Resistance "Not as Slight as First Thought" Nazis Admit Loss of Cannes—Infantry and Parachutists Make Contact

ME, Aug. 17 (CP)—Punching steadily inland at the enemy resistance described officially as "not as slight as first thought," Allies were reported at 11 miles inland from beaches of Southern France today.

German reports said the Allies had taken Cannes. Infantry troops made contact with the parachutists who had dropped well behind German coastal defences.

Scout from Scott Young, in Navy public relations said mixed Canadian-American troops went to Isle DeLevant, off the coast as the invasion reached.

MILLION PULP OUTSIDE GEORGE

VANCOUVER, Aug. 17 (CP)—Lake Sawmills at Giscome, east of Prince George, built a pulp mill costing approximately $3,200,000. It is ready here.

The W. B. Milner interests of Prince George, which assumed control of the plant February 27, plan to waste products of 116 net mills. The pulp mill will be shipped to processing plants, understood.

After the Milner interests took over, the original sawmills name was changed to Eagle Lake Sawmill Co. The company now employs 150 men in the woods and cuts 80,000 lumber in a single shift.

Work commenced on the new mill at Giscome by Eagle Lake in 1916. The plant was then Giscome Lumber Co. The Bros. of Minneapolis acquired the mills in 1922 and the name was changed to Eagle Lake Lumber Co. It was the band saw mill to operate in British Columbia.

SICILIAN POLITICS ARE IN WILD TURMOIL WITH 9 ACTIVE PARTIES

By BILL BOSS

CATANIA, Sicily, Aug. 17 (CP)—You will receive the impression that this island is very active politically," a high official of the Allied Control Commission observed recently. Seated in his office overlooking Catania's Cathedral Square, he was explaining Sicily's difficulties in finding her feet politically.

"I have never had such an enthusiastic audience," Sgt. MacKenzie remarked. "If I were not leaving for Vancouver tonight I am sure we could put on a show that would attract another 300."

During the showing last night Sgt. MacKenzie stressed the need for continued enlistments for the men's and women's divisions of the Canadian Army. He also called on civilians to maintain their war effort programs and help the Red Cross in its important work.

Sgt. MacKenzie thanked Bernard Allen, manager of Prince Rupert Dry Dock and Shipyard and the Dry Dock and Shipyard Employees' Association for assistance they had given him during his series of movie showings here.

Canada Leading In Program for Returning Vets

Welcomed Here by American and Canadian Army Officials, Provincial Government Representative Mayor and Council on One-day Visit

Prince Rupert military and civic authorities are hosts today to the Hon. Ray Atherton, United States Ambassador to Canada, who with Mrs. Atherton and their two children, John and Dorothy, arrived in a sleek, grey-painted United States army yacht at 10 o'clock this morning.

Artillery pieces barked a 19-gun salute as the ambassador's craft moored alongside the naval wharf, and the commanding officers of the four services, representatives of the city and provincial governments filed down the gang plank to greet their guests.

Following the brief wharf-side ceremony, the party was whisked to the United States army cantonment, and later went to Canadian Army headquarters.

The official group which greeted the ambassador included Col. D. B. Martyn, commanding Prince Rupert area; Col. T. J. Weed, United States army port commander; Commander C. M. Cree, naval officer in charge; Squadron Leader W. T. F. Turgis, R.C.A.F. officer commanding, Seal Cove; Mayor H. M. Daggett and members of the city council, and Norman Watt, representing the Provincial Government.

Following the brief wharf-side ceremony, the party was whisked to the United States army cantonment, and later went to Canadian Army headquarters.

EDITORIALTIME FOR UNITY

Recognizing the apparent disintegration of Canada's political system in provincial affairs, excepting the Liberal administrations in the Maritimes, leading newspapers at Vancouver and Victoria have recently issued by their able editorials what amounts to a challenge to Premier John Hart and Hon. R. L. Maitland to forego their respective leaderships of the Liberal and Conservative parties and build up a strong and united provincial party entirely independent of federal politics.

The Sun comes up with "Provincial cabinet cronies may well flinch at the prospect of national party organizers trying to put them on opposing hustings. Provincial parties would do better to drop the feeble attempt to maintain identity with a federal party. The public could then assess the value of a provincial administration without regard for its liking or dis-taste for any federal organization."

The Victoria Times comments: "Were its members to divide and go their separate ways to bid for King or Bracken votes in the forthcoming federal contest they would be guilty of a gross affront to the intelligence of the electorate.

In its present form and under the able leadership of Mr. Hart, the government has given a first rate administration of the public's business vastly superior to anything British Columbia has experienced since she entered Confederation. On the other hand it could if it refused to read the signs of the times put on a political Jekyll and Hyde act and invite social and economic chaos. And if Mr. Hart and Mr. Maitland without further ado would turn the deaf ear to the importunities of their die-hard partisans and concentrate on the building up of a really strong and united British Columbia party we might get back to a legislature composed of two elements, government and opposition — the system which makes for the most efficient dispatch of the people's business."

