Parliament May Sit Secretly to Consider Reinforcements

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP)—Staff writer R. K. Carnegie of the Canadian Press, reports today from Ottawa that developments in the capital yesterday indicate that the federal government has no intention of forsaking the voluntary system of providing reinforcements for overseas service.

Prime Minister King issued a statement denying press reports that Defence Minister McNaughton has reversed his former stand and had advised Mr. King that the Home Defence Army should be sent overseas.

Later in the day, Gen. McNaughton said that, after talking things over with officers commanding 13 military districts in Canada, he is more than ever convinced that the continuation of the voluntary system will provide all necessary reinforcements.

Carnegie says that high circles in the capital believe the House of Commons will require 10 days to decide whether it will support the government's stand on the reinforcement issue.

The members reassemble next Wednesday and cabinet ministers have indicated that the government is prepared to hold a secret sitting on the matter.

Demobilization of Airmen...

With thousands of men coming out of the Royal Canadian Air Force as operation of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan in Canada ceases, the problems of rehabilitation in civilian life of men demobilized from the services will be increasing although they will be nothing yet compared with those that will arise soon after the war is over. The demobilization of men from the Air Force will mean that some will be coming back to take over their old jobs, find new ones which they may like better, establish themselves in business or industry. Of course, the problems of employment will not be great as yet while there is still a manpower shortage but it reminds us that the time is ripe for us all to get down seriously to considering the question of post-war rehabilitation for they will affect most everyone.

Seas Free Again...

The German Navy has been once again, as it was in World War I, eliminated as a force in a world conflict. The major surface craft of the Reich are out of business, the sinking a few days ago of the battleship Tirpitz in a Norwegian fjord having been the final blow. The submarine menace may or may not be over but the virtual absence of U-boats from the Atlantic for these past few months appears at least significant.

The mopping up of the German Navy is making possible more daring exploits for the Allied navies as the freedom of the seas for our side becomes once more established.

It is gratifying that the improvement in the war at sea is not confined to the Atlantic but may be observed to a lesser extent on the Pacific. Of course, we still have a job of work to do on the western ocean but there is every indication that we will soon be getting around to that in a big way. It is easy to foresee the day when Japan's position will be deteriorating as rapidly as is that of Germany today.

Other Side of the Case...

Correspondents and speakers on behalf of the co-operatives have endeavoured to show the fairness of retaining the present exemption which they enjoy from income and excess profits taxes which private enterprises have to pay. G. S. Thorvaldson, K.C., M.L.A. of Winnipeg, has made a statement which presents the case for private business in opposing the exemption of co-operatives, mutuals and government enterprises from these taxes.

Canada is losing well over $100,000,000 a year through discriminatory tax exemptions which favor co-operatives, mutuals and government business enterprises, says Mr. Thorvaldson, while private enterprise has to meet its tax obligations.

Under the present tax system which permits tax exemptions, many businesses in Canada—and their earnings run into millions of dollars—are not bearing their fair share of Canada's war burden. Some of these businesses will emerge after the war with huge surpluses built up out of tax earnings at a time when their competitors were taxed to the hilt, a situation which will enable them to retain enormous advantage over their tax-paying competitors in the competitive world of the future.

In Great Britain, according to Thorvaldson, co-operatives bear a similar share of the tax burden as other forms of business while in most European countries co-operatives pay the same share of operating the state as other business.

Thorvaldson asks: "Can the Dominion afford such a loss of revenue and yet finance the war and all its postwar schemes, including additional social services, assistance to agriculture in the way of floor prices and subsidies as well as the major task of providing adequate pension and rehabilitating our men as they return from overseas?"

It doesn't pay to get too conceited. After all, a pat on the back is only a few inches above a kick in the pants.

MACKENZIE KING AND THE CRISIS

Editor, Daily News:
There is one privilege mankind insists on. That is the right to crucify its saviours. That right appears to be asserting itself in the political crisis at Ottawa although all thinking people could see it coming to a head for a long time. The forces of reaction, with that quarter million dollar fund exposed earlier in the year by Hon. Ian Mackenzie and Harold Winch, has borne fruit in a big way and now reveals itself in open form though under a secret pretext.
Reinforcement through conscription of our front lines in Europe sounds urgent. But is the reinforcement question as presented by the Hon. Mr. Ralston the true purpose of this drive against Mackenzie King? I say it is but the continuation and development of a conspiracy hatched in the camp of big shot reactionists, now aided and abetted by all organized opponents to Mackenzie King plus the right wing Liberals who are now and have been acting as quislings in an effort to form an alliance with the forces of reaction, now led by John Bracken in the name of free enterprise and conscription.

