ing Drive On Kurile Islands In Day

PRINCE RUPERT, April 15 — A drive on the Kurile Islands was carried through its fourth day Thursday at Paramushiro, Masukotanawa, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported. Matuswa is only 450 miles distant from Japan proper. There has been a minimum of enemy resistance to these American raids on the north which are regarded as part of the general strategy of drawing in from all directions toward the heart of Japan. Both Army and Navy bombers are being used in the air attacks on the Kuriles.

MONTREAL, April 15 — Behind the appointment of Major Raoul Audet as station agent at Levis, Quebec, for Canadian National Railways, is a story of cheerful courage and resourcefulness. Major Audet is handicapped by the loss of both hands and ordinarily it would be unseemly to refer to the disabilities of a soldier but, in this instance, Major Audet is willing they should be known so that others may be encouraged to persist against adversity.

A Real Appreciation...

One of the best appreciations of Canada's war effort we have so far run across has just been published in his New York column by the famous commentator, Walter Winchell, under the heading of "Things I Never Knew 'Til Now." Probably even Canadians may obtain a better realization of the magnitude and effectiveness of the part this Dominion is playing in the war by reading Mr. Winchell's summation. It is lengthy but it is good so we copy it:

Canada is the only one of America's Allies which has not used Lend-Lease help. Most of her money payments to the Allies have been outright gifts because Canada is opposed to piling up war debts. The United States is Canada's best customer; and Canada is at the top of the list of our best customers. Canada is the world's largest producer of aluminum. Last year she produced more than the whole world did in 1939. Canada is the world's largest producer of nickel and is practically the only source of supply available to the United Nations. Canada is the world's largest producer of asbestos, terrifically important on aircraft carriers and battleships. She is a heavy producer of lead, zinc and mercury, and the most important discoverer of tungsten ore yet found on this continent is now being developed by the Canadian government direct. It's the backbone of battle armor.

Without Canadian radium the field services and hospitals of the United Nations' armies would be almost helpless. Canada is producing five times as much armor plate, guns and tools as she did in 1939. She is producing sixteen types of gun carriages and mountings, although before she entered the war she had never manufactured a big gun. She has delivered 100,000 units to date. Canada has the largest small arms factory in the British Empire. She has produced more than a million rifles and enough ammunition to fire 300 shots at every soldier in the German army. Canada is second only to us in building ships, although she had not built a seagoing cargo ship in 20 years when Hitler marched on Poland. Canada supplies all of the signal corps of the United Nations with a large amount of their equipment, including nearly 100 types of signalling sets. Canada has developed a new secret explosive for the invasion—the most powerful in the world.

About five out of every six Canadian soldiers you see are volunteers—the Canadian army has the largest volunteer force in the world. The Canadian navy, which had only 15 ships before the war, now has more than 700 at sea. The Canadian navy is 45 times larger in men. Canada provided the invention which licked the magnetic mine. It was the Canadian navy which developed the sea sickness pills which are used by all the Allies. Canada has developed the most secret type of ground and air detection apparatus which is protecting your home in a way that the Luftwaffe would like to know but which only Einstein could explain.

The Royal Canadian Air Force has 200,000 men manning its planes. There are 36 RCAF squadrons overseas. The Royal Air Force itself depends for one-fourth of its strength on RCAF crews. The British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is based in Canada. Practically every man in the service of His Majesty, who has anything to do with a plane, learned how to handle his job in Canada. Nineteen out of 20 of the boys who are dropping the bad news on Berlin got the know-how in Canada. Three out of four of the men who plot the courses of every plane in the British Empire learned to do it in the country north of our border.

Canada has mobilized the mightiest of all her resources, her fighting people. Forty thousand women are in the Canadian armed forces. Over 5,000 are in the Canadian Navy Services, and 16,000 are in the RCAF. On Canada's mighty munitions assembly line, one out of every four persons is a Canadian woman. They handle the technical signalling devices and secret naval codes—and, believe it or not, they plot the convoy routes. The Canadian government has found them so proficient at Radar and Asdic that women are used as instructors. Nor is their work confined to intricate mechanical devices. They overhaul aircraft engines, operate power machines and actually operate the new instrument which determines errors in cannon fire.

The newspaper you are reading probably is printed on Canadian newsprint. Canada is by far the largest producer of newsprint in the world. In spite of her terrific war effort, Canada is sending more newsprint to the U.S. than she did at the start of the war. A large part of it goes in direct support of our own war effort, because American production has declined 24 per cent and our other markets have almost disappeared. In our crucial year of 1941 Canadian production of newsprint was more than three times that of the U.S.—and everybody knows how much paper a bureaucrat can use.

