More Than 100 Dead In Atlanta Hotel Fire

Horror-Death Strike Georgia City in Pre-Dawn Holocaust

Guests Trapped Above Third Floor Burn, Suffocate in "Fire-Resistant" Building

ATLANTA, Georgia (CP)—A pre-dawn fire, starting mysteriously in the upper floors of the downtown Winecoff Hotel, today swept the 15-story structure, killing at least 114 persons and injuring 100.

Indications are that the toll among the 285 guests in the 194-room hotel, located on Atlanta's famed Peachtree Street, would run higher, because a number of other people were burned fatally, or suffocated.

Most of the guests were trapped above the third floor, where the fire was believed to have started at 3:15 this morning. The brick and concrete building, constructed in 1913, had no outside fire escapes.

It was believed to be fire-resistant.

One fireman told of finding 16 bodies on one upper floor. The rooms in which they were found were undamaged by flames. All apparently had died of suffocation.

Emergency mortuaries were set up in various parts of the city, as firemen kept up a steady procession, carrying the dead from the building.

Identification will be difficult in many cases.

Hotel auditor F. A. Herring said: "I never saw anything like it. Bodies were hurtling down past my window. My wife and I covered our heads with blankets and turned on electric fans."

There is no estimate yet as to the loss, but the hotel building was sold three years ago for $650,000.

Youth Held For Slaying His Mother

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—William Jewitt, 17-year-old high school student today was charged with murdering his mother, whose body was found late last night in the kitchen of her home, a claw hammer buried in her skull.

Mrs. Jewitt, wife of a dentist, returned home from choir practice a few minutes before she was slain.

Less than an hour later, Jewitt, whose twin brother discovered his mother's body, walked into the nearby home of Percy Burger, and reportedly said: "You'd better call the police."

TWO STATES ARE FREE OF DIMOUT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Texas and California are the big exceptions in the states of the Union which are in dim-out now because of the coal strike. Neither of these states are dependent upon coal for power.

Woman's Death Sentence Reduced

Second Post-war Christmas to Be Brightest in Many Years

Prince Rupert is dressing up for its flashiest Christmas since Adolph Hitler beat pop-guns into cannon and made cotton wool more important as an army field dressing than as artificial snow. The atmosphere is actually beginning to resemble that of a peacetime Christmas.

Of course, by pre-war standards it still isn't much, but those who enjoy Christmas most do not remember the pre-war years anyway. The important fact is that it is brighter than last year and there are more toys.

Downtown, the shops are putting on a brave and glittering show of normalcy that brings a nostalgic sigh to the adult and makes the small fry look on peace as something that should be tried more of because it's wonderful.

"I am going to buy my son an electric train," commented one pensive adult as he stood before an electrical store. "Because I need something to do on these long winter evenings."

The eager glint in his eye as he watched the train circle its track in the show window was a kilowatt or two brighter than the light of anticipation which shone in his small son's.

Behind the colorful show windows that line the Third Avenue business district are shelves filled with as wide a variety of gift merchandise as has been on display for years, and Christmas merchandise nowadays includes practically everything that is useful. The war years taught wise buying.

COMMUNISTS WANT PEACE

But Little Likelihood That Their Offer in China Will Be Accepted

NANKING, (CP)—Chinese Communists yesterday offered to make a fresh start on peace negotiations but there appeared to be no possibility that their offer would get serious consideration.

BIGGEST XMAS SHOPPING YEAR

Canadians Will Have Spent $400,000,000 by Yuletide, It Is Estimated

TORONTO, (CP)—Currently Canadians are in the midst of the greatest of all spending booms—Christmas shopping—and it is estimated they will spend upwards of $400,000,000 by the time the great day is come and gone. A Canadian press survey reveals the biggest buying year on record.

Reduction of Rent Controls Urged

TORONTO — Speaking last night, W. J. LeClaire, president of the Canadian Property Owners' Association, advocated a gradual reduction of controls and reasonable upward revision of rentals. Present rental controls, he said, were an injustice and were stifling building for rental.

