M. Sheppard, pictured above, skipper of SS Catala of the Union Steamship fleet, has the new radar installation recently placed in his vessel. This set is in the wheelhouse and a second repeater set has been installed on the bridge. The device, which was in use on six vessels of the Union Steamships and its subsidiary, Frank Waterhouse Company (Canada) Limited, fleet as soon as possible. It will be of value in dense fog, rough seas and narrow northern channels, particularly in narrow northern channels where wind, rain, fog or snow can effect its operation and it is infallible. Company received word of its practical use when SS Southholm of the Waterhouse fleet, first of the new set, ran into fog off the West Coast of Vancouver Island. The device was of great value on this occasion.

Treaty Talks with Defeated Nations In View In Spite Of Molotov Objection

PARIS — The Paris peace conference, stalled for nine days by a series of bitter controversies over procedure rules, got down to business today with indication that treaty talks with five former enemy states might be begun within 48 hours.

The 21 participating nations received proposals of procedure drafted by the rules committee, and speedy acceptance was a foregone conclusion, despite an objection raised by Russia.

Dr. H. V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs told the peace conference today that Russia is attempting to enforce the same veto power in the conference as he enjoys at the foreign ministers' council.

Evatt spoke after Molotov had thrown the conference into unexpected turmoil by re-opening the once-settled question of voting procedure with the declaration that the Russian delegation cannot agree to the Rules Committee decision on the question.

Salvage Ship At Falmouth

FALMOUTH, England — The collision-battered United States merchant ship American Farmer reached Falmouth today under her own power, but was still the centre of a stormy salvage controversy.

Officials refused to permit newspapermen board the 8,000 ton freighter which had collided with another American merchant ship several hundred miles off the English coast last week.

The American Farmer was abandoned on the high seas after the collision and was taken in tow by the British steamer Elizabeth. Later American seamen from the ship American Ranger boarded the Farmer, and cut the Elizabeth's tow line.

The British Ministry of Transport has filed salvage claims against the Farmer and her cargo, valued at $4,500,000.

ARABS TURN DOWN PARLEY

JERUSALEM —Lieut. General Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner, said today that Palestine Arab leaders had turned down an invitation to round table talks in London on the future of the Holy Land.

His statement said that the Arabs also had raised questions of reported government plans to halt unauthorized Jewish immigration into Palestine, and of the release of Arab political prisoners. The statement gave no details of these questions.

WHEAT FUTURES CURB HELD RISK TO FLOUR MILLS

CHICAGO—Absence of futures trading in wheat on the nation's grain exchanges was seen as creating a financial risk to corporations which turn wheat into flour for bread, cakes and similar foods.

Harry Bullis, president of General Mills, Inc., in his annual report to stockholders, just issued, said "until such time as futures trading is again established on a normal basis, it may be necessary to assume a larger than normal hazard in connection with price changes."

Mr. Bullis explained that, "in order to minimize the risk from price fluctuations, it has been the policy to hedge unfilled flour sales and grain and flour inventories."

"Government regulations, however, have made wheat futures trading insecure or forced its discontinuance on the various grain exchanges, through which such hedging operations are conducted."

Grain men explained that "hedging" of wheat works in this fashion:

Mills, elevators and other companies and individuals engaged in the grain business purchase wheat from producers. These buyers must necessarily keep the grain on hand for considerable periods.

In order to protect themselves against any price decline they sell wheat futures "short" on grain exchanges. Thus, if the price of wheat declines, the loss they take on their grain inventories is fairly well equalized by the gain they make on their future contracts.

Over a long period of years, the Chicago Board of Trade has provided the largest market for wheat futures trading, but at TERRACE (Special to the Daily News) —Associated Boards of Trade of Northern B.C. and Alaska endorsed a Prince Rupert resolution seeking installation of aids to navigation in Hecate Strait, particularly at Bonilla Island, during the opening session this morning. With 60 delegates from 20 communities present the convention was opened by President J. T. Harvey and the delegates were welcomed by Emil Haugland, chairman of the Terrace Board of Village Commissioners.

