NOBEL, ONT., WAR PLANT SUPPLIES LUMBER FOR VETS' HOMES—A large section of wall framing, comprised mostly of valuable two-by-fours, comes crashing down as workmen take apart an 88-room women's staff house in Nobel village, Ont., in the course of recovering valuable building materials for veterans' housing in many parts of the province. At Nobel, a short distance north of Parry Sound, more than 226 buildings, formerly used in the manufacture of high explosives for Canada's share in the war, are being dismantled. All materials suitable for house building are being channelled into government-approved low-cost housing projects for veterans by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. War Assets Corporation is handling the demolition and sales.

States In Veto Fight

Decides to Take Active Part in Discussion—May Keep Hands Off Franco Spain

NEW YORK — The United States, reversing a previous decision, today was reported determined to jump into the general debate at the United Nations general assembly and officially declare American policy on critical issues, particularly the fight over the veto.

Whether or not American delegates would touch another United Nations hot potato—the demand of various powers for action against Franco Spain—appeared uncertain.

FRANKFORT BOMBING

Another Bomb Is Exploded at Denazification Headquarters

FRANKFORT — The American military government announced today that terrorists striking for the second time in eight days, exploded a bomb on a window sill of the denazification board office at Esslingen last night. By noon today, ten persons had been taken into custody for questioning.

Security troops cordoned off the area and bloodhounds were called into action in the attempt to lead investigators to the terrorists.

Outside of the building was damaged but no one was hurt. The blast rocked the town.

PHOTO PORTRAYS WILD LOLO NATIVES—Lolo tribe children are shown being examined at Tieba, in Szechwan province in remote western China, by Major Robert C. Greenwood, army medical corps, of New York City, before an awed but suspicious group of natives. This picture, believed to be the first to portray the people and customs of the wild Lolo country, was taken by a member of an army combat camera unit. According to the cameraman's comment, the doctor's occupation "is a dangerous one." It is in this region that American airmen have been reported living in slavery after being forced down in 1944.

Chefoo Near Fall, Chinese Gov't Claims

Nationalists Making Important Gains in Southern Manchuria

PEIPING (CP)—Chinese government troops in Manchuria today were reported to be moving along two routes toward the big Soviet-occupied port of Dairen, apparently seeking to cut a major funnel of supply for Chinese Communist armies in Manchuria. Once before the Russian garrison at Dairen refused entry to Chinese Nationalists.

No indication is present that Dairen is the goal of the drives south from the captured cities of Anshan and Antung. Capture by government troops of Chefoo, main Communist port in north China, appeared imminent.

NANKING—Chinese Nationalist forces, attacking by land and sea, are closing in on the important Yellow River port of Chefoo after two days of advances and its capture inside of the next four days is expected. This would consolidate the Nationalist position of control in South Manchuria following their capture late last week of Antung, another important port, from the Communists.

FELL INTO PIT; OLD MAN DIES

NELSON—John Henry Corey, 84, veteran Kootenay miner and prospector, died of injuries and exposure sustained when he fell into a sand pit and remained helpless until found by boys the next morning.

AIR STRIP AT TUGWELL ISLE

"Wop" May Complete Reconnaissance—C.P.A.'s Future Plans Depend On Report

Having made a week's reconnaissance of Tugwell Island where Canadian Pacific Airlines is considering the construction of an air strip which would permit of the operation of wheeled aircraft direct between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, W. R. May, assistant to the general manager of CPA, left at the end of the week on his return to his headquarters in Edmonton. No formal application has yet been made for a licence but it is known that CPA is contemplating entering the commercial air service between Vancouver and Prince Rupert. Whether or not this will take the form of a direct land transport run between Vancouver and Prince Rupert or a service from Vancouver to Sandspit by airplane and a relay from Sandspit to Prince Rupert by seaplane or flying boat will depend upon Mr. May's report on Tugwell Island and the costs involved in the proposed landing strip there.

WOULD SETTLE MARINE STRIKE

Ending of Tie-up in East and Gulf Coast Ports May Have Similar Result on West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO—Three west coast maritime unions are seeking to reopen negotiations for a settlement of the 26-day old strike which has tied up shipping in all the ports of California, Oregon, Washington and Alaska. The move to settle the tie-up on the west coast follows ending by masters and marine engineers of the strike which today resulted in their return to work with preparation of ships for sea duty from east and gulf coast ports. A total of 1,181 ships had been tied up there by the strike of members of two unions.

