TWO TO ONE FOR KENNEY

SMITHERS, Oct. 27.—Election day in Smithers saw one of the stormiest and dirtiest days of the fall which made it quite inconvenient for those engaged in bringing out the voters to the polls. It started snowing just as the polls opened at 8 o'clock and it kept snowing and raining all day long which made the roads wet and slippery.

Will Has Seat In Legislature

Well, I suppose I shall return my home at Victoria and live in the city, said Premier Pattullo yesterday on inquiry being made as to what he would do about his future plans after defeat in the seat of Prince Rupert at the provincial election Thursday.

And yet, reflected the old political warrior, "I have a seat in the Legislature. I am an honorary member of the press gallery so I need not be surprised if I hear of me joining the newspaper boys. How would the Daily News like me for a correspondent?"

HALIFAX, Oct. 27 (CP)—Aboard the giant troopship Queen Elizabeth, which arrived here yesterday from Britain with 12,000 Canadian service men on board, two complete Second Division units—the Fusiliers Mount and the Scottish, veterans of the tough fighting through France, Holland and Germany. In addition to the 6000 men were 600 civilians.

LIVED THROUGH NAZI TENANCY

Mother of Clergyman Still Alive and Well As Norway Is Liberated

The end of the war brought to Rev. J. H. Myrwang good news from his native home at Narvik, Norway, of his aged mother whom he had never expected would survive the ordeals of Nazi occupation. The last word Mr. Myrwang had received of his mother, then 87 years of age, was that she had been stricken with pneumonia just before the occupation began. There was silence then until after the liberation this year when came the satisfactorily surprising information that she was still alive and well both physically and mentally.

The elderly lady made her home in a community just outside of Narvik which was largely razed by bombing. After the occupation there was a trek through the mountains to a small and comparatively sheltered town which escaped the physical ravages of war although there, like everywhere in Norway, suffered from lack of food and clothing.

Parcels To Norway May Now Be Sent

Confirmation was announced today by Dr. Jens Munthe, Norwegian vice-consul, that arrangements had been completed by the Post Office Department whereby parcels may be sent by Norwegians in this country to their relatives in the Old Land who, although liberated, are still suffering hardship through lack of supplies.

The local Victory Loan organization had been active in connection with the clearing up of the Norwegian mail situation which had been the subject of much protest among the Norwegian people here who were anxious to help their relatives in the Old Country.

NINTH VICTORY LOAN HERE IS NOW RIDING WELL AHEAD OF EIGHTH

Victory Loan subscriptions to date in the current campaign have reached a total of $407,400 which puts this drive now ahead of the Eighth Loan at a corresponding date when $393,450 had been reached. Yesterday's subscriptions amounted to the very substantial figure of $187,750.

ROAD CLOSING NEXT TUESDAY

Automobiles are moving again along the northern transprovincial highway eastward from Prince Rupert following the recent interruption due to a large slide at Ansbury. It was announced this morning at Department of Public Works offices that the road would be closed at Coyote Creek near Cedarvale next Tuesday while a bridge that was washed out is being replaced. This will not interfere with traffic between here and Terrace.

Juveniles Held For Theft Series

Apprehension of four 12-year-old boys by police last night has brought solution to a recent epidemic of breaking and entering throughout the city, police believe. The boys were picked up following a complaint by the occupant of a room in the Belmont Hotel last night in which a $250 watch was among the loot. The watch was recovered by the police. Charges of theft will be placed against the four boys in juvenile court. Sgt. O. L. Hall said this morning. Arrest of the juveniles has resulted in the solution of three other break-ins, police say. One was the robbery of Borden Street School last week in which $30 was stolen, and the other two were robberies of the U.S.O. Club and of Little's News Stand. About $35 and a number of minor articles were taken from the two places.

South African Opposition Leader Criticizes Failure to Bring United Nations Charter to Parliament

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 27 (CP)—A charge that Prime Minister Smuts "left small nations scanning the lurch" at the San Francisco world security conference was contained in Opposition Leader D. F. Malan's criticism of the government's recent decision to ratify the United Nations charter without waiting for parliament's approval.

SOME DOCKERS ARE RETURNING

Stevedores at Bristol and Avonmouth So Decide—Belfast, However, Votes to Quit Work

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP)—Stevedores at Bristol and Avonmouth agreed Saturday to return to work immediately and to appeal to striking workers at other British ports to take similar action. In London dockers voted to stay on strike until the government intervenes.

