at one game and a half as a result of yesterday's play. The Cardinals won over the Boston Braves 5 to 4 in a close game here while the Brooklyn Dodgers were blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates 7 to 0.

CONN READY TO MEET LOUIS IN ANOTHER FIGHT

NEW YORK—Billy Conn says he is willing to fight Joe Louis again for the world's heavy-weight title any time and any place. He will fight for charity but he wants the fight "my way."

Poor Grouse Season —Except For Grouse

GLASGOW—Poor weather, depleted stocks of birds on the moors and price controls combined to take the punch out of the grouse season in Scotland. Scores of shooting lodges were not opened this year. Not a shot was fired on opening day on the Wigtownshire moors and elsewhere there was little activity. Hotels which before the war bought grouse at 30 shillings to £2 a brace ($8 to $8) early in the season didn't serve the birds this year. "It was worth buying grouse at 30 shillings a brace when we had a la carte menus," said one hotel manager, "but it isn't an economic proposition to include the birds, even at their controlled price of 12 shillings a brace, in a fixed-price menu." The most a restaurant can charge for a three-course meal is five shillings.

SHORT SPORT

Whenever a track and field meet is run off in Alberta, be it big or small, the chances are you will find an elderly, grey-haired man moving spryly around helping to keep events moving smoothly with frequent pauses to offer words of encouragement to competitors. That elderly gentleman is A. R. (Pop) Lawrence who "never ran a race in my life," but who is known to most Edmonton city youngsters. Mr. Lawrence is chairman of the Alberta track and field committee this year and he has been associated with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for more than 15 years. He has never pretended to be an athlete or a coach and admits that his experience on the playing field consists of having taken part in a "couple of ball games—probably right field." His forte has been the all-important administrative side of sport. He has been secretary of many athletic organizations. Besides track and field, he has been associated with basketball, baseball and hockey clubs and leagues.

"Pop" is strictly an amateur and never gets involved with professional or semi-professional organizations. He says he has no quarrel with professionals. "I leave them alone and like them to treat me the same way. Young fellows these days usually want to know what the pay-off is before they will interest themselves to any real extent in sport," Mr. Lawrence says. "Girls, however, generally are interested in sport for sports sake and the fun they get out of it." For that reason he has tended to spend more and more time organizing and assisting women's sports clubs and leagues during the last 10 years. He has little use for boys who want to know "what's the pay-off." In 1939, he helped to form the Edmonton Girls Athletic Club. He has been secretary of it ever since and today it has more than 40 active members. "Pop" says several of them will be hitting the sports headlines consistently before long.

Mr. Lawrence was secretary of the men's amateur baseball league that played on Edmonton's old Boyle Street Diamond from 1928 to 1933. And he helped the same position with a girl's baseball club about the same time. He has been one of the mainsprings in girls' basketball in Edmonton. He was secretary of the Edmonton Eskimo girls' team that copped the Alberta intermediate crown in both 1929 and 1930. And he managed an Edmonton intermediate hockey team that went to the Alberta finals in 1930. Frank Coulson, one of the west's most colorful hockey mentors, was coach of the club and in the nets was Earl Robertson of New York American fame. "Pop's" home has always been open to young athletes. "Nowadays I usually have the children or grandchildren of the older gang cavorting around the place," he laughs. And that just suits the man who "never ran a race in my life."

W. H. Williscroft, and his son-in-law, John Calder, are paying a brief visit to the city. They arrived by car this morning and are returning home later in the day.

Two Ladies' Hoop Teams

Two teams—High School and People's Store—have already entered for a Ladies' Basketball League this winter. At least one more team is expected to be in competition. Organization of the ladies' hoop circuit is proceeding.

A drunk watched as a man entered the revolving door. As the door swung around a pretty girl walked out. "Darned good trick," he muttered, "but I don't see how that guy changed his clothes so fast."

"Where's Miss Lightfoot?" shouted the excited producer, rushing on to the stage at rehearsal.

"I think she's round behind," ventured one of the chorus.

"I know she is," roared the producer. "But I want to know WHERE she is."

Dizzy Gob: "I came to see my friend. How's he getting along?"

Nurse: "Oh, he's getting along just fine. Did you wish to see him? He's convalescing now."

Dizzy Gob: "That's all right—don't bother him, I'll just wait until he's through."

promises a glorious future

Because we are a moderate people, Canada has come through the war with perhaps the least dislocation of any nation actively involved. That is a remarkable tribute both to the overall policies of our Government and to the fundamental wisdom of the Canadian people.

And it holds out a glorious promise for the future.

But to make that promise come true in the days ahead we shall have to continue to live up to our principles of moderation. We shall have to continue to think, act and live—moderately.

To give in to the natural desire for immediate enjoyment of everything and anything presently in short supply can result only in inflation and disaster.

This is not our way.

The House of Seagram suggests that each day's enjoyment be moderate so that the rich promise of Canada's tomorrow can be fulfilled... to the full.

The Experts Say - -

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—September abundance of fruits and vegetables means a well-stocked larder for the coming winter. Many homemakers will include pickles and relishes in their late preservation program and there will be no sense of hoarding as there would have been during the war years.