When the smoke of war clears, Canada will emerge as one of the very great powers of the world. Canada and Alaska are the air cross-roads for Europe and Asia. Before the half-century mark has been reached giant airliners will be going over the top to Europe, Asia and Africa, non-stop from Canada. Canada already has the tallest office building in the British Empire, the largest hotel in the British Empire, and the largest fishing grounds in the world. The Canadian Pacific Railway is the world's largest transportation system and has responded to the war challenge as magnificently as American transportation. It also operates a fleet of ocean steamships and an expanding number of air routes.

In Canada price ceilings mean something. The cost of living has gone up only two per cent in two years, while in the United States and Australia it went up almost 14 per cent on the same scale of measurement. The Canadian people are shelling out taxes at a rate which would equal more than 30 billion dollars in this country. Last year the government of Mackenzie King threw four billion dollars into the kitty to beat Hitler. Production and national income in Canada have doubled since the start of the war. After the war Canada will expand like we did in 1900. The Shipshaw power development in northern Canada has an installed capacity equal to the total capacity of Niagara Falls plants on both sides of the river. It has a continuous output of electrical energy greater than that of our own great Boulder Dam plant. Canada, with less than a fifth of its water power resources developed, has the second largest amount of hydro-electric generating capacity of any country in the world.

The Canadian foreign office declared war on Japan while Pearl Harbor was still burning—a full day ahead of us. This is a completely independent diplomatic service, and our diplomats in Washington say that it is the finest in the world, which is a strange coincidence, since that's what our army and navy men say of the Canadian fighters. Out of this war has come closer Canadian-American relationship than ever before. Our best customer to the north is also our best protection when the chips are down.

Colorful Army Show Enjoyable

(By DOROTHY GARBUTT)

Last night a fairy tale came to life on the boards of the Naval Drill Hall stage when the boys and girls of the local army put on their own version of "Cinderella" or "Godmother, What Have I Done?" Perhaps it isn't just the story you and I learn as kiddies but it is the tale as understood and visualized by two sleepy sentries with a passion for bedtime stories. As they dream over their story book they return to any period between 1400 and 1700 and enact their roles as champions of the distressed and tearful little walf, Cindeella by going through a series of adventures with spies, bombs, witchcraft and intrigue and, of course — for isn't it a fairy tale?—emerging victorious.

The plot, in brief is this, the two sentries now called "Top" and "Bottom" very cleverly played by H. G. Hunt and H. A. Ivarson, find Cinderella weeping as she washes the floor of her father's tavern. Touched by her plight they find she would like to go to the Prince Rupert's of Lovendale on the Sreena ball, but cannot go as she has no clothes fit for a dance and her stepmother insists that her two stepsisters go instead. Not that little Pollyanna—pardon, I mean Cinderella, speaks ill of her stepmother and two ugly sisters, oh no, all is sweetness and light and loving humility with her in the best Cinderella tradition. (And how well demure little Florence Fleming puts over this role, she tears at your heart strings). So Top and Bottom valiant varlets that they are, determine to help Cinders and as they talk over their plans with the help of many bottles of "the usual" they are accosted by a spy who enlists their services at the point of a pistol to blow up the prince's palace and find the secret formula for "muskat juice." The spy, a most villainous piece of work (acted with florid gusto by M. Girardet) does it all for his country, Heil H. . . . I mean Gesundheit! I lost track of the plot here and next found the two adventurers conniving with the somewhat youthful fairy godmother (Jean Carson) to get Cinderella to the ball, as the two ugly sisters—Daisy and Maisie (A. Graham and M. E. Hill) and Cinderella's wicked stepmother (Lulubelle Gumpus (E. M. Hale) have just one off to it in high glee, for their mother intends that the prince shall marry one of them. Well, you all know what happened then—or you should — how the fairy godmother makes a few magical arrangements with mice and rats and pumpkins so that Cinders will go in state. This is one of the funniest spots in the play because Stuart Garson, disguised as the Town Crier, comes out on the stage and, with mounting excitement, gives us a wand-by-wand account of the big transformation scene which is going on just off stage. He does it in the real Foster Hewitt fashion, and the audience gets a great laugh out of this ingenious manner of overcoming technical difficulties. (Now when I saw Edna Best and Lupino Lane in Cinderella at Drury Lane, ah, that's another story—) Comes the ball, Cinderella's conquest of the singing Prince (C. W. Wallace) and a handsome one he is, and the expiration of her pass for 23.59 hours. After that things wind up in a hurry, the sentries fall afoul of military law and are brought up for court martial, they catch the spy who has kidnapped Cinderella, the slipper fits. The worm turns when Cinderella's men pecked father, Tidmouth Hodgekiss (F. Layzell) stands up at last to his nagging wife, and all live happily ever after.