What the non-socialist element of this province demands is not a union of the old parties and their organizations, the time for which has already passed, but a united provincial party of progressive and courageous thinkers opposed to reaction and monopolies both state and capitalistic with definite programs of sound development in the province and co-operating with any federal administration.

GOOD HEALTH VITAL

Scheduled to arrive Friday is a unit of the B.C. Coast Travelling Clinic which is doing good work against the tuberculosis scourge. The need for such a mobile working front against disease is great because our sprawling coastline is equipped with too few permanent centres of control and treatment. It is hard to tell how many people have been saved from lingering death by tuberculosis because of a timely diagnosis made by the travelling clinic as it paused in some coastal village.

At present the province is too poorly equipped with treatment centres which can follow up the initial work done by the travelling clinics. Every sanitarium is filled and there are many in need of hospitalization who are unable to get it. The proposal to take over the Miller Bay R.C.A.F. Hospital is a move which will help considerably in the Prince Rupert district.

However, the fact that the Miller Bay Hospital may be taken over for the use of natives does not completely relieve the situation. In the matter of tuberculosis and its evil running mates, the venereal diseases, the problem is not racial, but national.

In reply to emphasis on the prevalence of these diseases among natives the natives point out with justice that these diseases are part of their legacy from white men. Among white men they still exist strongly. But recriminations in this line, however justified, are pointless. They contribute in no way to the goal of ending disease.

As long as one of its members is afflicted, the whole human race is menaced.

LONDON, Aug. 17 (P)—You know that the engine of a buzz bomb stops a few seconds before it dives and explodes. Well, listen to this true tale from S. F. Rous, secretary of the big-time Football Association, who convulsed an audience at a sports luncheon when he told it the other day.

Rous said he was visiting an elementary school in London where some of the boys were playing cricket.

"One boy was bowling to the batsman when a flying bomb was heard approaching," Rous said. "The bowler stopped and said 'What about the shelter?'"

"'Garn,' replied the batsman, 'give us another ball. The engine hasn't cut out yet.'"

By practising the gospel of the clean plate.

Summer Furniture
Usually get lots of abuse and precious little care. Put these tips in your book of words and don't forget about them:

Wicker and reed furniture: dust them often with a brush. Wash occasionally with mild soapy water, rinse and dry. Rattan and Rustic: soap and water treatment again. A coat of varnish or shellac helps retain natural gloss.

Painted wooden furniture: soap and water here too. Waxing the painted surface helps keep it clean.

Answer Yes or No!
Here we go again! Keep a lid on your saucepan when you're cooking vegetables. If you don't away go the vitamins you've paid your cash for. Covering the vegetables cuts down cooking time too . . . and that saves full flavor and food value. Alright, so you've heard this before! Well, do you keep the lid on?

...The building of a great car . . .
a great industry..a mighty war plant

In 1904 when a little group of Canadian business men decided to found a company for the manufacture of automobiles, they little dreamed what an historic step they were taking. They were convinced that the motor car would one day be an important means of transportation, though most people at that time looked upon it as a rich man's plaything. But it is doubtful if they foresaw that in forty years their little plant would grow into an industry employing thousands of men, supplying cars to millions of men and women through hundreds of Ford dealers. Little did they dream that in a future war of nations, Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited would become the Empire's largest single source of military transport.