Mrs. Gaudin's Body Found

Wife of Vancouver Doctor Had Perished From Exposure On Burnaby Mountain

VANCOUVER—The mass search for Mrs. Elizabeth Gaudin, wife of a Vancouver doctor, Dr. L. M. Gaudin, ended at 1:30 Sunday afternoon when three youths found her body in a clearing in the bush near the summit of Burnaby Mountain about a mile from where an abandoned car had been found on Thursday containing her little 4-year-old daughter who was safe and well. Mother and child had been missing since last Tuesday in the family car. Supposedly suffering from amnesia, sequel to experiences of the blitz in Britain, the 30-year-old mother of four children is believed to have strayed up the mountain after leaving the car, succumbing there to exposure, the authorities indicated.

The city-wide search had once embraced 1000 persons.

YOUTH HELD AFTER THEFT FROM CAFE

City police apprehended a juvenile and recovered $25 in loot less than 12 hours after the Central Lunch, a Third Avenue cafe, had been reported broken into and robbed early Sunday morning. The youth was picked up by the police Sunday afternoon, and is said to have turned over the money to them. The robbery was reported Sunday morning by Mrs. Mary Johnson, proprietress of the cafe. Entry had been gained into the building apparently by smashing between the iron bars which covered a window at the rear. The juvenile held by the police in connection with the affair is said to have drifted into the city from the interior two weeks ago.

Mackenzie King Is In Washington

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister King of Canada is in Washington. He met President Truman at the White House today. They had previously met during the United Nations general assembly at New York.

Civilian Railway Traffic Stopped

VIENNA — All civilian traffic on railroads of Austria has been stopped owing to shortage of coal.

Bulletins

SHIP STRIKE ENDS
NEW YORK—A total of 1,181 ships in United States east coast and gulf ports prepared for sea duty today when members of two unions returned to work after a 26-day strike.

MERELY SOCIAL CALL
WASHINGTON, D.C.—There is no political significance to the visit of Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada to Washington, it was stated at the White House today. It is merely a social call. There had been reports that defence co-operation in the Arctic and other matters were being discussed between Mr. King and President Truman.

ROOM CLERK ASSAULTED

WASHINGTON — Ceiling prices on some shoes made from imported leather have been lifted.

HIGHWAY SHIPMENTS
WASHINGTON — Matter of shipment of United States goods in bond over the Alaska Highway is being taken up immediately by the Department of State with Canadian authorities following complaints by Senator Magnuson of Washington that Canada was not co-operating. "We have no doubt that Canadian commitments will be honored in all respects," said a Department spokesman.

BREAD RATION TO CONTINUE

No Prospect of Early Ending, British Food Minister Tells People

LONDON—Bread rationing will continue in Great Britain for some time, Food Minister John Strachey forecasts. This will be necessary because of the greatly reduced wheat crops at home and smaller imports from Canada and the United States.

Communists Win Bulgarian Gov't

Took Majority of Seats in Yesterday's Election for General Assembly

SOFIA—Communists won the majority of seats in the Bulgarian assembly as a result of yesterday's elections. There was a large poll which was marked with no violence.

The Communist-dominated Fatherland Front party was reported by the Bulgarian government today to have won 296 assembly seats to 83 for the united opposition parties in Sunday's elections. The Assembly has 465 members and the Fatherland Front is, therefore, already assured of a working majority.

Total Is Now Twenty-Five Million Dollars

VANCOUVER—British Columbia total in the Canada Savings Loan campaign is now $24,911,000, still well over the $2,000,000 average. Payroll total, including the armed forces, is $3,304,800. Many Vancouver and Victoria firms are nearing the desired eight-put-of-ten employee participation.

Ocean Falls employees of Pacific Mills are over fifty percent of the desired participation. "Most employees are buying $100 bonds," said a payroll canvasser of one large British Columbia business firm. "With only one bond issue a year, the former $50 investors are doubling their purchases. Larger investments are mostly in cash and double the former purchases. Victoria City was over the $3,000,000 mark at the week-end. University of British Columbia students had subscribed $166,000 by Friday.

NOTHING NEW ON SUBSIDY

Inquiry by Chamber of Commerce Produces No Information

Inquiry made to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa as to what developments, if any, have followed the subsidy for United Kingdom shipping out of Prince Rupert authorized at the recent session of Parliament has elicited no definite information from the federal capital despite current reports locally that certain interests have been considering the idea of acting on the basis of the subsidy to develop cargo shipments through the port.