First quality pickles are attained only by the use of first quality vegetables or fruits, good vinegar and fine spices. Wilted vegetables make pickles of poor texture and flat flavor. The need for freshness is particularly true if the vegetables are cucumbers, which should be pickled within 24 hours of gathering, while they are still firm and crisp. Too long standing makes hollow, rubbery pickles.

Shriveled pickles may be caused by over-strong brine, too much sugar or too strong vinegar. With the careful use of sugar and salt at the present time, there should be no need to emphasize this point, but a brine that is too weak will make soft pickles.

One type of pickle that is usually a success is the chopped mixed variety. Whether it is called chutney, picallili or chow chow, there is still the necessity for good vegetables with the right amount of salt, vinegar and spices.

Chutneys of vegetables and fruits simmered a long time until reduced to the consistency of jam and seasoned with vinegar and a subtle blend of spices are always popular.

Mixtures of two or three fruits and vegetables make good chutneys and as many as six are often combined. Apples, plums, peaches, pears, rhubarb, tomatoes, vegetable marrow, turnips, beets may be used. To these, onions and celery are usually added.

Mixed pickle spice, nutmeg and cinnamon give a delicious flavor milder than the high seasoning usual in tropical countries.

Fruit Pickle
Here is a recipe for a fruit pickle of chutney type:
Fruit Tamale: eight large or 12 medium ripe tomatoes (three pounds); three peaches (1 1/2 cups, chopped); three pears (1 1/2 cups, chopped); three apples (two cups, chopped); three medium onions (1 1/2 cups, chopped); one cup of celery, chopped; one small hot red pepper (two tablespoons, chopped); or six small dried chili peppers; two tablespoons whole mixed pickling spice, 1 1/2 cups of brown sugar; two teaspoons of salt; one cup of vinegar.

Blanch, peel and chop tomatoes and peaches. Peel, core and chop pears and apples. Peel and chop celery. Remove stem and seeds from pepper and cut finely.

Tie spices (including dried chili peppers if used) loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Add spice bag, sugar and salt to vinegar, bring to boiling point and add other ingredients. Cook uncovered until thickened—about 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove spice bag; pack pickles in clean hot jars and seal. Yield is about four pints.

TERRACE

Mrs. Nellie Yeomans of Port Essington is visiting with her sister, Mrs. G. Lambly.

During the past few days, the power crew have been busy along the Frank Road putting into place the poles to be used for the electric light wires.

It was decided that the supplying of these would be a major project for the year.

Mrs. C. G. McColl of Vancouver, corresponding secretary for the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation, who will be attending the annual convention of the B.C. Trustees Association being held next week in Prince George, will be visiting P.T.A. branches in Vanderhoof, Terrace and Prince Rupert upon her return. As she will be in Terrace on Friday and Saturday of next week, plans were made to have a tea and meeting in the Skeena Restaurant Friday afternoon in order to extend a welcome to her.

NOMAD CHILDREN ENJOY CLASSES

Australia Teaches Youngsters Of Wandering Aborigines

ERNABELLA, South Australia — A school for children of wandering Aborigines is conducted in this little settlement, 400 miles north of Adelaide, by Ernest Trudinger, an Australian fluent in the native dialects.

Instruction is given in the Aboriginal tongues by Trudinger who teaches writing, arithmetic, drawing and singing, elementary carpentry and gardening.

Classes, supported by the state government of South Australia, are held for whatever children happen to be at Ernabella with their nomad parents.

Their instruction varies according to their ages, and on the average there are five classes of five pupils each week. Trudinger does most of the teaching but sometimes leaves classes of the smaller children in the care of his older and more apt pupils.

He says favorite subjects with the children are drawing and singing. When they sing, they are so naturally sensitive to pitch, rarely is any one of them out of tune.

As a return for his teaching, Trudinger has picked a fund of information from the children about birds, animals and bushcraft.

MAY PRODUCE PERSIAN LAMB

SYDNEY, Australia — Persian lamb, one of the luxuries of the fur trade, may soon be produced in Australia, according to experts investigating the possibility of introducing the karakul into this country. Persian lamb is a fashion favorite with Australian women, and karakul, from which the pelts are obtained, thrive in semi-desert country. Sponsors of the new project claim that the animal, a cross between a sheep and a goat, would flourish on many waste areas of the Northern Territory, thus making those areas productive. Interior Minister Johnson has decided to consider a definite plan for putting the scheme into operation. Promoters are considering importing stud stock from South Africa, Persia or France, and are prepared to spend substantial sums if suitable land can be secured. Meanwhile, feminine hopes run high.

Flights to Japan Keep Airmen Busy

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — Nearly 250,000 miles have been flown by No. 41 Squadron, Royal New Zealand Air Force, since March in maintaining the only direct link between New Zealand and the Dominion's occupation force in Japan. In spite of exceedingly unstable weather which prevails over this route, a difficult one for flying, the squadron has had to jettison only one mail load. Several typhoons have been encountered, necessitating the diversion of the aircraft to landing places far off their course. The normal route has been from Auckland, New Zealand, to Norfolk Island, Brisbane, Cloncurry and Darwin, in northern Australia, and the islands of Morotai, Laoag and Okinawa, to Kanoya, in Japan. The squadron's Dakotas have carried 15,000 pounds in passenger weight, 65,000 pounds of mail and 14,000 pounds of freight.
