acknowledging the courtesy of Commander Charles M. Cree R.C.N. in making it possible for the naval band to turn out and play for the occasion. There was prayer by Capt. A. Rapson, acting senior padre for the area.

The new hostel of course centres around the six airy dormitories which have accommodation for a total of 150 men. Here at moderate cost clean and comfortable accommodation is made available for service men on leave and otherwise out of barracks. Highlight adjunct features include the large main lounge, a particularly delightfully appointed writing room, a compact little sewing and pressing room, the canteen and lunchroom. Substantiality, neatness and cleanliness are to be noted in all the features of the place.

ELIMINATE VENEREAL DISEASES

Never Were Conditions Better to Combat Syphilis and Gonorrhoea.

"Events and conditions are favorable for the final eradication of venereal diseases in Canada," declared Major B. B. Moscovich of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in speaking before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club yesterday. Dr. Moscovich spoke in connection with the current Social Hygiene Campaign Week. "There is a full tide of wholesome public interest, concern and support," he said, "for measures directed against these master saboteurs of our war effort. Never before has there been such an imposing show of force representing all available human resources arrayed against the serious threat of syphilis and gonorrhoea. If every citizen in Canada takes his station on the health, welfare, legal or moral sector of Canada's four sector front against venereal disease the favorable outcome of the battle is assured."

There was evidence even before the onset of war that a growing social consciousness was uncovering this long-neglected national tragedy. The acceleration of this pre-war trend had in a dramatic fashion simultaneously throughout Canada aroused the people and their governing agencies. The result was a united desire to overcome venereal disease. As a result of the recognition of the need for immediate action to reduce the threat of venereal infection to Canada's war effort and home life, a comprehensive central program had been launched last July integrating the control measures of the forces, the Department of National Health and the Provincial Department of Health followed by a national disease control conference in Ottawa in December with 105 delegates and visitors assembled. Here principles and policy which would guide the anti-venereal disease program were laid down. The purpose was to take the offensive on each sector as follows:

St. Patrick's Day . . .

St. Patrick's Day is one thing all Irishmen, come they from north, south, east or west, from Belfast, or from Cork, have in common. And each March 17 St. Patrick works a miracle no less wondrous than his driving of the snakes from Erin — he rallies all Irishmen in agreement. They agree that it's the greatest day of the year; and they all wear paddy green.

Conflicting legends surround the antecedents of Patrick's Day observance. There is disagreement even over the earliest Canadian celebration. Nova Scotians claim to have remembered the "17th of Ireland" back in 1750; but the first certainty on record is an annual Charitable Irish Society banquet inaugurated at Halifax, March 17, 1786. Quebec records go back farther, reporting a military celebration of the day in 1765. The Dominion's first St. Patrick's Day parade was staged at Quebec in 1819.

Even dimmer is St. Patrick's history across the sea. Kilpatrick, near Dumbarton, Scotland, is said to be the birthplace of Patricius Magonus Sucatus Calpurnius, and many a present-day Scottish place-name does him homage—Kilpatrick, Dalpatrick and Cragphadrig, among others.

Just why the ancient saint is honored on March 17 also permits of speculation. One story is that March 17, 461 A.D., was the date of St. Patrick's death. Others suggest the seventeenth was his birthday. Then there's the story that a Father Mulcahey settled upon the March 17 as a compromise between two schools of thought which had claimed March 8 and 9, respectively, as the saint's natal day.

Besides driving the snakes from Ireland—it's a fact, there's not a snake or a toad to be found on the Emerald Isle, though neighboring islands have them—St. Patrick is also credited with giving the Irish their revered shamrock emblem. He is said to have been speaking at Tara when someone expressed doubt regarding the Trinity. St. Patrick, then a Christian missionary among the pagan Irish, silently plucked a shamrock and held it triumphantly aloft as an instance of there existing three in one and one in three. Since that day, the shamrock and St. Patrick have shared their Irish immortality.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. (By DOROTHY GARBUTT)

More about the work of the Y.W.C.A. War Services in England during the last war. This time it's all about the services to the munition workers—

It was in the spring of 1915 that the great demand came for the services of the Y.W.C.A. The shortage of munitions had become publicly recognized. Great shell factories were springing up all over the country and every engineering shop was turning out war material. More and more recruits were being enrolled for the army and the demand came for women, not only to serve as nurses and the hospitals as in previous wars but for the first time to take the place of men in factories and workshops in making munitions of war. As is well known, the response from every class was immense so much so that it was impossible for the government to cope with the emergency without voluntary help.