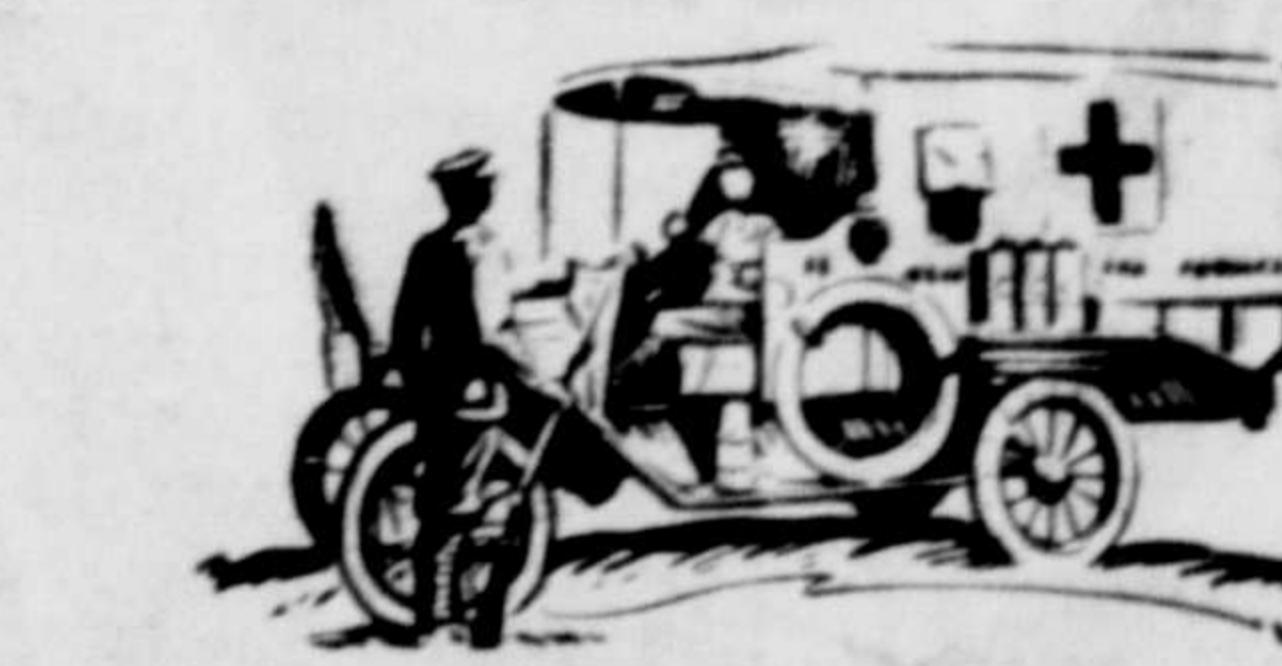

1904—Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited commenced operations in a small building formerly used as a wagon factory. Seventeen men were employed, and the cars at first were assembled from parts imported from Detroit. In the first year of operation, 117 Ford cars were produced.

1908—After two years of exhaustive tests, the Company decided to standardize on the Model "T" Ford Car, using mass production methods. With increasing demand, the plant was expanded to ten times its former size. By 1912 the number of employees had increased to 565.

1913—Ford of Canada first started building its own engines thereby creating a new major outlet for Canadian raw materials. Since its introduction five years earlier, the Model "T" engine had already become famous for its simplicity of design and absolute dependability under all conditions.

1916—Plant expansion continued as demand increased. The War, 1914-1918, called for added output. In 1916-1917, production reached a new high of 50,000 units as a new branch assembly plant went into operation at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, London and Saint John.

1927—After completely re-tooling the entire plant, Ford of Canada came out with the new Model "A". The car's modern design, power, speed and low cost operation won for it immediate acceptance. Buyers made their selection from several different models with color and upholstery options.

1940—Ford of Canada was already producing a large volume of war equipment and heavy shipments were made to many different battlefronts. As early as 1936 the groundwork for the production of military vehicles had been laid in closest co-operation with the Department of National Defence.

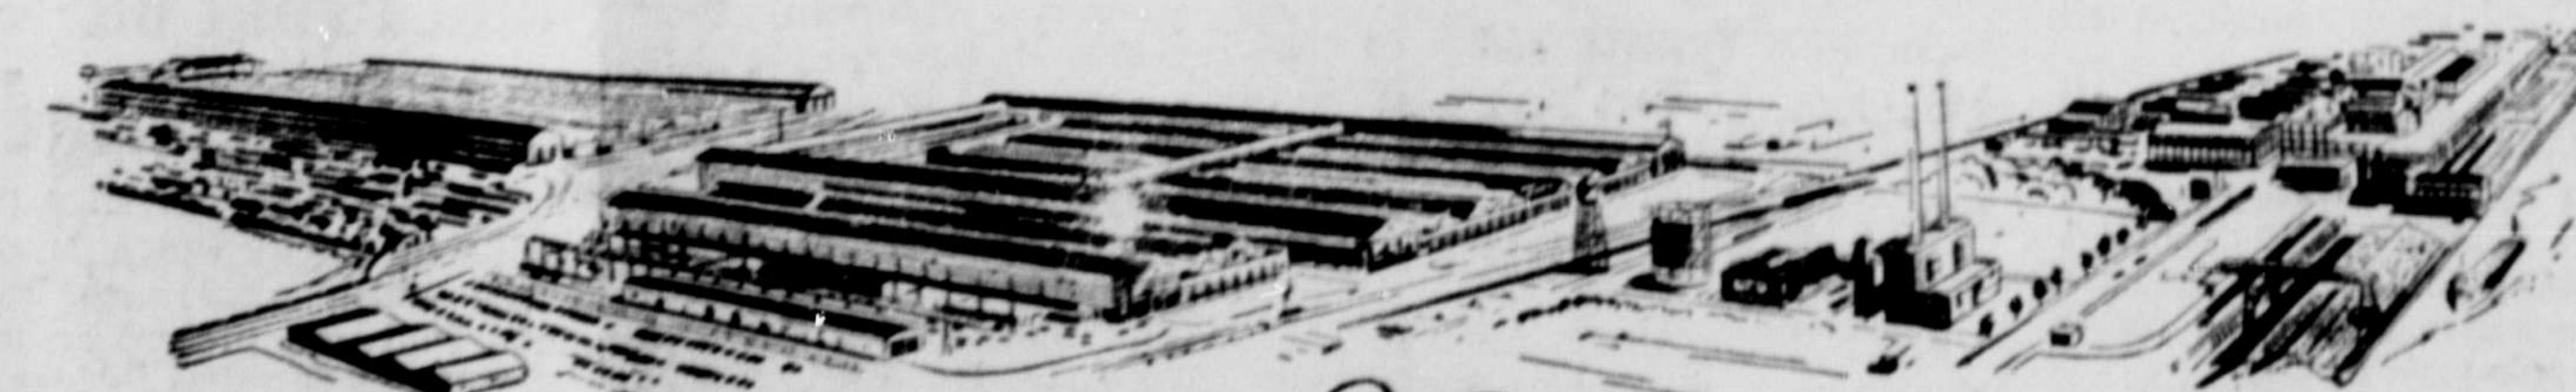

1943—The last passenger car for the duration came off the assembly line, climaxing a series of manufacturing curtailments of the previous 12 months. Now, until Victory was won, the Company's huge production was to be still multiplied but strictly confined to war equipment and essential vehicles.

