Tpr. David Oland Killed in Action

Provincial Police Constable and Mrs. C. S. Oland received word Monday that their only son, Trooper David Vincent Oland, Canadian Armored Corps, has been killed in action while serving overseas with the Canadian Army.

David would have been 22 years old August 19. He enlisted in October, 1942, shortly after leaving high school.

A popular and well known youth since coming to Prince Rupert with his parents in May, 1939, he attended Borden Street Public School, and Booth Memorial High School, graduating from the latter and passing university examinations. He was an able student, and active in sports, especially basketball. With the high school basketball team he travelled to Ocean Falls and other centres.

He was born at Kaslo, B.C. In 1929 the family moved to Burns Lake, and spent the following 10 years there and in the Smithers district, prior to coming to Prince Rupert.

During the fishing seasons of 1941 to 1943 David worked on government fisheries patrol vessels in school holidays.

It is believed that he was killed in the fighting in France.

Only light ground opposition and no air opposition was encountered, although the Germans yesterday were apprehensive over a possible landing in the south. German authorities had ordered all persons other than those engaged in war work to evacuate Versailles.

American, British and French assault forces reached the first objectives within an hour.

Flying a thousand feet over the beaches, Associated Press Correspondent Kenneth Dixon reported that an hour after the landings began as far as 20 miles inland there was a complete lack of any kind of struggle to be seen.