Stuart Carson, as manager and producer, deserves a great deal of credit. The members of the cast go through their roles with a minimum of self-consciousness of amateurs. The chorus, members of Cliff Macaree's Glee Club, sing beautifully and the grouping and singing in the tavern and ball scenes is delightful. Those responsible for the lighting and scenery are also to be complimented. No makeshift props and anything will do here. A great deal of artistic care and attention went into his part of the production. The costumes were right out of Hans Anderson. The Prince Rupert Area Orchestra supplied the music.

Lonsdale, Loved by Men, Noted Traveller Really Great Sportsman

April 15 (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Staff Correspondent)—For seven centuries the house of Lowther has been firmly established in the North of England. Today the allegiance of the Earl of Lonsdale and Westmoreland to this family is as fervid as it was when Hugh Cecil Lowther was a very kindly English gentleman," wrote the Earl of Birkenhead when he summed up Lord Lonsdale's character a year or two back.

Born Jan. 25, 1857, the Hon. Hugh Cecil Lowther was the second son of the third Earl of Lonsdale. On the death of his brother in 1882 he succeeded to the title. He was educated at Eton but did not proceed to a university. Soon after coming of age he married Lady Grace Cecil Gordon, daughter of the tenth Marquis of Huntly. Thereafter his life was devoted mainly to active participation in and generous encouragement of many kinds of manly sport. This is not to say that he neglected the high duties of citizenship. He was for some years Lord Lieutenant of Cumberland, also chairman of the Quarter Sessions for Westmoreland, and took a leading part in philanthropic enterprise in both counties. Nevertheless it was in his contact with all classes of the community in so many categories of sportsmanship that he manifested qualities which endeared him to men of English breeding the world over.

In his younger days Lord Lonsdale was an adventurous traveller. Soon after his marriage he took her Ladyship on an extended tour in the Rocky Mountains. Travelling in those parts 50 years ago was of course a very different proposition from what it is now. For several months the Earl and Countess roughed it in the truest sense. Some years later Lord Lonsdale went on his own account into the Canadian Northwest. Long afterwards he used to declare half-seriously that the credit for discovering the Klondike really belonged to himself, for he maintained he had been on the spot years before the great gold-rush set in. At home Lord Lonsdale had many opportunities for proving his skill with the gun, for he was owner of probably the most extensive game preserves in the North of England, and of the only forest in that part of these islands where the wild deer still flourishes. Lord Lonsdale, though, probably considered feats in this direction as among his minor achievements. The great entrance hall and corridors of Lowther Castle are covered today with trophies of what he achieved in hunting almost every big creature, from a moose to a crocodile.

VERSATILE AS ATHLETE
His astonishing versatility in the way of athletics can only be touched upon here. As a young man and at the instigation of the Duke of Beaufort and Sir John Astley he undertook to walk on the Great North Road 100 miles in 24 hours. The actual walking time was only 18 hours and he reached Ram Jam, near Stamford, with a comfortable margin in hand. There was also the memorable contest, as a result of a challenge from the Earl of Shrewsbury, to cover 20 miles within an hour, using four combinations of horses. The road was between Reigate and Crawley, when there was much snow and ice. Lord Lonsdale used a one-horse buggy, a buggy with a pair of American trotters, a team of four with a sharabanc, and in the last lap he rode postilion, accomplishing the feat in just 57 minutes.

At five years of age Lord Lonsdale was following the Quorn Hounds. In the year of his marriage he won with his own mare, the Queen, the Rutland Welter Drag Hunt Club at Newmarket—the longest race in England. In after years he was master at different times of the Woodland Pynchley, the Quorn, and the Cottesmore Hunts. In the county of Westmoreland he revived coursing. The Lowther hound trial and sheep-dog trials are another feature of life in the dales which owe much to his interest. Dalesmen too are grateful to him for reviving wrestling in the Cumberland and Westmoreland style. Yachting was also for a considerable span of years one of the Earl's sports. In one season he won 36 events out of 46 starts. For three seasons the ex-German Emperor's racing yacht.

