General Eisenhower Talks

PARIS - General Dwight P. Eisenhower told 100 newspapermen today that there was a hard job ahead but victory was sure. "The fight will continue through the winter or as long as is necessary to crush the enemy." Eisenhower admitted that Germany might collapse at any moment and declared that the only reason for the war being prolonged was that the Gestapo had pistols at the heads of the people of Germany.

Canadians Reinforced

LONDON-Latest news from the western front this morning tells of reinforcements being sent to the Canadian invasion forces on the south shore of the Schelde River in the Lowlands. A communique also says the bridgehead across the Leopold canal is holding firmly. On the American First Army front, the German border city of Aachen this morning is still shuddering under the terrific blows of Allied ground and air might. Yesterday the burning city was hit by some three hundred American fighters, and Allied bombers have concentrated their fire on reinforcements attempting to slip into the city from the northeast.

Moving Into Prussia

MOSCOW - Russian troops have moved up the East Prussian border west of the Lithuanian city of Kaunas and are within the Baltic port of Memel. To the south they have captured Szeged, the second largest city in Hungary, and they have also captured Cluj, the capital city of Transylvania, according to announcement by Premier Joseph Stalin. WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (CP) -The city of Quebec is being considered as a possible meeting place of the post-war organization to be set up by the United Nations.

American diplomats are reported to favor Geneva as the site of the international peace organization. However, the general attitude among United Nations diplomats favors the abandonment of Geneva as a site for permanent international organizations. For one thing, it is too close to the major trouble spots of the past and then again it is naturally associated with the League of

THE MERCHANT SEAMEN ...

No class of men has given more willing or more distinguished service to the Dominion or to the cause of the United Nations since the war began than the men of our merchant fleet. They have been in all disagreeable and dangerous theatres of war. They have endured, they have dared. They have triumphed often against overwhelming odds. Many of them have given their lives. Others have endured months in enemy prisons.

These merchant sailors have been gallant soldiers in the battle of supply. Yet they are not treated like the country's other soldiers, like its naval personnel or like its airmen. They are discriminated against and they resent this discrimination-rightly so, too.

When a member of one of the armed services goes outside Canada in the way of duty, he pays no income tax. The merebant seamen news his one of TILL STRENGTH When a member of one of the armed services income tax. The merchant seaman pays his on a basic pay, wherever he is. If a member of the armed services is taken prisoner, his pay continues and his freedom from income tax continues. If a merchant seaman is taken prisoner, his pay may or may not continue—it all depends on whether he is a regular employee of a steamship line or is signed on for a single voyage. But, if his pay continues, his income tax continues, too.

It is a fine way Canada has of welcoming home a man who has played his part at sea and spent months in a prison camp to present him, on arrival or soon after, with a demand for income tax. The procedure is one which should make the country

But apparently there are no blushes left in the department of national revenue. According to the rules of that department, a merchant seaman is a civilian and civilians pay income tax. So merchant seamen are liable. It is as simple as that. As simple and as outrageous!-Vancouver Province.

THRILLER ON SCREEN HERE

"The Mask of Dimitrios" is Week-end Feature at Capitol

Murder, international intrigue espionage comprise the background for the film opening this Friday and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. It's "The Mask of Dimitrios," which boasts a Hoshelle, Georges Metaxa, Monte cast starring Sydney Greenstreet Zachary Scott, Faye Emerson, Peter Lorre and Victor Francen. Eris Ambler's well known mystery tale, "A Coffin for Dimitrios," provides the framework for For Terracethe film which deals with one man's search back into a criminals misdeeds over a time period of two decades. Zachary Scott, a newcomer to the screen, plays the title role, while Greenstreet is seen as an unscrupulous Englishman and Peter Lorre as a Dutch writer of mystery stories. Fay Emerson. supplies the love interest and Victor Francen plays the role of an international spy. An excellent supporting cast includes Steven Geray, Edward Ciannelli, Kurt Katch, Marjorie Blue and others.
