MEANS MUCH FOR RUPERT

Alaskans More and More Anxious to do Business Here, Says S. C. Thomson

Business people of southeastern Alaska cities are extremely anxious to obtain greater and greater quantities of goods from Prince Rupert, says S. C. Thomson, local wholesale produce merchant and pioneer in developing this trade for the port, who returned on the Princess Louise last evening from a business trip to Ketchikan, Wrangell and Juneau. The current cutting off of the supply of goods from Seattle to Alaska on account of the tying up of American ships because of the maritime strike has but served to intensify the desire of the Alaskans to trade with this port rather than Seattle.

Greater Love Hath No Man . . .

A Guest Editorial
by Rev. Basil S. Prockter,
St. Andrew's Cathedral

WHATEVER fancy ideas we may have deluded ourselves into believing about the value of human life, we shall never be able to take from the glory of those who counting not their lives dear unto themselves expended them, saving us and our world from ruthless domination by force and militarism. I can think of nothing so cheap as a word from the mouth of a living person which would in any way minimize the glory of those who have made the Supreme Sacrifice.

If we didn't get all that we wanted as a result of the First World War and if all the dreams concerning this post war period do not come true, we must still revere the fallen, for certainly they gave all they had and no man or woman living can ever say they have done that.

If the struggle which is now terminating is to avail us anything it will have to shake us right out of the notion that it is a supreme value just to be alive and to enjoy the fruits of earth. There may be nobler things to die for than King and Country. And certainly King and Country meant to the great majority of our war dead the Christian home and the Christian way of living—a far greater thing than national boundaries and Imperial Supremacy. But even a Nazi who is willing to die in order that Germany shall rule the world is worthy of more respect than those who are willing to die for nothing or nobody but are just out to save their own skins.

Wars are a supreme and bitter test of the faith that is in us and the victory is ultimately with those who have the strongest faith. Those who just believe in living lose their lives and their freedom by being pushed around according to the will of those who believe in something beyond just living. "He that seeketh to save his life shall lose it." There was a pit prepared for us all and how nearly we all went the way of France, we shall never know.

Kindness is a virtue, but divorced from courage and faith, it is simply softness. Softness is not a virtue. We should be thankful that, in spite of the predominance of the material point of view in our generation, our youth were not soft, but still had some glimmering of the glory of freedom and the enormity of tyranny.

"May we hope that we do not again return to the lazy tolerance of 1918-39? We face whole nations of people who have beliefs which are stronger than their love of life and which will not be beaten out of them by force of arms. Wicked as those beliefs are, they can still undermine our very existence if the only opposition we have is that of the sword.

The question we should be asking ourselves as we salute our war dead is are we ready to fight and die for that which we believe to be right and true and good and honest? For if we are not ready we shall once again show ourselves unworthy of the great sacrifice which has been made in order that we might go forward and build worthily. Our dead have saved us from our enemies. We have to possess the courage and faith to make use of their gift of freedom to us.

CONGRATULATIONS!

ON THE EVE of the arrival of the company's latest new ship in port, the business people of Prince Rupert, the travelling public and the citizens generally will join with the Daily News in appreciatively congratulating Union Steamships Ltd. on their sustained progressiveness, enterprise and readiness to serve this part of the coast. It is the occasion for a sort of a double congratulation too—first upon the introduction of the new ship into service on the Vancouver-Prince Rupert-Stewart service, in which the company has operated so faithfully and well these many years, and, second on the institution later this month of an altogether new run—that from Vancouver through to Ketchikan.

The latter departure is of double importance to Prince Rupert. It not only provides a much needed weekend service between Prince Rupert and Vancouver but it gives a new sailing between Prince Rupert and southeastern Alaska, something which is especially propitious at this time when we are endeavouring to further promote the traffic between this port and the territory.

