HUNDREDS ATTEND EDUCATION GOOD SPEECHES, PROGRAM

Mr. Mackenzie King stated that, given a long enough using a strong enough fulcrum, he could move the world. Using the proper kind of education to cause a social revolution that would indeed move the world. So said J. M. Clark in his opening address at the National Education Week public meeting held last evening in the auditorium of the Civic Centre before an audience of upwards of 700 citizens. He went on to stress the power of education to shape the future of the world. But education required the support of the people and in this connection he was extremely gratified at the splendid turnout of citizens who thus showed their interest in education. Other speakers were Norton Youngs, who spoke on the part (Continued on Page 5)

Would From Hotel

VANCOUVER (CP)—Old Vancouver Hotel, "seized" by homeless war veterans last January, was back in the news today as its more than 1,400 occupants govt. eviction notices and promptly replied that they would "fight" the order. Canadian Pacific Railway, owners of the building, advised Thursday that the lease will not be renewed because the structure may be sold. The veterans, who have been given six months to seek new accommodations, will hold a mass meeting Sunday to "protest" the dictatorial attitude of the C.P.R. Major Oscar Erickson, president of the Vancouver Citizens' Rehabilitation Council, will fly to Ottawa next week in an effort to induce Canadian Pacific and government officials to have the decision to terminate the lease on the old hotel reconsidered.

LEAVING FOR HERE TONIGHT

Due to arrive here at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in the course of her maiden voyage, the new Union steamer Coquitlam is leaving Vancouver at 9 o'clock tonight and, on the way north will call at Namu, Bella Bella and Butedale. She will leave Prince Rupert at midnight Sunday for Port Simpson and Stewart. During the afternoon and evening there will be "open house" on the ship. The Coquitlam, formerly the Castle Class corvette Leaside, was converted during recent months at West Coast Shipbuilders yard in Vancouver for coastal service. Her length is 252 feet and beam 36 feet. Her top speed is sixteen knots but, under normal running conditions, she will steam about fourteen which will make her a faster vessel than any of the Union vessels to date. Navigational equipments include radar, echo sounder and other modern devices. Coquitlam, which replaces the Catala on the weekly schedule to Prince Rupert and Stewart, has 100 first class berths including twenty-five rooms with special de luxe accommodation. Similar to the Coquitlam is the Camosun, a sister ship, which is arriving here November 22 from Vancouver on a new northern schedule to Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

FINE RECORD OF GOVERNMENT ACHIEVEMENT IS EMPHASIZED

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has achieved postwar prosperity in spite of heavy financial commitments during the war, Finance Minister J. L. Isley said in a radio address. He said: "We have paid huge costs of war fairly, honestly and safely. We have put veterans and war workers back into employment and achieved postwar prosperity. We are reducing taxes and, despite continuing war and demobilization expenditures, we have made so much progress in reducing expenditures that we have a good chance this year of balancing the budget. We have held prices in check during the war."

FIRE AND PORTUGAL

Canada Thinks They Should Be Admitted to United Nations
LAKE SUCCESS, New York (CP)—The Canadian delegation to the United Nations general assembly criticized the action of the security council in rejecting applications for membership of Eire and Portugal and supported an Egyptian motion to send these applications back to the council for reconsideration. After Canada's presentation, Chairman Manulsky gained approval for the appointment of a sub-committee to draft a single proposal to cover objectives contained in several which he presented and to report back.

ART TREASURES REPORTED SAFE

So Says High Official of Roman Catholic Church as Well as Polish Spokesman
TORONTO—A Toronto newspaper last night quoted a high official of the Roman Catholic Church, whose name it did not disclose, as saying that the Polish art treasures, supposed to be missing in Canada where they had been brought for safekeeping, were safe and would be held until it was established that the present Polish government was the rightful owner. A Polish official was quoted as saying that the treasures were in safe hands and the Russians would never get them.

