Second Body In Month Found

Discovery Near Port Edward Believed Remains of Jack Balfour

For the second time in less than a month, the sea near Prince Rupert has yielded up a human body, this time believed to be that of Jack Balfour, 24-year-old army veteran who perished when his boat was wrecked in a storm off Port Edward last October 30.

The body, in a badly decomposed condition, was discovered late Saturday afternoon on the west side of Ridley Island, near Port Edward, by Chetman Leavitt, of Port Edward. It was lying on the beach, apparently washed up by the sea.

Although positive identification had not been made by early afternoon today, the body is believed to be that of Jack Balfour, of Toronto, who was lost in a storm after a wild night in which he and his partner, Victor Dell of Prince Rupert, clung to their small disabled craft for more than 12 hours.

In the early hours of the morning of October 31, Dell and Balfour decided to swim to shore but Balfour was so exhausted that he drowned in spite of Dell's attempts to assist him. Dell made it to shore about a mile from Port Edward.

Balfour and Dell had left Port Edward in Balfour's newly-purchased boat at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of October 30 and, as they were in unsheltered water, heading for Prince Rupert, the engine stopped. Before it could be started again, huge waves flooded the vessel, and there followed a night of horror and death.

An inquest into the circumstances surrounding the body which was discovered Saturday was set for this afternoon by Coroner M. M. Stephens. It was expected that positive identification of the body as that of Balfour's would be made.

The body is the second one to have been found lying on a beach within the last three weeks. Earlier this month a body, later identified as that of Hans Jacobson, 73-year-old hunter, was found on a small island in Kitkalla Inlet, some distance from where the elderly man disappeared while on a hunting trip on Porcher Peninsula last October 4.

Studious Tommy Brown Amazes Portland Audience—Wins Cash

(By AL WILLIAMSON in Vancouver News-Herald)

On a holiday tour recently, Tom Brown, well-known Prince Rupert lawyer, found he had time to kill in Portland and decided to browse through the public library. There he found interesting reading in the story of the founding of Portland, its history and development. Later, he dropped in to a theatre with equanimity: "I suppose it's because of our education system."

Jews Flog Britishers

Officer and Three N.C.O.'s Whipped in Retaliation—Widespread Manhunt On

JERUSALEM — All troops of the British Sixth Airborne Division in Palestine were recalled from leave last night and a widespread manhunt, including use of police dogs, was begun in an effort to track down Jewish terrorists responsible for the kidnapping and subsequent public flogging of a British Army major and three sergeants.

The major, identified as Major Brett, a hero of Arrheim, and the non-commissioned officers were kidnapped and each given 18 lashes in what is believed to be a blow-for-blow retaliation for a flogging administered by the authorities Friday to a Jew convicted of bank robbery.

All Jewish communities along the Palestine coast have been placed out of bounds to 30,000 British troops on duty in the area as the authorities sought the kidnapers.

Military sources predicted that the authorities, fearing that the troops might seek vengeance for the floggings, would keep ruling by force at least until after New Year's Eve.

Several arrests were made during the night and the authorities said they had found two five-foot wires, a tommy-gun, two revolvers, a quantity of ammunition and three grenades in a car in which the men were riding.

UNITED STATES MARINES TO ENTER MYSTERIOUS NORTH B.C. VALLEY

TORONTO — A peacetime airborne invasion that will seek to crack mystery of British Columbia's famed Nahanni Valley will be launched next summer by a group of volunteers of the United States Marine Corps, it was announced here yesterday.

Heading the group is Lieut. W. E. Bateman of the United States Marines who is a member of a company of adventurers formed while serving in the Pacific during the war. They will use parachutes and employ Army "ducks" to invade the valley in an effort to find John Patterson who entered the valley in June and failed to return.

The valley holds the secret of the disappearance of a number of prospectors in the last twelve years and some believe that a mysterious disease lurks there.

