Heavy losses in the unsuccessful defence of Ploesti were reported to be tremendous. The Nazis captured 15,000 Rumanians, including two generals.

Dig Deep, John Doe! It's Deadline for Paying Income Tax

Today is the day when the reluctant payer of income tax must dig into his hip pocket, dash to the post office or bank, and get his income tax returns into the mail.

Today is August 31.

From this day on substantial penalties will be in effect against those who have failed to pay the tax.

Shortages Delay Construction of Swimming Pool

Construction of the Civic Centre swimming pool, to adjoin the Y.M.C.A. war services building being erected at 1st Avenue and McBride Street, is being delayed because of material and labor shortages, the Civic Centre committee has been advised.

The committee planned to have the pool built at the same time as the war services building.

However, a permit to build has been withheld by the Controller of Construction, Department of Munitions and Supply, on the grounds that war requirements are too great to allow civilian projects of this type at the present time.

The pool would be primarily for civilian use, but allowance would be made for its use by service people, a committee member said.

The committee is determined to press the application for construction at the earliest possible date, and has given architectural details further consideration, he added.

In the meantime, committee men are in communication with the architect with a view to having the best possible plan in readiness when labor and material becomes available.

Olof Hanson Who Pioneered For Highway Logical Man to Open it

No one in Prince Rupert who knows the background of the struggle to make the Skeena River Highway a reality will begrudge Olof Hanson, M.P., the privilege of declaring the road officially open at Terrace on Monday.

As a citizen, as a businessman, and as a member of parliament, Mr. Hanson has consistently fought to connect Prince Rupert with the continental highway system.

"I became active in the matter of getting a highway shortly after the railway was completed in 1914," he told The Daily News. "The idea developed many years before that, however. As early as 1907 I could see the need for such a road while travelling up and down the river looking after my logging interests."

During the early years, recognition of the need for the road was purely on an economic basis, and it was confined to a few far-sighted businessmen. In 1919 Mr. Hanson spoke before a meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, advocating a campaign to stir interest. He found himself surrounded by an atmosphere of pessimism, and with only a few supporters.

Several times during his parliamentary career Mr. Hanson raised in the house the need for a road to Prince Rupert. His final plea, made Feb. 9, 1942, two months after Pearl Harbor, stressed the urgent military requirement for such a road.

He said, "While it has long been desirable from a commercial point of view, because of the war situation, it now becomes an absolute necessity. In making this statement I am sure that I shall not be considered as talking only for the benefit of the constituency which I represent. It is a strategic necessity for the defence of Canada. I cannot state too strongly that this is an enterprise which should be undertaken at once."

Labor Day sees the fulfilment of Mr. Hanson's dream.

OTHERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Increasing interest in Central and Northern British Columbia by the three daily papers of Vancouver should convince even the most skeptic among us that our part of the province has a future and is destined to play an important role in the near future.

These newspapers are close to the political and business powers and, armed with advance information of development, send their staff writers into districts ahead of such developments for special stories.

In the last two months, the Vancouver Province has had two of its feature writers visit Central B.C., B. A. McKelvie and Gordon Root. True, Mr. Root came primarily to cover the provincial tour of John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservatives, but he is doing more than that.

Al Williamson, feature writer and columnist for the Vancouver News-Herald, will be at the opening of the Skeena River Highway, as will Mr. Root. Their stories will include more than the ceremony—all to this country's good.

Both Mr. McKelvie and Mr. Root while here intimated that the country through which the new highway and the road to the east ran was destined for big things. Just what that development or developments will be they were not prepared to say.

While promises and hints of visitors actually contribute little to this country's welfare their value lies in the reassurance they give us that the residents are not alone in appreciating the potentialities of this land.

We in Central and Northern B.C. should take new courage and new confidence and join in the growing program to publicize our country, and what it has to offer.

Salvation Army Doing Good Work Among Children

With growing concern for the increase in juvenile delinquency, the Salvation Army provides, and has provided for many years, safe, effective antidotes to benefit children in all walks of life, officers reported.

