Contention that the provincial government should assume the full cost of hospitalization and that it should also share with the municipalities revenues derived from the sale of liquor, pari-mutuel earnings and motor vehicle licenses was the substance of the brief presented to the Goldenberg commission by S. PRINCE RUPERT MADE DIVISIONAL HEADQUARTERS SALVATION ARMY; BRIGADIER GILLINGHAM IN CHARGE

Prince Rupert is to be made the administrative headquarters for all of British Columbia from Ocean Falls north to the border of the province and from the coast through to the Alberta boundary including all of central British Columbia. Brigadier Joseph T. Gillingham arrived in the city at the week-end from Windsor, Ontario, to be in charge of the new divisional office.

Brigadier Gillingham who has taken up residence with Mrs. Gillingham in the Killas & Christopher Apartments, is no stranger to Prince Rupert, having for five years been divisional commander for Northern British Columbia and Alaska until that division was closed down two years ago, Alaska being since administered from San Francisco and Northern British Columbia until now from Vancouver.

Two of Brigadier and Mrs. Gillingham's sons are also in Army service. Their eldest son, Clifton, has been with Army War Services in Europe and is still in Germany. He was former bandmaster of the Citadel Band at Vancouver. Their second son is Capt. Cyril Gillingham of Portage la Prairie. Their third son, Reg, is back with the Royal Bank of Canada at Vancouver after active war service with Royal Canadian Air Force.

'New Deal' in Social Service, Taxation and Justice Costs Urged in This City's Brief

City's Document Read Before Goldenberg Royal Provincial-Municipal Commission

Claims for revision of existing conditions in regard to municipal taxation of provincially-owned property, social service costs, administration of justice, and government grants were contained in Prince Rupert's brief presented to H. Carl Goldenberg, Royal Commissioner investigating provincial-municipal relations, this morning.

The brief, prepared by City Clerk H. D. Thain, was presented to M. Goldenberg by Mayor H. M. Daggett in the provincial court room at 10 o'clock today.

The recommendations followed a preliminary outline of the physical and financial background of this city, included in the 11-page brief to acquaint the Royal Commissioner with the roots of local civic problems and their relationship to provincial authority.

The major recommendations were followed by comment on the city's attitude to the Public Schools Act, Hospitals Administration, Municipal Superannuation Act, as well as an appeal for provincial support in claims by municipalities against the Dominion government where it can be proven that such claims are justified.

In the latter category, specific reference is made to Prince Rupert's claim on the federal government for reparations to

Nineteen Years of It

Next June 14, the Right Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King will have completed nineteen years as Prime Minister of Canada, thereby equaling the record of Sir John A. Macdonald. With a few brief intermissions, his life, since his graduation from the University of Toronto, has been spent in the service of his country.

If Parliament is still sitting when the great day comes, there will be a flood of complimentary oratory from both sides of both houses. For that one day, members of His Majesty's loyal opposition may be expected to bury the dull and little-used hatchet and join with their conferees across the aisle in wishes of long life and happiness to the Prime Minister. The congratulations will be fulsome, but deserved, for longevity in office in such a country as Canada, with its many divisions of interest and opinion, is a remarkable achievement.

Comparison of the careers of Sir John and Mr. King will be unavoidable. Sir John's National Policy envisioned the building of Canada as a nation within the British Empire. He had his opponents, but there was national unity on the main idea of building Canada. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had the same vision and faith in Canada's great destiny.

When Mr. King succeeded Sir Wilfrid, a phase of the pioneering was over. The railways had been built, the settlement of the West was no longer attracting immigrants in the swarms that entered in the early years of the country. Mr. King's task has been not so much to unite the nation for great purposes as to keep enough unity to hold the structure of Confederation together.

That he has succeeded in this task is admitted even by his political enemies. The structure has creaked and groaned under the strains that have been put upon it, but Mr. King, like a skilful engineer, has known where and when to prop it up and how to divert forces from working against each other instead of combining to move in one direction. He has yielded to pressure but has always been the master.

Civilized Kindness

One of the indications that people are truly civilized is their general level of kindness to animals, says Christian Science Monitor. Not kindness just to a sacred cow, or a high-bred Pekingese, or the emperor's favorite horse, or a decorative Borzoi. But kindness to an ordinary mongrel pup.