WINDY ISLAND DOUBTFUL BUY

1,000-Acre Island Near John O'Groats Can Be Bought

JOHN O'GROATS HOUSE, Scotland, (CP)—Want to buy a 1,000-acre island, complete with church and manse, school, post office and 45 tenanted crofts—for $14,000?

Stroma, 2½ miles off John O'Groats in stormy Pentland Firth between the mainland and the Orkneys is for sale.

Fisherman James Simpson thinks it might be a good place for a politician to retire to, but that's about the brightest he can say about it. He thinks the present generation will be the last on the island.

"Many young Stroma men and women were in the forces during the war," he said. "Now they're demobbed they want to live on the mainland. Even if they come back, it's becoming increasingly difficult to make a living on Stroma."

There are few children now in the school and the church has no resident minister. The main industry is fishing for cod and lobsters. The 120 residents raise most of their own food and many also weave their own clothes.

In bad weather a fine salt spray covers the island—believed locally to be the cause of the islanders' longevity.

Modern conveniences are something Stroma doesn't know. There is one small shop but its stock is small and narrow. Peat is the usual fuel and oil lamps provide light.

Tales of pirates, smugglers and ancient Norse sea kings go with Stroma, as do stories of shipwreckers in the days before the modern lighthouse was built on the rocky point, North of the island is the Swelchie of Stroma, dangerous whirlpool into which many small vessels have been sucked and lost.

So far Stroma is still on the market.

SUGGESTS PARLEY ON PALESTINE

NEW YORK, (CP)—Secretary of State James Byrnes last night pledged the United States to sit in one "full, free" conference in an attempt to solve the Arab-Jewish Palestine question.

Meanwhile, Britain may take right to the general assembly floor her fight to establish an inspection board to verify the number of armed troops in the world, U. N. authorities said today.

Tonight, the security council will assemble to receive a committee-approved plan calling for all members of the United Nations to report the number of their troops at home and abroad by next January 1.

Knight, Banff, Alta., and Miss Florence Henry, formerly of Winnipeg.

Government Plans to Move Unemployed From Cape Breton to Other Localities

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans for a government-financed move of unemployed workers from Cape Breton to industries in central and western Canada is being developed by federal labor officials, Canadian Press learned Friday.

There are several thousand unemployed in the urban areas of Cape Breton, and the authorities plan a voluntary, mass exodus of these workers to such manpower-scarce areas as the hardrock mines of Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and Yellowknife, N.W.T., and also to the lumbering and electrical power developments in Ontario and Quebec.

Although British Columbia was not mentioned in the dispatch, sources at Vancouver expressed interest, saying that B.C. could use such labor in the coal, hardrock mines and lumbering.

Five Million May Lose Their Jobs

At the trial Shugar had categorically denied the accusation. It was the second time that Shugar had been acquitted on a similar charge.

SEEK HOMES FOR CHILDREN

Montreal Welfare Body Facing Eviction Issues Plea for Help

MONTREAL, (CP)—Faced with eviction from their premises on east-end Ontario Street, directors of the Children's Receiving Centre have issued a plea, requesting foster parents to accept one or more of the 24 children remaining in the home.

Board will be paid for each child accepted until it can return to its parents or be taken into a new building directors hope to find shortly.

The 10-year old centre, an affiliate of Welfare Federation, acts as a clearing house for youngsters to be adopted or placed in foster homes.

Designed to hold the centre's work together until new premises are found, a system whereby foster homes will be subsidized is being worked out.

This will include payment of a $50 monthly retainer fee to private families on the understanding that they will accept the care of one or more children when their home is needed. An additional $24 monthly board will be paid for each child as long as it remains.

MINERS' LEADER DEFERS TALKOUT TO MARCH 31

WASHINGTON (CP)—The American soft coal strike called off today.