1939—70% of all automobiles exported from Canada were built by Ford, more than half of the entire Ford output going abroad. The huge export business, started with the founding of the company, was built up in every part of the British Empire with the exception of the British Isles.

1944—Midnight, August 17, the Company's 40th anniversary—and out of its mighty war plant came a Universal Carrier, the 27,678th of its kind, the 538,978th Military vehicle for World War II, the 1,893,162nd unit produced by Ford of Canada during its forty year history in this Great Dominion.

Ambitious Casts Put Over Smart Outdoor Theatre

VANCOUVER, Aug. 17 — Tourists who have travelled in British Columbia know Vancouver's Theatre Under the Stars. In the darkness of midsummer night, surrounded by all the natural beauty of Stanley Park, they have laughed at Vincent Youman's nautical comedy "Hit the Deck" rolicked across the outdoor stage, or swayed out of London until this battle is won."

There are no vacant seats in this open-air theatre, the only one of its kind in Canada. Music-hungry persons jam the exits, they sit on the grass—anywhere—just to see and hear. And beyond the barricaded area, where they cannot see the sparkling costumes of the actors, nor hear the witty dialogue, they lie under the giant fir trees and listen to the music.

To this popular stage flock would-be dancers, singers, actors and actresses from all corners of B.C. and even from the prairie provinces and the United States. Who knows, the next stop for them may be the bright lights of New York or the glamor of Hollywood.

Nor is the Theatre Under the Stars any amateur's paradise. Every individual who would see himself on the famous Malkin Bowl stage must work and work hard.

"This is not 'let's get together and have a play idea,'" said Gordon Hilker, production manager. "Anyone who wants a part in our theatre has work to do."

"We train our people for the commercial theatre, we want them to make their living this way," Mr. Hilker continued. "What's more we don't encourage them to stick to Vancouver—we want them to get out and make a name for themselves."

Linked with the Theatre Under the Stars and yet not a part of it is the British Columbia Musical and Dramatic Education Society. The society's job is to provide talent for the theatre. During the winter it gives a three-month course on the whys and whereabouts of stage performances. This young association hopes one day to make B.C. the centre of dramatic training in Canada.

TROOPS CLEAN UP BOMBED RESIDENTS AND REMAKE BEDS

LONDON, Aug. 17—More than 200,000 mothers and children have been sent to safety under arrangements made by the London County Council since July 5. In addition, many thousands have gone of their own accord to escape the flying bomb danger. Large numbers of these evacuees had to leave after they had been bombed out and lost their possessions. To their assistance the Queen's Canadian Fund has contributed generously through the machinery of the Lord Mayor's Fund.

When the flying bomb attacks began, the school population in the London County Council schools was about 235,000. It is now down to a little over 100,000.

The home secretary, Mr. Herbert Morrison, warned the parents of London the other day not to be influenced by the occasional quiet night. "We shall beat this new weapon," he said. "But we have not beaten it yet," the home secretary added.

"The strain on the housewife and her children may get worse before it is finally removed, so I strongly advise mothers to think again and think hard. They will be far better out of London until this battle is won."

PRINCE GEORGE, Aug. 17 — Mayor A. M. Patterson will officiate Tuesday at the opening of the twenty-ninth annual fall fair here.

The prizes are double those offered last year and there is a record number of entires. Fair Manager Walter Burns has announced.

Hope is held that showery weather will lift for the two-day exhibition that in past years has drawn farmers and townpeople for hundreds of miles.

B.C. Men Help to Minimize Effect Of Buzz Bombs

WITH CANADIAN ARMY IN ENGLAND, Aug. 17—Picked for bulldog determination and "know how," special group of Royal Canadian Engineers is helping to minimize the effect to the flying bomb. Under the direction of Lieut. Cecil Gill, Vancouver, 23 men from across Canada have gained and held the reputation of being able to move more rubble in less time than any other squad of comparable size in the London area.

Though they are under the direction of Canadian Military Headquarters, the men have been directed to assist the civil authorities in rescuing buzz bomb victims when their services are not required for military duties. Military demands on their specialized knowledge have been light during the past few weeks, and the squad has performed a number of difficult rescues and accomplished risky demolitions for the civil officials.