That is why Be Kind to Animals Week is important. It reflects, as it fosters, the civilized kindness of those nations where it is observed toward the lesser creatures among them.

The nation whose children are encouraged in school and at home to pick up and care for the bird fallen from the nest, to greet with pats instead of kicks the "mutt" who comes to the back door looking for food, is the nation whose children are least likely to grow from bullies into despots.

LAWYER STEERS U.N. OVER FIRST DIFFICULTIES

By LARRY HAUCK
NEW YORK (AP)—Trygve Lie today carries the burden of one of the world's most difficult jobs with all the rugged enthusiasm of his native Norway.

As secretary-general of the infant United Nations, this 50-year-old labor lawyer is charged with the task of steering the vast organization through its early critical years. By nature not a smooth diplomat in the old world sense, his affable manner, determined drive and forceful reasoning have nevertheless cleared the way to decisions.

Much of his work is unofficial and behind-the-scenes. He must keep the delegates abreast of the latest developments, consult with them on some matters of policy, advise them on tickling situations, keep the huge secretariat operating efficiently, and in general serve as the clearing house and work-horse of the organization.

A tireless worker, associates say his foremost characteristic is an ability to get along with all kinds of people. This trait of loving to talk with people any time and place has been curtailed sharply in the touchy position he now holds. No longer can he go and come as he pleases. Because of close association with the powerful Security Council and the magnitude of his own job, friends have pointed out to Mr. Lie that meetings with "factions" might be interpreted in some quarters as affecting decisions of the world organization he serves.

This has served only to intensify his devotion to his family which includes his wife, Hjoerdis, 46, and three daughters, Mette, 15; Guri, 20, and Sissel (Mrs. Jens Halvard Bratz), 23.

Mr. Lie's associates say he never makes an important decision without talking it over with his wife. She stays entirely out of the limelight and in her own words spends "all my time taking care of my husband."

Mr. Lie gets $20,000 annually plus another $20,000 in expenses but associates declare he can't break even. He lives modestly but the necessity of entertaining within the organization eats into the total.

Mr. Lie chain-smokes Turkish cigarettes. His principal hobbies are people, hunting, tennis and skiing. He speaks Norwegian, English and German, understands some French, enjoys good wine and likes to eat. He taste in food is strictly quality and not quantity.

He was born in suburban Oslo (Grouud), the son of a carpenter.

and became secretary-general of the Norwegian labor party after being graduated from the University of Oslo and receiving a law degree.

From 1922 to 1935 he was general counsel to the Norwegian trades union federation and became minister of justice in 1935. Four years afterward he took over as minister of supply and shipping.

When the invasion of Norway came, Mr. Lie fled to England with the government. As head of the Norwegian merchant marine, he made the decision to turn over to the Allies 3,500,000 tons of shipping and the services of 25,000 Norwegian sailors.

In 1940 Mr. Lie became acting foreign minister of the government in exile and later was named to the permanent post.

LONDON, Eng. — Sausages and onions is a favorite dish of Mrs. Sarah Murray, 100 years old.

FOLKESTONUE, Eng. — Amateur fishermen here may use the Southern Railway pier again for the first time since 1939.

Throughout the war he kept in contact with the underground in his native land.

In politics a social democrat, Mr. Lie was a compromise candidate for secretary-general after losing out to Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium in the contest for presidency of the general assembly.

COMMISSION IS ENTERTAINED BY CITY COUNCIL

H. Carl Goldenberg, chairman of the Royal Commission on provincial-municipal relations, arrived in the city Monday afternoon on the Princess Adelaide accompanied by Mrs. Goldenberg and members of the commission party who included A. C. DesBrisay, commission counsel; R. R. F. Sewell of Victoria, secretary of the Union of B. C. Municipalities; and J. E. Brown, secretary of the commission.

Hearing of Prince Rupert's brief began in the court house at 10 o'clock this morning, followed by the presentation of the brief of the town of Smithers by S. W. Gould, village commissioner.

Today's session was concluded after the hearing of the Smithers brief, and plans for this afternoon called for a tour of the city in a Black and White bus which had been put at the disposal of the city by the proprietors.

The commission party and other guests were invited on the tour which included the American warehouse, government elevator, Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Co. plant and other places of interest.