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce a few days ago wired Hon. J. A. McKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, seeking information as to what steps, if any, might have been taken towards utilization of the subsidy and if any interest was being manifested.

A. C. L. Adams, private secretary to the minister, who is absent from the capital, says in reply: "My understanding is that no steps have yet been taken to utilize the subsidy provided in the estimates for Prince Rupert-United Kingdom services" and there are no recent developments."

LIFE in this Prince Rupert by BIDDEE JINKS

"I've got a head like a tack," I said as I rushed back into the cafe for my umbrella which I had left behind. "Lady, you're not the only one!" the proprietor consigned generously. "I could open a shop with the stuff people leave me. Everything from canaries to false teeth. Why, there's one lady in this town that consistently leaves her umbrella here. She just couldn't help herself!" he laughed.

"I can't be so bad," I told myself. "After all, this umbrella has been mine for five years—but I couldn't push back the numerous close shaves it had had and then and there I determined to do something about it. Of course, the fact that on that same day I walked out of a snop and left a parcel of tenderloin and bacon on the counter and although I returned with all speed it wasn't quick enough—that too may have been a deciding factor.

Anyway, when I picked up a magazine the next day, these words stared out at me: "Do you have trouble remembering?—(Oh Brother, do I?)—You shouldn't. It's really very easy and the article went on giving the low down on memory troubles and their cures. It seems that many people may lay claim to a fair share of intelligence are still not able to boast of a good memory. This does not mean that they have not the necessary wherewithal but simply that they have never learned how to use what nature endowed them with. Karl Meninger, noted psychiatrist, believes that this is undoubtedly true and that, after a lifetime of study,

He says that a great deal of this memory-failing grows from childhood, from convenient evasion by saying "I forgot!" when you did not do what you were supposed to. Childhood evasion, did he say?—Habit weaves carelessness into the grain of thinking, dulling the sensitive texture of the mind and by and by it takes an earthquake or something equally unusual to make a lasting impression.

To remove this clutch of inertia, we are advised to resort to a trick or two. Something on the old knotted string idea, only we don't always have a string handy and the most of us remove our shoes at bedtime so we use shoes. That is for two reasons. The first is because material absorbed before going to bed will be remembered 30 per cent more effectively. The second is the opportune moment to practice that old principle of association.

For instance, there is something you must do first thing in the morning and you are dead certain you will forget. Well, you just stuff one shoe inside the other. In the morning, you'll remember why your shoes are so placed and like a flash you'll buzz off and do that little chore—unless of course, you forget.

Then there is the little matter of remembering names. Suppose you meet a lady at a tea. Her name is Cartwright. When you are introduced you really pay attention to her name and murmur politely: "How do you do Mrs. Cartwright," placing mental emphasis on the name. Then you say "Cartwright. Cart—two wheeled or four?"—to yourself, of course. Surprisingly enough, when you speak of this lady to a friend, instead of saying "Mrs. —Oh Goodness! You know who I mean, the lady we met at the tea the other day," automatically a picture of a cart comes to mind and you are amazed to hear your own tongue saying "Cartwright" with no hesitation.

The beauty of it is that it works every time. A friend of mine proved it. Upon meeting a lady whose name was Mrs. Swallow, she just said "Bird—a bird" to her subconscious self. Now she confidently speaks of "that charming lady, Mrs. Sparrow."

Another item, which though not entirely surprising, still sounded very good when I read it aloud to my husband, said: "The old notion that men have

TRIBUTE TO BRITAIN

"A ROCK of stability in a sea of uncertainty" is the way Matthew Halton, noted Canadian Broadcasting Corporation commentator, describes Britain after a visit to Europe. They were the words he used in one of his interesting broadcasts yesterday. Mr. Halton spoke of the real progress that the United Kingdom was making economically while all the while there was a great "social revolution" going on with the Labor government carrying into effect its program of "democratic socialism." Mr. Halton acknowledged that it was the spirit of the British people, their continued willingness to submit to austerity and self-sacrifice in the national interest, that was leading the little island to a postwar recovery which was a shining example to every nation in the world.

