NAZIS ARE CAUGHT IN NUMEROUS OFFENSIVES

RED ARMY SPEARHEADS PLUNGING DEEPER INTO POLAND—NEARING BUG RIVER—NAZIS SHORT OF PLANES AND FUEL.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10 (CP)—Red Army spearheads plunged to within fifteen miles of the Bug River today and neared Vinnitsa, rail city on the Bug serving as the main control point for German communications to the Dnieper Bend. Other Russian units, slashing southward, set deeper one jaw of a possible trap for thousands of Nazis in the Smela Gap. German-held zone in the rear extending eastward to the Dnieper River. This southward drive was pushing toward junction with a second Russian army advancing westward through Alexandrovka which was captured Saturday.

Gen. Ross Speaks To City Council

The course of war had made it expedient to disband about 100,000 Civilian Protection (A.R.P.) workers in various parts of Canada during the past several months. Brigadier General Alex Ross told an informal meeting of the city Council on Saturday night, but he added, the British Columbia coast was one part of Canada where there ought not to be any relaxation of precautions.

The Civilian Protection director urged his listeners to maintain vigilance not only against possibilities but also against what might seem improbable in the way of enemy damage in this area. General Ross fortified his appeal with an offer of assistance, both financial and in the way of equipment to the extent that local authorities thought that it would be needed.

Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, Civilian Protection director for British Columbia, also spoke at the meeting, dwelling on the central co-ordination of all local A. R. P. organizations throughout the province. He reminded his listeners that as provincial director, he was not only the titular head but the actual head of A.R.P. organizations.

The meeting, which was presided over by Mayor H. M. Daggett, began at 7 o'clock and was attended by all council members.

Following the meeting, General Ross addressed the public through radio station C.F.P.R., and, with Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, left a short time later for Vancouver to continue his tour.

Thomas P. Scully, one time miner and prospector of this district and now in the Veterans' Home Guard, wishes it to be known that he was in Vancouver at the time another man named Scully was arrested for robbery and that the arrested man is no relative of his.