Not since the time the silent work of Donald Smith wrecked the government of Sir John A. MacDonald and Alexander Mackenzie—both within a period of three years—in the early days of Confederation and the building of the C.P.R., have Canadians been confronted with a deeper hid conspiracy. The inner slogan is "Eliminate King as premier, nothing else matters."

While I consider no man indispensable, I also take the opportunity to defend the integrity and outstanding ability of Mackenzie King. In the matter of political economy and economics he stands second to no man not only in Canada but on the American continent.

Look at the internal affairs of Canada today as compared with the last war and ask yourself to explain the difference. The difference is this. In the last war we had a lawyer at the wheel. This war we have an economist who does not follow every wild goose trail that gives scent. He is not the handy man of those who would like to use him.

In the matter of conscription I gave my consent in the referendum for the government to enforce conscription if in its opinion it became necessary. That consent stands in Ottawa now and is in the hands of General McNaughton who says in agreement with Premier King that it is not necessary to use it. That is good enough for me. The enforcement of conscription in this country to fight on any front carries a large question mark. We are committed to a war not only in Europe but also in Asia. China boasts of a population of four or five hundred million against our 11 million. Are we to forcibly send our boys to China to regain that country for the Chinese? I consider the Chinese are quite capable, as the Russians were, if provided with a full supply of food and war equipment, to free their own soil from the invaders independently of our boys. I am willing to do right now to the extent of my ability. The rest I leave to the discretion of Mackenzie King and Gen. McNaughton. But never will I say they must use conscription if not necessary.
GEO. B. CASEY.

SUNDAY MEETINGS

Editor, Daily News:
May I have space in your paper to refer to an announcement in your issue of yesterday that a C.C.F. meeting will be held tomorrow (Sunday) evening in Prince Rupert at 8 o'clock? I am specially concerned about this because of my own action in such matters. Years ago I acted as chairman of a political meeting held in the city of Saskatchewan on a Sunday evening. It was at the time when Mr. Coldwell was struggling to his feet politically. An unsympathetic school board in Regina was not helping him to get his political ideas before the public and it was difficult for him to arrange for a meeting in Saskatchewan at any other time. For acting as chairman of his meeting on a Sunday evening I was rather severely criticised but I defended myself by saying that I believed a courteous, sane discussion of national problems was quite in place on a Sunday evening. I am still of the same opinion.

But that Saskatoon meeting was held at 9 o'clock. In this there was a frank recognition of the place of the church in the life of the community and nation. Care was taken not to interfere with the long established hours of church worship. I am sorry to see that no such care is exercised by the local C.C.F. I quite understand that there are members of the C.C.F. who consider the church an effete institution and who rather glory in showing their indifference if not their antagonism in regard to it. Holding a public meeting on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock is one way of doing this. It is a short-sighted policy. The church has many weaknesses. It is fairly open to much criticism. But it still remains the greatest generator of moral earnestness that there is in the life of the nation. And it is on moral earnestness that such movements as the C.C.F. must depend if they are to do lasting good.

Much of the C.C.F. support comes from church leaders. I, for one, appreciate their courageous stand with regard to Canadian citizens of Japanese ancestry. The churches, I think, without exception take the same stand. Why then this flouting of the church on the part of the local C.C.F. leaders? I wrote Mr. Coldwell some time ago and have his assurance that he is not in sympathy with it.

CADET INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOL—XMAS PLANS—SERVICE MEN HOME

TERRACE, Nov. 18—Cadet instruction is now well under way in the Terrace schools. Captain Williams, acting brigade major, is in charge. Four platoons have been formed. The instructors for these platoons are from a local regiment. Sergeant Major Whillans has charge of the first platoon, Corporal Fossum the second, Corporal Stafford the third and Lance-Corporal Sharonowski the fourth. The Cadet Instruction has been authorized by National Defence Headquarters at Ottawa and the pupils of the schools are very keen about it. The purpose of the instruction is to prepare the pupils for an army career if necessary. The immediate benefits are the discipline and the physical training. In the very near future, some of the Cadets will be getting uniforms.