Whatever one may think about the economic policies of British Labor government, there can be general agreement with Mr. Halton's statement that it is the will of the people to work together, in spite of their fundamental political views, and keep up the production that has now brought British exports back to their pre-war volume and will in the next few years give the country a higher general standard of living than it has ever before enjoyed. It would have been the same under any democratic party government even if the going might be difficult at times.

Possibly, Britain economically is today in a unique position in the world. It is not beset with the industrial strife and dire threat of inflation which is seen on this side of the Atlantic where labor and industry, equally culpable, fail to get together to settle their differences. It is not being reduced to a state of militarized serfdom such as the dictatorship of force has brought to Russia and is imposing on other nations which it has ruthlessly subjugated.

We can agree with the tribute that Mr. Halton pays to Britain in her progress to economic recovery. She is leading the world in peace as she did in war. People of Canada and the United States could be doing the same if they had the understanding, the will and the intestinal fortitude for which Britons, in spite of all their growling and their faults, have so long been able to show the world.

SO MUCH AND SO LITTLE

"WELL, I made my trip over the Alaska Highway to Whitehorse and down by Skagway to Prince Rupert and home again (Peace River). I enjoyed the trip but it proved to my mind that the Canadian people have no business holding on to so much country and doing so little with it. I did not contact over a dozen men who seemed to harbor any idea of developing the country. Those old timers who were real boosters seem to have all gone to Victoria to live and the younger generation just do not know what it is all about, or what to do about it."

Those are poignant words, when they are uttered by a man, who has spent most of his lifetime endeavouring to awaken people to the fact that, in the North West, Canada has a most splendid heritage, if it has the will and vision to plan for the future instead of just being content with looking at the open places where people are few and opportunities abound.

It took World War II and the Americans to start the ball rolling as regards developing this huge district. They showed in a few months more progress than has been shown by Canadians in fifty years. The country is crying aloud for men of vision, men of ambition, not only on the ground, but also at Ottawa and other provincial capitals to point the way. The world has shrunk in proportion to improved methods of transportation. The crowded areas of the older lands are looking for new homes and places where they can at least live without starving to death and Canada and its people will eventually be asked: "Why hang on to lands which you neglect to even populate"? It has been stated that if Canada does not make the utmost use of its wonderful resources—other nations will step in and do so. —Nor' West Miner.

Now Who's Crazy Students Wonder

DUNEDIN, N.Z. —Two Otago University students sitting in their automobile were approached by a stranger who admired the car and asked if they wanted to sell it. They named a price which the stranger promptly accepted. One student went into a garage to give the purchaser an official receipt and the car was handed over to the stranger, who drove off. Then the students found that neither had received the money, as each thought the purchaser had given it to the other. They hired a taxi and a frenzied chase but could not find the car. They reported their loss to the police who informed them that the purchaser was an escaped inmate of the Orokoni Mental Home. After "buying" the car he had driven back to the home and reported his return. The two students are still wondering just what the transaction makes them.

BOOSTING FOR NEW RAILWAY

Churchill-Rupert Line Bound to Come Says Nor' West Miner

This third route is bound to come into being, even if it does take more years to convince the people of Canada as to its economical use and value, says Nor' West Miner, published in Edmonton, of the proposed new transcontinental railway across Canada from Fort Churchill to Prince Rupert by way of the Peace River. In British Columbia we have the spectacle of two transcontinental railways running down the Fraser River into Vancouver in plain view of each other for many miles. Surely this fully illustrates the ill conceived railway plan given the taxpayers of Canada, especially when is added the criss-crossing and double servicing of towns across the prairies by two railways with the major part of this wheat growing area not serviced at all.

Canada can have that third railway—the Peace can have its outlet to the Coast. Northern B.C. can get the chance it has lacked for years to show what it is, namely the greatest and best part of British Columbia from every point of view. The only people that can possibly oppose this comparatively small expenditure are the eastern interests who know that once a shorter trade route is established between two points, the old routes are closed up. Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo and Ottawa will do all possible to keep the old routes.

PACKERS DOWN SAVOY 33-31

Zonal Type of Play Featured in Basketball Saturday

B.C. Packers and Savoy turned in the best exhibition of zonal basketball play to be staged on a local floor so far this season when they met in the Senior A encounter in the Civic Centre Gym Saturday night. More important than the fact that Packers triumphed by a 33-31 score was the innovation of team strategy in local hoop circles.

Heretofore, local basketball tactics have exalted the personal type of play in which individuals starred and in which the defensive team tried to cover their starting opponents regardless of their position on the floor.

