SEVEN BONDS ARE DRAWN AT CARNIVAL

At a drawing on the carnival stage the Queen drew the stubs of seven tickets from a box, each worth a $50 bond to the holder of the ticket with the corresponding number.

In case the holders of the winning tickets do not call for the prizes in 10 days, seven second choice tickets were drawn. There was also a draw of third choice winners, who will get the bonds if the second choice winners do not call for their bonds within a further 10 days.

Numbers of the winning tickets were 4581, 17203, 5232, 1948. 16740, 7547, 6443.

If these are not called for within 10 days, the following number holders may claim the bonds: 12726, 3510, 3417, 6281, 9724, 3507, 9731.

After another 10 days, the following ticket holders may claim the bonds, if the above have not done so: 7451, 7211, 7714, 1949, 5030, 13457, 4871.

Fine Recital in Open Air Yesterday Afternoon by 120 Service Musicians

Prince Rupert people respond ed in a big way on Sunday afternoon to what, physically sneaking, was probably the biggest musical event ever held in the city when they crowded the Court House green before o'clock to hear a concert by the massed bands of four area military and naval units.

A crowd estimated between 1,500 and 2,000 relaxed under a warm sun for more than an hour while the magnificent volume of 120 combined wind and percussion instruments filled the air with brisk marches and band arrangements of popular tunes.

The bands were the United States Army Port Band, the Royal Canadian Navy Band of H.M. C.S. Chatham, the Prince Rupert Garrison Band and the Sault TOKYO - Domei News Ste. Marie and Sudbury Regi ment Band, and their respective bandmasters, T/Sgt. A. L. Manning, C.P.O. G. Noakes, W.O. F. Lamont, and Sgt. D. Buchan. each took turns in leading the mighty organization.

A spirit of liveliness permeated most of the numbers and there was a noticeable absence of any dragging effect which is often displayed by extremely large bodies of musicians.

The marches were as brisk, the Strauss waltz as liltful and the slower numbers as articulate as if the bandsmen were long accustomed to playing togther with continually changing leaders. Everyone who took part is to be heartily congratulated on a successful concert.

Strictly Provincial...

Quebec is heading into one of the most interesting elections in its history; not only because Premier Godbout has nailed a trust-busting slogan to the masthead, but because he insists that it will be a purely provincial fight, with no federal meddling or federal issues.

Whether that can be done remains to be seen, Premier Godbout and his Liberal chieftains may believe it can-or else, believing it can not, they may have stated the principle to enable them to accuse its violators.

But Maurice Duplessis, head of the National Union, can hardly disclaim the name of his party and say that by it he means union provinciale.

The C.C.F. certainly does not pretend to stand by provincial issues, any more than it did in Saskatchewan, where it brought in its big guns from Ottawa and everywhere else. The C.C.F. is running candidates in at least 25 ridings and by its very constitution derives its strength federally rather than locally.

Then the Bloc Populaire, like the Union Nationale, calls itself a national party, and it also can achieve its principles only in the federal theatre - such as Quebec's rights, and Canada's sovereignty.

The Labor Progressive makes no pretence of being anything else than a federal party.

Then, to cap it all, Ottawa itself says it will not stand idly by and see federal persons and federal Mrs. O. Anderson issues attacked. For if they are, federal stalwarts will go into Quebec to the defence.

Nevertheless, Mr. Godbout has strong evidence Mr. and Mrs. J. Clausen on his side. Elections, provincial or federal, are on A Friend a community basis in part of Quebec. It is the local sunrise Beauty Salon issues that are stressed in the rural areas. The racial Helen Thompson and religious arguments are of course brought in Sunrise Co. Ltd. by individual campaigners according to their own J. P. D.

Again, a million women Quebec have the vote for Geo. Rorvik the first time. Quebec political circles expect they will LOBA dance not vote as their husbands do. But women are essentially more interested in the localized affairs which affect them in their homes.

So the outwardly spectacular events of Quebec's election will, as usual, provide little clue to the election trend itself. That information will be gathered age-old recipe for mashed poby political leaders from their ridings, village by vilage and farm by farm.
