Communists Lead French Voting, Red Premier Is Post-Election Possibility

PARIS (CP)— The Communists emerged today as France's largest political party on the basis of returns from Sunday's elections and thus paved the way for the possible naming of the first Communist premier in the country's history. Voting was for deputies for the new national assembly. Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, was mentioned as the new premier.

Civic Elections...

F EVER A TIME existed when a strong, sound, experienced Council were needed in Prince Rupert that time is immediately ahead, especially the next two years.

Men and women too who have shown their ability in successfully handling community and business affairs should be encouraged to offer their services on the Council and School Board. Even if they are among the defeated, as some must necessarily be, they would gain an excellent experience invaluable to themselves. They would confer a greater benefit upon the community who would learn much from their ideas and plans on municipal affairs. Those seeking re-election would be stimulated by a contest to bring forth the story of their good works about which they would otherwise be less communicative and lose the credit they deserve.

Acclamations are no doubt very nice to receive. But they breed inertia, stagnation and self-satisfaction that do no good to the recipient and less to the city. They often reflect a community that lacks ambitious, virile people possessed of the spirit of service. Acclamations should be reserved, if given at all, for those who have rendered long and special service.

Voters should re-elect those whom they consider worthy of continuance in office, but it is far better for themselves and the community that candidates should fight for the policies they espouse than to be returned without having to explain or defend them.

Candidates have been slow to announce their intentions. There should be no more delay. The several offices to be filled can not get the best talent. at the last minute.

Organizations that sponsor candidates should take time to consider those proposed. The importance of this city demands that every taxpayer and voter consider well the calibre of the candidates for public office.

"NEW SECRET" UNUSUAL

MHAT HOPES does the future hold W for mankind as long as the atomic bomb can be used to destroy civilization? That was the problem that haunted Bob Harrow, who had helped make the atomic bomb, when he came home from the war. How he calmed his fears and came to see that nuclear fission might also be a force for good provides the theme for "New Secret," an unusual first novel by a Winnipeg writer, Lillian Beynon Thomas.

"Dad, that atomic bomb is the most tremendous thing that has ever happened," Bob said at the supper table on his first night home. "We'll have to live differently, think differently or we're headed straight for suicide. This old earth has reached a dead end. Man can destroy that on which we live and from which we get our life. Man can blow this earth and man himself to smithereens."

It bothered Bob so much that he decided to leave his Minnesota farm and his wife, Little Dutch, and go to university for a psychology course which he hoped would fit him for the atomic age. In Minneapolis, where his associates included a kindly minister and a young divorcee, a girl from his home community led him into the hands of spies who sought to pry from him his knowledge of the atomic bomb.

The minister, arriving at just the right moment and handling a pistol with uncanny skill, rescued him from that dilemma. Together they exposed the spy ring to authorities in Washington and the adventure helped Bob to decide to go home. There he befriended some neighbors and, having become a father, decided the outlook for mankind was not so dark after all.

"Our food, clothing and shelter, I insist must be merely equipment to enable us to discover what man is, where he came from, where he is going and what the purpose of life is," he said. "Can you think of any more splendid ideal, anything more likely to draw all men of all nations together? Ever since the night my. son was born I have realized there is some living force in this worldcall it Life, God, whatever you like —that is worth living for and I'm going to live for it."

And on that note "New Secret" ends. It is a novel with a message and departs from the usual story pattern to emphasize its argument.

SHIPBUILDING

DRINCE RUPERT people can be expected, when they hear of the keen activity current at present with a view to winning shipbuilding contracts for shipbuilding yards on this coast, some of which activity appears to have already been crowned with some success, to wonder again why something cannot be done about providing some sort of work for the Prince Rupert dry dock. No doubt the Canadian National Railways feel the situation as keenly as we do and are quite anxious to obtain something, some how or other, to bring about activity at the currently moribund plant. The condition can be more satisfactory to them, than it is to us all.

We have suggested already to the railway management that, if they cannot find something for their big plant to do instead of just taking up good space on the waterfront, they should, if possible, spare no effort to find somebody who will. Having assured us of their co-operation in activity doing everything they can towards promoting the use of their properties here, we have but to rely on that assurance and hope that, with our mutual efforts, something may be done about the matter.

dollars was paid to living policyholders through matured endowments, dividends, disability claims, annuities and cash surrender values. That's what life insurance is doing for us Canadians.

Armistice Days Again Re-Celebrated Here Last Night

When the shooting stopped in 1918 and again in 1945, Canadian soldiers paused to give thanks for their deliverance, then proceeded to celebrate their escape from war. Those celebrations have been perpetuated annually since that time in the form of Canadian Legion "smokers" such as was held in the Prince Rupert Armory last night.

An estimated 300 Canadian ly blinded players, led on to the Legion members and guests attended last night's smoker which like all of this year's Remembrance Day functions, was the biggest in recent years. Legion hospitality, too, reached an unprecedented peak.

Entertainment was provided by a number of performers, including J. S. Wilson, who sang two Irish songs, the dramatic monologues of Reg King, and G. Aubrey Bate and Harry Astoria, and sones by Lloyd Wallace.

A feature of the evening was the presentation by Legion President Vic Houston of a past president's badge to Hugh Killin, a member of the Prince Rupert branch for 27 years, who recently completed his second term of office as president.

President Houston also wel-

Tickets for the big show with Ketchikan went on sale at the week-end and, according to reports at press time, were much in demand. Admission to the Ketchikan series will be by ticket seats should order at once.

The all-star team nicked by the league executive to meet Ketchikan started practices last evening and looked as good to Alaskans at the Roosevelt Park

Much excitement is now apparent in the ranks of the Bo-Me-Hi club over the prospect of meeting Savoys as a preliminary game to the Ketchikan-Rupert 184 game next Friday and it seems they definitely reel victory is assured. Coach Alex Bill still isn't making any statements as to whether or not his boys are Holkestad back from Ocean Falls going to take home the bacon and maybe he acts wisely. Savoy now have Joe Davis and Me. Holkestad back from Ocean Falls and, even though they will lose Ted Arney to the All-Stars they still look mighty strong for tha students.

It's NOT only that everyone uses cotton goods for clothing and in dozens of articles which they may never think of as containing cotton -such things as garden hose, electric wiring, oilcloth, window shades . . .

Everyone has a stake in the textile industry because whole Canadian towns depend for employment on textile mills . . . The millions of dollars paid out every year in wages find their way into the pockets of farmers, fishermen and miners as well as into the hands of grocers, butchers, bakers, railwaymen . . . in fact everybody benefits.

It is important to every Canadian that these cotton goods are made in Canada by Canadians, and that their wages are spent in Canada.
