U.S. Forces Smash On In Normandy

A.F. Spitfires Harass Germans in Dawn Till Dusk in France

Canadian Airmen in France Support Work of Ground Troops—Are Adept at Dive-Bombing and Strafing

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN FRANCE, July 27—Pilots, ground-crews and administrative personnel with the Royal Canadian Air Force forward in France live under canvas, eat the British rations which come in cans and work as hard as they have since the start of the war.

The Spitfires' close support role for the ground troops, means patrolling, dive-bombing and strafing, particularly of transport, which is one of the most effective ways of hobbling the enemy's defence effort.

Until recently, the Germans kept out of the air in the daytime and the Spitfires had things to themselves. Then the Messerschmitts and Focke-Wulfs appeared in large numbers over the front and the Canadian fighter-pilots knocked down 26 of them in one day.

The R.C.A.F. sector has lost pilots flying from Normandy airfields in combat and others have disappeared in hot pursuit of enemy planes. Some planes have been damaged, but the Canadian sector in Normandy has both the personnel and equipment to perform most repairs.

Dock Shift Is Closing

Night shift workers on cargo ship construction at the local dry dock will close at the end of July, Bernard Allen, dry dock manager revealed to shipyard union officials on Wednesday. Workers on the present second shift will be incorporated into the day shift.

Calling a meeting of the officials of the eight unions having working agreements with the yard Mr. Allen told them that except in cases of urgent repair to ships, the yard would operate the day shift only.

It is understood that the change will effect only a relatively small proportion of the yard workers. Contacted by the Daily News last night Mr. Allen said that the change constituted "upheaval" in yard policy. "We are merely taking the men from the night shift and absorbing them into the day shift, and as far as I know, it does not mean that we will need any less men," he said.

THE ALBERTA ELECTION

The provincial election fight in Alberta, according to all observers, is centred between the Social Credit government and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and, while election results are a hazardous thing to speculate upon, the consensus appears to be that the government, if it is returned all, will have nothing like the majorities it has enjoyed since first William Aberhart and his Social Crediters first came into power nearly eight years ago.

The Social Credit party, in its appeal to Alberta voters, pledges to fight acquisition of control of money and credit by private monopoly and promises assistance for all war veterans and improvement in agricultural services. Refunding of the public debt in terms fair and equitable to all and continuation of the pay-as-you-go financial policy are also stressed. The platform also advocates educational advancement, a home building program and just administration of labor laws. Tax-free and rent-free crown lands for ex-service men for three years and payment for land in crop returns for another seven years features postwar rehabilitation. Industrial research and development and further legislation for the benefit of farmers and social benefits are further Social Credit pledges.

Progressive application of the principle of public ownership in development of Alberta's natural resources, major industries and distributive services is pledged by the C.C.F. in Alberta. Profits from petroleum and natural gas resources would be used by a C.C.F. administration to provide free medical services, free hospitalization, free maternity care and free rural nursing services. Financing of co-operative or government buying of farm machinery and parts to reduce cost to farmers, establishment of public-owned packing plants and flour mills and co-operative enterprise in processing and marketing of agricultural products are main objectives. The party's 12-point platform is based on complete co-operation in making available all Alberta resources in the war effort, assistance to farmers in the fight for prices that will prevent any repetition of the depressed state of agriculture preceding the war, a housing program, taxation reduction, and just labor legislation, including collective bargaining.

HOUSING PLAN

braith's tour of the country. "We have no intention of seeing a home owner suffer disappointment because somebody built a factory alongside," he asserted. "Before we offer loan facilities to a city or town we must be sure that it is adequately planned and zoned. However, although we are ready to offer them help in town planning, we have no intention of bullying any city into following plans which we lay out."

PRINCE RUPERT IS WELL LAID OUT

Mr. Galbraith said that to his knowledge Prince Rupert is one of the most satisfactorily laid out cities on the continent.

He pointed out that the present act has nothing to do with a measure passed at the end of the first Great War designed to provide homes for returning soldiers. At that time homes were built during a period of inflated values. In the economic slump which followed many individuals and municipalities which had been forced to guarantee the loans were left, disproportionately in debt.

"The plan is based on the investigations of the James Committee which has come to the conclusion that in the next 10 years between 500,000 and 700,000 new homes will be needed in Canada," Mr. Galbraith explained. "It is a solid part of the post-war planning scheme."

Another part of the act provides for the construction of low-rental houses by limited dividend companies, with profits limited to three percent. This set-up Mr. Galbraith admitted, would probably be better suited to large cities, than in communities the size of Prince Rupert.

Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith were taken on a tour of the city by Mayor Diggert before boarding last night's train for Edmonton. They will visit several prairie cities on their way back to Ottawa.

Sport Chat

The Southern England sports meet progressed towards the high jump event when the field announcer warned athletes and the hundreds of spectators that a flying bomb was in the vicinity. The meet continued. A couple of minutes later the announcer shouted: "The bomb is nearly overhead, all those who can should take cover. Lie on the ground." Most did, a little self-consciously and a little indignant that such things should interrupt their pleasure. A few women remained standing. They didn't want to soil their frocks. A stout little man in tweeds looked around scornfully at the mass assemblage of prone persons and stood his ground. "It's passing by," he said, tracing the course of the robot across the sky. "Oh, oh, I'm wrong," he added in the same breath, and threw himself down. There was a deafening explosion and a plume of dark smoke shot into the sky. The little man rose shamefaced and remarked: "It makes you feel such a fool, mate, doesn't it?" And the sports meet went on.

For the fourth time a British championship fight between Freddie Mills and Jack London has been postponed, this time in accordance with the wishes of the authorities. Previous postponements, extending over the past year, came about through injuries to London in training. The fight, one of two scheduled tie matches that made up the greatest boxing show of the war was scheduled to be held July 8 in London's Tottenham Hotspur football grounds. The contests later were fixed for July 29 at the same place. When Mills and London get together, it will be to settle the British and Empire heavyweight titles vacated by retirement of Len Harvey. Mills, youthful, one-time booth boxer from Bournemouth, holds the British and Empire light-heavyweight titles and is favored to beat London, 29-year old West Hartlepool giant. In the other postponed match, Eric Boon will defend his British lightweight crown against Wales' pride, Ronnie James.

SUGGESTIONS ON NEW HOME SITE ASKED

Because of complaints about the selected location of the proposed Pioneer's Home in Westview which were received from subscribers to the fund, the committee in joint session last night with the health committee of the city council decided to accept suggestions from citizens to see if they could determine a more popular setting for the home.

The Westview site was chosen by city council but fund canvassers say that they have found it unpopular throughout the city. The secretary was instructed to write a letter to the press asking the public for suggestions for a new site.

A sub-committee consisting of E. Paure, Mrs. E. A. Evans and Mrs. G. S. Haynes was appointed to review the suggestions.

Also appointed was a sub-committee to study building plans and make recommendations to city council. Members of the committee are S. Calder, Mrs. Barber, Mrs. E. A. Evans and Mrs. G. S. Haynes.

The meeting was informed that the fund now stands at $5,194, with more subscriptions expected.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. E. A. Evans, S. Calder, Mrs. G. S. Haynes, Mrs. F. Barber, Miss Julia Brown, G. Stanton, E. Paure and Aldermen Arnold, Hills and Sorenson.

ISOLATION OF AIRMEN

Gyro Club Hears of Life of R.C.A.F. Personnel on Rugged, Lonely Islands—Decides to Make Gift

Men of the Royal Canadian Air Force in isolated outposts on the British Columbia coast and contiguous islands where perpetual gales howl and the wild waves pound, where communications are few and far between and home leaves are scarce are doing a job just as important in the war and less desirable and satisfactory to the men concerned themselves than that of those who fight on the beachheads of Normandy, said Oliver Goldsmith, former well-known Vancouver championship basketball player and presently engaged as a Young Men's Christian Association War Service supervisor in speaking before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday. Mr. Goldsmith's account of the extreme isolation of some of these airmen's posts was so impressive that the club spontaneously authorized its war services committee to expend a sum of up to $50 for the purchase of gramophone records to be dispatched to certain such encampments to relieve the monotony of life therein and help to compensate for other disadvantages.

One post which the speaker described was a virtual pinnacle of rock jutting up out of the ocean to a height of three hundred feet where salt water had to be distilled because the ocean waves were so high that even rain water could not be caught on the craggy summit. Gales blew five days out of seven, sometimes reaching velocity of 90 miles per hour. Huts had to be cabled to the islet against being washed or blown away. It was called the "Alcatraz of the R.C.A.F." but that was no reflection on the quality of the personnel stationed there, the nature of whose duties, indeed, was such that they rated as "I.Q." comparable with that of air crew. In spite of the natural difficulty of the rugged terrain, a nicely furnished recreation hall had been provided and a volleyball court 25 feet square had been blasted out of the rock. Now they were hoping to get a badminton platform. Arts, hobbies and crafts were taken up and an interesting one was shellcraft. The speaker also referred to the difficulty of landing supplies. On one occasion two men had been drowned when a small boat capsized.

