Big Four Meeting

With Russia, United States, Britain and France agreed that foreign ministers of the "Big Four" should meet in Paris on April 25, there are strong grounds for hope that progress will be made along the thorny paths leading to the conclusion of durable European treaties. There have been many problems which the foreign ministers' deputies, with the best will in the world, have been unable to resolve. The drawing up of the Italian treaty perhaps presents the main problem. Where is the boundary to be drawn in the neighborhood of Trieste where, while the city's population is predominantly Italian, that of the hinterland is as predominantly Yugoslav? What should be the strength of the Italian navy, of which Russia is reported to be claiming a third part? How much reparations can Italy pay and how should these be allocated? What is to be the future of the Italian colonies?

Then there is Bulgaria where the United Kingdom and the U.S.A. continue to withhold recognition of the regime and, therefore, are not in a position to sign a treaty. It will be recalled that British and United States recognition was at the Moscow conference last autumn made conditional on the inclusion of two opposition members in the government. Opposition members would enter only on conditions unacceptable to the government—and there the matter rests.

Prospects for a Romanian treaty would doubtless be clearer if information as to conditions in the country were more readily available out-

Meanwhile, the draft treaty with Hungary has since April 8 been the subject of discussion by the council of foreign ministers' deputies, meeting in London. This is understood to be the first occasion the deputies have discussed this matter.

There remains the Finnish treaty which concerns the United Kingdom and Finland only. There is so far no news of discussions on this question.

No Shortage of Buildings

Buildings, buildings everywhere and still a definite shortage of reasonably priced and readily available housing seems to be the situation in Prince Rupert. Fifteen tenants who were thrown out of their quarters in the Dyer Apartments following last week's tragic fire were having difficulty at the end of the week in locating new dwelling places and others have evidently been having the same trouble. At the same time there are numerous empty wartime houses now and the city is full of war-built structures some of which might be admirably fitted for at least temporary shelter pending the availability of more desirable and permanent housing. The way things are now these empty structures are rapidly deteriorating into eyesores and definite menace whereas many of them could be put to immediate use were it not for arbitrary regulations and technicalities.

New Publicity Booklet

Prince Rupert and other centres along railway and highway out of here are splendidly publicized in an attractive new booklet "Central British Columbia" which has just come off the King's Printer's presses at Victoria and an advance copy of which has been received at the Daily News office. Soon 10,000 of them will be delivered here for distribution to tourists who will be here during the summer and to others.

As for Prince Rupert there is a well-written feature article setting forth in a concise manner the various attractive features of the city and neighborhood as well as its advantageous location and ready equipment for use as a world commercial centre. Well-selected pictures include an aerial view of the city, highway scenes and pictures of the dry dock as well as industrial shots. Another feature is a large map outlining the route of railway and highway between Prince Rupert and Prince George.

The Prince Rupert Public Relations Council collaborated with the British Columbia Government Travel Bureau in providing material for the booklet and will undertake the distribution of 10,000 copies from here.

"Central British Columbia" is a distinctively central British Columbia district production and there will, no doubt, be appreciative reaction to it.

Coalition Cabinet

Premier Hart chose a former attorney-general, Hon. Gordon Wismer, to succeed the late Hon. R. L. Maitland, says Prince George Citizen. No other lawyer in the House has had comparable experience with Mr. Wismer who is also recognized as a leading counsel and member of the Bar in British Columbia. With numerous bills awaiting passage through the legislature before its closing and the forthcoming Dominion-provincial conference on April 25 it was essential that Premier Hart have at his side forthwith an experienced assistant versed in constitutional law.

Two new cabinet positions have been created and both filled by members of the Progressive Conservative wing of the Coalition. This is an eminently fair distribution of portfolios with Hon. H. Anscomb gaining the leadership of his party.

The objections taken to the appointment of Mr. Wismer to the cabinet demonstrate the unsolidarity of the present Coalition in which each party maintains its own identity and separate organization. The result is that each organization is watching the other instead of concentrating on supporting the Coalition and its leaders or directing its entire fire on its opponents.

It is now clear that such an unsatisfactory arrangement can not long continue and a clear-cut stand must soon be taken as to the permanency or otherwise of the Coalition. Should Mr. Hart be called soon to the Senate, as is persistently rumored, an opportunity will be available for a new clarification of the present understanding between the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties. This might mean the creation of a permanent United Provincial party independent of the old party organizations or a return to the old separate parties. In any case it will likely precipitate this autumn provincial wide conventions. a realignment of political affiliations and a general election.

NURSE SHORTAGE CRITICAL HERE

One Floor of Local Hospital May Have To Be Closed

While the Prince Rupert General Hospital is advertising far and wide for nurses and while the Hospital Board in laying plans to start a training school for nurses here, announcement was made to the Hospital Board by lady superintendent, Miss Phyllis Mooney R. Advertisements in newspapers throughout western Canada have failed to bring any answer to the nurse shortage, Secretary Harry W. Birch told the meeting.

In line with a suggestion advanced by the Registered Nurses' Association in Vancouver, to whom the local board appealed, an appeal may be launched to get former nurses to return to the profession.

The fact that many trained nurses are leaving their jobs to get married is a major contributing factor to the shortage, in the opinion of the Registered Nurses' Association.