The teachers of the Terrace elementary school held their regular monthly meeting on Nov. 14 in the Division V classroom. This room is in the Legion Hall and is a mile away from the building which houses the other four divisions. The meeting dealt mainly with the Christmas concert to be held on December 8 in the Oddfellows' Hall. Teachers and pupils are working hard to ensure the success of this concert.

The teachers and pupils of the Terrace High School are sponsoring a tea to be held in the Orange Hall on December 9. The proceeds are to go to the Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. Frank Gavin left on Tuesday night's train for the Tranquille Sanitarium. During the past month she has been at the Terrace Military Hospital and a nursing sister accompanied her on the train. Among the

TERRACE GIRL IS GIVEN SHOWER

On Saturday afternoon last a miscellaneous shower was held at St. Matthew's Rectory by the Junior Woman's Auxiliary in honor of Miss Bea Grosvenor whose marriage to Corporal George Kirby, R. C. A. S. C., Prince Rupert, is to take place in the Anglican Church on December 18.

The rectory had been tastefully decorated by Miss Dorothy Hills and Mrs. Margaret Schultz with pink and white streamers. From a watering can suspended from the centre of the ceiling in the reception room streamers flowed into a pink and white tub in which were the presents. The afternoon was spent in community singing followed by the serving of refreshments.

The tea table was centred with a two-tier wedding cake made by Roberta Lambly.

Those present were Bea Grosvenor, Mrs. M. Schultz, Miss Hills, Mrs. F. Grosvenor, Mrs. W. Bailey, Miss McKie, Mrs. C. Giggey, Mrs. Trumper, Kay Willis-croft, Roberta Lambly, Agnes Davidson, Sarah Mile, Margaret Mile, Bernice Matthews, Irene Cote, Margaret Hunter, Islay McMillan.

During the evening solos were sung by Miss Dorothy Hills and Bernice Matthews. Miss McKie accompanied them on the piano.

TERRACE

C. V. Titcomb has demonstrated the possibilities of a good seasonal business in the district. With a cider press he bought last year he has made 700 gallons of cider from local apples this year, producing a tasty product and saving many apples from wastage.

Freezing weather would be of benefit to the logging industry in the district. Operators have quantities of lumber, poles, ties, and fence posts which cannot be hauled by truck because the ground is too soft to hold up a heavy load.

people at the station to see her off were the Lambey's whose own daughter, Freda, has been at the sanitarium for the past eight months. Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Gavin's mother, will have charge of her family during her absence.

Maurice Cote and Harry Haugland, who joined the Air Force in April, 1944, are back in Terrace. Along with 4300 other airmen they have been discharged and are waiting for their call into the army.

Pilot Officer Brian Sessions arrived home last week to spend an extended furlough.

Joe Schultzeck of the R.C.A.F. is spending part of his furlough in Terrace and vicinity visiting with his sisters, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Hagin.

On November 18 Sergeant Ed Earl is holding a dance in the Oddfellows' Hall to raise funds for the local Boy Scouts.

Several Terrace people were in Prince Rupert last week-end. Among these were: Mrs. C. Haugland, Mrs. R. Matthews, Bernice Matthews, Mrs. F. Hall, Mrs. F. Nash and Corporal Brunton of the B.C. Police.

Waterfront Whiffs

Speculation On This Year's Herring Run—Halibutter Blew Across Harbor—Co-operative Convention

Expectation of a heavy run of herring in the Prince Rupert district this winter appears slight. The Fisheries boat Cloyah II returned this week from the Port Simpson, Dundas Island, and Eddy Pass areas and her skipper, Captain J. B. Gay, reported no signs of herring in the vicinity. There have been few herring show up in these waters, except at spawning time, for several years. This spring, however, was one of the heaviest spawning seasons in recent years, and led to expectations of a return of the 20,000 ton seasons of earlier years.