One might continue almost indefinitely to catalogue the extraordinary list of the late Earl's activity in the realm of sport. His associations with the Turf and the Show Ring are too well known to call for detail. Lord Lonsdale became a member of the Jockey Club in 1908 and a steward in 1923. His first success of note as an owner was not reached until 1922 when he won the St. Leger with Royal Lancer. In coursing he won the Waterloo Cup in 1923 with Latto. From his boyhood he was keenly interested in boxing. It was largely through his efforts that the National Sporting Club was founded, with the Lonsdale Belt as the chief trophy for annual competition.

A memorable tribute was given this prince of sportsmen when the Countess and himself celebrated their golden wedding in the summer of 1928. In the presence of 10,000 spectators at the International Horse Show the Prince of Wales presented the Earl with a gold casket. On the panels were depictions of the sports with which the Earl had been closely identified—hunting, flat-racing, steeple-chasing, coursing, boxing, shooting, stalking and yachting. The subscriptions for this gift came from sportsmen the world over, ranging in rank from dukes to costermongers. A big balance remained, which Lord Lonsdale placed in the hands of trustees to be administered for the benefit of those who had participated in sport and had been incapacitated or fallen otherwise on bad days. In returning thanks Lord Lonsdale said: "I have always maintained, and maintain now, that the greatest friendships, national as well as individual, are made on the fields of sport. Whatever my wife and I have done for sport we have done because of our love for it, and because of the friendships we have made in association with it." The golden wedding celebrations at Lord Lonsdale's London home were honored by the presence of the King and Queen. It was at this gathering, incidentally, that their Majesties witnessed their first cabaret show. A few months later Lord Lonsdale was created a Knight of the Garter.

WAS GREAT SPORTSMAN

Lord Lonsdale was a great sportsman, not merely in the conventional sense, but by reason of his wide charity to all men and women, and in his chivalrous consideration at all times for their feelings. His command of any situation which might suddenly turn up when a man of less ability would probably have been embarrassed or provoked, was a constant admiration and delight. Although he was far from being an antifeminist there were some directions so far as sport was concerned where he did not wish to see women proceed further. He used all his great influence to stop boxing contests between women. The idea of them even was a horror to him. He also exercised his influence against women entering rowing matches.

Lord Lonsdale will be succeeded in the title by his brother, Capt. Hon. Lancelot Ed. Lowther, born in 1867, who served with distinction with the Border Regiment in the Great War.

SITUATION IS GRAVE

Railway Head Emphasizes Importance of Full Support for Victory Loan.

MONTREAL, April 15—In a letter to all Canadian National Railway employees urging fullest possible support of the Sixth Victory Loan, R. C. Vaughan, president and chairman of the board of directors, refers to the warning issued by the Prime Minister in the Canadian House of Commons. "We are in times that are very grave indeed," Mr. Vaughan continues. "We cannot afford to ignore this warning, considering the source from which it comes. It is our duty to heed it and to support our government to the full in meeting the crisis. We can render this help effectively and immediately by throwing the full weight of our financial support behind the sixth Victory Loan campaign."

"There is no longer any need to explain why we should subscribe to Victory Loans. The fact that in the last loan 86.2 per cent of all the men and women of the Canadian National system, TransCanada Air Lines and National Railways Munitions Limited, invested a grand total of $8,599,600, is enough to make it plain that the purposes of Victory Loans are well understood." But there is reason to urge that both of these totals be increased in this, the sixth Victory Loan campaign. We can do it if we will only realize the seriousness of the times—if we will put victory first.

The chairman has authorized all regional officers to provide for payroll deductions for these employees who wish to purchase bonds through deferred payments, the payments in this instant extending until November next. In past campaigns a considerable proportion of bond sales made throughout the Canadian National system has been effected through the payroll deductions covering a period of six months and it is anticipated that this method will be used to an even greater extent for the Sixth Victory Loan campaign.

FORD V-8 ENGINE

It's backed by expert service

IN SPITE OF SHELL AND BOMB DAMAGE, in spite of cruel overloading and the wracking punishment of mine-blasted roads, motorized columns have continued to roll forward carrying United Nations troops and supplies. Ford mobile workshops, equipped with welding equipment, lathe, drill press, and other tools, and manned by skilled mechanics are playing a real part in keeping motorized equipment moving in the war zones.