Regrets were received from Hon. Ian Mackenzie and Hon. J. A. MacKinnon and others at their inability to attend. Special guests included Mayor Daggett of Prince Rupert and Reg. Rose, Executive Secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

A Smithers resolution for a large scale rural electrification scheme for Central B.C. also was endorsed as well as a resolution calling for restoration of a 1945 bounty system on wolves and coyotes. Rehabilitation of the Yukon Telegraph Trail from Hazelton through the Naas River and Telegraph Creek regions for the benefit of prospectors and others was also called for.

Other resolution approved: (1) Utilization of war-established airports at Vanderhoof, Smithers, Terrace and Prince Rupert, for airmail from Prince George to Prince Rupert. Submitted by Terrace.

William Baker, editor of the Ketchikan Chronicle proposed that these airports might be part of a short-haul chain for civilian and amateur flying from the United States to South-

WHAT OF SMALL TOWN?

GOVERNMENTAL and industrial policies have always tended in the past to draw the people of this Dominion to the large cities.

Everything has been done to make the big city an almost irresistible magnet, especially for the younger folk.

These policies are not sound. They have created an unbalanced economy and retarded the progress of the small towns and villages.

The big cities are overcrowded as are their homes, and a continuous shortage of houses exists. Industrial expansion in concentrated areas has brought labor disturbances and unrest. Slums, poverty, filthy disease, crime and juvenile delinquency are features common to every large city.

Albeit, too, the cities provide higher educational and cultural opportunities to both young and old at little cost; fine parks and playgrounds, cathedrals and churches, theatres, and good music, concrete roads and sidewalks where the social instincts of mankind are gratified as they jostle each other in the passing crowds, brilliantly lighted streets and shops, cheap transportation by bus or tram, good water and sewerage systems, pleasant clubs and pretentious homes for the wealthy, and mail delivered to the home or business once, twice or three times a day.

Every economist and student of our post-war problems, especially those concerned with maintaining full employment, has recommended the decentralization of industry and population. Not much has been done about it excepting by the Province of British Columbia which has made a good start by creating a Power Commission to develop industrial power and rural electrification, and by pushing the Peace River and the Hope-Princeton highways towards completion and in surveying for a railway to the Peace.

The Dominion and the province can and should do a great deal more to decentralize the population in the big cities and give more services to the small towns. Here are two matters we will mention:

Why should the big cities which pay the same 4 cents for their stamps as do those in the small towns and villages get a free mail delivery, while the citizens in the latter places have to walk long distances to pick up their mail? Government monopolies are advocated and advanced because they are said to be for "service, not for profit." But there is mighty little service given in the small towns by the government monopolies, be they post offices or railways.

Prince Rupert organizations should continue to press for a mail delivery service for this and other smaller cities and towns. In fact we see no justifiable reason for not giving mail delivery in the village communities too, especially those that are incorporated.

The province, too, might well be supported in its regional planning even though it continues on a modest scale. Regional planning is only a preliminary to regional development. This should be expanded under the Department of Trade and Industry with the objective of cataloguing every opportunity in every hamlet of every region of the province. Then by advertising in a big way inform people of these opportunities, thereby activating them into the creation of new wealth and employment and counteracting the attractiveness they have so long encouraged of the big cities.

Charm of Old Mexican Town Feels Inroads of Modernity

CUERNAVACA, Mexico — The charming city of Cuernavaca, lying peacefully in the extensive plain of Morelos, is losing some of its former enchantment, many people are saying these days. For the unprecedented prosperity of Mexico, making many wealthy persons, eager to spend their newly acquired riches, is reflected in the living and appearance of the town, where a new generation has brought a new point of view.

The city fathers, foreseeing an ever-increasing tourist trade of Mexicans as well as foreign visitors, pulled up the old cobblestones that for centuries did service, replacing them with asphalt—thus facilitating travel, but by so much, taking away something of the old charm.

Then businessmen with foresight realized that the time had come to build a really modern and luxurious motion picture house. So now, facing the little park, is the Ocampo building in modern, massive architectural style.

Just why the younger Mexican architects design buildings of such massive proportions that in no way reflect the old mood of Cuernavaca is not clear. Perhaps they feel they have exhausted the motifs of the original colonial style that at first proved attractive to visitors. More likely, they have fallen under the spell of industrialization which is sweeping Mexico today.

The contrast between the modern Ocampo and the buildings of colonial design is the more pronounced as just across the park stands the historic Bella Vista Hotel. This hotel was the special target for the rebels of the 1910 revolution.