Social plans for Wednesday at the conclusion of the hearing of briefs from Terrace, will include a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Goldenberg at which Alderman Nora Arnold will be hostess. Guests will include Mrs. H. M. Daggett, Mrs. Gouge of Smithers, Mrs. H. D. Thain and others. The luncheon will be held at the Hollywood Cafe.

Wednesday evening the commission party will be guests at a civic banquet in the Boston Cafe after which they will leave for the train for Prince George for further hearings.

You may find yourself in the same position as Joe Green. Anybody may! Personal loans through your bank make it possible for you to anticipate future earnings. This is an essential part of its services.

Such loans may be obtained to meet financial needs of many kinds: to lay in ahead a winter's supply of coal, to pay municipal or other taxes in time to earn the discount, to provide for home repairs, to send a boy or girl to college, to consolidate debts — indeed for any sound reason.

Bank credit runs through all personal life and commercial life. It operates silently and unobtrusively. You take it for granted. That is the way Canadian banking works.

FIRST FLOOR OF HOSPITAL CLOSED

Prince Rupert General Hospital has closed its first floor because of a shortage of nurses. Matrimony is a major contributing cause. Many of the nurses are leaving their jobs to get married.

Closure of the ground floor of the hospital follows a prediction made to the hospital board a week ago by Miss Phyllis Mooney, R.N., hospital matron, that, unless more nurses were obtained, a portion of the ward space would have to be closed by May 1. It is understood that the hospital is short about six nurses of its required staff of about 25 and that more are leaving. One nurse was married recently, another is to be married soon, and two or three more are said to be leaving soon to return to their homes in the east.

Where more nurses are to come from local hospital authorities do not know. Consistent advertising in western Canadian papers has brought no results. The situation is not only nationwide, but continent-wide. A similar nursing situation exists in the United States.

One answer that the Prince Rupert hospital board is working on—though it will not be complete or immediate—is to establish a training school for nurses in connection with the local hospital. Efforts are being made in that regard.

Hugh McDonald, road superintendent at Stewart, arrived in the city on the Catala this morning from the north for a visit here on official business.

The number of friends who paid their respects to the newly married couple enjoyed community singing and dancing following the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson, who arrived in the city Saturday morning, left Monday for Carlisle cannery where Mr. Olson has taken employment.

Those present at the reception were Mr. Olson's grandfather, Knud Olson, his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Hilland and daughter Marion; Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Scherk and Donald and Sydney; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jensen and Lorne and Jean; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Stava and Glenna; Albert Rasmussen and Eief Lassesson.

Centering the bride's table, which was spread with a snowy linen cloth more than 30 years old was a three-tier wedding cake which was cut by Mrs. Olson. Pink tapers flanked the cake. The room was colorful with pink and white streamers.

Toast to the bride was delivered by Leonard Jensen, and was responded to by the bridegroom. Serviteurs were Mrs. Hilland and Mrs. Scherk assisted by their husbands.

Community singing and dancing was enjoyed by the party to music supplied by Mr. Olson and his father on the violin and guitar.

STAMPEDERS ARE GOING STRONG

Look Like They Might Take Allan Cup 4 to 3

CALGARY, ©—The Western Canada senior hockey champions, the Calgary Stampeders, look as if they might take the series with the Hamilton Tigers in four straight games. In the Third Allan Cup final game last night, the Calgary team beat the easterners 4-3. Hamilton was without the services of their high scorer, Dillon Brady, who has had an attack of the flu.

LOCAL TEAMS WIN SECOND GAMES ON TOUR

The boys' game featured fast checking with 16 fouls called on Prince Rupert and five on Ocean Falls. Half time score was 29-11 for Bo-Me-Hi.

High scorers for the Rainmakers were Forman with 15 and Lavigne with 11 points. Ocean Falls top scorers were Gilchrist with 7 and Christiansen with 6.

In the girls' game Prince Rupert led by a score of 29-9 at half time. Jackie Budnich and Marie Caldwell turned in a fast brand of ball, netting 19 and 17 points respectively.

The world lightweight champion, Gus Lesnevich, left for England yesterday from New York. He will defend his title against British Empire champion, Freddie Mills in London on May 14. Lesnevich announced he would seek a shot at the winner of the coming heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Billy Conn.

The Boston founder of the American Baseball Guild, Robert Murphy, says that his union has taken initial steps to organize professional football, basketball and hockey players as well as baseball players. Murphy has filed papers at Boston, authorizing him to form three additional unions—the International Hockey Guild, the American Football Guild and the American Basketball Guild. The organizations are all to be independent of each other.