On Friday 1200 Belfast dockers quit work in sympathy with the strike in England where 41,000 dock workers have gone on strike. The strikers have voted no confidence in their union which advocated return to work.

Important Declaration of Foreign Policy by Truman

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (CP)—In a Navy Day address here today, President Truman announced that the secret of the atomic bomb would be held as a sacred trust by the United States until such time as it can be effectively outlawed for all time by international agreement.

Question of Java—

Settlement Is Looming

Things Looking More Hopeful For Peace Between Dutch and Indonesians

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 27 (CP)—There are much brighter prospects today of a possible settlement of the differences between the Dutch government and the leaders of the Indonesian Independence Movement. The acting governor of the Netherlands East Indies—H. J. Van Mook—is said to have invited the self-styled head of the Indonesian Republic—Soekarno—to meet with him at the home of a British military official.

The information of an interim government on Java with the Dutch in control is seen as a possible outcome of talks between the two leaders.

The Indonesians have asked the United States government to act as a mediator in the quarrel. The Dutch at first wanted to settle with the Indonesians alone but now seem to prefer the British as a third party in the discussions.

The President enunciated the primary principles of United States foreign policy as being friendly relations with all peace-loving nations, full support of the United Nations charter, imposition of peace terms upon defeated nations, defence of the western hemisphere and defence of the United States.

President Truman expressed the belief that differences among the United Nations were neither hopeless or irreconcilable.

The President commissioned the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt as a symbol of United States pledge to the United Nations to help "stop any international gangster."

Mr. Truman advocated law rather than force as an arbiter of international relations and urged Americans to make sure "no possible aggressor is going to be tempted by any weakness on the part of the United States."

Are Playing First Games

Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens Swing Into Hockey Action

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs face off against the Boston Bruins in Maple Leaf Gardens here tonight while the Montreal Canadiens match skill with the Chicago Black Hawks. The opening game of the National Hockey League season on Wednesday saw the Hawks edge the Bruins 5-4.

The Leafs find themselves minus the services of centre Syl Apps, who is out with an injury, while goalie Frank McCool has announced that he prefers to remain on the sidelines this year because of illness.

The Canadiens also are having their troubles. The right wing of the Habitués' mighty rocket line, Maurice Richard, has not signed his contract yet and is holding out. However, hopes are held that he will come to terms before tonight. Richard is teamed in the line with Toe Blake and Elmer Lach.

The Chicago men will ride into the big Quebec metropolis strengthened by the services of defenceman Reg Hamilton, who has been obtained from the Toronto Maple Leafs this season.

SHEFFIELD, Eng., (CP)—Hot rum today was the order of the day when a vat containing 800 gallons of rum caught fire. The blaze was extinguished before much damage was done—to the firemen or the rum.

Indictment of War Criminals

The indictment of German war criminals presented to the International Military Tribunal is a unique legal document, built to deal with organized crime of a scope and violence unprecedented in history. The indictment is based on the new international jurisprudence specially prepared by the highest legal officers of the four prosecuting Governments and embodied in the charter of the International Military Tribunal.

The Charter lists three categories of crime: firstly, crimes against peace; secondly, war crimes; thirdly, crimes against humanity, the first and third categories being defined and formulated for the first time.

The indictment charges all twenty-four defendants with conspiracy to commit all three categories of crime. This is the first count against the defendants. The indictment charges all defendants with collective responsibility for the commission of all three categories of crime. This forms the second, third and fourth counts. The indictment states that the prosecution will seek to establish the criminality of the six following groups: the Reich's Cabinet, the Leadership Corps of the Nazi Party, the S.S. Gestapo, the S.S., and the General Staff and High Command of the German Armed Forces. All defendants were members of one or other of these groups. The majority of the defendants, headed by Goering and Ribbentrop, and including the Army Chiefs Keitel and Jodl, are charged individually on all four counts. The two Naval Chiefs, Raeder and Doenitz, are not charged individually under count four, crimes against humanity. Schacht and Von Papen are not charged individually under count three or four, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

The history of the great crime conspiracy is traced in the indictment from 1921, when Hitler became head of the Nazi Party. The indictment proceeds to show, step by step, how the first plans were laid for total aggression; next, control was acquired over the whole political and economic fabric of Germany. This enabled the conspirators, the indictment asserts, to start organizing and mobilization for aggressive war. The first blow was struck in March 1936, when Germany reoccupied the Rhineland. Thereafter, in execution of the plan, Austria was invaded in March 1938, Czechoslovakia in March 1939, Poland on September 1 1939, followed by the attacks on France, Britain, the Netherlands and Belgium, and so through the assaults on Denmark, Norway, Yugoslavia, Greece and Russia, the road led to the declaration of war on the United States in December 1941. The crime against peace had gone full circle.