The group, consisting of two heavy rescue squads, is largely made up of miners and construction workers, though one of the sergeants in charge of a squad, Tom Boyd of Monston, N.B., was a railway engineer before he joined the forces. All have a good knowledge of building construction, and have had experience in their work which nerves them to go into buildings that seem ready to collapse into a jumbled heap of wreckage. Sgt. Art Bouvin, Vancouver, knows the ins and outs of shoring tottering walls, for he was a miner in civil life and knows the stresses and strains that timbers will stand.

Lieut. Gill, in charge of the squad, boasts that he will pit his men, all of whom are over 40, against any other team of the same size in a race with time through broken beams and tumbled bricks. Gill spent most of his life in the construction business on the West Coast, building big paper mills, and later working with the British Columbia telephone system.

Men All Over Europe Headed for Radical Changes, Leaders Say

By Adelaide Kerr

WORLD, Aug. 17 (AP)—And of women will rise in the seething cauldron of war? After the war? Will guerrilla warfare do men who have reversed age-old role of giving have shot and killed comment by representatives indicate some changes are in France, where the pre-war days, famous chic and charm, never right to vote or to sit and where their rights were so restricted they could not even have a passport or get a passport their husband's consent kind of role will men play in post-war after four years of beside men in the un-the question to General de Gaulle, head of the Committee of National, during his recent New York. And his grave lit as though a light turned on.

French woman must play part in her country's than she did before. "She must vote, be eligible to hold office, needs her."

Puts His Action

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN FRANCE, Aug. 17 (P)—A rare but spectacular sight over the battlefields of Normandy is a dog-fight between our aircraft and German fighter-bombers which seldom put in appearance unless there is a cloud cover.

Enemy planes make most of their ventures over the bridgehead at night when they are opposed mostly by a tremendous flak barrage but in the daytime they don't get far over British and Canadian-held territory.

When the Spitfires show up the Germans usually high-tail it for home with anti-aircraft fire bursting all around them and the Spits hot behind often flying right through the puffs of exploding shells.

About once a month you can see the Spitfires and perhaps a Typhoon on its way back from a rocket raid of an enemy position out beyond the front to catch a Focke-Wulf or a Messer schmitt 109 out of the clouds and from then on it's like something from the movies.

Dog-Fight Noise Easily Discerned

Because the drone of airplanes is so commonplace, you scarcely bother about it, but your attention is drawn to a dog-fight most of the time by the thudding of cannon and machine-gun fire in the air and the rasping of engines getting their greatest tests.

Probably you'll see only the clouds with patches of blue sky between them for two or three minutes before you can spot one of the darting aircraft.

Then one comes diving into the open, its engine growling but you can't identify it for a second. A Spitfire with its familiar silhouette dives right after it and you glance back to the first recognizing then the blunt front nose and squarish wing-tips of an FW.

It's a trim plane and seems to be able to turn almost in its own length as it twists right and then left, climbs sharply, tries to shake off the Spitfire and get back into the clouds.

People come running out all around you on the ground to watch with the excitement of hockey fans who see a home-team player break through the opposing defence.

The FW does make cloud cover and everybody drifts away from you talking about the close one that so-and-so had. But in about five minutes the sky is full of the same sound and you run out into the open again and this time the battle is in full view.

Two Focke-Wulfs are up there twisting and turning and a third is streaking straight for home. Four of five Spitfires are on top of the two caught behind.

Enemy Pilots Use Heavy Air Canon

One of them gets on the trail of a Spit and white smoke trails back from the German's wings. Soon you hear the dull rattle of cannon fire and you know the enemy pilot got in a burst.

A second Spitfire pops up behind him and it's all over in about five seconds. The two aircraft come around in tight circles and you can hardly tell which is following which.

The FW makes a sort of U-shaped manoeuvre. The Spitfire seems only about 50 feet behind. The Spitfire's wings sparkle for a moment and smoke breaks out of the German plane.

The fight is finished before the sound of cannon fire reaches you. The FW appears to have gone limp. It climbs a bit one wing droops and then it starts to fall, end over end.

During the few seconds that combat has taken, the other German and a second Spitfire have been trying to out-man-

SPORT FLASHBACKS

The Canadian Press REMEMBER WHEN Joseph Avenold, secretary-general of the League of Nations, presented Sir Malcolm Campbell with the "Cup of Nations" six years ago today for having driven a speedboat at 127.4 miles an hour across Lake Leman, Switzerland, the swiftest run ever made over the lake.

REMEMBER WHEN Henry Armstrong spent what was perhaps the toughest 45 minutes of his boxing career six years ago tonight when he defeated Lou Ambers for the world lightweight crown. It was Armstrong's third title victory in 10 months as he previously had won the bantam and feather-weight crowns.

REMEMBER WHEN Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, returned recently from a trip to England and Sweden, in the course of which she met women who had worked in the Danish and Norwegian underground.

"They are a completely new breed of people we have never seen before," she said. "They have lost everything—possessions, family, homes. And it has shaken them out of self. When you have lost everything you can lose, you get down to fundamentals. After the war there are women going to take a hand in making their communities what they ought to be."

Joseph W. F. Stoppelman, head of the press department of the Netherlands Information Bureau in New York, foresees an appreciably broadened future for the women of Holland, who have had the vote since 1922.