A letter to his members of the United Mine Workers of America, President John L. Lewis said he was ordering the miners back to work until March 31 so that the Supreme Court would be "free from public pressure superinduced by the hysteria and frenzy of an economic crisis."

He told reporters that "in addition, public necessity requires quantitative production of coal during such a period."

The announcement came as the Supreme Court was considering the government's plea for an immediate review of Lewis' and the miners' contempt of court case, involving $3,500,000 in fines levied in federal district court earlier this week.

PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT ASKS SUPREME COURT SHOULD BE FREE OF ECONOMIC PRESSURES

WASHINGTON (CP)—The American soft coal strike called off today.

He told reporters that "in addition, public necessity requires quantitative production of coal during such a period."

PROVINCIAL WORKERS ASK WAGE BOOSTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Revision of the living bonus and a general increase in salaries was Friday by a delegation of the Provincial Government Employees Association, which said that the present sliding system of bonuses discriminated against employees both in industry and executive wage scales.

The delegation asked equalization of living bonuses to all employees, based on a cost-of-living index as of October approximately $26.50 a month. The cost-of-living bonus subject to superannuation pay, an across the board increase of 16½ cents an hour basic rate of pay, subject to his demands to a 10 per cent reference if the commission does not see fit to refer to the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council.

The organization said, "The government does not talk in terms of a strike."

Deputy ministers of the provincial government were asked for an increase of $300 a month six weeks ago, following a Service Commission report, was disclosed by C. P. Macpherson, general secretary of the Provincial Government Employees Association, who headed the delegation to seek salary increases for the government employees.

INDIAN ACCORD MEETING FAILS

LONDON, (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee failed last night in an eleventh-hour attempt to bring the Hindus and Moslems together for the opening Monday of a constituent assembly to draft India's constitution of independence.

Following termination of the inconclusive conferences here, the government flatly told the bickering Indian leaders that Britain would not submit an Indian charter to parliament unless all factions joined in writing it.

The delay in drafting the constitution, he assured them, would prolong Britain's stay in India.

Realism About Russia

IN ALL NEGOTIATIONS that are taking place, sympathetic consideration must be given to Russia's natural desire for its own security, but we should not acquiesce in the accomplishment of this objective by the enforcement of Russian rule upon unwilling and weaker people. The lesson of Munich should not be forgotten.

Furthermore, while we may well be grateful for the co-operation and the gain in mutual understanding during the war years, and the measure of progress that has been marked by the United Nations, we must not close our eyes to the fact that there are still many close parallels between Hitlerism and the present Russian system.

There is the dictatorship. There is the one-party system. There are the youth organizations. There is the secret police. There is the door closed to information from without—closed even more tightly than in Germany in pre-war years. And last and more serious than all the rest and to which all the rest contribute, is the thought control that wrought such havoc both in Germany and Japan.

Let every effort be made to bring about the friendship and mutual helpfulness that we know will eventually prevail, but let us not condone evil for the sake of a peace that is no peace.

LATE CHARLES STEWART

ALTHOUGH Ontario-born, Hon. Charles Stewart of Alberta, who died yesterday was in essence the real Western farmer, with the same calm, philosophic outlook on life that the great open spaces develop in one. His early experience made him a philosopher, for few "breaks" came his way. It was the virtual annihilation of the family homestead in Simcoe county by a cyclone that turned his thoughts to the West. At Killam, Alberta, he made a new start. But misfortune again dogged him: a hailstorm wiped out all his season's work, leaving him almost penniless. That was bad enough, but another blow was to befall him as soon as he had secured employment in which he had hoped to recoup his fortune by a winter's work. He had obtained a job as bricklayer and had been working only a few weeks when a strike was called, and once more the future premier of Alberta and federal minister was on his beam ends.

That, however, was the last big crash. Thenceforth, Mr. Stewart moved ahead. Steadying things up by selling agricultural implements, he continued to work his farm; and, as the gods admire the man who can bear their buffets and smile through, his life began to prosper.