Eddie Shore's chances of returning his Springfield Indians to the American Hockey League next season faded last night. The United States government will need the Eastern States Coliseum for an indefinite period. Before the war, the Springfield team, which is owned by Shore, played its home games in the Coliseum. WHAT'S DOING AT PRINCE RUPERT RECREATION COUNCIL GYMS BY JIM NAST

LACROSSE — The boys were warming up at the Centre gym last night in preparation for the big, free lacrosse demonstration tonight at 7:30. There was a lot of real lacrosse technique on display, with some fancy passes and snappy stick handling by the stars. It is felt that there is a big future for lacrosse in the sports minded city of Prince Rupert and this opportunity to see the game demonstrated by experts will give the coming players a good start towards first class lacrosse.

N.F.B. MOVIE TONIGHT—The educational films at the Centre tonight are "Invest For Tomorrow"—the story of soil conservation, and enrichment by scientific means—followed by "Let's All Sing." Intermediates are admitted to these Tuesday night educational films, but it is felt that juniors must be barred, as their attendance would keep them out at too late an hour to comply with curfew regulations.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGY — Today, as never before, thinking parents are realizing the magnitude of the task that is theirs—how to bring up well-balanced, well-adjusted, healthy, happy children in this chaotic world. Only by an educated approach to their difficulties can mothers and fathers hope to achieve this end. As a step towards this "educated approach," mothers are cordially invited to come to the Civic Centre on Friday morning at 11 a.m. While the tiny tots are having their gymnastic class the mothers can get together in the comfortable ladies' lounge and in a very informal discussion, work on the problem of developing the right attitudes and character traits in their children. Mrs. Don Forward has kindly offered to guide the first discussion group next Friday morning, using material from the Extension Department of the University of B.C. as a basis for these group discussions. Mothers of babies need not be deprived of the opportunity for "co-operative thinking" on parent problems, for a room will be set aside for infants and little ones, and someone will be there to keep an eye on the babies during the discussion hour.

ST. MIKE'S WIN AGAIN Defeated Winnipeg Monarchs by Score of 7 to 4—One up on Series

TORONTO—St. Michael's College of Toronto last night defeated the Winnipeg Monarchs 7-4 in the fifth game of the Memorial Cup series. The eastern Canadian junior champs now have only one more victory to go to get the Dominion junior championship. They lead the series three games to two. Tod Sloan, high scoring forward of St. Mike's, tallied five goals in last night's game.

CANUCKS ARE COMING BACK But Boston Still Leads Hockey Series 3 Games to 2

VANCOUVER, ©—The Vancouver Canucks defeated the Boston Olympics in Vancouver last night 5-3 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series for the United States amateur hockey championships.

The teams meet in the sixth game Wednesday night with the Boston team leading the series three to two.

AUSSIE BRIDES STAY AT HOME

Five Ships Available For Transport to Antipodes
CANTON — Pinning their hopes of an early passage to Britain on a recent statement by the Australian Resident Minister in London, J. A. Beasley, 500 Australian wives of British naval personnel, at present languishing on official lists, shipping space would be provided for 1,000 war brides to sail to Australia shortly, Mr. Beasley said. The British minister for war transport told Mr. Beasley that five ships had been made available to carry brides to Australia and New Zealand in the next two months. Presumably, bride passages would be allocated to, as well as from Britain, in these ships, the demobilization of the Royal Navy speeds up, and men return to the United Kingdom for discharge. British husbands join Australians in anxiously scanning papers for the latest news of the bride ship position.

FACES AND THEN LEGS

Millinery Executive Says Men Look First at Girl's Features
NEW YORK — It's the girl's face, not her gams, that attracts masculine eyes, claims Albert E. Schimmel, who annually hats millions of women from six to 60 years of age. In his 15-year study of people's reactions to women's hats, he has found that nine out of ten men look first at a girl's face, then their glances stray over her figure and down to her legs.
As the hat is the frame for the face, therefore the hat is the most important single item of feminine apparel, he says. Schimmel, who at 42 is head of a large chain of millinery operations in major cities, has made a study of hat preferences of women and men.
He can place his finger unerringly on the pulse of feminine millinery fancies. He has found that, if a little flowered number is a hit in Philadelphia, it can be counted on for a smash hit in Chicago and St. Louis.
Mention a city and he can tell you what kind of hats the women in those towns like and what hats they will not buy or wear. New York is a city of black, with more women wearing black dresses, suits, coats and hats than anywhere else in the country. New Orleans is a white-hat city; Atlanta a blue. Brooklyn is a fine proving ground for women's hats. If a hat is a hit there, it's safe anywhere, he says.

