Only KLIM has all these features:

- KLIM is pasteurized whole milk-powdered. Only the natural moisture has been removed. All the

To This Canada we love...

"May we gain a higher degree of national consciousness, a greater pride in our nation and our country . . . a pride in keeping with the land that bore us. May we learn to cheer as our troops march by. May we have a greater appreciation of our achievements in this war and not be so hesitant in making them known to others, so that they in turn may have a greater respect for Canada and the Canadians who populate it."

THIS, in words simple as may be chosen, is a sincere tribute to the people of Canada.

First, naturally, to our first citizens . . . the men and women of our Navy, our Army, our Air Force.

But no less to the people—all the people—of Canada. To those who cannot serve in uniform, though they would. To the workers who stand behind the men behind the guns. To those whose daily tasks carry neither the glamour of a uniform nor the proud badge of an essential war-worker.

Yes, to the Canadian people! The little people and the big people. The people who combine to make the never wholly drab, but never entirely brilliant pattern that is Canada. To the woman who gives a son to the Vimy or Jutland of this war. To the man who dies in business-harness, a war casualty even as the dead of Dieppe.

And to the millions on whom no spotlight falls. To those who pay, so willingly, the taxes to support a Canada at war. To the many who have dug so deep to buy Victory Bonds. To those who ever hear the Red Cross plea. To those who abide by our rationing regulations to the letter and the spirit of the law . . . gladly . . . anxious to do more . . . determined to do no less than their utmost.

To the beginner with his pocket-handkerchief Victory Garden. To the farmer who counts his wheat-acres in the hundreds. To the man on the street and to the woman in the home. To Canada . . . and to all Canadians, let us express a heartfelt wish, a hope.

May our pride within our borders, and the respect from other lands that is ours, give us confidence to plan for the future on a scale big enough and grand enough to be worthy of this Canada we love.