His career in Alberta politics was one of worthy achievement and was a useful stepping stone to the wider federal field. It was in the triumph of 1921 that he came to Ottawa and accepted the portfolio of the Interior, a post for which his prairie experiences aptly fitted him. His record in that department was one of lofty accomplishment: to the Western farmer "Charlie" Stewart was a real friend "at court."

His best achievement was the legislation which returned the natural resources to the prairie provinces. An intricate and vexed problem, he negotiated it with eminent success and to the avowed satisfaction of all concerned. While always mindful of his responsibilities as a Dominion minister, he nevertheless saw to it that the basis for this transfer was a fair and equitable one to all. It required the delicate tact of a diplomat to smooth over the rough places that revealed themselves in the course of the negotiations. But Mr. Stewart had tact, and what was, perhaps, of greater importance, he had a human sympathy founded upon an understanding of prairie problems which was begotten of personal contact with them. An able, sincere and thoroughly dependable minister, he was a diligent worker and a competent executive.

SWEDISH TARS LOCATED V2'S

Stockholm Editor Says Countrymen Did Much to Help Defeat Germans

REGINA, ©—Sweden did many things for the Allies which could not be published during the war. Dr. K. G. Bolander, a senior editor of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, said in an interview here during a Canadian tour.

Dr. Bolander said the alertness of Swedish sailors led directly to the bombing of Peenemunde where the destructive V2's were being developed. The bombing has been credited with delaying the V2 attack by several months and shortening the war.

Swedish sailors had noticed that vast amounts of concrete were being taken into Peenemunde and reported these and other activities to the British.

The Swedish people were interested in Canada but had no inkling of the vast industrial strides taken by the Dominion during and since the war.

Dr. Bolander said that much had been made of Sweden delivering ball bearings to Germany for the manufacture of fighter planes to "shoot down American boys." The fact was that a much greater quantity of bearing were delivered to Britain by British speedboats from the port of Lysekil.

When Allied planes flew over Sweden they were met by a mighty barrage but none were shot down because gunners had been instructed not to shoot at the planes. The display was merely for Germany's benefit. On the other hand, 40 German planes had been shot down, Dr. Bolander said.

Extends Education

LONDON, ©—Hitherto in England boarding schools have been mainly available only to the comparatively few children whose parents could afford the fees involved. A recent announcement by the ministry of education marks an important step in making boarding education available to all classes.

Under the Education Act of 1944 the duty is laid on local education authorities of seeing that boarding education is available to all children for whom, in the opinion of the parents and the authorities, it is desirable.

The ministry, in a recent circular says that as building facilities and other circumstances allow, boarding education will be greatly extended.

SATURDAY SERMON

PHILEMON
By REV. FRED ANTROBUS, First Baptist Church

The letter to Philemon, written by the apostle Paul, when he was in a Roman prison is one of the shortest books in the Bible but it is a real gem. It shows us what these early Christians thought of each other. The words "beloved," "fellow-soldier," "fellow-laborer," indicate a warmth and a friendship, which, I am sure, pleased the Master. It was said of the church then, by an outsider: "Behold how these Christians love one another."

Philemon was a "man of means," living in the city of Colossae. He had become a believer through Paul's ministry there and, henceforth, he imitated Lydia in Philippi, and Jason in Thessalonica, in opening his home to the servants of the Lord. In fact, the church met in his home. He had a slave, Onesimus, by name, who having robbed his master had run away as far as Rome.

There he met Paul, who although in prison, yet had his own private dwelling, guarded by Roman soldiers, who were members of the "elite" bodyguard of Caesar Nero. Like the younger son in the parable, he took his master's goods, and used them to get away from that master as far as he could, a master to whom he belonged, to whom he owed a great deal, and who loved him. Men are still doing that same thing with God, using the gifts of life, to get as far away from their Creator and Saviour as they can.

As a runaway slave, he was at the mercy of any who might find him for slaves were often branded then, like cattle now. So that, condemnation and death were hanging over his head continually although he supposed himself quite free to go where he wished. It is also true that "He that believeth on Him, is not condemned, but he that believeth not, is condemned already, because he hath not believed on the Name of the Son of God." However, it may become true for such that "There is therefore now, no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus."