No Inflation, No Deflation

CANADA did not have the serious inflation of prices of cost-of-living goods owing to the effective and persistent implementation of price ceilings sometimes against strong opposition in powerful places, so Canada may not have to suffer the boomerang of deflation, equally as damaging, which now appears to be in store for the United States. As spokesmen at Ottawa point out, the situation in Canada is not parallel to that in the United States so the price collapse that has commenced in the States and which, if not checked, may have most distressing economic repercussions there, may not be felt in Canada—at least not in as drastic or distressing degree.

What United States has suffered in the way of inflation during the past few months was reflected to mild degree in Canada, of course, but the courageous policy of the government in keeping on measures of control, even if it seemed unpopular at times, ameliorated the shock to great extent as every one who buys goods knows. The demoralization which goes with a sharp recession in commodity prices may be similarly averted to large extent in Canada, it is to be expected.

Canada still sets an example to the rest of the world in the matter of economic stabilization.

Railways and Rates

A STRONG CASE in support of increase in railway freight rates is, of course, made out in the annual statement of R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, when he shows how railway costs have mounted while revenue has decreased due to the falling off of the traffic which had been so stimulated by war traffic and the urgency of moving of Canada's production to supply the rest of the world at war.

The plight of the railways, of course, does not change the situation as far as the inability of such parts of the country as British Columbia to add increased freight rates to already mounting costs of production and, further in the face of existing inequalities in regard to rates is concerned. To reconcile the financial position of the railways with the ability of the providers of traffic to pay the costs is a problem similar to that which exists in many other situations in the Dominion today.

Hon. J. B. M. Baxter

AN AMBITION cherished from boyhood was realized when Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, whose death is recorded, filled a vacancy on the New Brunswick supreme court bench in 1931. On two later occasions he declined opportunities to go to the Supreme Court of Canada. Four years later his appointment as chief justice of New Brunswick came exactly 150 years after the first Saint John sitting of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. When Mr. Baxter was appointed chief justice he remarked: "Although I am the thirteenth to hold this office, and therefore the unlucky number, I will do my best to ensure that the ill luck shall fall upon the litigant who does not deserve to win!"

The new chief justice chuckled as he recalled how he left school at the age of 14 to earn his own living, how his first employer told him that he was unsatisfactory for the dry-goods business, and how he was dismissed from another position two years later because of insubordination.

John Babington Macaulay Baxter, named after Lord Macaulay, was frequently asked if he were a lineal descendant of the famous historian. Always replying in the negative, he once remarked that "Lord Macaulay's reputation is all the better because I am not his grandson. You see, Lord Macaulay never married."

One of his chief interests when premier of New Brunswick was the furtherance of co-operation between the three Maritime provinces, and he believed that a union under a central government would be of mutual benefit. One suggestion he made was that eastern members in the House of Commons should unite, regardless of party affiliations, whenever questions concerning the Maritime provinces were introduced.

Appointment of Mr. Baxter as chief justice of New Brunswick in succession to Sir J. Douglas Hazen was made Jan. 31, 1935, less than three years after he resigned as premier to take a place on the supreme court bench of this province. Previously he was attorney-general of New Brunswick and Dominion minister of customs.

CHRISTMAS OBSERVED — HOSPITAL TO REOPEN — T. HANSEN SUCCUMBS

STEWART—The week before Christmas was a busy one for the children of the district. The Primary Grades at the Stewart Superior School had a party at the school on the Wednesday. On Thursday the Women of the Moose gave their annual Christmas party to their members and friends to which the pupils of the higher grades were invited.

On Friday the Community Christmas Tree was held in the Legion Hall where 88 children met Santa Claus and received their gifts. The Parent-Teachers' Association initiated the latter and, with the assistance of the other organizations, carried it to a successful conclusion. Several playlets were presented by the pupils and were well received by a large and enthusiastic audience.