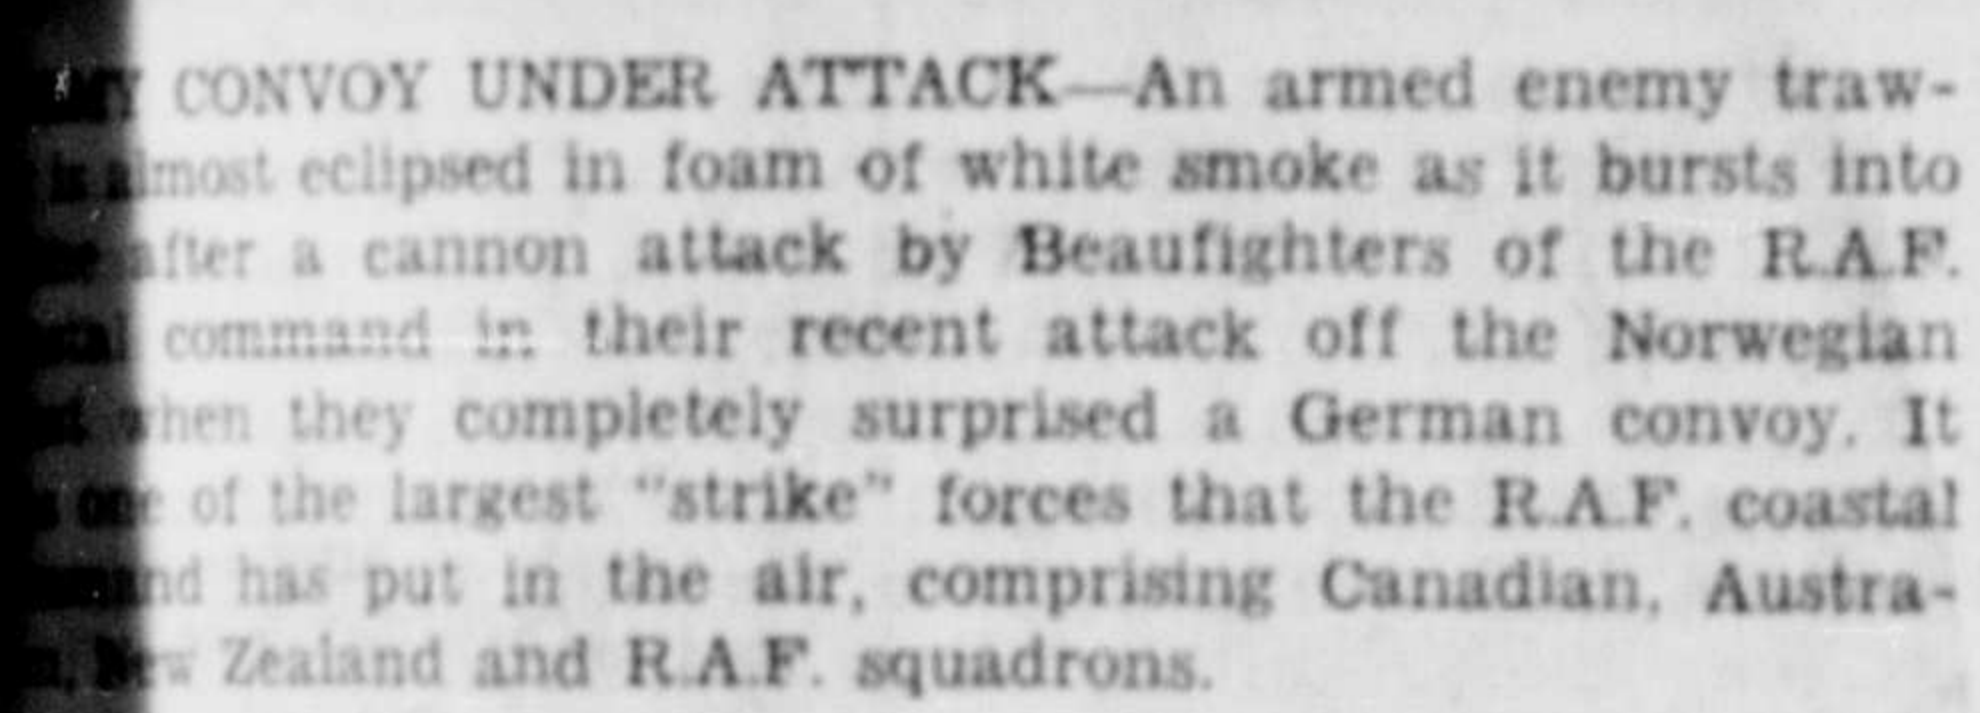

Resistance in the early stages was much less than anticipated, with little or no anti-aircraft fire to bother parachutists. More than 800 ships including battleships landed troops and backed them up with an intense covering fire.

Landings were made at several points along the broad section of the coast at places widely separated from each other.

Terrific Allied aerial attack preceded landings. Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson, Allied Mediterranean commander, said the objective is to drive out the Germans and join up with the Allied forces advancing from Normandy.

Local Youth Drowned West of Dundas Island

Karsten Miller, 14, Swept From Rock by Wave After 8-foot Skiff Overturns — His Companion, Neil Husband, 15, of Vancouver, Rescued

Karsten Miller, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Clara Miller, 1st ave., was drowned off the west side of Dundas Island Sunday evening as he and Neil Husband, 15, of Vancouver, neared shore after their row-boat had capsized while they were hand-trolling in rough water. The boat upset about three-quarters of a mile off Boat Harbor.

Young Husband, who is an able swimmer, assisted his friend to reach the rocky shore, only to have their handhold broken by a big wave which swept Karsten out of reach as it receded.

The two boys were spending the summer on trolling boats based on Boat Harbor.

Their eight-foot skiff overturned when struck broadside by a wave. Neil managed to get his friend on the bottom of the boat, and headed for rocks breaking the surface of the rolling sea some distance away. From there they managed to get to a second rock, somewhat higher, and rested for a few minutes. However, the tide was rising, and they were forced to leave it.

After one unsuccessful attempt, the boys walked breast deep in water to a third rock, separated by about 50 feet of water from a small island. Joining hands they swam to-

POST-WAR INFLATION

Sound basis exists from a long term point of view, for confidence in the economic future of Canada.

Rehabilitation of the war torn areas of the world will make a demand on the products of Canadian industry and agriculture for a number of years. These will provide Canada with a healthy export trade. In the more orderly world that must emerge and with our additional resources revealed by research and technical advances of recent years it is possible to plan for the future with more confidence than at any previous period in the history of Canada.

The most critical post-war period will be immediately following the cessation of hostilities. Two hazards, mass unemployment and inflation, might at that time so disrupt the national economy that Canada would not realize the long term opportunities for prosperity.

The danger of the first looms largest in the minds of the general public and has probably been exaggerated while that of inflation has been more or less ignored.

Alarmists have quoted figures of more than 700,000 men returning from the armed services and the 1,200,000 people now engaged in war industry. But there will be no sudden release of men from the army, navy and air force when the war in Europe is won.

These figures of those employed in war industries include those producing for war purposes goods and materials for which there is an urgent and mounting civilian demand. Others are in industries which will have little difficulty in converting to civilian production without delay.

