Bases of United States . . .

Classified, 2c per word, per insertion, minimum

Prince Rupert might quite conceivably have more than an indirect interest in any deal whereby United States would acquire permanently British bases under the 1940 destroyer deal. As far as is known, all the bases directly affected so far are in the Atlantic Ocean and it has not been made clear whether bases on Canadian territory would be involved. As is well known, the United States has also established bases on this coast but it has not been disclosed as to just what the permanent terms in regard to the occupation of these may be.

The Halibut Tie-up...

The halibut fishing industry will suffer through lack of fish from the present tie-up if it lasts too long. The boat owners and fishermen appear quite satisfied to bide their time providing, of course, there is not a break anywhere in the coast tie-up. With plenty to do ashore and the prospect of more auspicious weather a little later on, the local halibutters feel they do not need to start fishing until a month or so from now.

As for the matter at dispute, the ruling of the United States Office of Production Administration that there should be a cut-back in the ceiling Hugh Burbank adversely affecting the price to be paid at Prince Rupert as compared with Seattle, is doubly unpopular, tending as it does to hold the price of the product down to say nothing of the discrimination against this port which is involved.

Sweden and Reprisals . . .

For instance, many have asked how much notice they must give their landlord when they wish to vacate. This matter is governed by provincial law, not by Prices Board order. Others have asked if a tenant can be ordered to vacate when behind in his rent. Here again the answer is determined by provincial law. Anyone more than 15 days behind with his rent can be required to vacate under provincial law.