Here in Canada, Ford trucks are bearing a heavy share of the load in keeping materials and equipment moving to and from the production lines. 700 Ford dealers right across Canada are doing a thorough job in supplying expert service for car and truck owners.

Though many of their skilled mechanics are serving with the armed forces, Ford dealers have done a magnificent job in keeping essential transportation operating efficiently.

A GREAT POWER PLANT

Over there, and here at home, the famous Ford V-8 engine keeps the loads rolling along the road to victory. In stamina, in smoothness, in economy, it's today's outstanding engine. It's noted everywhere for its trouble-free performance. But when it does need tuning up or overhauling, it's backed over there by skilled army mechanics, and here in Canada by the service of 700 Ford dealers.

The Experts Say - - -

SPRING ONIONS, the little green-tipped delicious-tasting ones, are making their debut in shops again and are a welcome treat. After the long winter season of root vegetables their tangy flavor hits the spot. And besides they are important from a health standpoint. Dr. L. B. Pett of Nutrition Services says. Compared with the white onion the spring variety is rich in certain food values. They supply a worthwhile amount of vitamin C and, if a good-sized serving of spring onions is eaten, nearly half the daily requirements of vitamin A will be looked after too.

SPRING CLEANING and fresh air go together. One sure way to keep the rooms fresh and airy is to take special care not to let strong cooking odors develop.

The home economists of the Agricultural Department have several suggestions on how to avoid unappetizing cooking odors. They say that over-cooking at too high a temperature of the so-called strong flavored vegetables causes sulphur compounds in these vegetables to break down, and sulphur, as every one knows, has a strong and penetrating odor. But when properly cooked—just until tender and no more—cabbage and turnip can be counted on to behave better. The acrid smell of fat on the fire is a warning of wrong cooking technique also. Fat should not be allowed to smoke because at the smoking point it begins to break down chemically and gives off an unpleasant odor as an unpleasant flavor to the foods cooked in it.

SOUP OF THE EVENING—The mock turtle's song reminds us of the old fashioned stock pot, so often kept on the back of the stove in thrifty, well nourished French households. Think of the stock pot the next time you are tempted to throw away a piece of vegetable or a bone. The pot will be all the better for bones, left-over meat, roasts, chops, trimmings, celery and green onion tops, parsley, raw vegetables and vegetable water, gravy or onion.

SARDINE SALAD BOWL—Warm spring days are just the time to include more salads in the menu, to get over that late winter "lifer" feeling. Nutrition Bureau experts say. They suggest this substantial luncheon or supper salad with sardine or other salt, cooked fish as its basis:

2½ cups cooked green beans;

2½ cups cooked shredded carrots; 2 cups cubed cooked potatoes; 1 cup diced celery; 2 cups shredded romaine or lettuce; 1 7-ounce can sardines of 1 cup cooked cubed fish; 1 cup French dressing.

Drain beans and carrots, reserving liquor for use in soups, sauces, etc. Combine with potatoe, celery and romaine. Drain sardines and chop, reserving four for garnish. Combine beans, carrots, potato, celery, romaine and chopped sardines. Chill. Toss with dressing. Garnish with remaining sardines. Serves eight.

A total of 10,187 ration books were distributed in Cobourg and surrounding townships under Cobourg jurisdiction during the distribution period.

The 1944 tax rate in Cobourg was brought down one mill under last year's tax rate. It now stands at 40 mills.

Canadian-Soviet Friendship Move

Rev. A. F. MacSween spoke briefly at the meeting of the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday night in support of the Canadian-Soviet Friendship movement in Prince Rupert as instituted in the "adoption" by Prince Rupert of the Russian city of Nogaisk. Here Mr. MacSween felt was a good opportunity to develop better international understanding through exchange of knowledge and mutual assistance. It was one of the means

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association held Thursday evening in the Oddfellows' Hall, seven members were initiated in which something could be done to prevent future wars. Mr. MacSween, who is secretary of the local Canadian-Soviet friendship central executive, told the Junior Chamber members that they would be asked for active help as the organization proceeded.

All past mistresses were asked to attend a meeting at the home of Mrs. Cox Thursday of next week. LET US PRAY—so that the expression of our militant faith in a God of Righteousness may be a tower of strength and a shield of protection for those in peril—on the sea—on the land—in the air.

LET US WORK—so that our boys overseas can say to us—"well done"

—so that the vital flow of the tools of war may always be sufficient to meet their needs.

