U.S. Units Reach Rheims

Berlin Broadcast Says Troops Have Evacuated Rouen

ALLIED SUPREME HQ., Aug. 30 (CP)—American armored units reached Rheims today and stormed across the Vesle River.

Rheims is 50 miles south of Belgium and 100 miles from the German border.

Meanwhile, a Berlin broadcast admitted the Nazis had evacuated Rouen and said the German Seventh Army is now on the eastern bank of the Seine River after "disengaging movements."

A Berlin commentator said Rouen, toward which Canadians have been advancing, was evacuated after destruction of all military establishments.

Allied Supreme Headquarters said Americans who had crossed the Aisne River in two places had driven north of Chemin-à-Dames Road to within 35 miles of Belgium, threatening to outflank the German Fifteenth Army.

Germans were faced with a new pressure on the west end of the Allied line by a British drive beyond the Seine River.

Advance elements of the American Third Army were nearly 20 miles northeast of Soissons and only 36 miles from Belgium.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported Ontario and Maritime infantry were near the southeastern outskirts of Rouen today, after crossing the Seine.

Munro said Canadians had captured Boos, four miles southeast of Rouen and on the main road leading into Rouen.

LONDON, Aug. 30—A proposal for an armistice, couched in take-it-or-leave-it terms probably will be handed to Bulgarian emissaries within the next few days and under present plans probably will be signed in Cairo, a dispatch from Cairo said today.

Reports indicated that any suggestion of "negotiations" has been avoided carefully.

Meanwhile a new government has been installed in Hungary in an apparent German attempt to restore the Nazis' last defences against the Russian offensive in the Balkans.

Another great load of bombs was dropped on Konigsberg.

Both Berlin and Hamburg were hit by Mosquitoes which carried 4000 tons of bombs.

ROME, Aug. 30—Germans fleeing up the Rhone Valley from Southern France were locked in a heavy battle today with Americans 12 miles north of captured Montellimar.

The announcement said many small boatloads of Germans had been captured.

Allied headquarters said the prisoner total has passed the 45,000 mark, more than 10,000 being taken in the Marseille area alone.

ROAD TO GREATNESS

It has been rightly said that the country's future often lies in a study of the past. The builders of this country had great dreams and plans for what Canada could become. The courage and determination that pushed the early settlers farther and farther west, the faith and perseverance that built the railways, were rooted in something deeper than personal gain. These men had to pioneer in the realm of the physical. To make their dream come true, they had to overcome Indians, mountains, droughts and all the forces of nature. Today, to build the Canada we want, we have defeatism, buck-passing, apathy and the weakest sides of human nature to overcome.

Canada now stands at the parting of the way. One road is the same that brought us unprepared to two world wars in a quarter century. Its surface is smooth, and it is dotted with many comfortable park benches and hot dog stands. But if followed it will take us into World War III. The other road takes a different direction. It looks less travelled; in fact there is grass growing up between the paving stones. This road is not such easy going and it seems at first sight to be much the longer way round.

The first puts expediency ahead of principle and wealth above character, substitutes "business is business" for "love thy neighbor as thyself," is characterized by high talking and low living and puts the almighty dollar first. The other restores true values where they belong.

Here in a few words is the underlying issue today. This is the war of ideas about which so much has been written and said. The future of the country depends on the choice its people make. If we take the wrong road now the best of post-war plans will not put us on the right track.

We will have the sort of Canada we want.
Which do we want?

TIME IS DANGEROUS

In the last four provincial elections, four different parties have been elected. Social Credit in Alberta, C.C.F. in Saskatchewan, Union Nationale in Quebec and now Liberals in New Brunswick.

While the political picture as a whole seems somewhat confused with no apparent unity, close political observers are placing higher stakes than ever on Mackenzie King returning to power when the Federal election is held.

Despite a strong bid for a return to national favor, the Conservative party, now operating under the more appealing name of Progressive Conservatives, provides strong threat to King, and the flow of the C.C.F. tide has eased. Meanwhile the Liberal solidarity has been manifest from coast to coast.

This means, simply, that Mackenzie King will be re-elected, provided the election is not delayed too long. Time lag could prove a serious antagonist.

There is a saying in the United States that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation."

The State of Maine borders on the province of New Brunswick. As that province has returned the Liberals with a big majority, will it hold that "as New Brunswick goes, so goes the Dominion"?

FORMER SOLDIER WELCOMING COMMITTEE

RED CROSS ASKS HELP OF I.O.D.E. AND LEGION W.A.

Prince Rupert Branch of the Red Cross Society is taking steps to form a "Welcome Home" committee to meet returning service personnel and their dependents and is enlisting the aid of the I.O.D.E., Canadian Legion and Legion Women's Auxiliary.