At another rugged spot, it had been impossible for boats to land or even approach for weeks on end and provisions had to be dropped by aircraft.

President Frank Skinner expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Goldsmith.

Luncheon guests were Neil A. McKelvie of Prince George and Frank Ryan of Prince Rupert in addition to the speaker.

The next few weeks will be quiet ones for the Gyro Club several of whose members will be away at Reserve Army camp. Some of those going to camp will proceed from Victoria to Portland to attend a district convention. It was decided to defer the annual picnic to late in August.

He gave an outline of the progress of fire fighting technique during the past 40 years, describing fully the development of equipment from the time of the leather hose to the present day. The address was followed by a ten minute question period.

Hamlet Presented By Stock Comp'y

TORONTO, July 27.—Shakespearean productions at popular prices are unusual, but a summer stock company's presentation of Hamlet at the Royal Alexandria theatre during the week of July 17 won the praise of critics and audiences alike.

Robert Henderson was the producer and Tom Rutherford appeared in the title role. The latter's interpretation of the part of the famous Dane previously had been well received in Indianapolis a few months ago.

The Experts Say - - -

Home grapefruit juice is an important wartime homemaker's check on canning "do's" for even when the precaution is used in the remaining carelessness in storing may lead to the Agriculture Department section.

and blood vessels healthy Grapefruit juice, when you can get it, is an even richer source of Vitamin C. Or, for a change try cutting an orange in quarters and eating it in your fingers.

MEASURING TRICKS—Sticky solid fats are hard to measure accurately and without mess in quantities of less than a cupful. The Nutrition Bureau suggests what the experts call the "water displacement" methods: If the fat calls for 1/2 cup of fat, fill the measuring cup half full of cold water, add the fat piece by piece until the water is just at the one cup mark, pour off the water and there is the right quantity of fat, neatly measured.

HOSIERY CARE—Although these summer days many of Canada's prettiest legs are going bare, stockings are still a "must" for best and with cooler days approaching, rayon, cotton and wool hose will be back—and proper care can make them last twice as long.

Wash stockings immediately after every wearing in lukewarm, mild soapsuds. Squeeze the stockings, never twist or rub them as this will fuzz cotton and wool and may break delicate rayon threads. Rinse thoroughly in clear, lukewarm water, gently ease one foot and leg into shape, hang over smooth rod away from sun and heat to dry for at least 36 hours. It is important that stockings be thoroughly dry before wearing, particularly in the case of rayon, which is weak and brittle when wet.

FRUIT STORE SEALERS might note that fruit juices should be sealed in each day's breaking according to the advice of the Nutrition Department. Tomato juice is the most all across Canada. It is important that it will supply the day's requirement of Vitamin C—the vitamin which keeps teeth, gums

INVASION TROOPS HAVE TO BE TOUGH—Canadian soldiers are the toughest in the world. Here are two on a battle scheme in England. Live ammunition is passing just two feet over their heads to make training realistic.

RAILWAY MEN IN SESSION

MONTREAL, July 27.—E. E. Millikan, president Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees for Canada, the United States and Mexico, attended the fourteenth annual meeting of the system committee of the maintenance of way co-operative movement, Canadian National Railways, which opened at system headquarters.

On being introduced by H. A. Dixon, chief engineer, C.N.R., and chairman of the system committee, Mr. Millikan stressed the value of the co-operative movement which brings together annually representatives of 21,000 workers employed throughout the national railways system and engineers and technical men who are concerned with the design and supervision of the maintenance of track and bridge structures.

N. B. Walton C.B.E., executive vice-president C.N.R., welcoming the delegates on behalf of R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president, stressed the importance of the prosecution of a country's war effort. "Canadian railroads have been and will continue to be the mainstay of Canada's war contribution," he said. Looking back over the accomplishments of 1943, Mr. Walton remarked that they were something in which every delegate present could justly be proud. Outstanding was the fact that during 1943 thirty-five million dollars had been turned back to the owners of the property. "While similar returns will not be possible of accomplishment during the present year, our contribution will be the continued operation of our efficient railroad organization, so vital a necessity in our country's war effort."

Alice Arm Mine Looking Better

A recent examination of the mine workings of the old Esperanza gold and silver mine near Alice Arm has indicated bodies of profitable ore there even more extensive than had been believed before, said Angus Macdonald, pioneer director of the company, who was here this week enroute to Vancouver after a week's visit to the property, accompanied by H. E. Langley, Vancouver mining engineer, and L. L. MacDonald, New Westminster brewer, who is financially interested. Arrangements are now being made to resume mining operations on the property by next spring if not sooner.