The figures are subject to further reduction of the hundreds of thousands who have been drained from other civilian occupations, from businesses and services now stopped or running short handed. A considerable proportion of women in war industry only regard their jobs as temporary. Thousands of young people are working who will return to educational fields when the war is over.

But, inflation may wreck the internal economy of Canada and bring unemployment and chaos. It was the post-war inflationary boom and not war conditions that wrecked the economies of a number of European countries after 1918. A number of factors already exist in Canada for a post-war inflation.

Essentially inflation is an expanded purchasing power without sufficient consumer goods to meet the demand.

A flood of potential purchasing power has been accumulated in Canada during the war. Bank accounts have reached new levels in volume and number. War savings are widely distributed and a large proportion are in bonds of small denomination that are as liquid as cash in the pocket. Bank note circulation figures reveal an increasing accumulation of cash in private hands that is neither being spent or deposited in banks.

Relief from the tension of war may result in a spending spree by the general public that will release this flood of purchasing power. It could easily sweep away all the careful checks and controls that have been operative against inflation. It would occur at the same time as export demands for rehabilitation materials in Europe and Asia was making a heavy call on Canadian consumer goods.

Additional danger is that many of the measures planned to forestall post-war unemployment seem designed to step up work and wages without increasing the immediate supply of goods and services to absorb the purchasing power they create.

To avert this danger overall planning by the government in co-operation with municipalities and private industries must be undertaken soon. There must be no return to the policies of the thirties when work was provided just to make employment, when men worked by hand on projects which could have been done better for half the cost by machines. Work must be planned that will produce goods and services needed by the public.

It is possible that some measures of price control and rationing will be required in the post-war period. It is unlikely that until after industrial conversion has been completed for some time that there will be the supply of consumer goods that the public has mistakenly been led to expect. A public education campaign should be undertaken to acquaint the public with the necessity for such measures and secure its co-operation.

REFUGEE PETS SWARM OVER AIRFIELD IN NORMANDY

R.C.A.F. In Danger of Becoming Out-Numbered By Their Many Animals and Fowl

Canadian airmen are noted for acquiring pets and mascots. But if many more refugees from shell-blasted farms arrive at a certain R.C.A.F. Typhoon fighter-bomber airfield in Normandy, the pilots will be in danger of becoming out-numbered by their pets, according to a despatch in Wings Abroad, R.C.A.F. newspaper overseas.

The situation has developed from a small beginning—a baby billy goat which F/O William Hutchison, Toronto, found wandering around a barn, where four other kids, the mother, and several horses had been killed by a shell-burst.

Now, at least two dogs, a duck, a rabbit and a hen with no tail, as well as "Butch" the goat, cluck, squeak and frolic between the legs of the pilots as they chat in the mess. Outside, the calves munch at the grass around the tent, and three pigs—one shell-shocked—are fed from scraps. Nearby also grazes a fine saddle-horse, found by Flt-Lieut. P. A. "Paddy" Hayes, Skibberdeen, Cork.

Latest addition to the growing list is a white goat, which Flt-Lieut. Cecil Langille, Wolfville, N.S., found licking the taps of a broken bath tub in the ruins of a house in a village near the front. He reports gleefully that she is regularly providing milk for his morning coffee.

Complaints are beginning to be heard over the antics of F/O Hutchison's goat. Several pilots have reported that "Butch" browes into the tents and chews the legs of their trousers.

"Funny thing about that goat," F/O Hutchison observed. "He never seems to want anything to drink. He won't drink water, or beer, or milk or anything. He just gets lonely at night when nobody is at the mess, and that's why he wanders around. He's just friendly, likes the boys you know."

A pilot asked: "Say, Hutch, what are you going to call the rabbit?" F/O Hutchison replied: "I don't think I'll call him anything. We'll be eating him shortly, I expect."

VETERAN PARROT DEAD

MELBOURNE — Sydney parrot mascot of the crew of the German cruiser Emden, sunk by H.M.A.S. Sydney in the Indian Ocean early in the 1914-1918 war, has just ended a not uneventful life in Melbourne Zoo. Sydney was rescued from the Indian Ocean after the Emden was sent to the bottom and was adopted by a member of the crew of the Sydney. Later the German-speaking parrot was sent to the zoo.

The idea of home owning must be encouraged if cities are to be built in Canada and this applies very especially to Prince Rupert, declares W. J. Alder, well known property owner, who is paying his annual visit of inspection to his holdings here. It looks as if there must be a return to the old system of home investment companies where money is loaned out to those desiring to build homes.