Paul, in a Roman prison, proved that a man can be a Christian and engage in Christian work anywhere. Henceforth let no man complain of his circumstances, or hide his talents. Perhaps he remembered his own words on another occasion: "Be instant in season, out of season" for if any place was inconvenient, to be on the alert, on the job, surely a prison was.

In prison, too, Paul was constantly rubbing shoulders with his Roman guards, night and day. When he drobed at night, received on real "active service" they would see his "battle scars," on behalf of Christ, marks which the whip, the rod, the stones had made. Those scars would appeal to soldiers. They would ask questions about them and, beginning at that place, the place of his "marks of identification," he preached unto them "Jesus." No wonder that many of these soldiers gave their allegiance to a "greater than Caesar."

So too, Onesimus became a follower of Christ. As he had won the master, Philemon, so now Paul brought the slave. Here were two men at opposite ends of the social and economic situation. Here were "capital and labor." But "in Christ" there is "no distinction," for "in Him" there are no differences such as we make, between male and female, rich or poor, capital and labor, colored man or white man, bond or free. Our Lord prayed that they might be "one in Him."

What an example we have here of practical righteousness! What should Onesimus do now? Christ had received him for those who come to Him He will not cast out. That was the great thing of course. But there were debts to be paid, time and money had been taken from his employer. If restitution was possible, it must, by all means, be made. Zacchaeus, before him, had said: "If I have wronged any man, I restore to him, fourfold." Have we gained any of our possessions wrongfully?

Paul did not want to see Onesimus pay for his crimes with his life but go back home to his master he must. Right is right whatever the consequences may be. Paul is overjoyed when he finds out that this master of the slave is none other than his warm personal Christian friend Philemon, so he writes a letter, in his own handwriting, to Philemon. This letter is to secure acceptance for the slave with his old master. I am sure as he travelled back to Colossae, this letter gave the slave assurance, comfort and strength. God's Word will tell you the way of salvation and of acceptance with God and do the same for you. Don't deceive yourself, by supposing that you can do without it.

But what about the debt? The slave cannot repay it so Paul says, "I'll pay it. Put that to my account, if he owes you anything, or has wronged you." Our Lord says the same to His Father

SHORT SPORT

The lure of cash proved too much for the time-honored agreement against broadcasting among New York's three major league baseball clubs five years ago when a sponsor's bid, reported to be $75,000, caused Larry MacPhail to abrogate the 14-year pact and announce that Brooklyn Dodgers would broadcast all their games, at home and away.

Ottawa Senators set a new record in the Quebec Senior Hockey League by defeating Montreal Concordias 3-2 six years ago for their 12th consecutive game without a defeat. Their string was snapped next time out by Verdun Red Devils.

LIFE in this Prince Rupert
by BIDDEE JINKS

It's going to be different this year—Christmas, I mean. When the announcement is made "There are only 10 more shopping days until Christmas" nothing is going to roll all up inside of men and then burst with an internal bombardment something like the atomic bomb. No sir! Not this year—and I'll tell you why.

First of all, no more mail order shopping for me. It seems so simple, just sitting in your favorite chair, choosing the things you want and ordering them. Everything looks so good too—in the catalogue! Those glossy pages with everything from toys to Aunt Mattie's gloves and Uncle's shirt just reach out and beckon at you. But can you get them! And when one order-house lets you down surely one of the other six might not. But no—they can't do it either. So that's what I say. No final blank order is going to come sailing in on December 23 this year to leave me limp and in special need of Christmas "spirits" on the eve of the twenty-fourth. After 12 hours of steady shopping, I'm home with an empty purse and the wrapping staring me in the face.

Then, too, this year I can mail

PERSONAL
BEAUTIFUL Fuller nylon hair brushes. Now available. Phone Green 873. (287) cause me, but I've just got to get this mailed!