Quitting Albania

United States Sees No Useful Purpose in Retaining Its Mission There
WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Department of State today announced recall of the American political representative in Albania because of that government's unwillingness to recognize the validity of existing pacts with United States. The announcement said that the "government has concluded that the American mission can no longer serve any useful purpose by remaining in Albania." George D. Henderson, American representative at Tirana, and his staff of eight will leave immediately for the United States.

Was Determined to Take His Own Life

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police investigation indicates that Stanley E. Eisenman, 23-year old Army veteran, who leaped to his death from the fourth storey window of a downtown hotel on Wednesday, first tried to hang himself and then slashed his throat. After balancing for five minutes on a window ledge, he finally made the death leap. Eisenman had been discharged from the Army in 1942 and is said to have brooded over his failure to get overseas.

SNAG CREEK ENTRY POINT

OTTAWA (CP)—Announcing yesterday that shipment of goods "in bond" over the Alaska Highway had been authorized, the Canadian government said that the new arrangement was implementation of an undertaking given by Canada when it gave United States authorization to build the highway. Snag Creek, Yukon Territory, is designated as one of the ports of entry.

CHIANG ORDERS CHINESE TRUCE

"Cease Fire" Instructions Issued by Generalissimo
NANKING—Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek today announced that he had issued orders for all government troops to cease fire, except as it is necessary to protect their present positions. The truce order is designed to eliminate the Communists' principal argument against participating in the national assembly scheduled to open on Tuesday to revise China's constitution. The truce ordered was issued as Chiang's troops had crushed Communist opposition in much of China and found them victoriously circling the Russian-occupied port of Dairen, fighting bitterly to capture Chefoo and Shantung provinces, and approaching Antung at the Manchuria-Korea border. The order followed weeks of hopeless deadlock as the Communists refused to negotiate on government terms. The newspaper Hsin Min Pao said: "It is entirely in accord with the government's desire for peace."

Trade Dep't Issues Order

Minister Gives Blessing to Port—May Be Permanently Helpful
A decision which will vitally affect the export of foodstuffs from Prince Rupert to strike-starved Alaska cities and which may give the "Green light" to a possible permanent export trade from Prince Rupert to Alaska was received today from Trade and Commerce Minister James A. MacKinnon, by E. T. Applewhaite, secretary of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce. The decision, sent by telegram to Mr. Applewhaite, allows exporters to submit applications for export permits, listing goods which they propose to ship during any three months period. The decision of the Minister, according to Mr. Applewhaite, contradicts a ruling of the processing officer for the export permits branch, which up to the present time has forced local wholesalers to give a detailed report of each shipment made, a slow and costly process which local shippers have objected to. In removing the obstruction from the paths of local wholesalers who are endeavoring to establish Prince Rupert as an export port for goods going to Alaska, the Minister of Trade and Commerce gave his direct blessing with the words that "We appreciate the possibility of developing the Alaskan trade and will do everything possible to facilitate your exporters within the limits of available supplies." Here is the text of Hon. Mr. MacKinnon's telegram in answer to a protest lodged recently by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce: "Suggest interested exporters submit by airmail export permit applications listing goods which they propose to ship in any three-month period. Not necessary to obtain individual permits covering each individual shipment. We appreciate possibility of developing Alaskan trade through Prince Rupert and will do everything possible to facilitate your exporters within the limit of available supplies. Regret cannot give you unlimited approval in advance of specific information covering commodities and quantities." Chamber of Commerce Secretary Applewhaite expressed his enthusiasm for the prospects of developing Alaska trade through this port which is contained in the Trade and Commerce Minister's telegram. "It looks as though American ships will be tied up for a long time and this could give us the 'green light' to start not only an active export business from here for the time being, but also might be the basis of a permanent export trade," Mr. Applewhaite said. "Alaskans are getting pretty fed up with being at the mercy of Seattle, and some of them, at least, welcome the idea of trading through Prince Rupert," he added. At the present time, several Prince Rupert businessmen are in Ketchikan arranging for shipments of food and other goods. Mr. Applewhaite felt that with the removal of this one export obstruction, which the Chamber of Commerce has championed, the possibility of establishing a $500,000-a-year export trade through Prince Rupert to Alaska would only be a start. "It could develop to tremendous proportions, and do a lot to relieve this port from its dependency on grain shipments and United Kingdom shipping subsidies," he said confidently.