Allies Win Right to Meet Wrens In Area Women's Softball Finals

Area softball has moved into its quarterly-final stages in the men's league, and in the women's league it has advanced to the threshold of the final games.

In the women's league semi-finals Allies defeated the Wrens 3-1 last night to qualify for entry into the three-out-of-five final series against Air Force W.D.'s.

On Monday night, Allies took Wrens 11-1 in the first of the semi-finals.

According to Gordon Webb, sports supervisor of the Y.M.C.A. Services responsible for directing the schedule, the complete slate of play-offs can be concluded within a week if weather remains favorable.

However, no arrangements yet have been announced for the Allies-W.D.'s final game.

Eight teams are eligible for the men's quarterly finals. The quarterly and semi-final series will be two-out-of-three games, and the finals will be a three-out-of-five series.

So far in the quarterlies Port Edward has drubbed Navy 8-2, and a return game is expected at Port Edward tonight.

At Gyo last night 9th coast defeated Dry Dock 10-0, and at Seal Cove the 9th A.A. took Soo Suds 4-3.

Barrett meets Air Force tonight at 6 o'clock at Seal Cove.

line fire organization. Employed mostly in small towns at civilian jobs, they are willing to drop whatever they are doing and speed to a forest fire at a moment's notice.

If it wasn't for these volunteers a fire might get started and burn a forest to the ground," says C. K. Collins, acting supervisor of Roosevelt National Forest.

Forest fire danger was multiplied by war. Officials realize the fires might send incendiary bombs against woodlands.

Fire fighters may number from six or seven to 2,000 or more, depending upon the size of the blaze.

CANADIAN SALVAGE

In May, 194,230 tons of scrap iron and steel and thousands of tons of essential war materials were collected and disposed of in Canada.

West coast fires were particularly vulnerable. Quickly new methods were developed for fighting fires with inexperienced crews.

