Frank Flaherty, just returned from London where he covered the conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers, tells about British post-war trade.

By FRANK FLAHERTY Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 23 0 -Behind the enthusiasm with which political and business leaders in Great Britain back the idea of clearing channels of world trade after the war and creating an i expanding world economy is an urgent need for increasing British exports.

Authorities estimate that if the British people are to impont goods after the war on the they must export from 40 to 50

The principal commodities imported by the United Kingdom are food and raw materials for factories. Unless food comes in as before the standard of living will go down. Unless such raw materials as cotton come in as before British industry slows down, exports slow down and things become worse.

This necessity for more imports than before the war arises out of the price Britain has paid and is paying for the victory and freedom. Pioneers' Home Campaign Committee in Session Wednesday Night

The Prince Rupert Pioneers' Home Fund Committee met on Wednesday on the eve of the opening of their campaign raise at least ten thousand dollars for the construction of new home for Prince Rupert's aged men.

Arrangements for the citywide canvass were reported well in hand. Oscar Haveroy, director of publicity, has done yeoman service. He reported on the splendid co-operation shown by the local press and by business firms contacted by him.

The canvass committee, consisting of Mrs. F. Barber and E. A. Evans, reported that, due to the short notice, several of the organizations in town had not yet had an opportunity to give the names of their members willing to help in the canvass. However, the committee felt sure that practically all lodges and fraternal organizations in Prince Rupert would get behind the committee and do their share of the necessary

It was decided to commence the canvass today. Because of the limited number of canvassers the start would probably be somewhat slow but the committee felt sure the campaign would gather momentum a more canvassers entered.

The committee adjourned with the feeling that support already definitely promised indicated that the people of Prince Rupert were going to put the campaign well over the top and so end situation that appears to be a disgrace to the community.

Role of Reserve Army . . .

Actual invasion of France brings into proper perspective once more the vital importance of land armies and especially the close fighting, hard hitting infantry. No offensive battle was ever won without the support of the latter. In the final analysis the infantry must assault and occupy the ground desired.

In this work the Reserve Army has an important role. Normally it can do much to provide pre-Active Army training especially for men waiting to be called. Of equal importance, too, is the fact that an enthusiastic Reserve Army after the war can maintain some military tradition and offer a defence in case of emergency. Moreover such an organization will prove vastly more economical than a large standing army which might be the only alternative.

These points employers should keep in mind when they are asked to make provision for reserve army men in their employ called up for training this summer. This war is far from being won yet, and unfortunately, there is no guarantee that victory will mean the end of national dangers.

Why Do CANADIANS Like

It is not by chance that the Bank has a million satisfied depositors, besides thousands of other friends who use its services in various ways. There are substantial reasons, chief of which, we believe, are as follows:

First, Confidence. Canadians of every occupation-farmers, labourers, mechanics, office workers, home workers, business managers and clerks, corporation executives, professional men and women-believe in the Bank, because of its history and traditions, its strength and its known service to the nation.

Second, Experience. These Canadians know, by personal experience in dealings with the Bank, they can rely on it-come good times or bad, peace or war-for the kind of banking service they need. Third, Modern Methods. Due to our modern methods, a spirit of helpfulness, and the practical efficiency of our staff, customers find it pleasant to transact business at the Bank, whether it be at the Head Office, one of our large city branches, or the smallest branch in the smallest town. If you are not a customer of the Bank, you are invited to become one.