Education Week

November 4-9

(By a Teacher)

Education Week is an appropriate time to take stock of the achievements and shortcomings of our schools and other institutions concerned with the training of our young people. As educators we should all—parents, teachers and any who have the instructing and guiding of youth as their responsibility—examine the situation as it exists and face up to it squarely. What have we achieved. Where have we failed? What can be done about it?

The charge is frequently made—and with some justification—that our High School graduates are ignorant and can in no way lay claim to being educated people. Where does the fault lie? Certainly not in the curriculum. That weighty document is a magnificent survey of human knowledge in a wide number of fields. Anyone mastering all the information therein could qualify for a job on the "Stump the Experts" program. Perhaps we try to teach too much. It would be easy to place the blame on the teachers. It is true that some are incompetent but most are hard-working, conscientious, and interested in their jobs. They are, perhaps, more bewildered than most people at the failure of education to "take" in their young charges. They know the effort that has been put into it by the educators. It is possible that some of the fault may lie in inadequate equipment, especially in school libraries. The day when the teacher was supposed to carry the entire fund of human knowledge in his head has gone. More reading to supplement what is taught by the teacher is needed. Few school libraries are sufficiently equipped for this purpose.

The writer feels that the indifference of young people to formal education and their reluctance to acquire knowledge lies in the attitude of the general public to such matters. Perfunctory interest on the part of the elders is not enough. Children are very quick to sense what is real and what is assumed. When the people a child admires most read nothing but "whodunits" and listen to mountain music to the exclusion of all else, he cannot be expected to know or care whether Shakespeare wrote "Hamlet" or to enjoy listening to a "Beethoven Symphony. Young people, especially those in their teens, will adopt and make their own anything they feel to be socially acceptable and approved by those who are their models at the moment. The right attitudes towards education may be fostered by having and reading good books in the home, by discussing world affairs and encouraging young people to have ideas on them, even if they do seem far-fetched to the adult mind. Listening to good music in the home and helping the children to understand it will arouse interest. It is important to realize that everything cannot be left to the school for the adolescent the school is the task-master and, therefore, its teachings are to be avoided and forgotten as soon as examinations are over. The impetus to learn must come from society and for that reason the failure of our children to be well-informed is the responsibility of us all.

HIGH SCHOOL WAS VISITED

Seventy-five parents and friends visited Booth Memorial High School on Wednesday afternoon for the open day in connection with National Education Week. The various classrooms were toured and obvious interest displayed in what was going on. Principal W. W. C. O'Neill received the visitors and half a dozen senior girls acted as registrants and guides. Refreshments were served in the home economics room.

TELLS ABOUT RATION WORK

Butter Described to Rotary Club as "Real Problem Child"

How to assure that 12,000,000 Canadians get sufficient food-stuffs in the face of critical supply shortages was the subject of a speech Thursday afternoon by Eric Hargreave, of Winnipeg, chief ration administrator for the Prices Board, before the weekly luncheon meeting of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club.

Biggest job which faced the rationing administration, according to Mr. Hargreave, was the issuing of 12,000,000 ration books at six months' intervals during the war and the Number Six ration book earlier this year.

"I hope that the Number Six book will be the last one issued. It provides for quite a period of time," he said.

Canada's rationing set-up consists of headquarters in Montreal and 26 branch offices throughout Canada. In addition there were established 600 local ration boards. These ration boards often had several distributing centres for ration books, so that, when a new one was issued, it reached the people through 12,000 outlets.

"In each of these distributing centres there were as many as nine volunteer workers, so that there were at times 100,000 people giving their services free. To those people who gave their services in this community, I offer the thanks of the rationing administration," he said.

Looking over the future of rationed commodities, Mr. Hargreave described butter as the "real problem child." The Alberta farmers' strike last summer and the slaughter of a large number of dairy cattle because high beef prices in 1944 has resulted in a tenuous supply of butter.