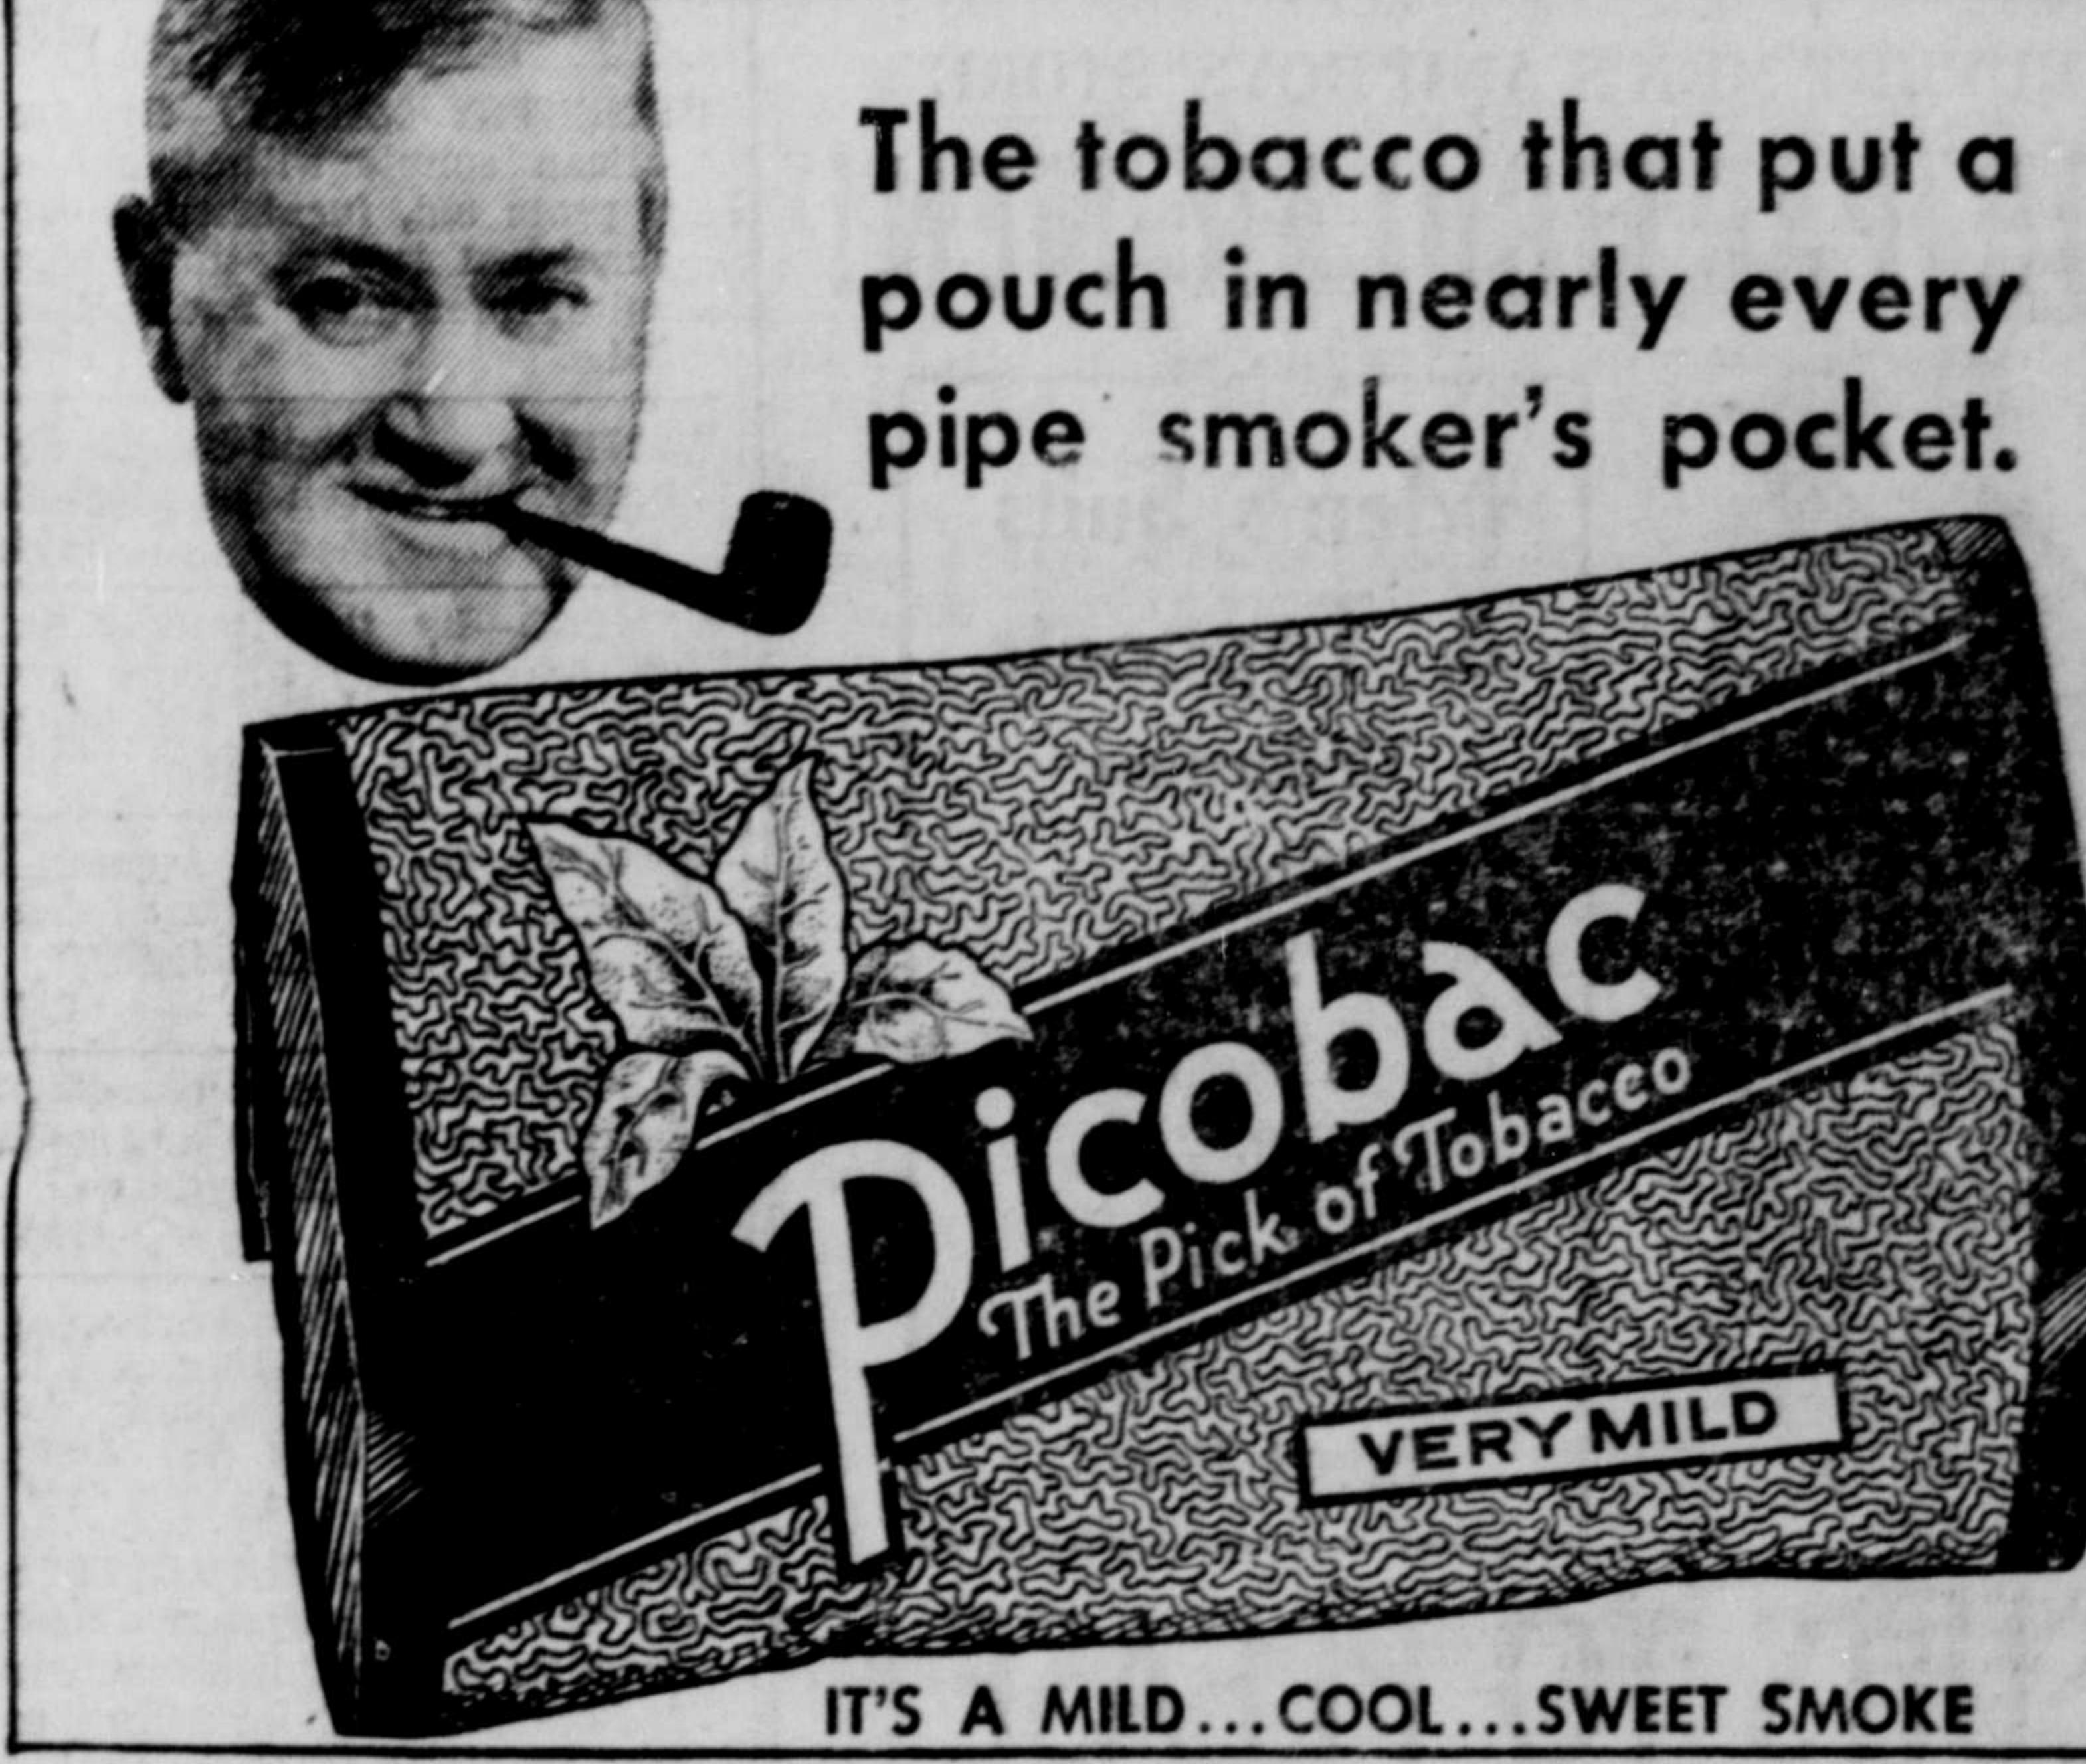

Fire fighters may number from six or seven to 2,000 or more, depending upon the size of the blaze.

WAR MOVIES ARE WELL RECEIVED

Enthusiasm with which such war films as "Welcome to Britain" and "The Battle of Russia" have been received here has made the visit of Sgt. J. C. MacKenzie, Pacific Headquarters, Vancouver, a delightful one, he said today as he prepared his equipment to return tonight to Vancouver.

Sgt. MacKenzie, of the recruiting division of the army, has been showing pictures throughout the interior and coast points under auspices of the Civilian Defence Committees. Civilians and servicemen turned out in good numbers for the showings and enjoyed them, Sgt. MacKenzie reported. His visit here this time has permitted six showings.

"SLAP HAPPY" WAR

All is fair in love and war is an old saying. But war is a serious business and the lid is not off for the soldiers on the fighting fronts.

Soldiers at home will view limitations in the right light when they know that orders such as the following are given to the boys over there:

"There will be no more transporting of civilians without authority, particularly women, in military vehicles in the Rome area, the commanding general of the Rome Allied area command, has ordered.

"Violations will result in impounding of the vehicle and the dismounting of all passengers and the driver on the spot.

"Curfew in Rome is 2300 hours for all troops, including officers. All vehicles moving on the streets after curfew without proper authority will be impounded."