The indictment shows how the conspirators first deliberately planned and then committed war crimes against humanity en masse. It contains a long catalogue of cases of murder, torture and rapine, reported from every country in Europe occupied by Germany. These instances are cited "by way of example only." The appendix to the indictment enumerates twenty-six occasions on which Germany violated international treaties, agreements and assurances "in the course of planning, preparing and initiating the war."

In technical construction the indictment is the work of art. It is crystal clear. It apparently omits nothing essential and includes nothing superfluous. Yet within the compass of forty-three foolscap pages it affords a comprehensive analysis of Nazi theory and a record of German practice. It can be said, without prejudice to whatever verdict the International Military Tribunal may bring in for each of the twenty-four defendants, that the indictment paints an indelible picture of dark machinations and darker deeds.

LETTERBOX

GETTING ON LIST

Editor, Daily News:
As a resident you must have some interest, however slight, in our city's welfare, present and future. It is time now to consider our next administration and the December election.

Practically everyone living here is a potential voter and should have some say in city affairs. Your vote is the one sure way to have that say and if you are not on the voters' list by October 31 it will be too late. I urge you to check your name and qualifications, if you are not on the list.

You will wonder why I take the trouble to write this letter. It is because I am interested in our city's progress and I intend to seek your endorsement as alderman. I shall run as a completely independent candidate. As a resident of over 20 years I feel that in a community such as this we cannot afford to have class distinction. If anything is to be accomplished our council must enjoy not only the support of the majority but of the entire community. There is no other way—we must work together as a whole city—100 per cent.

Because I enter this field is no reflection upon the integrity or sincerity of any of your past or present electees. For me or anyone else to criticize is ridiculous—unless it be constructive. Give them full credit for what they have done, their position places them in a more favorable situation to know better than anyone outside the council. Obviously there is a great deal needed in our city—there always will be. What I do, or how I shall do it, is impossible to say, but I shall try to do my best, whatever the circumstances.

Meantime, you have your responsibility—another week will be too late and I am asking for your support to start now, for your city. Be sure you are on the Voters' List.

Sabbath Loss Grave Peril

One of Cornerstones of Christianity Is Becoming Menaced

A recent issue of The Gladstone Age Press, published at Gladstone, Manitoba, carries this thought-provoking article on "The Sabbath Day" from the pen of W. L. Belton. It is worthy of further circulation:

"Are we to have a Christian nation in Canada, or aren't we? If we are, something must be done about Sunday. The Sabbath Day, in any circle that I know anything about, is no longer a holy day in any sense of that word and in many places it is no longer a day of rest. It is a holiday and a day of dissipation. I wonder if anyone will challenge that as a general statement of fact?"

"Go to any town Saturday night. At midnight the last show is over and the town comes to life. At 12:30 or 1:00 a.m. Sunday the restaurants are crowded and at 2:00 a.m. some cars are still parked. And in some towns at 12:01 a.m. Monday—one minute after the Sunday is past—the picture show opens again. So I am told anyway. And all day Sunday, gas and weather permitting, cars run, anywhere from a few miles to a few hundred in search of bathing beaches or what there is in any way of entertainment. Worse than that (or is it?) in many farm communities Sunday is just another day. In garage or workshop men toil at jobs they were too busy to get at during the week and in city offices men are found writing up their books or catching up on correspondence.

"So this is Sunday in Christian Canada. Do you suppose such a day contributes to progress in Christian living or to building a Christian nation? Frankly, I don't. Moreover, I see nothing ahead but extinction of Christianity unless the sanctity of a day of rest is restored.

"We have survived the menace of Nazism but we face an even more grave peril right on our doorstep. We are ready to fight and die if need be to overcome the Hitler who openly deny Christian principles. We will never allow that. But we will be no better off in the end, if having defeated those who deny Christianity we fail to preserve the institutions by which it is maintained in our own land. The Sabbath Day is the cornerstone of these institutions. We are losing it, and so long as I write this column, I conceive it my duty and my high privilege to draw attention to that fact. Again someone says: the Critic is 'preaching.' Well, he is trying to."