Pioneers recall how nearly forty years ago now the old passenger liner Camosun and the little freighters Coquitlam and Capilano gave such yeoman service in their day, how Union Steamships introduced such luxury liners in their time as the Cheloshin and the Venture, then the up-to-date Cardena and Catala. Nor should we forget the good freighters Chilliwack and Chilkoat. Now comes the Coquitlam, which we welcome in Prince Rupert tomorrow, and later in the month the new Camosun.

It has been said of the Union Company that it would stop its ships anywhere along the coast to even deliver or pick up a fisherman's or logger's letter. That may be stretching a point but it is a remark that typifies the unique kind of local good samaritan service that this company has rendered with ships and men that have become an institution as popular as they are appreciated.

Keeping up with the times and the needs, the "Union" becomes a little bigger, a little more high-class and a little more luxurious and efficient now with its new ships but the company's friends know that the standard of service designed to meet local requirements with thorough-going care and meticulous courtesy will be maintained by the new ships as they were by the old. In that spirit we will greet the new Coquitlam and later the new Camosun.

Again, a hand to Union Steamships Ltd!

OUR VILLAGE IDIOTS

THE PROVINCE of Vancouver, where Hallowe'en deprecations somewhat exceeded those of Prince Rupert, writes editorially as follows:

"As usual, a group of pathetic, teenage morons succeeded in spoiling Vancouver's Hallowe'en festivity Thursday night.

"Under the pitiful impression they were gay young blades, having fun, these empty-headed vandals embarked on a spree of destructive irresponsibility that would have shamed a cage of apes.

"Their flair for fun was expressed in smashing hundreds of street lights, tearing up miles of fences, overturning automobiles, breaking windows, dragging a trailer from its parking lot and burning it on the street car tracks and, in one instance, firing a shot through a window.

"This is the sort of thing Vancouver's young people should be ashamed of, not only because it is lawless but also because it is idiotic. It is hard to believe that any intelligent youngsters can find much fun in destroying property.

"Most of us were guilty of such old Hallowe'en pranks as stealing a gate and roping it up a tree, where the owner could reclaim it with a stint of agility and profanity. But it is another thing to tear the gate to pieces.

"This latterday stunt seems to be the prerogative of the village idiots."

WHAT OF THE MORROW?

War's alarms are here again—and fear reigns in the hearts of men. Let us get things in perspective—where the world is headed for. Have the nations gone lunatic—sadistic, or fanatic. That the only God they worship is the god of hate and war?

Can we not learn in season—that for neither cause nor reason, The dogs of war are loosed upon the world. Will they never stop declaring with trumpets loudly blaring, The doves of peace or fable—the flag of wars unfurled?

Why can't nations get together—brother shaking hand of brother, And form an honest international brotherhood of man. Then the earth will give its bounty—in each and every country; Starvation and privation then we can forever ban.

It takes no prophet, takes no sage—this modern atomic age, To scrutinize and visualize the world as it would be. Earth's beauty torn asunder—Death and rapine, theft and plunder, And pain and anguish—stretching sea to sea.

So beware, Sirs, ye statesmen—strive for peace—do not be hated men!

For if again war's curse arise—if ye allow this sin, The gates of Hell are open—(and these words have been spoken), "Abandon hope, all ye who enter in."

—ALEXANDER McEWAN.

REMEMBRANCE DAY OBSERVED

Impressive Meeting Yesterday at Borden Street School

Observance of Remembrance Day was carried out at Borden Street School on Friday morning when the various grades assembled before 11 o'clock to take part in the service.

The program began with the singing of "O Canada," followed by "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." J. S. Wilson spoke briefly on the subject of Remembrance. He said that there were two thoughts each should have in his mind. One was to remember what men had done in the past to save the world from evil. The other thing to remember was what each should do now for the future. The children then sang "The Children's Song."

Bugler Rance sounded "Last Post" and, after the silence, "Reveille." The school choir sang "In Flanders Fields." The children were much impressed by the sounding of the bugle calls by Mr. Rance and showed their appreciation by hearty applause. They were much interested to learn that both Mr. Rance and Mr. Wilson had served overseas in the same battalion which had fought in the "Flanders Fields" of the famous poem.