Romantic Type Is Favored
Romantic, glamorous hats are in for peak popularity this spring and summer, he predicts. Large hats and open-crown hats of transparent horsehair will be leading summer favorites.
He also points out that American women are the best-hatted in the world, whether they pay $2.50 or $25 for their headpieces. The Schimmel study reveals that though she spends only $2.50 for a hat, a woman buys a hat for its smartness and for its flattering effect when she puts it on. This year, very young women are going in for hats that fit the head, rather than the toeknots equipped with bicycle clips and other gadgets to anchor them on the head.

The casual American custom of omitting the hat from the daytime costume arose from poor salesmanship on the part of milliners, Schimmel believes. The woman who is really convinced that she looks smarter in a hat than without a hat will of course wear a hat; just as the woman who is convinced her figure looks better in a girdle than without a girdle will wear a girdle.
His study of men's pet likes and pet peevs in women's hats revealed that: Men like hats in high shades, such as red, especially if they harmonize with the costumes worn with them; like small hats on business women, but go for large-brimmed, softer hats for dressy wear, such as dinner. Men dislike any hat that is conspicuous, outlandish or extreme; laugh at the inconsistency of a spring flower hat worn with a fur coat—but like it. Men like "loud" hats—but only on the other fellow's girl.

With Easter's traditional ham meeting a need elsewhere these days, that something special for the holiday dinner might be a roast of lamb, surrounded with browned potatoes and baked orange halves and accompanied by a vegetable favorite. The cold meat will be good eating for Monday, supplemented, if there are guests about, by unrationed tongue. As Easter time is the time for eggs, they could provide the protein meal on meatless Tuesday. Into a shallow pan of tangy tomato or good white sauce, break the eggs, sprinkle generously with grated cheese and place in the oven to bake and brown. Baked stuffed potatoes and a crisp salad for your vitamin tonic would be excellent complements. For Wednesday a Swiss steak is suggested. And on Thursday corned beef will provide a tasty treat. Fish is scheduled to land on your table for Friday's meal. On Saturday the corned beef remnants could be fashioned into croquettes, rolled in dry crumbs prepared from that stale bread you didn't waste, and oven browned to save your fat. Three tokens remain for future use.

The Experts Say - -

HINT FROM GREAT BRITAIN FOR CONSERVATION FARE HERE

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VEGETABLE PROBLEMS—At no time of the year is the housewife's problem more difficult than in the early spring when stored vegetables are past their best and the fresh garden produce is not ready. Canned vegetables are the answer. Sometimes canned vegetables may be served just as they come from the tin. On other occasions it is better to stretch them by combining them with sauces or other foods.
When canned vegetables are prepared for serving, the liquid should never be thrown away as it contains much of the flavor. Drain the liquid into a saucepan and boil rapidly until it is reduced to about half a cup, add the vegetable, heat, season and serve.
Vegetables which may seem flat without the customary melted butter can be pepped up with a piquant sauce like this one suggested by home economists—green beans in custard sauce.
The recipe requires one tablespoon of fat, two tablespoons of flour, two teaspoons of sugar, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 1/2 teaspoon of dry mustard, three teaspoons of vinegar, one can of green beans (20 oz.) containing 2 1/2 cups, 1/2 teaspoon of minced onion.
Melt the fat, add the flour and sugar, salt and mustard. Blend with the vinegar, slowly stir in the liquid drained from the beans. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add drained beans and onions; continue cooking until beans are thoroughly heated. Serve hot. This recipe makes six servings. These spiced beans may also be cooled and served as a relish.