In the zonal type of play, practised for the first time this season both by "Doc" Montgomery's Savoy's and Neil Ross's Packers Saturday night, the defence players held given positions, covering the opposing players who invaded those positions. This type of play, adopted by progressive teams in all parts of the continent, offers scope for tactical movements and team-work similar to American football and actually has more appeal for the appreciative fan.

Witnesses of Saturday night's game vowed that it was the best game from the fans' standpoint that has been played in the Centre gym, although most of them were unaware of the reason, except that the score seemed closely to an exciting climax.

Lacking in the game were the exorbitant individual scores which have been a feature of the personal style of play although Savoy's Murray did tally up 10 points while Calderone of Packers ran up 8.

Half-time score was 15-14 in favor of Savoy and, in the last two quarters, the lead changed hands half a dozen times.

Senior B
Bo-Me-Hi Rainmakers took their third straight victory of the season when they defeated Co-op by a substantial 59-32 score. The students led substantially throughout the game, dominating at half time by a 39-19 score.

Top scorers for the Rainmakers were Skog with 14 and Hartwig, Ciccone and Thompson with 10 points each, while Petersen of Co-op had a 10-point total.

Juniors
In the Junior section Canadian Legion achieved its second straight victory of the season by downing Grotto 23-13. Half-time score was 12-5 for Legion. Legion's top scorers were Wong and Carlson with 6 points each. Youngman led for Grotto with 5 points.

MAORIS IN ELECTIONS

Native Members Among Most Eloquent Orators in Dominion Parliament

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (P) — One of the brightest features of New Zealand general elections is always the campaign for the four Maori seats in the House of Representatives. The Maori election this year will be held on November 26, the day before the polling for the 76 European seats in the House.

Although the four Maori seats are, in all respects equal to the others and the Maori M.P.'s have full rights with European members, the Maoris have their own ways of conducting election campaigns.

Maoris are natural orators and there are always many anxious to stand for Parliament. Those who fail to gain nominations for one of the main political parties often stand as independents and it is not unusual to find eight or nine candidates for a single seat. Nominations for the coming election have not yet closed, but numerous candidates have already announced they will stand.

Sometimes two or more candidates arrange a joint election meeting. They stand at different sides or ends of the hall or meeting house and address the audience in turn. The one who wins greatest applause takes over the meeting while his rival withdraws. Then the audience and the favored candidate discuss the political situation at length.

Many candidates are chiefs or men of high descent and in the past the opinions of tribal elders have had the greatest bearing on results. In recent years, however, the European political divisions have been more decisive and all four seats are at present held by official Labor nominees.

OPPOSITION HOPEFUL

However, the National party says it hopes to capture at least two of the Maori seats. In one Sir Apirane Nagata, former cabinet minister, who was narrowly beaten at the last election after 30 years continuously in Parliament, is again standing for the party.

The four Maori electorates cover the whole of New Zealand, three in the North Island and one in the South. Maoris have been represented in Parliament for 80 years, since the early days of parliamentary government in the Dominion. Persons of more than half Maori descent must vote in the Maori electorates, but half-castes may vote as Maoris or Europeans as they prefer.

Until 10 years ago voting was by declaration, but with the increase of literacy Maoris now have a secret ballot in the same way as Europeans. However, no rolls of Maori electors are prepared. Natives give their name, age, tribe and sub-tribe at the polling booth and, having identified themselves to the satisfaction of the returning officer, are given voting papers. Tribal pride and the general outlook of the race ensure that there are few abuses of the system.

Maori M.P.s almost always speak in the House in English and, indeed, are often by far the best speakers in Parliament. They are permitted, however, to speak in Maori and have their speeches interpreted.

Several Maori M.P.s have been

FOUND DEAD NEAR CABIN

Albert Ross, Prudhomme Lake Colorful Figure Dies

A colorful figure of the Prince Rupert district passed away at the week-end in the person of Albert Ross, whose body was found by constables of the Provincial Police this morning near his cabin at Prudhomme Lake where he had lived alone for many years.

Prospector and river boatman who pioneered river boat routes on the Skeena and Stikine Rivers, and staked innumerable claims during his long life, Mr. Ross was found to be missing Sunday afternoon by A. G. Bartlett, when the latter went to Prudhomme Lake, about 12 miles out on the highway, to inspect his boat which he keeps there. Mr. Bartlett informed the provincial police.