He forecast an improved situation in sugar, with increases to industrial users. However, because of war damage to Philippine and East Indian cane fields, it will be the summer of 1947 before the world sugar supply is normal.

Fats and oils shortage will be relieved to some degree this

FINISHED WITH LADY RODNEY

Canadian National to Get Vessel Back Next Week—Fine War Record

MONTREAL—When the Lady Rodney docks in Halifax next week with nearly 200 Canadian servicemen's wives and children from overseas, it will mark the end of her war service, the Canadian National Steamships reported here today. The Lady Rodney, which is scheduled to arrive on Thursday, will be immediately turned back to the Canadian National Steamships by the Department of National Defence. The release of the liner will leave but two ships, the Samaria and the Empire Brent, in repatriation service.

Taken over by the government in June, 1942, the former C.N.S. peacetime luxury cruiser to the West Indies became a troop transport. Since that time she has travelled almost 170,000 miles between Canada, Newfoundland and Labrador and the United Kingdom and in several trips between England, Rotterdam and Antwerp. Much of it was logged when German submarines were desperately trying to choke off the flow of men and munitions going overseas. The Lady Rodney carried almost 67,000 persons in this service. Except for month or in December as a result of the recent importation of quantities of fets from the Argentine. Shortening, the speaker said, probably will be more available later this month.

Our Widening Hinterland

THE COLORFUL M.L.A. from the riding of Cariboo, which is the heart of British Columbia's cow country in addition to being noted as a rich gold field and a mecca for big game hunters and tourists, reminded the Prince Rupert Gyro Club in an address this week of just how much the Prince Rupert Highway has done as it were to reduce distances, because of the less time involved in travel and the readier and more convenient access, and of how the hinterland of this port of ours has been extended thereby.

Cariboo, only a few short years ago, seemed to us one of those romantic, luring parts of the province which it was almost impossible for us to see because it was so remote of access. Now, as Mr. Lebourdais suggests, Prince Rupert people can get over there in little more than a good day's driving, if one wants to speed up a bit. He invites us to stop over and pay a visit with the hospitable Cariboo folk the next time we go by that way. What goes for the Cariboo applies to the nearer districts which the highway opens up to us.

Incidentally, Mr. Lebourdais is one of those who believes that the extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Prince George and on into the Peace River would be of benefit to Prince Rupert through making it possible to bring the Peace River grain that much closer to us on the northern line of the Canadian National Railways. Many Prince Rupert people, of course, are not satisfied that the Peace River railway outlet should be that way. Meantime, no less a person than Premier Hart himself tells us that the government is determined to extend the Pacific Great Eastern to the Peace River.

At the same time we would still do well to continue pressing for the Peace River outlet, something about which it is a pity there has been so little support so far for the few enthusiastic advocates. The outlet is the thing and we had better show some enthusiasm about it, some way or other. The Hazelton route has a good deal of surveying yet to be done.

CANADA'S POSITION

IT IS TIMELY that the Finance Minister, Mr. Ilsley, should have enumerated some of the fine economic accomplishments of the Mackenzie King government. If the government has failed in one thing, it has been in emphasizing by publicity its accomplishments. At the same time, its opponents have in season and out berated it, possibly some times quite unjustly, and the rejoinders have been pitifully weak or lacking altogether when they might have been mighty strong. All Canadians have been proud of Canada's fine war record of production and economic stability. Now Mr. Ilsley fittingly reminds us that we have been coming through the postwar period very creditably indeed. We have but to compare ourselves with any other nation in the world to agree with him.

A concise dispatch appearing today on the front page refers to some of the factors in Canada's economic postwar picture which we may view with satisfaction and give credit to the administration—even if we have had to pay for through the nose by the way of continued heavy taxation which irritates us all.

FEDERAL COALITION

PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING, judging from the tone of a statement on the matter in a press interview at Ottawa yesterday, does not appear to be spurning the idea of a coalition government. He does not like it but admits that "under certain circumstances," it might appear advisable. Possibly, the results of the recent by-elections have mellowed his views on the subject of "going it alone."