Invasion Jitters—Tense Germany Hears Rumors

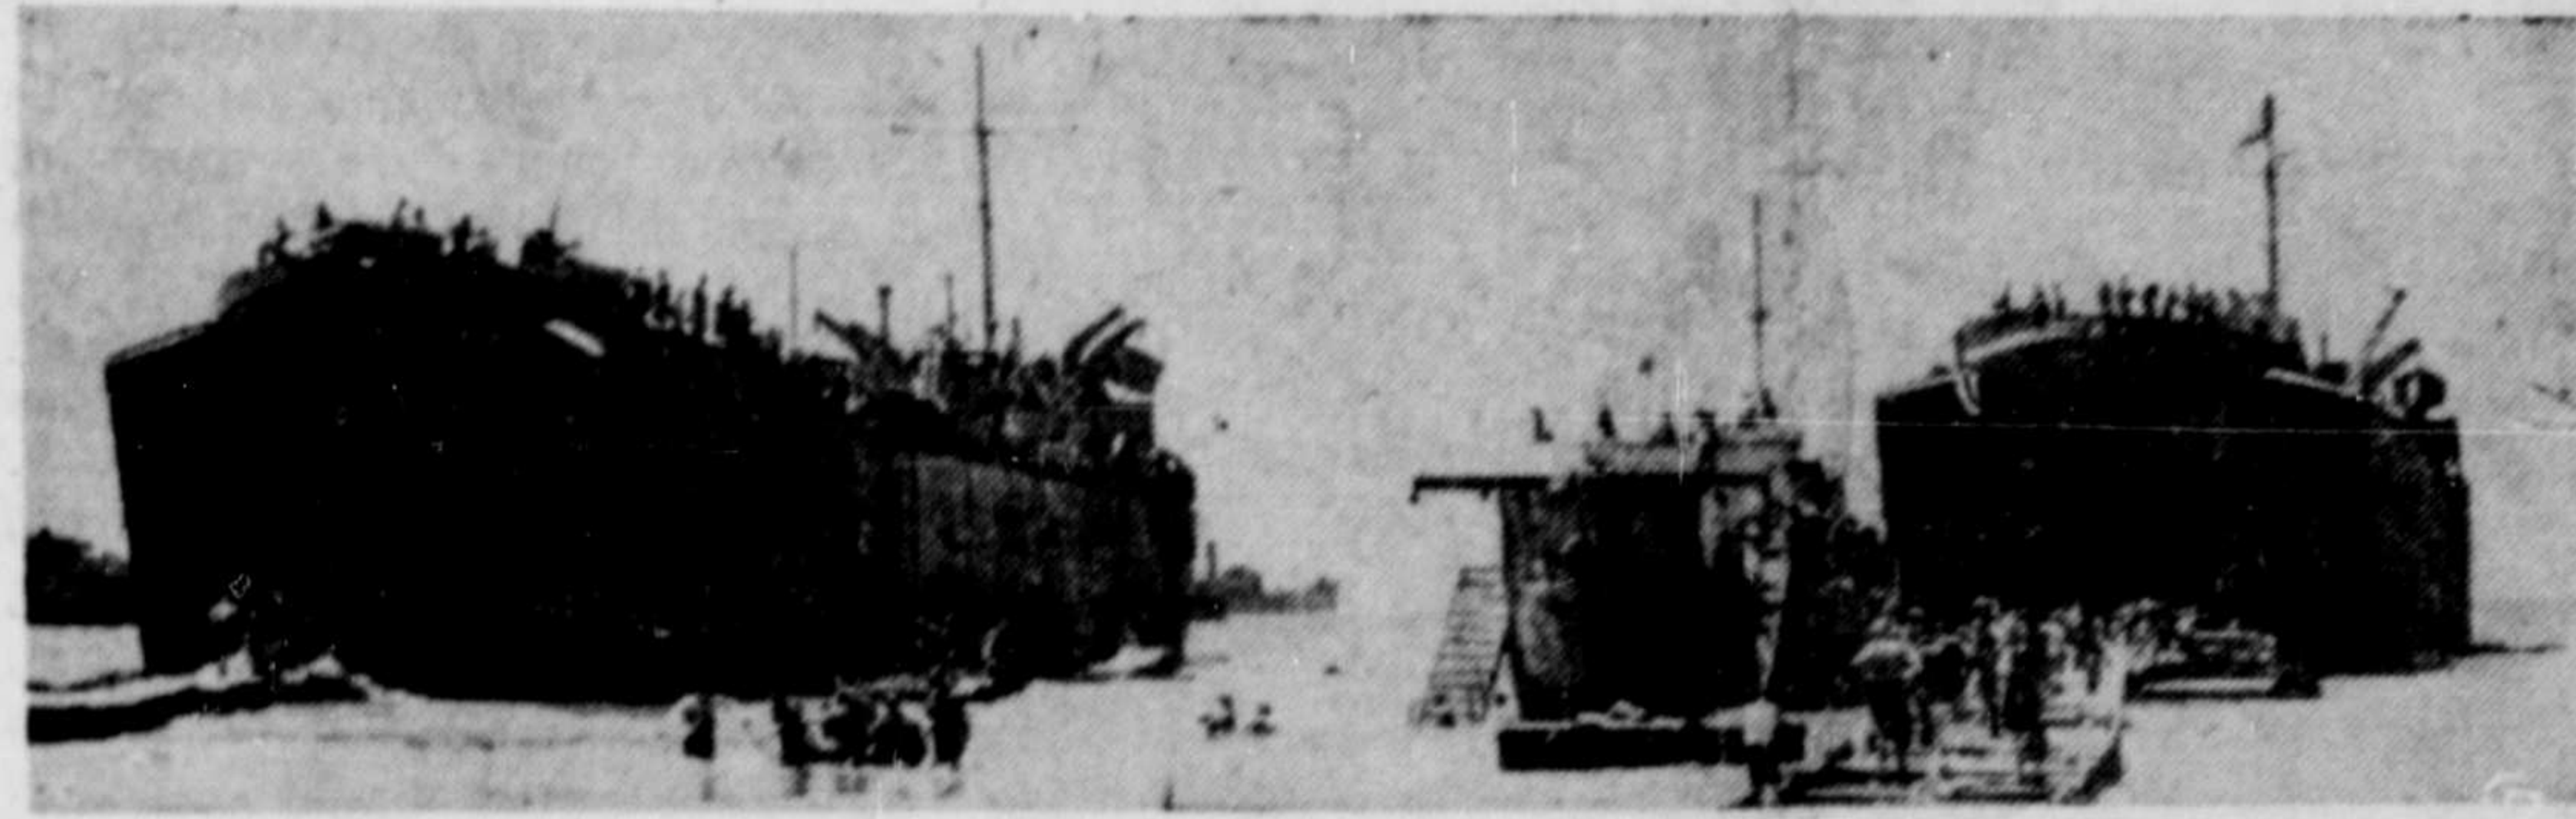

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Allied preparations to invade Europe from the west were reflected in continued German tenseness Sunday as it was reported both in broadcasts from the German controlled continent and in dispatches from neutral correspondents.

A Berlin broadcast said that a strongly escorted convoy of eighty Allied tankers and merchant ships had arrived at Gibraltar from the west.

On Saturday a German broadcast from Brussels claimed that the Allies have mapped out an intensive five weeks' aerial bombardment to precede an invasion and that the Germans in Belgium are especially on the alert.

A Netherlands News Agency reported Nazi concern over a possible invasion of the Netherlands had resulted in additional former members of the Netherlands forces being interned as prisoners of war.

CANADIANS INVADE ITALY FROM GIANT BARGES

New-type barges like these sailed right in on the beaches of Italy, bringing their cargoes of men and supplies, without serious opposition. Invasion-trained Canadians landed with lightning speed, capturing shore gun positions before the enemy could open fire. Here, Canadian troops leave the barges for shore on rafts and small craft—some even wading waist-deep.

Still Questions Sunday Sabbath

All who worship God in spirit and in truth will not act or speak contrary to the teachings of the apostles, prophets and Jesus Christ, declared Evangelist Balmer last evening in the Oddfellows' Hall. His lecture dealt with the Challenge to Protestantism to produce from the sacred scroll evidence for the National day of rest and worship—Sunday.

He quoted excerpts from the writings and utterances of Catholic and Protestant Ministers and from periodicals to the effect that the present day of rest was man-made and did not have Divine Sanction. The speaker received ten references to the first day of the week in the bible, in not one, he said, could there be found a text, a command or an example for the custom and practice of many today.

THE DAILY NEWS

PRINCE RUPERT, BRITISH COLUMBIA

