DAILY EDITION Monday, June 19, 1944

Case For Chartered Banks . . .

Facts adduced and discussion in the House of Commons incident to the decennial revision of the Bank Act tend to show to the public that operating a chartered bank in Canada is not as profitable as it used to be. The chartered banks, it is suggested, are being squeezed from below and above—government policy has removed some sources of revenue, and higher operating costs, mainly taxes, have reduced profits.

Most people view with equanimity the fact that the chartered banks are now to some extent living on fat acquired in past decades. It has been suggested on behalf of the chartered banks that, before the depositors join in the derisive cheers which would accompany the spectacle of a banker on a mere subsistence diet, they might pause to note their own loss by way of lower interest on savings, and their greater expense because of charges for servicing accounts. The policy of such easy credit sent interest rates down and down, with the result that the interest now paid on deposits hardly impresses even a tax collector. The shifting of the note-issue privilege from the commercial banks to the government central banks has cost the commercial banks a pretty penny. A note issue of $10,000,000 was a loan from the public without interest. A deposit of $10,000,000 by the public is a loan on which the bank pays interest of $150,000.

In former days, too, Canada had 1,000 or 1,200 more branches than at present. Rising costs caused their closing. Perhaps good roads and motor cars made some of these branches superfluous. But lower interest on loans and the restriction of the note-issue privilege was an undoubted factor which may have left some communities without a needed bank, and tended to concentrate banking facilities in larger centres. Government policy may have been right, in the main, but the thoughtful would like to see the small communities have all the seeds for well-rounded growth. A branch bank—or, better still—branches of two competing banks are essential seeds.

Of course the reason the note-issue privilege was curtailed—and now is to be removed—is that the Bank of Canada wanted the note-issue privilege itself—a non-interest-bearing loan from the public. By 1950 the Bank of Canada and the impecunious personal friend are the two permanent institutions in the nation which will share the monopoly.

The public might note and possibly check a very evident tendency toward an even greater centralization of financial control in Ottawa. If, as charged by the radicals who would impose even further centralization, Toronto and Montreal have had control in the past, there has been a real rivalry between the two, and there still is forthright competition between the various banks whose head offices are in ten different buildings in those two cities. The Bank of Canada head office is in one building.

The real post-war problem is to get people to spend wisely, sensibly, just as now the problem is to get them to spend only what they need to spend.

SPORTS

A lowly British football club with a five-figure debt created a sensation in this fifth year of war by signing a 61-year-old football manager at a cabinet minister's salary. Nottingham County, signifying faith in an unparalleled post-war surge towards sports entertainment, made the first move to better itself by obtaining the services of Maj. Frank Buckley at an estimated salary of $18,000 a year—probably the highest ever paid a soccer manager. The post-talked-of football deal in years transferred Buckley, who has staged more outstanding football transfers than any other manager, from the richest club in Britain—Wolverhampton Wanderers—to a team which in the last peacetime season finished halfway down the Third Division table.

Buckley, who signed with Notts after, according to a Wolverhampton statement, "earnest and persistent requests for release" from a life contract at an annual salary of $6,750, will tackle a job he always relished in attempting to guide Notts County to the post-war First Division.

"If ever I leave Wolverhampton," he once said, "it will be to start at the bottom again with a club with ambitions—and the money to pay for them." One-time $18-a-week footballer, Buckley during his 18 years' management of Wanderers brought the club from obscurity and enriched its coffers by $675,000 in transfer fees through the sale of players he had developed. One of his biggest transactions was the transfer of Elyn Jones to Arsenal Gunners for approximately $63,000. Of the "strong, silent" type, Buckley always has sought to develop talent rather than purchase the ready-made article. During the war, with many first-string footballers abroad in the services, he has relied almost entirely on youngsters for Wolverhampton, which during the winter made only a mediocre showing in the wartime 56-team League North.

Buckley once attempted to produce "bigger and better" players through administration of "gland capsules." The treatment, however, failed to win what some fans called the "Gland Final" of 1939 when Portsmouth trimmed the Wolves 4-1 at Wembley. Buckley rose to managerial duties from the professional ranks. He played for Aston Villa, Birmingham and Derby County and was capped in 1914 as centre-half for England against Ireland when a Derby team member. Prior to his term at Wolverhampton, he was manager of Blackpool for four years and Norwich City one season.

SOO-SUD NOTES

The presentation took place a few nights ago of a Royal Canadian Air Force plaque to the eighteen schools of Sault Ste. Marie, the students of which through the purchase of war savings certificates surpassed their objective of $25,000 to supply a Hurricane fighter plane named after the city of Sault Ste. Marie. The presentation was made by Squadron Leader J. M. MacDonald of North Bay. Mayor W. J. McMeeken and other dignitaries were in attendance.