The hall was appropriately decorated for the service with poppies and poppy designs bordering an ornamental sign.

SATURDAY SERMON

REMEMBRANCE DAY

(By REV. R. G. HILLS, St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Terrace)
"If Ye Break Faith With Us Who Died."

Faith is the greatest principle for which they gave their lives and for which Christ Jesus died that all may be free—is the faith which we have been asked not to break an impossibility to keep? We are told that faith is a practical necessity. Is it an unreasonable demand? Is faith just a myth or a mirage?

Faith is an attitude of spiritual adventure, a confidence, a trust in a higher reason than that of pure reason. The difficulty which keeps men from Christian Faith, the faith of miracles, may be the law of nature. If nature is all there is in life then miracle is out of the question. But is the Universe not greater than nature? Are we not living in a Universe in which there are different planes?

Is man's life only a working machine, like a mechanical calculus, or is it a great whole with complex compilation of mechanism, sentiment, intellect and spirit, all working on different levels?

If our wills are really free, we can alter and interfere with material nature and we can make things happen which otherwise would not. The question arises again: Is the world all in itself or is it only part of a vast and greater whole? Is the law the order of the whole or of that of which all we know is only a tiny part?

In history and religion there is meaning of certainty apart from faith. Cold reason alone has no hope beyond the grave. Reason and Science alone have nothing to cheer us. The only weapon is Faith—the Christian Faith with its teachings of God of love. The Christian Faith may not solve all mysteries but it does give us hope to carry on, the ability to escape from an intellectual prison house which is built up around us.

Faith is an adventure. If Columbus had waited for a chart, he would have never started out and found a new continent. Faith is reasonable. No, those who sleep in Flanders Fields have not died in vain. We shall uphold the Faith of those who died. They may sleep in fields in peace where poppies grow.

HOOP TALK

While Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame is keeping his fingers crossed and wondering how his charges are going to stop Blanchard and Davis in today's classic at Yankee Stadium, Neil Ross, coach of B.C. Packers in our own basketball league, is endeavoring to cook up a formation to stop 99 Taxi tonight at the Civic Centre. He very nearly came up with a win last time his boys matched wits and ability with the so far unbeaten Taxi squad and may do just that tonight.

STARS ON ICE

By ED IGOE

Pete Backor, husky defenceman of the Pittsburgh Hornets in the American Hockey League, is comparatively new in the ranks of Professional hockey but is accustomed to receiving all-star honors. Pete, who stands six feet and weighs 185 pounds, hails from Ft. William, Ontario. He played with the Ft. William Sextet in 1938 and 1939 and then starred for the next five seasons with the St. Catherine's Senior team in the O.H.A. During his amateur days he was selected on the Toronto Star's All-Star Sextet in 1939, 1940 and 1941. During the off-season, when not busy working as a machinist or carpenter, Pete plays softball and was a member of the Canadian Legion Softball champions.

GYM CAPACITY NOW ABOUT 600

Prince Rupert Civic Centre Venue One of Most Comedious in B.C.

Seating for almost 600 spectators is available in the Civic Centre gym now that the new side balconies have been completed, according to Civic Centre Manager Don Forward who Friday was laying out the seating plan for the Prince Rupert-Ketchikan basketball games next week.

The new balconies, which contain two rows of seats along both side walls, will seat 222 spectators, 109 in the first row and 113 in the rear row. The front row side balcony seats have been numbered and will be reserved for the forthcoming intercity meet.

Of the two end balconies, the larger one at the north end which holds 190, has been set aside for students, while the smaller one at the south end is held for adult "rush" tickets. It has a capacity of 45.

Seats on the floor level, bordering the basketball court, also will be in the reserve category for the Ketchikan games. These will accommodate 125 spectators in addition to space for players and scoring officials.