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Or 140,000 army vehicles now parked in various parts of Britain, only 25,000 could be used commercially in their present condition, it is announced. Many have high gasoline consumption and maintenance costs out of proportion to the payload they carry.

Record Queue Forms For London Concert

LONDON, Oct. 27.—When even queue-weary Londoners stop and stare at a line-up, it's big. And when the newsprint-starved papers print a story about it, it's bigger.

The big queue—more than a mile long—formed outside the Albert Hall for a concert of Mozart and Schubert works, given by the BBC Symphony Orchestra directed by Sir Adrian Boult, with arias by Elizabeth Schumann and a Mozart piano concerto by Dame Myra Hess.

The Daily Mail reported it as the biggest queue ever formed outside the Albert Hall and said hundreds were unable to get inside the hall. Some heard the concert from a broadcast.

"Had Big Job in War"

Some of Its Activities Can Be Revealed Now Conflict Is Over

A story of humor and tragedy, a story which it had not been possible to tell before on account of security reasons because the work was going on during war-time in a defence area where most of the army, navy and air force locations were on the secret list, was told by Don Forward, area supervisor of Y.M.C.A. war services, before he left Prince Rupert this week for Vancouver to take over new duties as assistant supervisor for British Columbia.

The story was that of the auxiliary services war work carried out in this area by the Y.M.C.A. war services. No less than 70 locations in the area were served. Mr. Forward revealed, including 34 of the army, 11 of the navy and 20 of the air force. The army locations included back-outposts in Alaska, on the Queen Charlottes and vicinity of Prince Rupert, forts guarding the local harbor, infantry camps, brigade headquarters in Terrace, maintaining schools, W.A.C. barracks and hospitals. The navy was served through the other operation, H.M.C.S. Athol, and extended to Massey on the Queen Charlottes and the huge wireless telegraph tower at Port Edward. The air force included the most isolated locations on the coast—three radar locations on the west coast of the Queen Charlottes.

Mr. Forward outlined the war services work in downtown Prince Rupert which has started from a humble beginning in the Park Block on Second Avenue in the early days of war and readily expanded until the fine Y.M.C.A. war services building was erected and put into operation and where at the peak high as 9,000 service personnel were received and entertained in a single day.

New Fisheries Patrol Boat Arrives In Port—Cow Bay Yard Starts On Series of Utility Fish Boats.

First of two former R.C.A.F. vessels to be taken over by the fisheries department for patrol work in the Prince Rupert district arrived here Wednesday night. She is the 60-foot halibut-seiner type ship Sooke, which sailed here from Vancouver under command of Capt. G. R. Eburne, veteran fisheries patrol skipper.

Built during the war for general use by the Air Force, the Sooke was taken over by the Fisheries Department from the War Assets Corporation several weeks ago. Together with the Babine, a similar vessel, which is due to arrive here shortly, the Sooke will find a gap in the north coast fisheries patrol which has existed, due to a lack of proper vessels, since the start of the war.

A crew under Capt. Neil McDonald is now at Vancouver waiting to bring the Babine north.

The Sooke has a top speed of about nine knots and is powered by a 165 h.p. Gray diesel engine. However, it is understood that plans are under way to re-engine the ship with a more powerful engine which may increase her speed to the neighborhood of 12 knots.

Keel of the first of a series of ten-ton boats of 32-foot length was laid at the Cow Bay Boat Works this week for Nelson Brothers Ltd. The boats, designed for use both as trollers and gillnetters, will be considerably roomier than the usual gillnetter type and will not only be serviceable for gillnetting in the rivers but will also be large enough for off-shore trolling. This design is said to have been developed in answer to a growing trend toward small boats which are substantial enough for use outside the rivers, thus giving them a longer period of use throughout the year. The present narrow-beamed 28-foot and 29-foot gillnetters used in river fishing are too small for off-shore trolling and therefore are in use only during the comparatively short season while the salmon are running in the rivers.