A public meeting was held to discuss the possibility of reopening the Stewart General Hospital. Seven new members were appointed to the Hospital Board replacing those who had left the district or resigned from the board during the past year. These were F. Harrison, H. Spooner, W. R. Tooth, Mrs. L. A. Behnen, Mrs. F. H. Lewis, W. J. Crawford, and J. J. McKenna. Arrangements were made to hold a dance on New Year's Eve in the Moose Hall. A committee is also being appointed to canvas the town with a view to getting full support of a scheme of yearly contributions to cover the operating costs. This has every likelihood of succeeding and it is hoped that in the near future the hospital will reopen with a qualified nurse in charge.

Thomas Hansen, aged 70, passed away after a severe illness on Sunday, December 15. Mr. Hansen resided here for 25 years. He was a native of Norway and became naturalized shortly after his arrival in Canada. He was in the employ of the Premier Gold Mine in the early stages of its development and had latterly been in the employ of the Hawkinson Laundry both here and in Prince Rupert. The funeral took place on Sunday, December 22. A. Russwurm, a warden of St. Mark's Anglican Church, conducted a short service at the graveside. H. A. Stewart was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Considerable anxiety was caused through the non arrival here of two men who had left the Morris Summit Mine at the beginning of the week for town intending to take the Monday

VICE-PRESIDENT OF C.N.R. NAMED

Maynard A. Metcalf is Appointed Executive Assistant

MONTREAL—Maynard A. Metcalf C.B.E., executive assistant to the president, Canadian National Railways, has been appointed vice-president and executive assistant, it was announced yesterday by R. C. Vaughan C.M.G., chairman and president. The appointment becomes effective January 1.

Beginning as a Junior clerk at Toronto when he was in his fifteenth year, the new vice-president has served the National system for nearly 37 years and in his long career has become one of the most popular of Canadian transportation men, known throughout the business community not only of Canada but also of the United States and Great Britain.

For his part in the large-scale contribution made by the Canadian National to the Allied cause during the war, he was honored by His Majesty the King last June when he was created a Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

While he is a dyed-in-the-wool railroader, Maynard Metcalf nevertheless, has time and energy for other activities. One of these is municipal affairs. After serving the town of Mount Royal, a residential suburb of Montreal as alderman for four years, he was elected mayor in 1941, an office which he held for four years.

NEW YEAR'S DINNER — For many a Canadian household New Year's Day celebrations include a dinner complete with just about as many trimmings as the big Christmas meal.

For those with chicken—or even a second turkey—in mind, the home economists suggest a method of getting four or five extra slices from the breast of that New Year's bird.

The wish-bone should be removed before the fowl is stuffed, by cutting out the neck at its base. Fold back the neck skin, which has been left long, and with a sharp knife cut the flesh on each side of the wish-bone.

Loosen the bone from shoulder to breast-bone with fingers, and with sharp scissors or pliers cut the bone where it is attached at the shoulder and breast-bone. It will then slip out easily. The bird requires a little more stuffing as the space where the neck was must be filled. The long piece of neck skin holds the stuffing in place.

This new method doesn't change the shape of the turkey or chicken, and it will be a joy to the carver to be able to cut large, even slices.

Speaking of stuffing, an idea for crumbling the bread easily and quickly is to cut a two-day-old loaf in thirds, and remove the crusts. Place one piece in a clean tea towel and gather the edges to form a bag. Hold in the left hand and with the right rub the cube or bread against the left until the crumbs are as fine as required. Repeat until the remainder of the bread is crumbled.

One loaf of 1 1/2 pounds gives six cups of crumbs. Allow 3/4 cup stuffing per pound of poultry.

NEOPOLITAN LOAF — This is the season for entertaining and an easy-to-prepare, yet colorful and appetizing dish for a luncheon or supper party is the jellied neopolitan loaf.

No special recipe is necessary as the dish simply is made up of jellied tomato salad and potato and chicken salad. Any combination of omelette, chicken, vegetable or meat, may also be used.

Directions: Place a layer of tomato jelly in the bottom of a mould or loaf tin which has been lightly greased or rinsed in cold water. When firm add a layer of potato salad and a layer of chicken salad. Pour the remaining tomato jelly into the mould. When firm unmould on serving place, garnish with parsley or green pepper strips and hard-cooked eggs. Serve with salad dressing, rolls or bread.