The Canadian Red Cross Society has set up and now has in operation, a trans-Canada service for both returning service men and women and dependents.

At Halifax, Red Cross conducting officers are placed on all troop trains and hospital trains. This Red Cross personnel accompanies the train across Canada, rendering any necessary assistance, sending wires, providing fruit, smokes, etc., and advising in advance the respective Red Cross divisional headquarters of the names and original units of the men coming to the respective military district depots.

At the C.P.R. and C.N.R. stations in Vancouver, through co-operation of the local management, suitable accommodation has been provided and coffee bar, comfortable chairs, magazines, etc., for the next-of-kin or friends to await the arrival of the train, installed jointly by Canadian Legion and Red Cross. In the case of hospital trains, through a public address system, the name of each man as he is carried off the train on a stretcher, is announced in the reception room and the relatives or close friends are permitted to chat with the patient for a short time in an adjoining room before he is taken in ambulance to Shaughnessy Hospital. The operation of this reception depot is a joint endeavor by the Canadian Legion (War Services) and Red Cross Society, ladies from each organization being in attendance at each train reception.

Cards are given service men on which they have only to write their names and home town addresses and the dates they will leave Vancouver by boat or train. These cards are distributed on the train between Calgary and Vancouver to men who will be discharged shortly after arrival in order that they may mail them to arrive at their home town in advance.

For hospital cases a supply of these cards are kept at the respective hospitals and patients are given them a sufficient time in advance of discharge to enable the cards to reach the home town ahead of the soldiers.

Over 16,000 Canadian service men have married English women. Many of these war brides have already come to their new homes in Canada. At Halifax a war nursery, with cots, cribs, and all necessary facilities and supplies for a nursery was installed more than a year ago in anticipation of this move.

When vessels arrive with war brides and children the members of the Canadian Red Cross Corps in Halifax are permitted to board the ship prior to disembarkation. The children are carefully tagged and taken ashore the nursery where they are tended to, until the mother has gone through the necessary immigration and customs departments.

A Red Cross conducting officer, a member of the Red Cross Corps, accompanies the train to Montreal, having taken on board adequate supplies of baby accessories, fruit, chocolate, reading materials and many other things. At the outset in Halifax, all luggage is labelled with Red Cross labels of different distinguishing colors for each province, thus ensuring, so far as possible, that baggage will reach its correct destination.

Officers are put on board at Montreal and a similar change is made at Winnipeg. In this way these new Canadian wives and mothers are given a "lift-up" during their first few days in a strange land.

Prior to their arrival in Vancouver, their next-of-kin, or husband, if he has arrived home prior to his family, are advised of the time of the train arrival and are accommodated in the train reception depot. Any motor transportation, which may be necessary, is afforded. This service to war brides is entirely a Red Cross function.

Fear Possibility Of Rat Incursion

By JAMES MCCOOK

EDMONTON, Aug. 29 (C)—When public health officials have night-mares they see a rat meeting a prairie gopher which carries plague germs.

In such a meeting they see danger to all Canada. The fear that it will occur spurs the Alberta Health Department, headed by Hon. W. W. Cross, in its campaign to keep rats from becoming established in Alberta. Nothing can be done about the gophers, native to the plains and flicking a carefree tail at man's best efforts to exterminate them.

John H. Brown, public health entomologist, said today that arrangements are being made for a complete survey to show what rats — if any — are in Alberta. From the Atlantic the rats have travelled as far west as Saskatchewan and they have sunk deep into British Columbia from the Pacific coast. But a limited survey undertaken recently by Alberta officials indicated the pests had failed to gain a foothold anywhere within the provincial boundaries.

It is taken for granted that Alberta cannot be immune from the rat invasion any more than any other part of the world, but the reasons for keeping them out have unusual urgency.

Mr. Brown's travelling laboratory, kept moving over the Alberta prairie throughout the summer has delimited areas in which gophers are afflicted with bubonic plague.

When plague-ridden gophers are found warning posters are set and limits of the area advertised. Residents of the district guide themselves accordingly and are careful not to touch gophers they shoot or poison. Because of the danger of infection, the bounty formerly paid by the province for gopher tails has been abandoned.

The gopher is an animal of the fields and does not seek contact with man. Rats are different. If they become established in Alberta they are likely to pick up plague infection from gophers, somewhere. And, equally likely, they will transmit the disease to man as they crawl about his possessions.

The check on gopher plague infection has been maintained for six years and Mr. Brown said the preventative service thus provided has been valuable in protecting the health of persons in the limited areas where diseased gophers have been found.

Deaths due to the plague have been few—only one has been reported in recent years—but the possibilities always have been alarming to health authorities. The plague comes in three forms, the worst the pneumonic type. That is the "Black Death," which has killed millions in the past.