LET US LEND—so that our country may buy what our fighting men need—to the last bullet, to the last surgical dressing. Let us be ready to buy Victory Bonds.

A voluminous bulletin on the subject of Postwar Planning from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce came before the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Thursday night and was referred to a special committee consisting of Walter Langdon and Hawthorne Graham to be dealt with. Mrs. Jens Munthe left Thursday night for Victoria where she will attend as delegate of one of the local chapters the provincial annual meeting of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire. The meetings will be held in the Empress Hall. T. Norton Youngs, chairman of the Prince Rupert Civic Centre Association, reminded the members of the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday night that the date of the annual civic centre carnival had been brought forward to July 10-15 and that the next committee meeting would be held April 20. Mr. Youngs said it was hoped to raise some $20,000 this year. A proposal from the Levis, Quebec, Chamber of Commerce for a new national flag for Canada came before the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday night and was tabled. The Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, at its regular monthly meeting Thursday night, decided to become affiliated with the United States Junior Chambers of Commerce organization. The annual membership fee is $10 and the interchange of literature, ideas, etc., it was felt, would be well worth the price. Members of the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce will henceforth be armed with handy membership cards. Oscar Haverov was given authority at the Junior Chamber's regular monthly meeting Thursday night to go ahead with the preparation of the cards. The Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce was notified at its meeting Thursday night of the provincial convention of Junior Chambers of Commerce to be held June 19 and 20 in Penticton and the national convention in Port Arthur June 10 and 11. It is possible Edward Gladding may be in attendance at the Penticton convention but it is unlikely there will be representation of the local junior chamber at Port Arthur. The halibut fishing season will be opened at midnight tonight when the fishing becomes legal under decree of the International Fisheries Commission but even at this late date the fleet has not moved to depart for the banks in view of the coast-length tie-up in protest against the cutback on the ceiling price by the American Office of Price Administration against halibut landed at Prince Rupert and Alaska as compared with the Seattle price. The fleet tie-up has been the burning question on the local waterfront throughout the past week. Local boat owners and fishermen are, apparently to be guided in their action by what Seattle and Vancouver does and are today still awaiting word from there. Waterfront Whiffs Halibut Season Opens But Boats Not Moving — Extension of Local Floats Under Consideration The halibut fishing season will be opened at midnight tonight when the fishing becomes legal under decree of the International Fisheries Commission but even at this late date the fleet has not moved to depart for the banks in view of the coast-length tie-up in protest against the cutback on the ceiling price by the American Office of Price Administration against halibut landed at Prince Rupert and Alaska as compared with the Seattle price. The fleet tie-up has been the burning question on the local waterfront throughout the past week. Local boat owners and fishermen are, apparently to be guided in their action by what Seattle and Vancouver does and are today still awaiting word from there. Invasion Rumors Had Ontario Agog Thursday

TORONTO, April 15 (P)—Rumors of a European invasion sky rocketed for a time Thursday night after three reports had been received from Ontario residents of a purported broadcast saying that a landing had been made on the French Channel coast early Friday but, as time passed with no trace of official confirmation, the assumption could only be that listeners had heard some broadcast incorrectly. Ottawa officials dismissed the rumors lightly.

Mrs. W. W. Silverthorn and infant child arrived in the city on last night's train from Portage la Prairie to join Mr. Silverthorn, the new pastor of First Baptist Church.

NEW COMEDY SHOWS HERE

"My Kingdom For a Cook", starring Charles "Dingle" Coburn which is coming to the Capitol Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, gives another hilarious character portrayal from Coburn, is a fitting successor to his delightful performance as the meddlesome Mr. Dingle in "The More The Merrier."

Marguerite Chapman plays the feminine lead in this new picture, in the role of Morley's lovely daughter Pamela, who acts as his secretary. In a romantic duo with Marguerite, will be seen a new young actor, Bill Carter, who is making his debut.

This film story, directed by Richard Wallace, tells of the hectic visit of Ruyard Morley to the United States, as a self-appointed ambassador of good will. In view of the fact that he puts a table laden with fine food above everything else in the world, he looks for a good cook first thing.

When he steals a cook from the town's cultural leader, Mrs. Scott (Isobel Elsom) and her son, in turn, coaxes the culinary genius back to the Scott household, the ensuing battle reverberates in the press throughout the country. The whole affair almost becomes international, and Morley winds up in a series of goofy complications that will befit a man of letters—and dignity. He starts a free-for-all fight and the next step is the clinch.