MINCEMEAT DROP CAKES — Here's a recipe for mincemeat drop cakes: 1/2 cup shortening; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 egg; 1 cup mincemeat; 2 cups sifted flour; 1/2 teaspoon soda; 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Cream the shortening and sugar, add the egg. Mix well. Add mincemeat. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes.

LIFE in this Prince Rupert
by BIDDEE JINKS

In Prince Rupert last week, as well as in myriads of homes across the breadth of the land, the Spirit of Christmas Past was being entertained. In Europe, where Christmas Day did not remove the gnawing teeth of starvation nor the sting of cold, it makes Schooge's wispy visitor look like a plutocrat. The Crochet's humble dwelling and scrawny goose would spell luxury and bewilderment even to a spirit who gazed miserably upon a gaunt-eyed family huddling themselves together beneath an airy roof or darkened cave, whose children had forgotten how to laugh, while worlds away, chimera rang out in gladness, and people were gay.

For to the majority, Christmas Past was kind. Even in this land where food is plentiful and good the year around, we somehow retain the ability to absorb extra upon occasion and to relish it. But in spite of its granted pre-eminence, the table is secondary to the happiness of those seated about it, where reunions are perfected and enhanced by comparison with other years. Many a mother basted the turkey with tender care this year, thankful that her boy was home once more, and many a wife watched "John" carve up the big browned bird, silent in her pride and the wonder of his return.

But now that the celebrated day is gone, many of us settle down and enjoy the Christmas time with a keener relish. For Christmas does not come and go on one day. Christmas Day and Christmas Eve are the hub of a great wheel around which spin the many spokes of happiness and cheer. And, once the grand rush is over, the huge dinner cooked and eaten, the tissue paper and ribbons picked up and all disposed of, or frugally folded away, we turn ourselves to the spokes.

I start with the cards. For cards mean friends. From the East coast, from the prairies, from the northlands, from across the line, and ocean, and our own west coast, they roll in. They come in tens and dozens and in bunches are hurriedly opened, scanned with one eye while the other stays with the parcels still to be wrapped and then up on the mantle they go, or are crowded together on the piano.

Now that I have time, and a great sense of "having accomplished," I take them all down and, turning my chair exactly right, I read them carefully one by one. The verses are always beautiful, the design artistic and full of the gaiety of the season, of an awe of the Nativity; but above both of these I find the warmth of a friend. In a hastily written note, there is no mention of evenings spent together, a steaming cup of tea beside the fire, the sincerity of a hand-clasp—yet before my eyes, they march across the page in vividness and everlasting gratitude to Providence that gave me this friend.

Turning from these, invariably we come back to our own home circle with its rich familiarity. What is to be found that can compare with the spontaneous joy of children, their utter contentment and happiness in a trifling toy, their bubbling laughter? Yet even as I listened, the picture arose of a home in a neighboring city left childless and quiet this year, when a little girl, in the excitement of her seventh birthday party, ran blindly in front of a truck. And so it came to me that, even in the symphony of this festive season the low notes of sorrow take their place. Through the lines written by Khalil Gibran we find the definition of pleasure, whether at this time of year, or any other.

Pleasure is a freedom-song. But it is not freedom. It is a depth calling unto a height.

But it is not the deep nor the high. It is the caged taking wing. But it is not space encompassed.

Ay, in very truth, pleasure is a freedom-song. And I fain would have you sing it with fullness of heart; yet I would not have you lose your hearts in the singing.

HOOP TALK

When the Duke of Connaught basketball squad arrives in Prince Rupert on New Year's Day they will have behind them a string of victories over the best teams in southern British Columbia and northern Washington State. This team from New Westminster will be the first southern high school team to play in Prince Rupert since basketball first started to be played in town. That is what makes this game so important to all local hoopsters. If the local students put on a good show it will do much to strengthen the ties between the north and the south of B.C.