In the meantime, the local Hospital Board is endeavoring to get information concerning the The board plans to join a requirements for establishing a nurses' training school in connection with the Prince Rupert General Hospital. The Board seeks information on the entrance requirements of student

A special message to INCOME TAX PAYERS EARNING $1800 OR LESS

Professor J. L. McDougall of Queen's University has informed a special committee of the Senate, that if co-operatives, crown companies, government and municipally owned corporations were taxed on the same basis as other businesses, they would pay up to 125 millions of dollars in Income and Excess Profits Taxes annually.

This means that 125 millions of potential taxes are not being collected. This additional burden is thrown on other businesses, big and small, and on individual income tax payers. It is the equivalent of $50.00 for every individual income tax payer in Canada.

It this 125 millions of dollars of revenue were collected, the Department of National Revenue could, without reducing its revenue, wipe out the personal income tax on 1,423,000 tax payers with incomes below $1800.

A New Danger Has Arisen

This situation is in danger of becoming worse instead of better. A Royal Commission has recommended that profits, if paid out as patronage dividends to customers, should be treated as an expense in computing taxable income. If this recommendation becomes law, any business could then pay out all, or practically all, of its profits as patronage dividends, leaving nothing to tax.

There can be no objection to the payment of patronage dividends. That should be the right of any business. But as long as there is a tax on income or profits, all profits must be subject to income tax. Patronage dividends should be paid only from taxed profits. To deduct patronage dividends before computing taxable income would undermine the whole income tax structure. The result would be an increased burden of income taxes for individuals.

Unloading the Tax Burden on You

The rapid expansion of co-operatives during recent years of high taxation has been due to the fact that they have been able to escape paying income tax. Should this tax inequality be allowed to continue?

If so, this country will witness the expansion of great tax-free co-operatives and the gradual elimination of tax-paying privately-owned business. That will mean millions more in income tax-revenue lost to the government. Can individuals be expected to shoulder this extra burden of taxation?

Revision of The Income War Tax Act, insofar as it concerns Co-operatives, will come before the current Session of Parliament. It is of utmost importance that such revisions shall bring tax equality to all groups. We urge that the income tax payers of Canada insist that their elected representatives in the House of Commons see that the heavy burden of income tax is shared fairly by all.

The Income Tax Payers Association has no objection to the principles of co-operative trading. It should be the right of every Canadian to trade as he desires. Our objective is to ensure that no section of business unloads its share of income taxation and cost of the war on other business or on individual income tax payers.

High School Rainmakers just "dripped" by the Savoy Intervets in the second game of the City Intermediate playoffs 65 to 64 Saturday night. It was one of the most exciting games played this year. High School started the scoring with a basket by Eddie Ciccone this particular Bo-Me-Hi player fruits of all thine increase so never slacked up for one moment during the entire game. He made a total of 23 points from the guard line.

> High School took an early lead and, at the half, led 32-27 with Ciccone and Forman doing the heavy scoring for the school. Joe Davis led the Intervets during the first half with 12 points and Arney made 6.

Bo-Me-Hi started the second half without the services of Jim Forman, the Rainmaker's big gun, who was ill. Savoys capitalized on this break and scored two quick baskets by Arney to make the score 32-31. At this point Forman re-entered the game and the school began to pick up. Three-quarter time saw the score 53-49 for the Rainmakers.

In the fourth quarter both teams reached down into their last reserve of strength and put on a spirited drive for the win. During this quarter the lead changed twice. First of all Savoys tied the score and then took a two-point lead. Then the students tied it up and went on to take the longest lead of the game -nine points. Savoys came right back with Arney and Holkestad to tie the score with but two minutes of the game remaining. With one minute left Forman committed his fourth personal of the game and Davis made the try good to put the Savoys up 64-63. With but 50 seconds left Forman made an almost impossible leaping pivot shot that spun off the backboard for two big points to chinch the game for the Students 65-64.

Ted Arney, Savoy's star forward, nearly burst up the Rainmaker's winning cloud. Arney was held in the first half to six points but, during the second, he got going and dropped in twenty points making his total 26 for his night's work. Arney is the Rainmakers' chief worry and it is hoped by the students that he will leave his shooting eye at home Tuesday night. Jim Forman played a terrific game at centre for Bo-Me-Hi amassing a total of 25 points and was missed the few minutes he was off the floor. Don Hartwig, student's floor captain, played strenuous game driving his teammates to their limit and at the same time being all over the floor helping on defence and offence. Thompson played a fine game at guard and Lavigne a strong game at forward for the school. Haugan, Alexander, and Vuckovich were good for Savoy.

> The ordination service opened with a processional hymn, "Crown Him With Many Crowns", as the choir, followed by the candidate, Rev. Mr. Prockter, Canon Rushbrook and Bishop Gibson, in that order of precedence, proceeded down the aisle to the chancel.

In the sermon which followed.

Preliminary to the ordination Rev. Mr. Prockter, outlined the dedicated powers of the priest. hood, emphasizing the duties of the clergy to the people, and those of the people to the clergy. Canon Rushbrook then presented Mr. Hills, the candidate, to Bishop Gibson.

The Litany "O God, The Father of Heaven" was sung by Rev. Mr. Prockter, with antiphonal response by the choir, led by Peter Lien. This was followed by short ante-communion service led by Canon Rushbrook.

Examination of the candidate was made by Bishop Gibson, who, prior to ordination, led in singing the antiphonal hymn "Veni Creator Spiritus" (Come, Holy Ghost), with response by the choir and congregation. The ordination rite was concluded with the reading of the Nicean Creed by the Bishop.

Following the offertory hymn, "And Now, O Father", Holy Communion was administered by the Bishop, and the service concluded with the hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."