The halibut boat Parma loosed her moorings at the Standard Oil dock during a high wind this week and careened across to McNichol Creek, where she grounded. She was refloated at high tide and returned undamaged. The Parma was tied alongside the Takla. She freed herself at 5:30 in the morning and was driven by the wind almost directly across the harbor. It is understood that she will be going on the ways for an overhaul shortly.

The halibut boat Chief Skugaid, which has left to return to Vancouver after her final trip this season, underwent enough abuse by gales to satisfy her crew for some time to come. After dodging or trying to dodge, into sheltered coves at Kodiak Island and when things got too tough the Chief Skugaid took off for home, burdened with a coating of ice. She took shelter at MeLeod Bay on Cape Clear, a harbor as well sheltered as that of Prince Rupert, but the wind was so strong that her anchor dragged and she had to use her engine to hold herself from drifting around.

Events which may have vast, long term repercussions on the fishing industry were breeding in the Oddfellows' and Metropole Halls where the first annual convention of the B. C. Fishermen's Co-operative Federation has been under way this week. While information released at the time of writing is scant and generalized, the broad aim of the conference is one which should give the 3,000 fishermen represented by the delegates a powerful voice in production and distribution of fish products. A co-ordinated policy among the various co-operatives along the coast would give concerted direction to their plans and would be a step toward the eventual fulfillment of the co-operative idea — formal co-operation among co-operatives. Realizing that the information on developments at the conference is of first-grade importance to thousands of people along the coast, The Daily News regrets that it has been unable to obtain little of it for consumption by the public. Conference members voted to exclude the press so, they claim, they could have freedom of discussion without possible embarrassment by the newspaper reports. That, certainly, is their privilege. To make up for this they established a "press committee" which so far has issued only bare devitalized summaries to the local papers and the national news service. Pressed for developments Friday afternoon, a press committee member said: "This is a business meeting. We are a business organization. If B.C. Packers held a directors' meeting you would get no news at all." This presupposes a defensive attitude toward the daily press which, in Prince Rupert at least, has no justification. The Daily News has always been sympathetic to co-operatives, being itself a member of one—the Canadian Press. Its interest in the conference was purely for the news there was in it and the time element is vital in news. We are hoping to have some more complete news about the conference soon as we know our readers are waiting for it.

Women of Moose Social Is Enjoyed

At the regular meeting of the Prince Rupert Chapter 211, Women of the Moose, held last Wednesday, four new members, namely, Mary Ann Clark, Jordis Hill, Bernice Klein, Clara Bellamy, were admitted into the Heart. Mrs. F. W. Grimble, chairman for the child care committee, announced that the plans for the Christmas tree to be held on December 21 in the Eagles' Hall were well under way. Mrs. Graham, chairman of the home making committee, asked for the chapter's support at the bazaar. Mrs. Chandler was the winner of the $1 from our "Moose Cash." Following the meeting, a pleasant social under the capable conensorship of Mrs. Armstrong was enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Murray for the "What Am I" contest, to Miss Grimble for the "Pantomime Nursery Rhymes" contest and to Mrs. Bellamy for the "Bean and Straw" contest. Refreshments were served upstairs to a hilarious group.

TRUE STORIES OF CANADIAN WAR HEROES

By GORDON SINCLAIR
 Internationally famous journalist and author

 books on war and travel.

THE TANKER THAT Wouldn't Die!

Caught in mid-ocean by a German surface raider the British tanker San Demetrio was set ablaze and her convoy escort sunk.

In darkness many ships escaped, but the blazing tanker was a beacon visible 90 miles.

Considering her doomed, the Nazis sped in search of other prey without spending another shell.

Among the crew ordered to abandon this flaming wreck, was Oswald Preston of Montreal, who had been rejected for enlistment in the RCAF and was now working toward Britain in the hope of being accepted by the RAF.

Preston argued against abandoning ship because, he said, she might be saved. Through two days and nights of icy drifting on an angry sea, he and his shipmates stolidly watched their tanker burn, but not sink.

Red hot plates bulged like twisted wire, she was low down at the bow and flames leaped higher than her mast, and yet she floated.