1 Clean Your Furnace

Have your furnace thoroughly cleaned before lighting the fire. Scale should be removed from inside surfaces. Chimney and smoke pipes also should be cleaned. When burning Soft Coal, furnace should be cleaned every week. A soot deposit 1/2" results in a one-third waste.

2 Keep Your Furnace in Good Condition

Badly fitting doors and cracks allow air to enter where it is not wanted and either burn your fuel too fast or cool off the heating surfaces. Refit the doors, cleanouts and dampers, and fill cracks with furnace cement.

3 Use Your Fireplace in Spring and Fall

Use your fireplace, if you have one, instead of lighting your furnace during Spring and Fall. It will take the chill off the house and shorten your furnace heating season. Close damper when fireplace is not in use.

4 Caulk Window and Door Frames

Many hardware stores rent caulking guns. For small cost you can save fuel by caulking the space between the brickwork and the window or door frames.

5 Use Storm Windows

By employing storm windows you can save much of your fuel. To be effective they should fit snugly. Put them up early.

6 Weatherstrip Doors and Windows

If your windows open too easily, use weatherstripping. Paper, rags, or cheap cotton batting can be used if regular weatherstripping is not available.

7 Seal Chimney Leaks

Seal all heat leaks in the heating system and the smoke pipe connection with the chimney. A little stove cement will do the trick.

8 Repair Insulation

Insulation on hot water and steam pipes and boiler should be repaired to prevent heat loss in basement.

9 Take Care of Hot Water Tank

An insulating jacket on your hot water tank will save heat. At frequent intervals drain off any accumulation of sludge through the tap provided.

10 Don't Let Taps Leak

Replace washers on taps when they leak. Use hot water sparingly.

YANK TITLE FIGHT— EXCITEMENT RUNNING HIGH OVER McCANN-SMITH BATTLE FRIDAY

American soldiers here and in Alaska are keyed to fever pitch over the meeting Friday at Ketchikan of Billy McCann, Alaska welterweight boxing champion, and Ray Smith of Acropolis Hill. The 700-seat arena there has long been sold out and at $3 a seat—a small fortune for any G.I.

That McCann is a tough, experienced fighter, is wide knowledge. But local fight experts, who have been studying Smith, Acropolis Hill welter champ and boxing coach, herald this boy as the brightest fight prospect seen anywhere in some time.

The high rating given Smith is not entirely due to the fact he is a Rupert Yank. This young soldier is a scientific boxer with speed and a powerful punch.

Anyone who can stand up against Canadian soldier Tommy Burns, claimant to the Canadian welterweight title, is a real fighter. Smith did better than that. He kayoted Burns, one of the smartest fighters on the Canadian coast.

From this victory, Smith went on to Ketchikan to flatten Red Knox, Alaska favorite, in two rounds.

With their best opposition to Acropolis disposed of, Ketchikan send a hurried call to the Alaskan champ, McCann, who has held the Alaskan welter crown since 1941.

McCann is being given a publicity build-up as a killer, with emphasis being placed on the terrific lacing he gave a former champ.

Smith, who has San Francisco ring experience behind him, is a quiet, good looking lad who bears no apparent battle scars. His easy movements and quick eye are the only indications of his ability when outside the ring. Inside the ropes he pleases the fans and gives his opposition trouble from start to finish.

Should Smith take the nod Friday in the scheduled 8-round bout, he will become the subject of widespread interest. Adding the Northern welter title to his present claim for Canadian welterweight title recognition may well place him in a spot to tackle the best fightdom has to offer.

Fighting on the same card Friday night will be Wellmond Wallace, Abram Lider and Urban Hernandez. Lider who is tangling with Red Knox, is also rated high as a fighter with a future.

So the boys on Acropolis Hill can follow the McCann-Smith battle, the fight will be broadcast long-wave over station KTKN, on the radio dial between 900 and 100. Pete Wambach, of the U.S.O. here, and Cpl. Art Sydney, of the local U.S. Special Service, will handle the broadcast. Pete will provide the background and color, while Art will give a blow-by-blow description. Both men are experienced sports announcers.

Speed is the essence of mobility but advance information to the enemy will defeat it. Be careful of your conversation.

MEN'S SOFTBALL— Port Edward Shut Out Barrett In First Game of Final Series

Realization of a pitcher's dream, to hurl a no-hit game in a championship series, was almost experienced by hurie, Cuntz as he led the Port Edward Softball Club to a 11-0 victory over Barrett last night on the winner's home grounds.

Second game of the Area Softball League finals will be played at Barrett tonight.

One hit was all the usually hard-hitting Barrett nine could garner off the Port Edward moundman. Meanwhile, the winners gained five runs in the first inning, another in the fourth and five more in the sixth, to win easily.