Skipper R. C. Good and Constable E. Anderson discovered the body of the elderly man near the lake when they went to investigate this morning.

Born in Ontario, Mr. Ross was a member of the Canadian party of voyageurs sent from Canada to navigate the Nile River when General Kitchener made his famous expedition to relieve the siege of Khartoum in 1884. His exact age is not known, but he must have been more than 80.

He prospected throughout British Columbia during the greater part of his life and his final claim was in the Prudhomme Lake region which he worked until shortly before his death. He also rented row-boats to fishermen on Prudhomme Lake and was a familiar fisherman to those who went to the nearby lake to picnic and fish.

On branch lines where there is no afternoon train service November 8 tickets will be sold for morning trains on that date.

The low rate of single fair and one-quarter for the round trip will be good between all stations in Canada and in all classes of accommodation.

WEDDING AT OOTSA LAKE

Popular Couple Make Life
Contract At Wistaria

BURNS LAKE—A matrimonial alliance of great interest took place at the Wistaria United Church when Rev. A. W. Atkinson of St. Joseph's Anglican Church of Burns Lake, officiated.

The charming bride was Miss Mildred Elizabeth Blackwell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Blackwell of the Sunnyside Ranch, one of the pioneer stock ranches of the Ootsa Lake area. The groom, William Whitewater Durban, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Durban, of Grassy Plains, the family being well known in Bridge River and throughout the Lilloet district.

As bridesmaid, Miss Lorna Durban was entrancing and, with the groomsmen, Gordon Earl of Newgate in the Cranbrook district, completed a charming couple.

The bride was gowned in white taffeta, carrying a bouquet of stocks, babies' breath and fern and wearing a full-length veil with a tiara of white carnations studded with brilliants.

The bridesmaid chose a full-length gown of rose taffeta and carried a bouquet, twin to that of the bride.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the commodious Blackwell farm-house which has housed a thousand guests since the first log-cabin was built before the steel of the old G.T.P. was connected. With Mrs. Blackwell and a host of Wistaria ladies assisting, service to a number of guests who overflowed the big dining room and kitchen, was continuous.

Friends of the young couple came from every part of the central interior and from the most remote parts of the Lakes District to wish them a long life of united prosperity and happiness.

The reception was decidedly a musical event, the talent of the Lakes being accustomed to end the evening at the hospitable homes of the Blackwell's or Durban's. Song after song was sung by the local boys who accompanied themselves on guitar, banjo and violin. Not to be outdone, Verne Bennett of Uncha sang a sympathetic song entitled "Alimony" which brought forth such vociferous applause that he was compelled to respond with "I'm No Longer Lonesome." This aroused father Blackwell and from his antiquated repertoire he dug up an old song "Pyjamas," a theme song of decided merit.

The dance in the evening brought one of the greatest crowds which ever graced the Wistaria Dance Hall. Fine music was continuous and dancing had to be in relays as the crowd was too large for the floor.

A light snow rain during the night covered the beautiful mountains of Tweedsmuir Park in a cloak of pearl white tinted with rose pink when touched by the rising sun as the dancers were dispersing.

Engineers Ponder Destructive Jet

LYMPNE, Kent, England—Apparent ability of a peculiar acoustic property of jet aircraft motors to break glass and even marble has indicated future engineering problems at an airport near here. A de Havilland Vampire jet machine preparing to take off had its jet orifice pointed toward an adjacent house. When the plane had gone, the householder found the glass of two pictures had been broken and a solid marble clock split. The explanation advanced by engineering experts was that the engine note somehow caused the damage.

N.Z. APPOINTS TRADE ENVOYS

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — New Zealand has decided to appoint trade commissioners in New York, Montreal, Sydney and Melbourne. Officials carrying out these duties have in the past had tourist and other functions to attend to in addition, but will in future be able to concentrate solely on trade and industrial matters. Senior trade commissioner in North America will be at New York, with a commissioner working in conjunction with him at Montreal. The Montreal position was filled by J. A. Malcolm, who was New Zealand supply liaison officer at Melbourne. He is already on his way to Montreal.

Junius, an English scholar, stated: "The liberty of the press is the palladium of all civil, political and religious rights of free men."

"Wait Oscar — I gotta better idea. Throw in this package of crisp, crunchy Grape-Nuts Flakes — 'n' if THAT comes out you better leave town!"