Great stress is placed by the Salvation Army upon young people's activities. For the young, beginning with the Cradle Roll, there are Cubs and Brownies, Scouts and Guides to give young folk the much-needed and wholesome outlets for high spirits and youthful energies.

The importance of music is stressed, and thousands of children from 8 to 15 are being taught to sing and play instruments in the junior music groups. The Army is proud of its boy and girl instrumentalists, many of whom attend vacation music camps where under trained leaders they develop into accomplished musicians and later augment the numbers of senior bandmen. Throughout the Army world today there are some 50,000 bandmen and 85,000 songsters.

Corps Cadet training covers a six-year course of study which fits hundreds of young people for lives of Christian service. Youth groups attached to Salvation Army Corps, provide education, entertainment and social diversion.

In an effort to build strong characters and to maintain high moral standards, the Army's program develops many exceptional talents and much self-reliance among young people, and is a recognized force in combatting the alarming rise in the problems of juvenile delinquency.

Annual contributions of public to the Red Shield Home Front Appeal go a long way toward making the continuance of this work possible.

Sgt. O. L. Hall to Head City Police

Sgt. O. L. Hall, of B.C. Police district office, will take charge of the city detachment Saturday, replacing Staff Sgt. G. A. Johnson, who will become head of Prince Rupert district office.

Americans Prefer Air Strips Built Canuck Style

By ALAN RANDAL

SOMEWHERE IN NORMANDY, Aug. 29 (C)—The Hessian process of building air strips, a method devised and perfected by Canadian army engineers, is being used throughout Normandy in the rapid construction of permanent landing bases for aircraft of this largest air force in the world.

Scarcely six weeks after the beachheads were established, enough air bases had been constructed by the engineering branch of the 9th U.S. Air Force to handle hundreds of fighters.

The landing points on the French coast were surprises to the enemy, because people kept their mouths shut. Why help the enemy?

Additional bases are being built just as fast as the forward troops take more ground and this work of building air strips is proceeding all along the Allied front. Many of these bases were built under shellfire and bombing; sometimes under both. Casualties among the American engineering outfits in this work average about two a day, from enemy action, a group of war correspondents were told when they visited these forward bases.

Great masses of men and machinery of all kinds and sizes have been thrown into the job of air field construction.

Of three methods used for laying out these strips the Canadian method has been found the best, so good that the 9th Air Force now insists on Hessian strips.

The other methods consist of laying square steel mesh in strips, pinned together, on top of a smooth, hard-packed surface or the lating of interlocking steel plates on a similar surface. The wire mesh method is a British development and the steel plates were an American idea.

The Hessian strip, so fliers say, is good. The surface is little more than two tough layers of building paper which are unrolled onto the surface by a machine which resembles nothing quite so much as a much-over-sized, mobile stamp lecker. It has no inherent strength and merely serves to keep the weather off the hard-packed earth.

All runways on these air strips are long with additional footage at either end for extra safety.

Col. Harold B. Schilling of Wilmington, Del., in charge of this airport construction said that in most cases it was easier to build an airport out of new territory than to use captured airfields. For one thing the Germans mined any airfield they abandoned. For another, the German airfields were not much good.

ROAD OPENING CELEBRATION

Editor, The News:

As a citizen I would like to know what happened at the meeting of delegates chosen from Mayor and City Council, Board of Trade, Junior Chamber, and Gyro, also Canadian Legion.

Were they only thinking of themselves and do they realize that they are supposed to represent the community at large? Yet they go ahead and arrange a caravan for a selective few, when there are hundreds of citizens with over 30 years' standing who would like to avail themselves of the opportunity to make the trip.

This road has cost the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars and we have been waiting years for this road to open. Now only the selective few can participate.

Why not run a special train to Terrace for the occasion, or get the army, both Canadian and American, to co-operate with the help of the navy, with trucks for transportation? Surely something should be done to make this thing a success, and not leave a disgruntled bunch of people like myself in dispen-

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Word received here today is that despite the temporary setback business has received by the war, the Grand Trunk Pacific management has decided to put on a full through passenger, freight and express business from Prince Rupert to the East. It is an epoch long looked forward to and it is the opening of a new era to Prince Rupert's commerce.