On the other hand, the heartened Progressive-Conservatives appear a little bolder as evidenced by Mr. Diefenbaker's latest statement that the party is "on the way back" as Canada's next government.

In view of political trends in the federal field, it would not be unlikely if the idea of coalition would come in for some serious consideration.

As evidence of the low cost of daily newspaper advertising, one classified advertisement in an American metropolitan daily costing only $3.50, sold a $45,000 building.

Francis Williams, public relations advisor to Prime Minister Atlee, has suggested that membership in the United Nations: "Should be limited to those countries that guarantee freedom of information and news."

SIX MILLS ON BABINE LAKE

Typical of the booming lumber production activity which is to be seen throughout the interior of country these days in supplying a keen market demand, no less than six mills are at present operating on Pendleton Bay, Babine Lake, it was reported Wednesday by Louis Lebourdais, M.L.A. for Cariboo, who has become interested in that area where his two sons are establishing themselves in ranching. Twenty-five truckloads of lumber are being hauled out, daily over a fine road to Burns Lake where and at Decker Lake a good deal of it is planned before shipment.

REMEMBER THEM ON

REMEMBRANCE DAY

... BUY A POPPY!

THAT little red poppy which makes its annual debut on November 11th, that little flower of lacquered muslin and silk, has an intriguing background.

Manufactured in Montreal and Toronto at Vetcraft shops, the work is done by the skilled hands of disabled veterans who are unable through their disabilities to compete in the commercial market. Some work in the shops while others, too handicapped to leave their homes, do the job propped up in bed.

A simple looking thing, that poppy, but each individual one is shaped and produced by skilled workmen.

Said one "old sweat" of nigh three-score years, "There was a time when I hated the sight of that Flanders Poppy. We saw 'em when they were real, and to us they represented a graveyard flower. Now, bless 'em, they are the means of my livelihood."

And this is true. To quote a number of ex-servicemen, it is their only form of income. The horrors of war reach far into the years, and the body and brain of man can stand only so much punishment.

Many of the veterans discharged apparently physically fit in 1919 began to crack up in later years. That Jerrie "whiz-bang" which exploded so near Mons, it didn't seem to do much damage then. Those nights of sleeping in bone-chilling mud... a tot of rum seemed to fix things up at the time. But as time and age crept on it took its toll. It wasn't a thing that one could pin down and prove for a pension, but it was there just the same.

And so in 1923, under the Soldiers Civil Re-establishment setup, the first Vetcraft shop bloomed and blossomed forth poppies, so that the people of Canada could contribute and help these men and their dependents.

Remember Valour

By Winifred O. Brass

We bring you Poppies with the falling leaves
 Of Autumn, midst the dirge of dying year,
 To breathe a silent message to your ear
 Of Hope and Promise to the heart that grieves.

Flame softly, scarlet Poppies of November,
 Speak of our Hero Dead of two Great Wars,
 Who rest forever with their wounds and scars,
 Yet live immortally. Bid us Remember!

Flame softly, Flanders Poppies! Let your ranks
 Of gorgeous colour whisper 'Peace through tears'

And, in the quiet of the falling years,
 May we remember Valour and give thanks.

CEDRIC MAH WAS SCARED

"I was never so scared in my life." This from an ordinary person may not be noteworthy but from Capt. Cedric Mah it is a different story.

Cedric Mah was pilot of a transport plane for two years flying supplies over the Himalayas from India to China during the war. It was he who ordered his crew to jettison everything movable from the plane when it became iced and was losing altitude over the hump and, with everything else, went four hundred and thirty-three million dollars in currency. The crew was prepared to jump but managed to get the plane over safely.

Cedric Mah was on a hunting trip at Francois Lake recently and was wearing a cartridge belt filled with shot gun shells. He was leaning against an electric wall switch when one of the shells exploded harmlessly. It was then that he was never so scared in his life.

Captain Albert Mah, Cedric's brother, was also a pilot and he flew behind the Japanese lines 80 miles from Canton City and carried out his sister to safety.

There are five Mah brothers, all born in Prince Rupert.