"The only gym in the province with more seating space is the one at the University of British Columbia," Mr. Forward said with more than a hint of pride. "Of course there are arenas in southern cities which have greater capacity but only one true gymnasium."

Should a boxing or wrestling card be held in the gym, the accommodation could be boosted to between 1,000 and 1,100 by putting seats all around the ring, Mr. Forward said.

Education Week

November 4 - 9

(By a Minister)

Among the most fortunate on the face of the earth are the children of the world. They are the most precious of our treasure, the most beautiful of our heritage, and the most hopeful of our future. It is our duty to provide them with the best of education, to give them the tools they need to build a better world for themselves and for all of us.

There is no reason to be afraid of modern education. It is the human heart, we know, that is the key to the majority. Education is the pursuit of pleasure, the pursuit of knowledge, the pursuit of understanding, and the pursuit of a better life. It is the most wonderful opportunity that we have, and it is our duty to make the most of it. Let us all join together in the pursuit of education, for it is the only way to a better future.

SCOTCH REEL HIGHLIGHTS LEGION DANCE

A Scotch reel brought a lively response among dancers in the Armories during a break in the flow of modern music at the Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary dance last night, providing a colorful highlight for the evening. Several hundred attended the function, dancing to music by the Sophisticates orchestra.

Committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. W. F. Robertson, Mrs. J. Wallace, Mrs. Hugh Killin, Mrs. William Rothwell, Mrs. Dan Parent, Mrs. G. A. Hebb, Mrs. M. Gilchrist, Mrs. V. Bouzek and Mrs. William Murdoch. The committee also served refreshments during the evening.

Harry Robb played the part of a lively master of ceremonies. Harold Ponder, C. Anderson and H. Anderson were in charge of the door.

LIFE in this Prince Rupert

by BIDDEE JINKS

This is the parable of the Road Builders. They that hath ears let them hear and they that hath eyes let them see.

And it came to pass that certain men gathered themselves together, they and their households, and said: "We being of one mind, in having come to this place, let us therefore build unto us a city."

And it came to pass that on the hills around and even down unto the sea houses were built, large and small, and it was pleasing in their sight.

Then they took counsel amongst themselves and said: "Let us even name this city a good and worthy name." And one spake and said: "Let us all continue being of one mind and let us name this place unto one of the king's household, even Rupert, he being a Prince."

The people were glad and thus the city was named Prince Rupert and it was pleasing in their sight.

And men came and built boats and fished where there was much fish and became great men. Roads were built where had been a wilderness and streets and side walks and great houses; and it was good.

Then nation rose against nation and there were wars and earthquakes in diverse places. But the city, being mostly built upon rock, stood; as years came and went and seasons changed each after its kind.

After these days, the streets

Let us do away with those who say they are road builders." When this came to pass, the builders said: "The work of the beast is undone. Now we must think of a better way to make our work of lasting goodness. Therefore, let each man go home and meditate and, when the moon is full, let us even so meet together and make known that which has been laid upon our hearts."

So it came to pass, at the time of the full moon, that the wise men came again together with diverse scheme. But one man, being of great wisdom, was hearkened unto. Thus spake he: "Brethren, be of good cheer. For I have seen a vision. At about the third hour, between the darkness and the dawn, I awoke and saw by the moonlight in my room an image and this is his message. Ye men of valor, take brooms and sweep your city clean. Leave no one stone upon another on your roadway. Let the low places be filled again and it will be well. And as he spake he showed upon me a broom and liquid like unto oil and black sand." So saying, the sage sat down and held his peace.

Then the chief builder said: "Ye men of Rupert, ye have heard what this and said, What would ye have me to do?" And as one they answered: "So be it; let each man get a broom and let us sweep and work diligently to make this thing come to pass."

After this the men took brooms and swept valiantly so that as people passed by they marvelled at the wisdom of the builders. When this had been brought to pass, then they took picks

IS TOO OLD SAYS G.B.S.