For six months the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. worked together in organizing canteens but, at the end of that time, it was decided to work independently although in close touch with each other.

The Y.W.C.A. Munition's Workers' Welfare Committee worked from June 1915 to February 1919 and in that time started 100 centres—51 canteens, 40 clubs, 9 hostels—and took over the management of a government colony of 700 girls working on dangerous war material. Sometimes the request was for the Association to provide the canteen workers and be responsible for the management with everything provided by the government or the firm but frequently the whole financial outlay for equipment and for the provision of voluntary staff and buildings were the responsibility of the Y.W.C.A.

In these days of financial difficulty it may be interesting to note that the income of the Y.W.C.A. which in 1913 was under £6000 ($30,000) rose in 1916 to £104,000, $520,000 and in 1918 to over £269,000 ($1,345,000). Large huts had to be put up quickly for canteens and clubs and sleeping accommodation provided and, although a great deal of magnificent voluntary help was given by night and day to the Association, the centres had of necessity to be in charge of trained and experienced women.

Later on in the war the same kind of provision was undertaken for the Army pay and other government clerks in which work girls were replacing men in large numbers. Under this special committee 55 canteens and hostels were organized, the largest undertaking being the canteen in the Ministry of Munitions itself at Hotel Victoria, where the Y.W.C.A. fed 2000 men and women daily and provided a rest room for the women. . . . (Tomorrow about the work of the Y.W.C.A. in France.)

BASKETBALL LAST NIGHT

Deployed along the full length of Kaien Island, basketball skirmishers traded shots last night in tussles at Seal Cove, the Naval Drill Hall, and Port Edward. Out of six games scheduled, four were played. Postponed was the C.W.A.C. Jeppettes—U.S.E.D. girls affray, called for Seal Cove. It will be played off on Tuesday.

Also at Seal Cove, Reserves won by default over Midlands, when the Ontario boys failed to turn up.

Results of other games were: Women: Maple Leafs 19, Last Resort 10, Seal Cove.

Port Edward 72, High School 35, Port Edward.

Yanks 101, Co-Ops. 27, Port Edward.

Fortress 47, Coast Battery 34, Naval Drill Hall.

Going hog-wild on a scoring spree, the Yanks ran up 101 points, the highest tally ever tallied in area basketball combat. It was said this morning, possibly with some exaggeration, that there was so much leather flying at the co-op's hoop that it resembled a minor "sitation of meteorites."

Cancelled from Wednesday night, when they were to meet on the Group 4 floor, the W.D. Tremblins and C.W.A.C. are to collide tonight at the same place.

ELIMINATE VENEREAL DISEASE

ARMED FORCES CONTROLLING IT

Major Moscovich told of an improvement in the venereal disease situation in the armed forces of Canada which was already evident. He ascribed this to the changed attitude to the disease and the improved mechanics in combatting it. While the rate of infection in the services had been dropping, however, the actual number of cases in the country had been increasing. "There is, therefore, no cause for complacency," declared the speaker. "The problem remains and is more pressing than ever."

Reiterating statements made by other authorities, Major Moscovich said that observations of all three of the armed services supported the view held by experts in the control of venereal disease infection for the whole country. It was clear from the records of navy, army and air force that wherever commercialized prostitution was tolerated there was found the greatest incidence of venereal disease. It was also recognized that, if these places were cleaned up, the number of men infected with venereal disease would decrease.

President A. S. Nickerson was in the chair at yesterday's Rotary Club luncheon and guests of the day, beside the speaker, were A. V. Bossons, E. C. Mapson and W. A. Arnold of Vancouver; Captain Livien of Victoria; A. E. Field of Prince Rupert.