The Esperanza mine, which now includes three adjoining Alice claims, is well equipped for production, the equipment including a tramway to the Dolly Varden Railway grade. About all that is needed is new compressor equipment.

The members of the visiting party were enthusiastic about the apparent prospects. It is several years since Esperanza last produced, it having been hit by war conditions.

FISHERIES OR HYDRO

Interests Joust Over Rights in British Columbia Rivers

VANCOUVER, July 27—One of the inevitable conflicts between competing industrial interests, that British Columbia is likely to experience frequently in coming years is that between the fishing industry and hydro power groups.

The first clash, merely a preliminary skirmish that may have little significance over the longer term, occurred a few days ago when a lumber company—Adams River Timber Co.—sought to renew its lease on power rights on the Adams River.

It so happens that the Adams is a tributary of the Fraser and one of the most important spawning areas of that great basin.

FISHING INTERESTS OPPOSED

Fisheries interests, including the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, opposed the application with all their strength. They claimed that the so-called Adams River run of salmon in 1942 was valued at more than $7 millions. They declared that any hydro project on the Adams would interfere with this valuable run and that the concessions should be refused by the government. They asked for the removal of the old dam on the river, long in disuse.

The government has reserved its decision. The city of Kamloops is also a party in the dispute because Kamloops is looking for a source of cheap power and believes that the Adams River might provide it. Many large issues are involved, and they will continue to be as industrialization spreads in British Columbia.

MOVE BY TRADE BODY

The Pacific Northwest Trade Association, representing business interests on both sides of the border, took cognizance of the growing problem at its recent meeting in Victoria when it passed resolutions urging that before any hydro-electric or other construction project is undertaken on any river the fisheries interest should be first consulted or at least some consideration should be given to the rights of the fishermen.

Members of the association feel that waterpower development and fisheries can go hand in hand without interference with one another providing that the proper steps are taken for safeguarding each interest. For instance, there is no reason why an important salmon river cannot continue to produce fish while at the same time sustaining a waterpower development—provided that adequate fishways are installed at the dams. The trouble in the past has been that no one has thought about the effect on fisheries until it was too late.

MEAT CONTROL IN S. AFRICA

South Africa Experiences Shortage—Extended Control Brings Buying Rush

PRETORIA, July 27 (C)—Control of meat now has been extended to the whole of the Union of South Africa in the face of increasing prices in areas not previously under control which threatened to jeopardize the whole meat plan.

The Union is presently experiencing a shortage of meat due to adverse weather and should the spring rains be late, some officials have warned that animals may die at a rate equaling the worst drought in years.

The meat scheme was first inaugurated in nine urban centres with control of all supplies to those centres in the hands of a food control organization. Now, with the extension of the plan to the whole Union, the Natal Daily News said "vested interests" are out to break the control plan.

The newspaper advocated a single administrator with plenary power to control the whole food position in South Africa.

The situation brought a warning from Agriculture Minister Strauss that food speculators will be ruthlessly prosecuted. He said he was determined to stand by the government's meat control plan 100 per cent and needed the support of the consumers.

"I shall take every step possible to see that the people get the food," he said.

The food supply situation in Johannesburg is improving from the condition that developed when falling butter and cheese stocks caused consumers to suffer a 35 to 50 per cent cut in purchases of these commodities. Announcement that meat rationing was to apply to all of South Africa caused a rush on meat shops, bringing a demand from housewives for rationing according to the size of families.

John Bracken's Economic Policy

WINNIPEG, July 27 — John Bracken, leader of the Progressive-Conservative party, in a broadcast last night, said he was in favor of a program of "reformed capitalism" whereby production instead of profit would be the first aim.

Hands Off, He's Mine

NEW ORLEANS, July 27 (C)—A bride entered a jewellery shop and ordered—for shipment overseas—an identification bracelet bearing the inscription, "He is mine only—Hands off."

"It's not original," she explained, pointing to a similar sentiment engraved on her own engagement ring. "And that," the saleslady said, "is the way wartime newlyweds tell the wolfish world that they've run their brand and they don't like rustlers."

FOUR YEARS AGO IN THIS WAR

July 27, 1940—R. A. F. attacked military objectives in Cherbourg, St. Nazaire and Nantes; Britons arrested in Japan in what was described as a first step against an "organized espionage network." Hitler received Bulgarian premier Bogdan Philoff and foreign minister Ivan Popoff.