Prince Rupert customs returns for this month of August totalled $24,850.38. This is far in excess of the receipts for July, which were $11,463.04.

Mrs. Arthur Broksbank and her children, Fred, Billy and Lucille, have returned to the city from Ladysmith, where they have been residing for the past years.

British Columbia — wholesale and retail trade volume for the month of July was reported slightly lower than for June, but approximately 5 per cent higher than for July, 1943. Collections are good.

Manufacturing, shipbuilding and aircraft industries continue active. Building construction continues to be impeded by the scarcity of materials, permits issued in Vancouver in July numbered 495, amounting to $1,030,000, as compared with 345 ($308,000) in July, 1943.

Crop prospects are good. Tree fruits are sizing and coloring well and good yields are indicated. Small fruits are plentiful. Vegetable and field crops are making good progress.

Logging and lumber industries continue to be affected by shortage of trained men. Log scalings for July totalled 141,491,990 feet, as compared with 169,958,990 feet in July, 1943. Lumber mills are operating at about the same capacity as a year ago. The demand for lumber continues very strong.

The canned salmon pack to August 5 totalled 365,990 forty-eight-pound cases, as compared with 378,400 cases to the corresponding date last year and 411,300 cases to August 5 in the cycle year 1940. Gold production in June was down to 17,106 ozs. ($598,700 U.S.), as compared with 21,497 ozs. ($752,490 U.S.) in June, 1943.

Going South for First Time Since Arrival in 1911

After 33 years in Prince Rupert, during which she has not been farther away than Terrace, Mrs. E. Cavenalle, of Seal Cove, will again see Vancouver which she left in 1911 as a bride.

Leaving Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Cavenalle will stop there briefly on their way to Los Angeles, where a relative is ill.

In spite of the depressing nature of the journey, Mrs. Cavenalle confesses that she is excited at the thought of leaving Prince Rupert for a short while.

"I feel as though Prince Rupert is in my bones," she says. Mr. and Mrs. Cavenalle operate the Seal Cove Grocery and Post Office.

It was in 1911 that Mrs. Cavenalle, then Mme. Osseiner, arrived in Vancouver from Belgium. Shortly afterward she was married to Mr. Cavenalle, and the couple came to Prince Rupert where, except for a short period, they have lived since.

For three years during the First Great War, they resided at Terrace.

They have been called south on account of the illness of Mr. Cavenalle's brother-in-law and former business partner, E. Hannon, known in Prince Rupert.

Mrs. Cavenalle has long been a favorite of the airmen at Seal Cove base near the store. The first group of air crew men to train at the base presented her with an inscribed silver flower basket when they were transferred elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavenalle have two sons in the Air Force, one in the Army, and two daughters, both in Prince Rupert.

MEDAL FOR SERVICES

LONDON — Two R.A.F. men who served the King during his Italian visit received the medal of the Royal Victorian Order. They were Sgt. J. M. Duncan who prepared all the meals the King ate while flying, and AC. W. T. Keates of London, the steward.

The German generals say they are waiting for an Allied blunder to allow them to beat us back. Don't be that blabbering blunder.

FEDERAL GOV'T FOLLOWS B.C. TOBACCO PLAN

Takes Over Job of Sending Cigarettes to Troops As Soldiers Spread Out Over Europe

Following the system established by the British Columbia Government in the early stages of the war, military authorities and the Dominion Government have instituted a new tobacco scheme for those in the armed services overseas so that all Canadians may derive the benefit of a constant supply of cigarettes and smoking tobacco.

The new Federal scheme provides that men and women in the armed services may purchase cigarettes and tobacco from Canadian depots in the United Kingdom and in other theatres of war where Canadian troops are stationed.

Since inception of the fund, the Provincial Department of Trade and Industry has, through its Overseas Tobacco Fund shipped 138,000,000 cigarettes and 25,000 pounds of tobacco to B.C. House in London, where same has been distributed to recipients by the Agent-General's staff and volunteer assistants.

Difficulties of administration in United Kingdom are greatly intensified now that our British Columbia personnel are going into foreign fields and by the hazardous conditions under which the staff and volunteer help in British Columbia House is now working.