THE LOWLY POTATO—If there were no loss of nutrients in preparation, it is estimated the lowly potato would vie with tomatoes and citrus fruits in contribution of ascorbic acid (vitamin C) and would rank third for thiamin (vitamin B1), nicotinic acid (niacin), iron and carbohydrates.
Unfortunately, the common methods of cooking potatoes in this country cut down its contribution in amazing proportions.
Ascorbic acid, thiamin, niacin and iron are all water soluble and all, except iron, are affected by heat. Ascorbic acid is especially rapidly destroyed by heat in the presence of air.
This method of cooking potatoes is suggested in order to save as much of the food value as possible:
Scrub potatoes thoroughly and cook in their skins: if for variety you wish to peel the potatoes do not do so until you are ready to cook them: cook only in the number required for one meal; when boiling, use only the amount of water necessary to prevent burning; add salt to the water at the start of cooking to preserve vitamin C; place potatoes in boiling water and keep pot well covered; avoid serving mashed potatoes since mashing incorporates air, decreasing the vitamin C value. However, if you must mash them, serve them promptly; potatoes steamed or baked in their skins, will not allow loss of nutrients but the cooking should not be unnecessarily prolonged.

Omar and the Gorgeous Coffee Bird!
Many are the legends about the discovery of coffee. One tells how the excited and saintly Hadji Omar was faint with hunger on the Mountain of Ousab.
He heard a sweet and heavenly song and a gorgeous bird alighted on a nearby bush. He attempted to seize it. It disappeared! His hands closed only on the fruit of the bush. Inspiration led him to boil this fruit. He obtained a delicious drink... coffee!
Coffee at its Supreme Best
There is little in common between Omar's primitive brew and the superb blend of coffees now known throughout the world as Maxwell House.
For Maxwell House is the result of an expert blending of Latin-American coffees—the finest the world produces. This glorious blend is Radiant Roasted to develop the full flavor of every coffee bean.
And because Maxwell House has extra flavor and extra rich, satisfying body, more people buy and enjoy it than any other brand of coffee in the world.

The tantalizing fragrance and mellow-rich flavor of Maxwell House add pleasure to any meal. Dinner with Maxwell House is something to bring a husband scurrying home!

A The best way, and really the only way, is to keep the eyes averted.

Stewart Coming Back— Prosperity Is Returning To Portland Canal Area

Consolidation of Three Famous Properties Is Reported On Cards — Salmon Gold Spectacular Transportation Experiment

(By G. A. HUNTER)

The famous Portland Canal mining town of Stewart shows every indication of being due this season for the commencement of another mining boom. It is now well on the way out of the wartime slump which, due to the inactivity of precious metal mining, almost decimated the camp, reducing its population and business nearly to the vanishing point. Now, however, the people say that everyone capable of working or willing can get a job and, indeed, labor is scarce. Old timers who went away when the wartime depression struck are drifting back in. Old businesses are reopening and new ones starting. There has been a good deal of activity recently in residential property deals. All the new life around the town, of course, stems from the stimulation, some of much significance, which the mining industry is showing. Everyone in the camp is highly optimistic that happy days for Stewart are immediately "due" again.

The newest and possibly the most important of the current mining developments at Stewart involves the three spectacular famous high grade silver properties on Dolly Mountain, Silverado, Prosperity and Porter-Idaho. With the recent arrival at Stewart of Angelo Bugnello, no stranger to the camp, it became known that Eastern interests had taken over the three properties in which the Premier Gold Mining Co. was once interested but threw up. It is intimated that the new controlling interests have in mind a major consolidation of operation of the properties with high grade mining and possibly a major mill installation. The three properties consist of 40 claims in all. Silverado lies at an elevation of 6000 feet almost straight up Mount Dolly across the head of the inlet from Stewart and visible therefrom. Further along the mountain top lies Prosperity and on the other slope of the mountain towards Marmot River to the south is Porter-Idaho which was equipped years ago with an aerial tramline to the beach just below Stewart. The original locators of Silverado were John Haahli and John Stewart. Ell Watland, Jerry Stewart and William Janowski were original owners of Prosperity and Clay Porter saw the Porter-Idaho through from its first stages to the big tramline development.

Another property immediately handy to Stewart which is again receiving attention is John Haahli's Molly B., at the foot of Dolly Mountain, just across the mouth of Bear River on which Stewart Canal Gold Mines Ltd. of which Haahli is president, is undertaking a new program of development centering in the driving of a 250-foot tunnel for which Emil Brent has been awarded the contract. The tunnel work, if attended by favorable results, may lead to a diamond drill program and eventual installation of a mill. Molly B. was originally staked in 1906 by Jack Stewart and in 1920 John Haahli first became interested in the property. This is the first time since 1942 that work has been done on the property.