New federal building regulations which provides for loans of $5,000 for new homes are expected to result in quite a fillup of residential construction in Sault Ste. Marie.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. (By Dorothy Garbutt)

Nothing pleased me quite so much this week as to hear that two of our very old friends at the "Y"—Buster Vien and Ronnie Mason—are now wearing the little round G.S. badge. I am told that those initials stand for "General Service" but if you ask me I think they really stand for "Good Soldier."

Many of the girls and boys have been asking why we have had no Winnipeg papers in the paper racks when all the other cities seem to be represented. So I tackled Breen who has the ordering of the papers and he tells me that there was some mix-up in the addressing of the papers. It seems they were sending just to Breen Melvin, Prince Rupert, with no YMCA by-line attached so they were all going back again marked insufficiently addressed. So pretty soon it will all be fixed up and the good old Tribune and Free Press will be gladdening our lives.

There were some pretty disappointed lads and lassies one night last week when they were turned back from the train because of trouble up the line. I suppose eventually they will go on furlough but it's tough to be disappointed when one is young.

Old Time Dances at the Empress are getting so popular and so many of the service people are becoming conversant with all the various squares that they are asking for old time tunes at other dances. I'm told they're starting on them at the Acropolis dances too. One thing they're as lively as jitterbugging and much more sociable and at least a fellow gets a chance to get his arm around a girl instead of slinging her half way across the room in the approved jitterbug fashion.

It's true at last—the contractors for the new "Y" building are right in Rupert. This is the first time, in spite of newspaper reports that Breen and I would admit to ourselves the possibility of the new "Y" building. Stubborn, weren't we?

NAVY HITTING IN SOFTBALL

Some Interesting Facts Brought to Light By Writer Haverstock

Some interesting facts are usually brought to light by analyzing an athletic club's record and, in this regard, the Navy softball team of H.M.C.S. "Chatham" is no exception.

Through the efforts of Writer Max Haverstock, outfielder of the Navy squad, the team's batting averages are right at hand. In four games played to date the entire team has made 38 hits for a swat mark of .324, while the highest individual average by a player who appeared in all four tilts was made by Stoker Bill Barker with .428.

The Navy nine has averaged 2.75 runs a game to the opposition's 4.56, and in hitting posted a record of 9.5 a tilt.

The batting marks of players who appeared in two engagements or more, follow:

	G	AB	H.	Pct.
Koblansky, c.	2	5	3	.600
Green, 2b.	2	8	4	.500
Brookman, 1b.	3	9	4	.444
Barker, ss.	4	14	6	.428
Cross, p.c.f.	4	8	3	.375
Makarsky, 2b.	4	16	5	.312
Haverstock, lf.	4	14	4	.285
Horne, 3b.	4	8	2	.250
Astle, rf.	3	11	2	.182

In pitching, Writer Ivor Cross has compiled a record of three victories against one defeat.

Players who have appeared in one game include: Carlisle, c.; Stein, cf.; Crowder, rf.; Shampier, lb.; Beaulieu, lf.; Pearce, c.; Alexander, cf.; and Whitehead, c. This makes a total of 17 athletes the Navy team has used so far this season.

Baptist Y.P. Hears Speech

A discourse by Samuel Gertsinger, the theme of which was drawn from the nineteenth chapter of the book of St. Luke, was the dominant feature of the regular weekly meeting of the Baptist Young People's Union, held in the Sunday school room of the First Baptist Church Friday night.

The speaker based his talk on the verse: "Christ saved others and himself he could not save." Following the speech by Mr Gertsinger, a vocal duet, "Have You Counted the Cost?" was sung by Mrs. W. W. Silverthorn and Mrs. Gertsinger.

Corporal Alvin Young led the meeting which was attended by about 35 members.

Next week's meeting will feature a missionary dialogue by Miss Gladys Carrall and Mrs. Gertsinger and songs by a male quartet.

Col. E. J. Ryan, after a brief business visit to the city, returned Saturday night to his home in Vancouver.