From this date no further orders will be accepted by the British Columbia Overseas Tobacco Fund for delivery to British Columbia personnel in the Canadian Forces overseas.

The fund will, however, continue to accept orders for British Columbia prisoners-of-war. These orders will, as in the past, be despatched through the regular services provided by the Red Cross organization.

The fund will also continue to accept donations from individuals and organizations for the express purpose of purchasing cigarettes and tobacco to be distributed by W. A. McAdam, agent-general for British Columbia in London to British Columbia prisoners-of-war in Europe, B.C. personnel in British Hospitals, and to British Columbia personnel cited for distinguished service, or who have received decorations for valor.

AIR FORCE W.D.'S SCORE UPSET TO REMAIN IN SOFTBALL FINALS

Breaking the spell that pitched Joanne Lowe, of the Allies, has cast over opposing batters in the playoffs, the Air Force W.D.'s came through with a rousing 18-4 triumph last night at Seal Cove to stay in the best-of-five series. The encounter was the third of the Women's Softball League finals.

Playing without three of their regulars, Allies, who won the first two games, were no match for the W.D.'s. In four previous playoff engagements Lowe allowed only 10 runs.

Vera Barliko, who has pitched good ball consistently, was the winning pitcher. Lowe was relieved on the slab by Morgan.

The series will continue Friday night when a large crowd is expected.

Barrett Only One Game Away From Rupert Area Softball Championship

Rushed to the mound with bases loaded and only one out in the ninth inning, Johnny Cuntz struck out the next two Barrett batters to save a 5-4 victory for Port Edward. This drama was enacted in the second of the Area Softball League finals last night at Barrett.

Cuntz, who hurled a no-hit game in the series opener, relieved MacGregor as the Port's pitcher, when Barrett rallied for three runs in the last half of the ninth.

Burmond did the hurling for the losers and turned in a good performance.

One more triumph will give Lt. Glassbrook's Port Edward nine the league championship.

Friends Act Fast for Fighter Tommy Burns

Friends of that popular fighter, Tommy Burns, have hastened to correct a news report that Ray Smith of Acropolis Hill kayoed the Canadian soldier.

As they rightfully point out, the two judges of that fight on the Boilermakers' card split in their decision and the referee awarded the fight to Smith.

It was a few days prior to this close boxing exhibition that Smith knocked out Red Knox of the Ketchikan military establishment in the second round.

There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip, and loose talk of military information may be that slip. Guard your tongue.

Boxing Win Will Give Local Yanks Third Sports Title

Yanks on Acropolis Hill are fast gaining an enviable sports record.

Their softball team took the U.S. Army Alaskan Mainland championship, and went on to claim the cup as champions of the Aleutians.

Their basketball team won the local basketball championship then went north to defeat the best to be found there.

Now Acropolis Hill's favorite boxer, Ray Smith, is carrying local Yank honors into the ring tonight at Ketchikan against tough Billy McCann, Alaska welterweight champion.

"Championships in three sports—that's what we want," declared one American soldier here.

"None Shall Escape"—Nazi Criminal Trial Friday at Capitol Theatre

"None Shall Escape," Columbia's prophetic and highly dramatic film about the post-war trials of Nazi criminals opens Friday for a two-day run at the Capitol Theatre.

To interpret the character and action of this powerful movie, Columbia has assembled a cast headed by Marsha Hunt, Alexander Knox, Henry Travers and Erik Rolf.

"None Shall Escape" is a startling revelation of things to come when the present world conflict has drawn to a conclusion. The story unusual and a daring departure from the pictures already seen, dealing with the inhuman and terrible results of Nazi sadism. This one brings the movie goer to the day when peace shall come through unconditional surrender of the vicious enemies, and a long suffering and righteous people bring the "master race" face to face with its victims.

War criminals must and will be punished and steps must be taken to prevent such persuasive lunatics who have ruined the present world, ever to come into power again. "None Shall Escape" was written with this in mind, and the story opens with Nazi General Wilhelm Grimm, symbol of all depraved Nazism, standing in the world court of justice, facing his accusers.

One by one they tell their pathetic stories.