A most spectacular experiment in winter transportation marks the moving in of hundreds of tons of supplies to the Salmon Gold (Morris Summit Mines Ltd.) property far up the Salmon River Valley beyond the Big Missouri. These supplies have been trucked up the Premier road to 13-Mile whence tractors take to the river bed for 5 miles to Salmon Glacier which they are crossing for nine miles and then for two miles further to the property. Under the skillful and ingenious direction of Evan Harris, a Welsh engineer, a dream of the late Ted Morris, who pioneered development of the property, may be fulfilled. Ultimately concentrates would be produced.

Another of the newly active properties in the Stewart area is the Gold Drop on the south fork of Marmot River where Art Cameron and a crew of seven men are driving a tunnel for Gold Rock Mines Ltd. in which J. O. Le-Francois and Montreal investors are the principals. Early last year this property was taken over as a prospect from Albert Casey and Joe Morin and 400 feet of tunnel driven. Future work on the property will depend on results of present development. It is situated four miles up Marmot River and this February a new bridge was built across the Marmot to facilitate reaching it.

Montreal interests are expected to become active again this year on the Mountain Boy and L. L. and H. properties and a temporary bridge has been put in across Bitter Creek to replace one which was washed out.

"NEW DEAL"

civic-financed improvements "it only appears reasonable to expect some financial recompense from the province for the service rendered and that these services should be paid for on the same basis as those provided for privately-owned lots—that is, either by direct taxation or by the annual payment of an amount that would be equal thereto."

Social Services

Seeking relief from financial responsibility for social service, the brief states: "We are of the opinion that social service expenditures are a direct responsibility of the Dominion government. We claim emphatically that they should not be borne by municipal taxpayers and therefore request that they be assumed in full by the provincial government, which is in a position to negotiate with the federal government for full or partial responsibility as it sees fit."

The brief points out discrepancies in the Municipal Act which even in normal times sometimes work to the disadvantage of the municipalities.

Quoting from the Municipal Act which says that "it should be the duty of every municipality to make suitable provision for its poor and destitute," the brief says: "The municipalities are called upon to pay for medical and other services for old age pensioners. We consider that there is something radically wrong if the recipient of a government pension is considered by that government to be poor and destitute."

The wartime boom has also created increased social service problems which are products of the great influx of people to British Columbia during the war and which place the prospect of unfair financial loads on municipal taxpayers, the brief states.

Administration of Justice

Suggestion that a provincial jail should be built in the northern part of the province was presented as an alternative for the claim that the provincial government should assume the cost of transporting prisoners from Prince Rupert to Okalla prison.

Citing the cost to Prince Rupert

The St. Eugene property on Meziadin Lake, owned by Owey McFadden, Harry Zeffert and Harry Bennett, is to also receive further attention this season.

What the future holds in store for the Premier Mine, which has been for a quarter of a century and more the wonder property of the Portland Canal, is a matter of speculation. For some time the property has been operating only one shift and the days of spectacular profits appear gone for the time being at least.

ALBERT AND McCAFFERY

GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND FAMILY ARRIVE—Shrill whistles from harbor craft small and large, a 19-gun field marshal's salute that rolled from atop Halifax's storied Citadel Hill greeted Canada's new Governor-General and his family as they stepped off the liner Aquitania in Halifax on April 10. Hundreds of citizens gathered near Halifax docks early in the day to pay a true Canadian welcome to one of history's most brilliant soldiers made famous by his masterful retreats and stunning victories. In the above picture Lady Alexander and her children, Brian, Shane and Rose with school friend Harriet Scott, cause a great deal of interest with the three sheep dogs they brought with them from England. The brief cites in this instance liquor profits, gasoline taxes, motor vehicle licenses and amusement taxes from which, in 1929, the city received $27,968, but which had shrunk to $6,120 in 1945.

In regard to assessment, the report contends that there is an "urgent need" for a provincial assessment board with a staff of trained assessors to effect the unified standard of

In regard to hospitals, the council strongly advocates nationalization of all hospitals and urges that the provincial government take all possible steps with this end in view.

The Municipal Superintention Act places undue burden on the municipalities because of the effect of reducing employees' pensions and increasing the cost to the municipalities.