Oddities...

It's not usually news when a dog bites a dog, but in Brooklyn the other day the dog died. Mickey, 6-month-old Irish terrier, owned by William Schilling, bit his master's left index finger, and after a fit the pet fell dead.

All of which suggests the story about a city editor describing what is news and what is not news to a cub reporter.

"When a dog bites a man, that's not news," the editor explained, "but when a man bites a dog that is."

The cub said he knew a man who did. The editor laughed and the young reporter left, returning later with a feature story about a veterinary surgeon who bit off puppy dogs' tails—and was paid for it.

From London comes the story of a German officer who surrendered only two days after he had arrived in Normandy from the Eastern front.

Asked why he had been so willing to give himself up, he said: "In Russia we were told that the Luftwaffe was in the West. In Normandy we are told that the Luftwaffe is in the East. I can't stand that sort of trickery."

The people of Polish towns are waging their own war of nerves against the German occupation army, with no more than a "one-word inscription. On

Dutch Seamen are Continuing Fight

Since May, 1940, more than 1,700 Dutch merchant seamen have been lost on Netherlands ships sunk by the Axis, according to the Netherlands News Service.

These men went down carrying ammunition and supplies for the United Nations; they served as crews on hospital ships; they braved enemy dangers on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This total does not include the hundreds of Hollanders who have lost their lives while serving aboard merchant ships of other United Nations partners.

At the outbreak of war there were approximately 40,000 Dutch seamen working on ocean-going and coastal vessels. The number that escaped from Holland must be considered a military secret since all who were able signed up for military service.

"My physique may not be particularly impressive but in my own sphere of action I'm rated tops with both dealer and public who know me as the Congoleum Trade Mark. I've always stood for floor covering quality and value, factors that are more important today than ever, now that replacements are so hard to come by. The care that has always gone into the making of the goods I identify, is intensified as we do our modest bit for morale and victory by providing that touch of colourful brightness—fine, easy-to-clean, budget-saving Congoleum floors—that make any home a happier place to live in. And on top of that, we at Congoleum are happy that our complete machine-shop facilities have been devoted to specialized war production ever since the outbreak of hostilities."

HOW TO HELP MR. GOLD SEAL MAKE GOOD

You can get added wear out of your Congoleum floors with very little effort. Brush and mop them regularly and renew the brightness of their surface with an occasional waxing. Make sure too, that the floor underneath is smooth and free from crevices or knobs. If it's a rug, move it every few months to "spread" the traffic. Yes, a little care will pay big dividends.

Measure fruit and sugar accurately.

Wash fruit, peel if necessary, cut or mash to start the flow of juice. To prevent sticking, a little water may be added but as this must later be boiled away care should be taken not to use too much. A little cider vinegar, rhubarb or lemon juice may be added to less acid fruits such as peaches and pears.

Heat fruit very slowly to extract juice. Stir frequently, using wooden spoon.

Add sugar. Time is saved by heating it first. Fruits with tough skin make better jam if cooked for a short time before adding sugar. Peeled fruits are usually mixed with sugar before cooking.

Boil jam, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking, until it remains heaped up or sheets from the spoon. (220 degrees F.).

Pour hot jam into hot, sterilized jars.

Seal with paraffin when cool. Cover with paper or metal lid.

CROP REPORT

Apple orchards show more vigor than for several years. The fruit, which is very free from pests and disease, continues to size well and early apples are on the market. A good crop of pears is developing satisfactorily. Apricots ripened fast in the late July heat and harvesting of a good crop is nearing completion. Peaches are a good crop and will be moving in fair volume shortly. The picking of a good crop of plums and prunes has commenced. Blackberries, loganberries and boysenberries are plentiful and of good quality, and a good crop of blueberries is finding a ready market. Potatoes and mature green tomatoes are now being marketed in volume and bush beans are being shipped to the canneries. The onion crop is fair. Hop prospects continue favorable. Second crops of hay and alfalfa are fair. The irrigation water supply is holding up well. The cooler weather, with some showers, now prevailing will improve pastures and field crops but precipitation is considerably below average.

THE MARKETS

Table listing market prices for various commodities including Vegetables (Onions, Spinach, Marrow, Parsley, etc.), Fruit (Grapefruit, Lemons, Oranges, etc.), and other goods like Nuts in Shell, Sugar, and Flour.