The wicket is getting slightly closer now and the toes have begun to feel like toes again and the ribs are gently responding to the rise and fall of normal breathing when some husky creature, seeing an inch or two of space, squeezes into the line just in front of you. A wave of faintness assails you almost immediately (bathing once a week is not enough, says Health Rule No. 1) and then he turns and yawns squarely in your face! People talk so nonchalantly of "last straws." I wonder, have they ever been held in a vise, one all rigged out in Christmas wrappings (and it seems to me that someone was humming a carol) while 100 per cent halitosis is breathed out right under their nose!

But human nature is wonderful, so they say, and I thought so myself when I saw the wicket only three people away. Yes, it was worth it all to get these parcels off. The poor dears would get them on time, too if they left on tonight's mail. And I didn't mind it so much. In fact, it was worth it all now that it was just about over. There! "She" was finished and that left only two people in front of me. I even turned to cast a pitying glance at the poor unfortunates strung away out behind me. Oh, well! If I did it, they could. Then I heard a bang. I dared not look. I just sort of peeked. It couldn't be—but it was. The wicket was closed!

A blighted Christmas, that's what it was. Santa Claus himself must have felt the pinch from his cherry nose to where he shakes like a bowlful of jelly. Any skinny chimney admitted him and his pack that year. But as I say, we're a cheerful lot. Optimism is the word. That's why this Christmas is going to be different.

TOC H CONCERT
SHOWS FINE
CITY TALENT

An indication of the broad scope of talent available in Prince Rupert was displayed last night at the Toc H variety concert in the Civic Centre auditorium, where an audience of some 300 applauded the entertainers presented by more than a dozen local performers.

Proceeds from the show are being turned over to the Pioneers' Home Fund by the Toc H group.

Musical presentations included three opening choruses by the Borden Street school choir directed by Principal J. S. Wilson, delightful arrangements of "All Through the Night," "John Peel" and "The First Noel."

A monologue sketch by G. Aubrey Bate and two vocal solos by Mrs. Terry Fortune preceded a gymnastic display by members of the Rup Rec leaders' class under Neil Ross.

Harmonica solos by David Jones, "Temptation" and "To Each His Own," accompanied by Mel Skalmerud on the electric guitar were followed later in the program by a vocal solo, "Blue Skies," sung in the Hoagy Carmichael manner by Mel Skalmerud, accompanied by the electric guitar and Mr. Jones's harmonica.

Dr. R. G. Large, baritone, sang two solos, "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," while Corporal Wallace, tenor, sang "Danny Boy" and "Irish Lullaby." John Frankey's two pianoforte solos were extremely well received.

Climax of the show was a venerable one-act comedy, "Box and Cox," the maiden effort of Prince Rupert's new Little Theatre Group, with a cast consisting of Rev. Basil S. Prockter, G. Aubrey Bate and Noel Jones.

Final presentation was by the Prince Rupert Symphony Orchestra, which played a series of numbers under direction of Neville Gerard.

Accompanists during the evening were Mrs. V. Seaman, with the Borden Street choir, Miss Frances Moore, Charles Balagno and Andy McNaughton

Children composing the Borden Street school choir were: Anita Brue, Barbara Moore, Barbara Stalker, Margit MacArthur, Messina Pavlikis, Roberta Paul, Myrtle Miller, Marjorie Way, Lorraine Gurvich, Betty Hillyer, Barry Lashmar, Jimmy Holt, Elvin Phillips, Dick Nickerson, Joan Grimble, Pat Gurvich, Sherry Lashmar, Marion Horne, Beverly Corner, Olie Strand, Tommy Moorehouse, Lenore Nelson, Dorothy Hibbard, Ronnie Black, Mary Lou Lunn, Ivy Gillespie, Beatrice Yuen, Jack Antone, Jacquelyn Moore, Diane Paquette, Marina Jones, Gerald Roberts, Stanley Parker, Alex Wesley, Molly Peterson.