Preston, the rookie, talked survivors into climbing aboard again and there they battled flames into submission, started the pumps, shored up gaping holes and with no charts to guide them, sailed the San Demetrio to England, where thousands of barrels of oil were reclaimed from her tanks.

For his determination to see this voyage through, Oswald Preston was given the ship's battered ensign by grateful buddies.

Medically rejected by the RAF, he signed aboard another tanker for the homeward voyage, but has never been seen or heard from since.

A movie based on the San Demetrio and her gallant crew is being shown throughout Canada.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER! The day the Nazis finally admit the defeat that's already inevitable may be a few weeks away, or it might take a few months. There's no thought of relaxing the war effort over there, and over here, management and men of U.D.L. are continuing the all-out production of high-test alcohol for vital war materials in this war-gear plant—twenty-four hours of every day in the year.

In 1924, U.D.L. commenced operations at its present location on the banks of the Fraser River. Today, after two decades of consistent progress—with seventeen acres of modern buildings and equipment—it is one of Western Canada's most important industries.

AIR WOMEN LIKE WEST

By KATHLEEN REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer
A WEST COAST R.C.A.F. PATROL BASE, Nov. 18 —Two victoria girls, members of the Royal Canadian Air Force Women's Division, were the first WD's to invade this west coast R.C.A.F. outpost a few weeks ago.
Section Officer Dorothy Gratton-Smith, formerly a high school secretary at Victoria, is in charge of the 60 girls now stationed at this base. Cpl. Sunny Harrison, who worked in the government vital statistics office before joining the Air Force, is the W.D. physical training instructor.

In the last month this man's world has rapidly taken on more than one feminine frill. SO. Smith said as she checked over a list of furniture destined for the girls' common room. The list included everything from easy chairs to tables, lounges to radios.

"Eventually we hope to have 90 WD's here," SO. Smith said. Average age group is 24. There's an amazing spirit of co-operation among these WD's which would be hard to equal any place else, she continued. Not long ago one of the cooks in the officers' mess had to work overtime—but she didn't have to work alone—two other girls were soon down in the kitchen helping her.

Co-operation Keynote
That's easily understood, said Elsie Johnson of Vancouver, a cook in the officers' mess. "All of us who work here usually go around together when off duty. Therefore when we help each other out we all have more time for recreation." Pauline Perry and Betty Hoekin, both of Nanaimo, and Isobel Rollison of Vancouver, who work with Elsie, agreed with her. The girls may wear "civvies" to the dances held twice a week in the WD barracks. In fact off duty they may wear whatever they want to (this usually amounts to a pair of slacks and a "weater"). After all there are some rules which just have to be broken in a bush station, SO. Smith said.

Until the present the WD's have contented themselves with mountain—climbing, softball fishing, sailing, for recreation but now that winter's closing in more off-duty time will have to be spent indoors. Now a common room and dining hall conversation is faintly reminiscent of a freshman bull session at the opening of college, as air, and WD's study the various educational courses they may take. They're also signing up for the bowling league and the badminton and basketball teams. Others are offering to work on The Victory, the station newspaper, and others want to join the Drama Club.

"And this is where I come in," grinned red-headed Sunny Harrison, who formerly took an active part in several dramatic clubs in Victoria. "I've had a play sent up from home which is really a honey—what's more I've already got my eye on several prospective Air Force actors and actresses."

THIS Season YOU'LL SEE

YOUTHFULNESS...

"the state or time of being young," defines the dictionary, and now is the time of being young. Youthfulness, beauty's most alluring ally, blended with the wizardry of the new Rayon Crepes, gives the magic answer to "What to Wear." Take a glimpse into the EATON Catalogue and see:

Skirts that will meet any blouse half way and pile up more service than any other costume in your wardrobe (Page 29). They make a deliberately youthful picture paired off with Blouses on Page 21.

Dresses with a young outlook... romantic short stories that accentuate a narrow waistline, yet give a flattering fullness at the bust (Page 33). Try matching a Cardigan Sweater (Page 23) with the skirt of these Dresses—you'll be delighted with the results.

Hats (Page 58) that meet the second glances they always get and show the optimism and youthful spirit of the women who wear them. You'll look as modern as the times in your off duty hours when you wear a jaunty little Sailor, or a fragile Hat to emphasize a severe suit.