New and luxurious hotels are springing up, designed to cater to more exacting demands of people with money to spend.

Following the revolution, Cuernavaca lived in obscurity. It was not till the former United States Ambassador to Mexico, Dwight Morrow, chose the place for his residence that it began to emerge again.

There still survive in Cuernavaca many traces of its former beauty and charm. The Borda Gardens survive, although deteriorating. It was here that Emperor Maximilian and Empress Charlotte spent many happy hours during their brief and tragic reign, enjoying from the vantage point of a summer house, the beauty of the vast plain of Morelos, with its verdant distant hills and its fleeting shadows.

The palace Hernan Cortez built to command a view of the snow mountain, Popocatepetl, is still in use for the government offices. But it is sought especially by tourists, who want to view its famed Rivera murals, depicting scenes from the revolution, and showing the rebel leader Zapata mounted on a superb white charger. The hills round about the town abound with legendary lore.

BAPTIST PASTOR FROM STATES IS VISITING CITY

Members of First Baptist Church was pleasantly surprised at their mid-week prayer service in the attendance of Rev. and Mrs. Ernest O. Forde of Sunnyside Baptist Church, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Forde, also of the same city.

The two brothers and their wives, who are on holiday and enjoying the return trip to Ketchikan, made their way to the church where they were warmly welcomed by Rev. Mr. Dick, and became the guest speaker of the evening.

Rev. Mr. Forde, now in his fourteenth year in his present pastorate, was formerly of Toronto, and then of Lethbridge, Alberta. Taking the ministry of the prophet Jeremiah as his theme, he presented a stimulating devotional.

His brother, also an able speaker and an active member of the Gideon Society briefly outlined the source, and the service rendered by this organization.

It originated on a Sunday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A., Jamesville, Wis. It held two members only, John A. Nicholson and Samuel Hill, one of whom took office as president, and the other as secretary. Sometime later, the membership swelled to three, when H. J. Knight joined himself to them. Not young in years at the time of so vigorous an undertaking, only one of these three patriots of the Gideons, John A. Nicholson, survives today. Aged and content, he sees a dream fulfilled.

But from such humble beginnings the movement grew rapidly as business men of various denominations joined its membership and found a field and outlet for their zeal.

In 1908 they commenced placing Bibles in hotels. In so doing, they reached where the churches could not, for abiding denominational regulations set up by hotel authorities did not supply to the Gideons.

Dispensers increased, and in a few years Bibles were placed in sanitoriums, institutions of various natures, even the state jails.

However, the peak of their endeavour was perhaps reached

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY VISITS BANFF—Author Christopher Morley was deeply interested in the Stony Indian tribe which was holding its annual celebrations at Banff in the Canadian Rockies when the rector of "Kitty Foyle" and other well-known authors visited there. during the war, when nine million copies of the New Testament (with the Psalms in addition) was placed in the hands of the armed forces.

Mr. Forde expressed the realization that many of these Bibles are never read. But some are. He told of one instance where a man semi-drunk, and in a cheap hotel knocked the Bible to the floor. Groping for it, he found it open. He read—and received—and the course of his whole life was altered.

That man, Paul Myres, is better known as First Mate Bob, heard weekly on the network program, "The Haven of Rest." Through radio, First Mate Bob reaches out, inspiring to thousands to protect the Word of God—but

In closing Mr. Forde made a pertinent statement. "We are not endeavouring," he said, "to protect the Word of God—but to project it."

BOYS HAVING GREAT TIME

Clarence Thomson Tells of Life at Lakelse Lake—Lads Having Jaunt Today

Second group of Prince Rupert Kinsmen's Club boys' campers are nearing the completion of their two weeks' stay at Lakelse Lake and are regretfully thinking of turning homeward on Sunday when they will give place to the third and last group which leaves that day for Lakelse Lake.

Clarence Thomson, one of the committee members, returned home today after an inspection of the camp and reports the boys having a "whale of a time" to put it in his own words.

One of the highlights of the camp was a two and a half mile hike today, under the leadership of Camp Director "Curley" Casey to the Lakelse Hoj Springs and on to the old hatchery up the creek to which Forest Ranger S. G. Cooper acted as guide.