Some interesting high-lights on the "Dukes" have been brought forward in correspondence with the coach of the southern team, Ken "Hooker" Wright, who has been coaching basketball teams for the past 15 years. When Ken was 18 he played for the University of British Columbia team that held the senior men's championship of B.C. Later he performed for the Westminster Adanacs, Varsity and Royal Canadian Air Force teams. The team he is coaching this year still has four players on the first string from last year.

When the Dukes arrive in town they will have an average age of 17 years, 10 months, average height of 5 feet 11 1/4 inches and an average weight of 158 1/2 pounds. This is almost identical with the averages of the "Rain-makers." But this is the only similarity between the teams. Whereas the local hoopsters play a wide-open style of ball, the "Dukes" play for possession of the ball. The difference is most notable in the way they make their baskets. Bo-Me-Hi brings the ball up fast and gets rid of it fast but the "Dukes" are the very opposite. They bring it up slow and work it very slowly until they have opened their opponents' defences. Then they boom the ball through to score.

Now that the local students are at last coming out of their slump they are in a good position to give the southerners a good beating in the first game. That is providing the local students of the green and gold keep coming out of their slump and put on some of the fight they showed last season. The games are to be played in the Civic Centre on Wednesday and Thursday.

GOLDBLOOM'S

In an intensive training program at H.M.C.S. Naden in Esquimalt, B.C., men of all branches of the post-war Royal Canadian Navy undergo new entry training designed to acquaint them with the rudiments of naval life. They learn to do things the navy way before going on to advanced technical training courses and actual sea experience on board Canadian warships.

(Upper Left)—CPO William Mundie of Salcoats, Sask., instructs Stoker Jack Palmer of Hamilton, Ont., in the use of an anti-aircraft training device which gives the trainee practice in making necessary allowances for the speed and angle of flight of aircraft.

(Lower Left)—Coiling rope is the seaman's forte but Air Mechanic Jack Eplett, Toronto, and Stoker Howard Dench, Brantford, Ont., can get things ship-shape on the bow of the captain's barge, thanks to their new entry training.

(Upper Right)—A complete knowledge of all parts of an aircraft is essential to these Air Stores Assistants, who will be handling the spare parts. Checking this plane are Paul Dunve of Kapuskasing, Ont., Paul Quiek of Moose Jaw, Alvin Bjornson, Dawson Creek, B.C., and Edward Haddad of Winnipeg.

COOKING IN KEEPING WITH YULETIDE SEASON SPIRIT

"Cooking With a Flare"
One of the truest expressions of the Christmas spirit is warm, open-hearted hospitality. At this season of the year we welcome our fire-side friends of many years and those of shorter acquaintance. Let us remember those who may be lonely away from home. This is one of the year when unexpected guests are really expected. However, this is no problem for the modern hostess. With an added touch of color, an unusual sauce, spice or garnish, it is an easy matter to spread "festivity" over any meal.

Many homemakers plan to buy goods in larger quantities than are required for immediate use. The unused portion she has an opportunity to use her imagination and exercise her creative art. In fact, many a homemaker has made for herself an enviable reputation for the smart ways in which she turns left-overs to good account. It is possible that the second and third editions will be more enjoyable than the first.

It may be that the homemaker wishes to entertain several friends at the same time. If space is at a premium, it may be wise to serve buffet style. The table, then, becomes the centre of interest, on which all eyes are focused. Let the gay mood of the occasion be reflected not only in the Yuletide decorations, the table centre piece, but also in the food. Whatever you plan to serve, left-over turkey or chicken is sure to appear in one of its many delightful and glamorous forms.

Home economists suggest the following recipes:

Chicken Yorkshire
2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 cups medium white sauce
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons pastry flour OR 1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
1 cup milk
1/4 cup chicken or turkey fat (melted)
2 egg whites.
Place chicken in bottom of a large greased casserole. Pour 1 cup white sauce over chicken and set in oven to heat. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks and add milk. Add liquid to dry ingredients and beat until batter is smooth. Add melted fat and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Batter will be quite thin. Pour over chicken and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 35-40 minutes. Serve at once from baking dish with the remaining cup of white sauce. Left-over chicken or turkey gravy may be used instead of the cream sauce. Six servings.