Published Every Afternoon Except Sunday by Prince Rupert Daily News Limited, Third Avenue
G. A. HUNTER, MANAGING EDITOR

DAILY EDITION Monday, January 10, 1944

Civil Defence in Prince Rupert . . .

Warned by the federal government on the advice of the military authorities that there is still a very definite possibility of a sporadic enemy attack on this coast, most likely, if it ever comes, in the way of an air raid, the local A.R.P. organization is endeavouring, following the visit of the Dominion director, General Alex Ross, to bring the ranks of wardens and fire fighters up to strength again. If the citizens who are not already engaged in some sort of defensive activity in addition to their usual pursuits realize their responsibility to their families and homes there should be little, if any, difficulty in recruiting the men—or women—who are required.

It is unnecessary to repeat what General Ross said while in Prince Rupert as to the advisability of an effective civilian protection organization being in existence ready to meet any emergency that may arise. It might be well, however, to repeat the suggestion he made that, if civilian protection is to be effective, it must be organized well in advance so that those who would help will know where to go, what to do and how to do it. It is of little use to excuse one's self for not joining the A.R.P. with the statement that one will be ready to help if and when the need comes. A person who does not know where to go, what to do and how to do it would only be in the road of those who are in a position by preparation, training and assignment to do something.

Too many places in this war have already been caught by surprise attack after striking the attitude that "it cannot happen here." It is just a case of the old adage of "it is better to be safe than sorry." There are plenty of men and women in Prince Rupert who can spare the time that it requires to be organized and function under the A.R.P. and they should not hesitate in assuming their duty to themselves and the community by joining up. Newcomers to the city should not wait to be invited to join up but should make their willingness to help known.