Damage from grasshoppers is serious in some areas, but not as extensive as had been feared early in the season.

Government Workers Asked to Harvest so Great is Labor Need

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—So acute is the farm labor problem that members of Federal government staffs are being urged to spend some time in assisting in the Canadian harvest. Prospects for a good wheat yield in Alberta are bright. It is estimated there will be 122,000,000 acres, compared with 80,000,000 last year.

30,000 Prisoners are Removed to America

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Another 30,000 prisoners-of-war arrived in the United States in July, it was announced today. This brings the total number of war prisoners in the country to 230,000. Many of them have been placed on farms.

Millions Needed Before Dominion Is Great Power

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—Howard Green, Progressive Conservative M.P., member for Vancouver South, envisions Canada as a great power standing alongside Britain after this war. To occupy such a post, Canada's population would have to grow to between 40,000,000 and 75,000,000 people. Mr. Green's statement in the House of Commons, on the future possibilities of the Dominion followed a criticism of the present government's policy, whether intentional or not, which he claimed, "is leading in the direction of making Canada a small nation." Some were putting Canada as a post-war leader of small nations, he said, then concluded, "If most of the Canadian people do not aim at a higher destiny for Canada, the Dominion will never be anything more than a small nation, and long run, will end up the thumb of the United States." Mr. Green stressed the importance of firmer ties with the British Empire.

HUNTERS SHOULD GIVE STUDY TO B.C. GAME-BIRD REGULATIONS

By J. K. McLeod

Nimrod, load that fowling piece, for the game-bird season approaches.
On second thought, Nimrod, maybe you had better just give the old spike a new coat of gun oil and set it aside, while together we go over the British Columbia Game Regulations for 1944-45, as just issued by the National Parks Service of the Department of Mines and Resources.

In this document, it appears, British Columbia is still divided into two game districts, eastern and western. The eastern district embraces about nine-tenths of the province, leaving the western district only a narrow strip bordered on the east by the summit of the Cascade Mountains, and running from the United States boundary to the Alaska boundary where it points out into the Pacific Ocean just north of Dundas Island.

Snipe Season Oct. 14 to Dec. 14
In fact, we will go even further. We will start off with that part of the western district lying north of the 53rd parallel, which passes through the middle of Princess Royal Island.

Here you can pepper away at Wilson's Snipe from October 14 to December 14, and bombard Black Brant, Canada Geese and Snow Geese from December 2 to February 28. The season for other types of ducks and geese extends from October 14 to January 14.

Incidentally, this does not include the Queen Charlotte Islands nor the inner islands near Prince Rupert.

On the Queen Charlotte Islands you can pick off Wilson's Snipe from November 1 to December 31, Black Brant and Snow Geese from December 2 to February 28, and ducks, other types of geese, and coots, from November 1 to January 31.

Along the Skeena River, the eastern border of the western district passes a few miles west of Terrace.

In the vast eastern district the beginning of the present century, was in arms against that very organization. For that very reason, contends the newspaper, his opinion is worthy of far more weighty consideration than if it came from one who had grown up with it.

"I am against right and left extremes," he said, but added, "I stand firm for our rights as set out in our status acts and the Statute of Westminster.

No statement could be more reasonably national than that; none could more emphatically bring men to a fair consideration of maintaining within the Commonwealth a sane degree of cohesion.

Premier Smuts admitted that there were within the Commonwealth some who regarded Commonwealth ties too strong, and who were working for their relaxation, and he definitely stated that this tendency had been carried too far in Eire and he deprecated its acceptance by the ultra-Nationalists of South Africa itself. In opposition to those who held that Commonwealth States could become republics and take advantage of dominion status when it suited them, Premier Smuts refused to take Eire as example. He frankly pointed out that Eire herself was only able to maintain her present attitude because she "stands sheltered behind the British Fleet which draws a wall of might about her."

The South African statesman, was speaking primarily to a committee of his own Parliament, but his opinions will certainly be weighed by statesmen of the Empire all over the world.

When he added that, in respect to the argument in general put up by dominion isolationists: "I do not see how they could gain more liberty, more authority or nationality by a further loosening of ties," he said something which will displease some people, even in Canada.

But the unspoken question which lay by implication behind the whole of this elder statesman's speech, as to how individual dominions are in the future to maintain any sort of strength or independence, except by close co-operation and cohesion between themselves and with the Old Country, is going to be hard to answer.