"Now you're talkin', Joe! The little woman might toss my hat out again but she'll never part with a package of malty-rich, nut-sweet Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes. And while she's fondly caressing 'em, I'll sneak upstairs to bed."

"Sure enough these Grape-Nuts Flakes are wonderful smile bait. And they stick-to-your ribs, too — with carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood; and other food essentials."

"My wife knows that Grape-Nuts Flakes are doubly good because they're made of two grains—wheat and malted barley—cleverly blended, baked and then toasted for matchless flavor, delightful crispness, easy digestion. Those recipes on the package for cookies and other good things will catch her eye, too!"

SALMON AT KITWANGA

The current Skeena River salmon investigation has produced some interesting information regarding the fish population of Kitwanga Lake on the north side of the Skeena River east of Terrace which is the spawning ground for a portion of the sockeye salmon which make their annual run up the Skeena.

The survey was made by members of the staff of the Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo and is part of the continuing study of the salmon fishery of the Skeena drainage area. The six-week study, as presented in the latest progress report of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, contains the following passages:

"Camp was established at the extreme southern end of Kitwanga Lake. From this point around the eastern shore wound a narrow pack trail leading up over the low height of land, the divide between the Skeena drainage area and that of the Naas. This was the "Grease" trail of the Kitwano Indians. Over it in the olden days the natives trekked annually to the Naas to catch their supply of the oil-rich oolichan or candlefish.

"During the next six weeks observations were made which would form the basis for classifying the lake as to its general importance in the whole Skeena River system, in fish food production, in size of salmon spawning areas and runs, and in "coarse" fish population—predator and competitor—which might affect the young salmon during their fresh-water existence.

The water of the lake was very clear and sampling showed that there was an abundance of microscopic plant and animal life. The animal forms, the main food supply of the young sockeye salmon, were distinctly plentiful.

"This combination of favourable physical and chemical conditions and a good basic food supply had apparently led to a relatively abundant "coarse" fish population. Ten species were obtained. From the gill net catches, the most abundant was feeding largely on small fish and snails. Cutthroat trout were also present in considerable numbers. These are not fished to any extent for sport, largely because of the isolation of the lake. The Dolly Varden char, the third and last of the predators, was fairly rare.

"Next to the squawfish in order of abundance were two species which feed either off the bottom or close to it, the Rocky mountain whitefish and the chub or peamouth. The long-nosed or northern sucker, the common sucker, and the prickly bull-head, were taken in but few instances. The stickleback and what was apparently the lake shiner, were found in cutthroat trout and squawfish stomachs.

"The population of sockeye salmon was made up of two types, the usual sea-run fish ranging from 15 to 27 inches in length, and a smaller variety ranging from 7 to 9 inches. Scale markings indicated that these smaller individuals spend their whole life in the lake and are thus the Kokanee or land-locked sockeye.

"The sea-run sockeye move up the Kitwanga river from the Skeena in late July and early August and pass into the lake where they stay until mature. No observations of the actual spawning were made, but it appears that they move back down to the river in late September to deposit their eggs. Spawning in the lake itself on gravel bars near the mouths of the small tributary streamlets may also occur. The largest tributary to the lake enters at the north-eastern corner draining an extensive muskeg flat. It is entirely dissimilar from what is considered a good salmon spawning stream since from the point of entrance into the lake and for a considerable distance upstream, it is murky and slow flowing with little or no gravel in evidence on the bottom. Despite the fact that fairly large numbers of sockeye were observed in schools off its mouth during the month of August not one was seen moving upstream. The beaches and the streams entering the lake seem singularly devoid of good spawning areas.

"Since the lake is small and the spawning grounds apparently limited, it is not surprising that the run of sockeye is correspondingly small. Direct counts at the head of the Kitwanga river in 1945 indicated that 6,000 to 7,000 sockeye moved in. Downstream all the way to the Skeena there were, however, large numbers of pink salmon, Cohoes, are known to enter the system later in the autumn.

Hastings Treasures General's Memento

HASTINGS, England—Hastings Town Hall has among its trophies a shield taken by British forces at the capture of Quebec. It was in the possession of Gen. James Murray who was stationed at Hastings before he went to Canada to serve under Gen. James Wolfe as colonel of the 68th Royal Americans. Murray eventually retired to Battle, near Hastings, where he built a house called Beauport after the Quebec district where the French commander, Montcalm, had his headquarters.