Turns Down Offer of Job as Gagman for Fat Comedian

LONDON. (C)—George Bernard Shaw, offered a job as a comedian's gag man, said yesterday that it was "utterly unlikely" he would take it.

Raymond Bennett, 300-pound music hall artist, made the offer in a letter and got a reply from the 90-year old playwright. "I am a bit too old," Shaw wrote.

and made the small holes bigger and, taking stones, they laid them one beside the other, with sand and oil on top to fill the holes.

Then said the builders: "This is a good work. Let us therefore protect it for a season." So obstructions were placed at the ends thereof for a time.

And when the time had been fulfilled, the barricades were removed and the people were exceeding glad and joy was in the hearts of the people.

Many times this has been done. Many times. But verily I say unto you, it seemeth that the end is not yet!

GOOD REASONS to buy your WATCH at Bulgers . . .

In years to come it's likely to make a difference.

We've had over 40 years of experience in dealing with the makers of good watches and have had a chance to choose the makes which give the least trouble to the wearer and to the store which sells them.

We handle the best makes to be had and you'll find our prices as reasonable as any house in Canada. In fact we sell at the same price here in B.C. as they do in the East on account of the ceiling and pay the express charges here as well.

Another good reason is that we have the WATCHMASTER, a wonderful electronic regulating machine on which we can test every watch before it goes out and be sure how it will perform.

WhiffsGood News For Local Shippers to Southeastern Alaska—Interest
In This Port Waxes

Impaled on the sharp edge of hunger by the latest American west coast shipping strike, the territory of Alaska is becoming more clamorous in its demands that the Port of Prince Rupert be used as the export centre for foodstuffs and the imported goods which the territory needs: Alaskans have expressed the frank opinion on more than one occasion that the monopoly enjoyed by Seattle on shipments to Alaska would be better for the north if shared by Prince Rupert. Prince Rupert business men, seeing eye-to-eye with the Alaskans on this subject, were immensely cheered on Friday to learn that the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce "will do everything possible to facilitate" exports from Prince Rupert to Alaska, and applauded Trade Minister James A. MacKinnon's decision which will relieve the hampering necessity of submitting detailed statements of every shipment made from here to the processing officer of the exports licensing branch. The wire tolls which these reports make necessary and the time loss and extra work involved have been real impediments in Prince Rupert wholesalers' efforts to build up a substantial trade with Alaska at the present time. The permit requirements as outlined by Mr. MacKinnon, Friday allows merchants to submit applications covering their estimated exports for three-month periods at a time.

A specific item in the growing awareness that southeastern Alaskans have for Prince Rupert was exemplified in a telegram received last night by Mayor H. M. Daggett from a metal working shop at Anchorage. The telegram asked the mayor to try and place an order for three tons of galvanized metal sheets in the hands of some Prince Rupert wholesaler for immediate shipment to Anchorage. Owing to the extreme difficulty of getting such material in Prince Rupert at the present time, it is very doubtful if the order can be filled, but it is pleasing to note that Prince Rupert is now considered as a source of supply by Alaskan business people.

REACHES SCREENFilmization of Great Horse
Story at Capitol Theatre
Monday and Tuesday

"Black Beauty," moving picture version of the story which, next to the Bible, is said to have had the widest distribution of any book in the world, comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here on Monday and Tuesday of next week. It is a book that few, if any, have not read and its filmization will recall the pleasant memory of a delightful literary experience of youth.

"Black Beauty" was written in 1877 by Anna Sewell, an aged and crippled spinster, whose only relief from isolated existence was through her horses. In this exciting and charming story, she succeeded in bringing to mankind in the Dickensian manner a deep understanding and sympathy for animals—particularly horses. That sentiment is now transmitted in delightfully dramatic fashion to the screen.

Mona Freeman, a new starlet of the screen, is seen as the young English girl who owns Black Beauty. Richard Denning, is the romantic young American. Evelyn Ankers appears as Lady Evelyn. Also featured are Charles Evans, J. M. Kerrigan, Moyna McGill and Terry Kilburn.