Maybe Berlin Is Right . . .

The belief expressed in Berlin that the Allied talk of a second front may be a blind covering some other undertaking, possibly a great Allied reinforcement of the Russian drive which already has the enemy on the run in wild and disorganized retreat, might be quite logical. It is good fighting weather on the eastern front and will be for some time yet.

The many who served on the western front in the last war know only too well how most un auspicious weather and ground conditions at this time of year for campaigning are there, particularly with mechanized equipment. So maybe it is more reasonable to expect that, if a second front is to be opened in the west, it will not be until the good weather of spring. Possibly it is not to be evenly reasonably expected that organization could be perfected much before that time, particularly since the commands are only now assembling in Britain which would, of course, be the springboard. A large reinforcement of the Russians now might well carry the Allies right into German territory at the weakest point and be the most serious blow that could be dealt the Hun at this time. The big problem would be the maintaining of a great Allied offensive force in Russia due to the long line of supply. Meanwhile, it is not to be expected that the Allies will be shouting from the housetops when and where the attack will be made.

Next-of-kin of prisoners and internees in the Far East may obtain on request from the provincial Red Cross headquarters, Marine Building, Vancouver, a map showing the approximate locations of camps in which British and American prisoners of war and civilian internees are known to be detained.

As far as information can be secured there are groups of camps in 12 areas in Japan, each group taking the name of the place from which it is governed. As far as is known there are 26 camps in Japan.

There are three camp areas in China—north, central and south. British and Allied subjects in North China are mainly interned in two civilian camps long. The doctor said I would Shangung promotory. Several camps and assembly centres are in or near Shanghai. These are mainly, Chapel, Yu Yuen Road, Ash camp, Kiangwan, Lungwa, Pootung on the British Great Western Road. There appear to be other camps on this road including one at the Columbia Country Club and the Great University. In southern China there are camps at Canton and in the Victoria City and Hong Kong areas. Individual camps in the latter areas are: Stanley Camp, Argyle Street, Shamshulpo Bowen Road Military Hospital and St. Theresa French Hospital. There are nine camps in the Philippine Islands, these being Bagulo, Cebu, Davao, Iloilo, Los Banos, Manila (Santo Tomas), Negros, O'Donne II, Puerto Princesa, and two in Chosen (Korea), these being Keijo (Seoul) and Jinsen (southwest of Keijo). Single camps are located at Mukden, Manchoukuo; Singapore (Changi Camp), Malaya; Bangkok, Thailand (Siam); and Malang, Java.

Before I had to lie in bed all day long. The doctor said I would be able to walk with a cane after June, but I hope I'll be able to walk before that."

SWIFT'S WEEKLY WARTIME FOOD HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed Home Economist, whose weekly cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints every Monday

by Martha Logan

Pot Roast, Plus

The colder the weather the more your family will like this spicy pot roast of beef

One hint for this week introduces one of the most useful tricks in the cook's repertoire. That of the marinade "steeping sauce."

Many of the less popular cuts of meat can be given unusual and attractive flavours by soaking them in such a sauce.

Try the marinade given in the panel with a pot roast of beef... a 4 lb. beef hump or chuck... prepare the meat as directed and let stand, covered, in cool place for 2 hours or more. Pour off liquid and save. Rub meat with mustard and brown in hot fat. Add the spiced mixture. Cover and cook slowly adding hot water as needed for 3 to 3½ hours. Vegetables (onions, carrots, celery, etc.) may be added just long enough before serving to ensure tenderness.

For other new and interesting ways of cooking meat, send 10¢ for your copy of Martha Logan's "Meat Complete" to Swift Canadian Co. Limited, Dept. NE 52, New Westminster.

'MARINADE FOR BEEF'

- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 teaspoon (each) grated nutmeg, ground cinnamon and cloves
- 2 bay leaves
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 clove garlic (optional)
- 1 cup apple or grape juice
- Boiling water as required

Wipe meat with damp cloth and place in bowl. Mix salt and spices and rub over top of meat. Add sliced onion, garlic (if used), bay leaves, brown sugar, vinegar, and fruit juice.

"QUALITY"

Not Only a Word, But a Code

... Quality is no static thing; it has no unit of measure. Rather is it a decree of excellence.