News of the Men and Women on Active Service (Contributions Welcome)

Flight-Sergeant Jarvis (Hickey) MacLeod, writing to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. MacLeod, tells of interesting visits to Edinburgh where he met and was entertained by former Prince Rupert people, including Mrs. Norman Macintosh, Mrs. Stan Wilson and Mrs. Carmichael (the former Hilda Wilson-Murray). Mrs. Macintosh, whose husband, an early day Prince Rupert reporter who was known as "Wee Mac" and who is now with the Canadian Pacific Railway publicity department in London, is in charge of a Canadian Legion auxiliary service club in Edinburgh. Mrs. Wilson, the former Florence Smith, has lived for years in Edinburgh. Mrs. Carmichael's husband is a medical officer of the Royal Army Medical Corps. Hickey, judging from his letters, hot foots it off to Edinburgh whenever he gets leave and it is suspected there must be some special attraction there. He also visited Aberdeen lately.

Bill Hunter, having gone from one extreme of the country to the other, has been long enough in St. John's, Newfoundland, by now to become acclimatized. However, he has had the misfortune to spend some time in naval hospital but is back on his feet again and anxious to get going. The odd time he sees a Prince Rupert boy going and coming through Newfie.

Terrace Man Dies Sunday

The death occurred after a short illness in the Prince Rupert General Hospital on Saturday morning of Axel Lund, trapper of Lakelse Lake, Terrace.

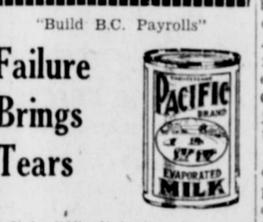

Born in Sweden 70 years ago and coming to the United States as a young man and later to Canada, he homesteaded in the Swift Current district of Saskatchewan. He came to Northern British Columbia about 25 years ago and was engaged in logging and later trapping.

Of a quiet and unassuming disposition, Mr. Lund was very favorably known and highly respected by all who knew him. As far as is known there are no relatives in this country.

Funeral arrangements are in the hands of the B.C. Undertakers. Interment will take place here.

Failure Brings Tears

It is difficult to imagine anyone could have trouble with cooking, living in the city where almost everything is available.

Yet a bride from a mining town says she has been in tears over many cook-stove failures here where she cannot use Pacific Milk as she did at her father's house.

OLD MEN'S HOME

Once an ambulance crew carried a sick man on a stretcher through those tortuous doorways.

"It would have been better for both the sick man and the ambulance crew if they had taken him up their arms in spite of his condition," S. B. Caulder, superintendent of the Home recalled. "I had the uncomfortable feeling that the other men were seeing themselves as he was carried out. It is a most awkward arrangement."

In investigating conditions in the present Old Men's Home, the Daily News confirms its subscription to a strong popular movement to house the community's elder citizen's who require public help, in decent living quarters. It also verifies the need of an institution.

The present Home, as well as being impossible as to convenience, is inadequate in capacity. At the present time there are four men occupying much needed space in the Prince Rupert General Hospital who could be just as satisfactorily looked after in a proper home.

"There are a good many other old men who are living in poverty and loneliness throughout the district who would be far happier in a decent institution," said Mr. Caulder, who has had almost a decade's experience in superintending such institutions here and in Edmonton.

Three rooms constitute the present Home. In the largest seven men sleep, and nine men eat. The cots are arranged along the walls and a large home-made table occupies the centre. Another room houses two men and these are fortunate enough to have a fair amount of living space. A third room adjoining the other two is obviously meant to be a parlor but is much too small and has only four chairs.

The men's food is cooked by Mrs. Calder in a kitchen which serves both the Caulder family of six and the nine men. It is well served and wholesome in spite of the fact that there is no provision in the establishment for keeping perishable foods.

"If we had some place to keep foodstuffs we could buy in larger quantities and cut expenses considerably," Mr. Caulder said.

The Home was organized five years ago by the city and at that time funds were not available for anything but the most modest start. At the beginning the present quarters filled the need with a fair degree of adequacy but now the need has far outgrown the attempt to fill it.

As supervisors Mr. and Mrs. Caulder make every effort to keep the place bright and clean. But no matter how hard they work, two people cannot take over the responsibility of a whole city. Nine men crowded into three dark rooms whose windows leer out at heaps of back yard rubbish is not an Old Men's Home that Prince Rupert has any right to be proud of.

Swift's Summer Suppers

Tasty, appetizing, nutritious and easy-to-prepare Swift's Table-Ready Meats are the answer to a wartime housewife's prayer

There's nothing so colourful as a tastefully arranged platter of sliced cold meats with a crisp parsley or watercress garnish, and a big bowl of salad on the side. What's even more important these wartime days, it's about the quickest and easiest supper any woman can prepare. And nutritious? Why the whole set-up is just bursting with body building proteins, vitamins and minerals. So take my tip, from now on plan to serve a "Summer Supper" at least once a week. For a little variety start with soup one time, and have a platter of steaming paragon with hollandaise sauce the next. But make "Table Ready Meats" the main course at least once a week.