Diamond Setter at Work for R.C.A.F.

LONDON, Aug. 15 (C)—In a little workshop planted among the maze of Nissen huts that comprise the maintenance section of the Nighthawk squadron, a former diamond setter and jewelry designer applies his skill to the instruments and gauges of Mosquito night fighters.
He is Cpl. J. A. Christensen of St. Lambert, Que., who has to be the instruments and gauges of more than a year. It is his job to keep the delicate and essential instruments on the Mosquito's dashboards in perfect condition.

The owner of a registered shotgun may apply for 50 shotgun shells. These applications must be made to local ration boards from August 15 to September 30.

No centre fire cartridges will be released to sportsmen because of the great demand for this type of ammunition for essential users, particularly residents of northern outposts. Labor and production facilities still limit the amount of ammunition available and needs of essential users, particularly residents of outposts and prospectors, must continue to have first claim on supplies.

Blarney Castle was built in 1446 by Cormac McCarthy.

THROUGH four centuries of national history, Canada's mineral production has steadily grown. Today, in the fifth year of the war, the magnitude of this industry has assumed world-wide importance. Canada is the world's largest exporter of base metals.
Night and day, since the beginning of war, these essential metals have poured forth in ever increasing quantities. Production in Nickel is up 17.2%, Iron ore 54%, Zinc 43.5% and Magnesium 65,000%.
Canada has played an important role in providing these metals for war. The Dominion supplies the United Nations with 15% of their copper, 16% of their lead, 18% of their zinc, 95% of their nickel and 40% of their aluminum. These figures are impressive because they indicate that for the first time in our national history, Canada has become a world power in base metal production.

Christianity is Standing Tests In all Respects

Frank Ball Morning Speaker at First United Church; Capt. Rev. Joblin Evening Speaker

Frank Ball told First United Church congregation Sunday morning that the best proof of Christianity is that it stands the test, does not need to be taken for granted, it cannot be learned by hearsay, and it must be experienced.

Mr. Ball, theological student of Union College, is taking morning services at First United in the absence of Rev. J. A. Donnell, now on vacation.

The speaker decried the practice of believing in hearsay and referred to the modern tendency to let other people do one's thinking. In religion, he emphasized this is particularly dangerous.

"We should not accept unchallengingly credal belief," he asserted. "Christianity can and does stand on its ability to be experienced. But each must find it out for himself."

In the evening the service was taken by Captain the Rev. Joblin, by permission of the senior chaplain. Captain Joblin said the knowledge that God had willed that there should be a world community and the fact that "we are taking part even now in steps towards the fulfilment of that plan" should cause a thrill to all.

There were many differences among peoples he noted, but there were many common grounds of agreement. There is a sufficient community of interests to bind the whole world together. This was the work of Christianity, he maintained. In the home there was a community of interests. In the city there was a wider community of interests and in the country a still wider community of interests. Christianity transcended the limits of a country and its fulfilment would provide that community of interests that would make "Thy Kingdom come upon earth as it is in Heaven."

The soloist for the evening was Steven Bond.

MOVIE FIERCE INDICTMENT OF NAZI REGIME

A gripping story of life under Nazi rule is unfolded in the Monogram drama, "Women in Bondage," showing Wednesday only at the Capitol Theatre. It exposes conditions which have been little realized by the outside world, and gives a sordid picture of home life under the Hitler regime.

Gail Patrick and Nancy Kelly are co-starred in this startling film. Miss Patrick is seen as a German woman who returns home during the war, after several years' absence, and is horrified at the degraded status which has been enforced on the women of her native land. Miss Kelly is a native girl who is arbitrarily prevented from marrying her soldier sweetheart, and who commits a cardinal sin when she cries out against the regime. The eventual punishment of both women furnishes the ultimate in brutality.

The picture is strong fare, but reveals facts about the ruthless Nazi government which should be known by the outside world. Pagan baptism, mercy killings, sterilization, government-encouraged vice and the cruelties of the Gestapo are only a few of the subjects dealt with in the highly dramatic story.

Airmen Enjoy Comics

LONDON, Aug. 15.—One of the most popular people in a Royal Air Force Mitchell medium squadron — although she may not know it — is Mrs. Gordon Doyle of Ottawa. The reason is that she always includes newspaper comic strips in the parcels she always sends her husband, PO. Gordon Doyle, 30-year-old navigator. The comics pass from hand to hand right up to the squadron commander.