... Judgment of the degree of excellence in any particular product must rest with the integrity of the judges.

... Such judgment was easier when things were made of "pure" substances—such as pure wool, pure silk, pure linen—or when an article was made from start to finish by hand.

... Proper judgment of products demands more knowledge and experience than ever before. Only a store that holds public confidence as its most precious trust can be counted upon to keep its standards of judgment unassailable.

... Quality is and will continue to be our code. We will endeavor to maintain in our goods a degree of excellence the word "Quality" connotes.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT

I've been here almost two and a half years and today is the first time I've noticed the fact that the bas relief decorations on the Federal building carry out the totem pole motif. Made me go Rose Marie all over.

Well, well, thank everyone ever so much for all the coat hangers we received. I feel like shouting "I dood it" except that you are the ones who dood it. So thanks, Mrs. Wingham, and the gentleman who gave us, at an earlier date, the iron for the navy and who slipped in so unobtrusively Saturday afternoon while I was busy taking around a group from navy headquarters. I saw him out of the corner of my eye but never managed to get across to thank him in time. Thank you, sir, very much indeed. Freddie Wingham, who just lives across the street and who brought over an armful, tells me he goes to King Edward School and his teacher is Miss Peat.

Only one baby last week, so Mrs. Hill-Tout reports from her rounds as hospital visitor. This is little Leona Marilyn Wick who made her appearance on January 4 and weighed eight pounds two ounces on that momentous occasion. Leona has two sisters, Carol and Anne, her mother is a Prince Rupert girl. Her daddy is a petty officer in the Fisherman's Reserve. So now in the Wick family there are Three little Sisters.

The song of the table tennis ball ping-pong and pop; its way across the nets will be forever stilled unless we start getting a few more balls. It seems, so Breen Melvin tells me, that they are getting harder and harder to get except for a few hoarded for just such an emergency. Pity there wouldn't be a shortage of juke boxes too, but then there is no justice. There will be no Hut Spot for about a fortnight as I am off to Vancouver to meet Mrs. C. L. Sanderson, chairman of the Personal Committee of the National Y.W.C.A. War Services, who will be in Vancouver from January 13 to 17. So adios, see you soon.

Train Travel In Rumania Banned

BERNE, Jan. 10 (C)—Budapest radio reports that Rumania has ordered a virtual ban on civilian train travel on all main lines obviously in connection with withdrawal and defence plans impelled by the steady advances of the Russians toward the Rumanian border.

Need Of Wardens

Prince Rupert is Otherwise Well Equipped for Civil Defence, General Ross Finds.

Prince Rupert is well equipped for civil defence and more equipment is available if it can be used but it is essential that the A.R.P. organization here should be more adequately staffed and there should be no delay about it, declared General Alex Ross, Dominion director of Civil Defence, in an interview with the Daily News Saturday afternoon before leaving that evening for Vancouver after spending two days here in the course of a tour of inspection of the civilian defence organization on this coast.

"The wardens are the keystone of the whole civil defence set-up," declared General Ross. "Without a sufficient number of trained wardens the whole organization falls." Asked for a definition of the responsibilities of a civil defence warden, General Ross said he must know the people in his area, have full local knowledge and have his area organized. He must be able to deal with any incidents that might arise with coolness, judgment and resourcefulness, have knowledge of how to extinguish incendiary bombs and deal with all kinds of fires, possess rudimentary first aid knowledge to handle casualties and know how and where to report. All this, of course, means training and new arrangements are already under way to have such training given. Schools of instruction are to be held to train instructors who will, in turn, pass on their knowledge to classes of local wardens.

It was his desire to have ample protection arranged for all strategic points and potential targets for enemy attack one of which was definitely Prince Rupert, General Ross said.

As a result of General Ross' visit, Chief Warden J. S. Wilton and Fire Chief H. T. Lock are already setting about to have a canvass of citizens in order to rebuild the personnel of civil defence wardens in Prince Rupert.

General Ross said he was planning on taking up with General G. R. Pearkes, general officer commanding Pacific Command, the possibility of greater co-operation of and with the reserve army in civil defence activity.