Turkey or Chicken Casserole
1 cup uncooked fine noodles

3 tablespoons chicken or turkey fat
1 green pepper, chopped
1 cup sliced mushrooms
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk OR 1 cup milk and 1 cup stock
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup grated cheese
3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 teaspoons fat
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Melt fat, add green pepper and mushrooms. Cook 15 minutes. Add flour and seasonings and blend well. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Arrange half the noodles, turkey, cheese and sliced eggs in layers in a large, greased casserole. Pour over half the sauce. Repeat with remaining ingredients. Melt the 2 teaspoons fat, add bread crumbs and toss together. Use for topping on casserole. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F. for 30-40 minutes. Six servings.

Turkey or Chicken Mousse
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water

CHRISTMAS AT PIONEERS' HOME

Residents at the Pioneers' Home enjoyed a good Christmas which began with a visit from the Women of the Moose who distributed individual gifts on Christmas Eve and continued with visits by three groups of carol singers. Led by Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitchell, a group of Job's Daughters carol singers sang to the men in the sitting room. Later, carol singers of First Baptist Church and First Presbyterian Church young peoples' groups arrived and their singing brought applause from the men.

Following breakfast on Christmas Day, the men received presents from Queen Mary Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. J. F. McGuire, Sgt. O. L. Hall and Earl Gordon. At noon a sumptuous dinner was served, which featured roast turkey.

The afternoon was spent in rest, and in the evening, supper was served, which included cooked ham, donated by the Family Meat Market, and a Christmas cake donated by Rupert Bakers.

Thanks of the residents of the Pioneers' Home was expressed by S. B. Calder, home superintendent, to those who contributed to their Christmas pleasure.

NO TRACE OF MISSING GIRL

ST. CATHERINES, Ont.
—Scattered groups of volunteer searchers at St. Catherines and surrounding sections of Lincoln County braved cold weather today to hunt for clues to the disappearance a week ago of a nine-year-old girl, Mario Rusnak. There were no developments during the week end. The girl was last seen in the company of a tall, dark stranger who is thought to have enticed her from her home with the promise that he would buy a Christmas present for her baby brother.

The father of the missing child said that he had given up hope of ever seeing her alive again.

SCOTTISH GIRL MARRIED HERE

Miss Mary Howden Becomes
Bride of Clarence Lovin

A transatlantic plane flight had its culmination for Miss Mary Ann Howden, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howden, of Leith, Edinburgh, Scotland, late Saturday afternoon when she became the bride of Clarence Brady Lovin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Lovin, in a quiet ceremony performed by Rev. A. F. MacSween in the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The bride, who met her husband during the war while he was serving overseas with the B. C. Dragons, looked lovely in a dress of blue crepe with fuchsia trimmings with shoulder bouquet. She was attended by Mrs. R. J. Lovin, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, wearing a dress of fuchsia trimmed with black, with corsage.

Groomsman was R. J. Lovin, brother of the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Lovin will make their home at Prince George and will leave this week for the interior city.

The bride arrived in Prince Rupert on Christmas Eve by train from Edmonton, after a plane flight from Scotland during which the plane was grounded for four days in Iceland due to engine trouble. The bridegroom enlisted in Prince Rupert in the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and went overseas with the B. C. Dragons. For the last year, since his discharge, he has been employed in Prince Rupert.

HITCHED TO A STAR—Little John Cannon, 22 months, of Amarillo, Texas, settles down under the protecting wing of Stewardess Patricia M. Peters aboard the T.W.A. Constellation "Star of Cairo" as the plane began a history-making non-stop flight from Boston, Mass., to Shannon airport, Eire. John is wearing white Texan boots, if you hadn't noticed. The "Star" landed in Eire a little over nine hours later. The "Star of Cairo" last week crashed in Eire, carrying many of her crew and passengers to death.