"To see the boys happy and in action in the camp is ample reward for the Kinsmen of Prince Rupert," concluded Mr. Thomson

WOMEN HELP REAP VEGETABLE CROP

City Women Busy Saving Late-Ripening

It looked like a combination—un-weather and a labor family, after a dry hot week, it rained and was the help better than men. Peter Daman of the Co-operative Vegetable and Potato Growers Association, says in some respects the women have proved far better than men. "Men can handle machines better but when it comes to the little jobs that require patience, I'll take a woman. They are more careful and proficient at weeding and hoeing." Their work is far from done. Later on there will be harvesting and the women intend to see the job through.

Headmaster Says Clubs Dangerous

WOODFORD, Essex, Eng. (P)—Youth clubs can be a "serious menace" to schools because they distract children from interest in school work. Sydney Adams, headmaster of Baneroff Grammar School, said here. "Youth work is dangerous, not only because it absorbs time, but it distracts the mind from what should be its main task—work," he said.

SENIOR MATRIC TUITION FEE SET AT $12

Senior matriculation tuition fees of $12 a month will be charged for students taking those courses at Booth Memorial High School this year, the Prince Rupert District School Board decided at a meeting last night. A senior matric class of eight students is expected to study here this year, reviving the advanced high school course here for the first time in many terms.

The board named Chairman Dr. R. G. Large and Secretary Mrs. M. M. Roper to be its official delegates at the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees Association to be held in Prince George September 3-4-5.

Continuing with its plan to enlarge Booth High School grounds the board authorized the employment of M. Saunders to level off

Sweden Censors News of Rockets

STOCKHOLM—A limited censorship has been imposed on information concerning unidentified missiles—believed to be flying bombs or rockets—which have been sighted over Swedish territory in recent weeks. Authorities have banned the publication of names of localities where the missiles have been sighted and newspapers have been required to use the dateline "Somewhere in Sweden" when writing about the subject.

MONTADOR NEW KINSMEN HEAD

At an election of officers, necessitated by the departure on August 19 of President William Jarnson for Prince George, the Prince Rupert Kinsmen Club elected former vice-president Robert E. Montador to be its new president last night, elevating former Sergeant-at-Arms Alex Armstrong to the vice-presidency.

The new Sergeant-at-Arms is Stewart Johnson.

At the dinner meeting, held in the Commodore Cafe, plans were laid for a Kin picnic at Lakelse Lake on Labor Day. The full club membership with their wives will be asked to attend. Part of the outing will take the form of a working bee to tear down the Kin boys' summer camp which will close at the end of August.

The meeting also discussed publicity features for the club's Port Queen candidate.

Guest at the meeting was G. T. Durkin.

TOP COMEDY AND ROMANCE COMES TO CAPITOL

The advent of a new romantic team in the movies is always watched by the fans with intense interest. Consequently, the news that Rosalind Russell and Lee Bowman are the new heart interest in Columbia Pictures' comedy, "She Wouldn't Say Yes," the heralded racy, embrace story coming to the Capitol Theatre Friday and Saturday should be of great interest.

Telling the humorous story of a psychanalyst (Miss Russell) who has to be cured herself of inhibitions about love, "She Wouldn't Say Yes" is said to give not only the stars every opportunity for hilarious behavior, but also to furnish the supporting cast with neat and tight bits of characterization seldom found in a story of this type.

Charles Winninger, famed on stage, screen and radio as the captain of "Show Boat," plays Rosalind's doctor father and is reported to give one of his usual comic performances as he helps Lee Bowman win Rosalind's heart.

Adele Jergens, remembered for her exotic performance in the recent "Thousand and One Nights," is said to have another glamorous role as Allura, a South American dancer (from Brooklyn). It is she whose curse Rosalind undertakes and thus brings about her own upsetting experience.

And then there's the Nixie, imaginary imp who influences people to do what they want to do. He, according to the snoopers, is going to rival the "pikilled" sisters in movie fame.

RAILWAY PLANS 8-MILE TUNNEL

JOHANNESBURG — An eight-mile railway tunnel, longest in Africa, will be included in plans for the re-routing of the rail line from Johannesburg to Capetown, Railway Minister F. C. Sturrock told the House of Assembly.

The tunnel, part of a £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) improvement program, will connect the Karoo plateau with the fruit-growing valleys of the Western province. Four other tunnels, each about a half-mile in length, are included in the plan which will take about five years to complete.