Annual conference between the International Fisheries Commission and west coast fishermen's delegates is expected to be held, probably in Seattle, next month and fishermen are predicting that the matter of extending the authority of the international control commission will be among the major topics discussed. Apparently acting on the obvious need for greater powers for the commission, that body is understood to have already drawn up a draft which may be presented to fishermen's delegates next month for their consideration before it is finally presented to the governments of the United States and Canada for inclusion in the international halibut treaty. Major shortcomings of the present treaty, fishermen contend, is that it does not give the commission power to control a curtailment policy and that it has no control over beam trawl operations. Dropping of price ceilings is expected to come about some time in the future and, when that occurs, fishermen feel that a curtailment system of articles will be necessary to maintain prices. However, they hesitate to return to the voluntary system of curtailment which they had in effect before the war and which lacked the weight of legal authority. They feel that the International Commission should be empowered to design and enforce curtailment regulations binding on both Canadian and American halibut men.

Control of the beam trawl fishery which, halibut men say, is detrimental to the halibut and other types of fishery, should also be regulated by the International Commission. Fishermen's groups from Alaska to Seattle will submit representations to the commission when it meets.

Fashion Show Is Delightful

Dictates of Dame Fashion for fall and winter were smartly exemplified for hundreds of eager Prince Rupert ladies in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple last night. It was the third annual autumn fashion show of Mrs. Laura Mitchell's Job's Daughters. Girls of the bethel were attractive and graceful in their modelling of a fine range of the latest in styles in gowns and housecoats, sports wear, dresses and suits discriminatingly elected from the stocks of the Rupert Peoples Store with whose co-operation the show was staged. Breathtaking culminating feature was an ingeniously staged wedding scene. Novelty numbers, and several musical numbers rounded out a program which was completely delightful.

Setting for the show was effective, the mannequins entering the hall from the main doors and moving up the centre aisle to the stage which was simply yet tastefully decorated with seasonal flowers. Mrs. J. S. Black, at the piano, played the professional music. Miss Marie Boulter was mistress of ceremonies and Mrs. Mary Strachan gave the descriptions of each item as it was displayed.

Gowns and housecoats were displayed by Gwen McRae, Lois Laikie and Barbara Flaten.

Chosen to model the dresses were Viola Prendergast, Maragat Murray, Ruth Walton, Frances Webber and Chrissie Montgomery.

Suits were shown by Chris Spencer, Beatrice Kirby, Kay Nickerson, Donna MacArthur and Nan Kennedy.

Andrew Hunter, Beryl Anderson, Marie Boulter, Glenys Lashmar and Pat Love wore the coats and dresses.

Wedding Display Beautiful Feature.

The wedding display was a beautiful feature, cleverly presented. Lovely indeed was the bride whose role was taken by Marjorie Eby. The gown was of heavy satin, raised silk felt design with sheer net trim.

The pretty bridesmaids were portrayed by Yvonne Morin and Barbara Flaten in delicate net skirts with lace bodices and tulle nose-length veils. Kay Lund was a winsome little flower girl. Appropriate bouquets were carried. Ray Allen was bridegroom. The escorts were G. J. Dawes as the bride's father and James Bremner and Alex Mitchell as groomsmen.

The comedy highlight of the show was Mona McRae's strip tease down to an early twentieth century bathing costume. It provoked gales of laughter in the audience.

Frank James, Melvin Thompson and Alex Mitchell, with clown modelling and comic acrobatics, punctuated the program and caused much merriment.

The musical program, between modelling sequences, included piano duets by Glenys Lashmar and Ruth Walton, vocal trios in a "sister" act by Beryl Anderson, Carol Grey and Elspeth MacKenzie, vocal solos by sweet little Maxine Martin, piano solos by Sgt. Bill Elliott, U.S.A., chorus of popular songs by Viola May Prendergast, Lorna Donaldson, Dorothy Kergin, Carol Grey, Beryl Anderson, Ruth Walton, Glenys Lashmar, Joyce Watts, Margaret Murray, Audrey Hunter, Frank James and Melvin Thompson. Accompanists were Sgt. Elliott and Mrs. J. C. Gilker.

Another feature of the program was the presentation of "Miss Canada" pins to girls of the chapter who had worked assiduously in connection with the selling of War Savings Certificates to the public on Saturday afternoons. The girls, in their "Miss Canada" uniforms, were drummed to the stage by Alex and Bobby Mitchell and the presentations were made by Mrs. Stan Saville to Viola Prendergast, Lorna Donaldson, Gwen McRae, Peggy Pullen, Barbara Flaten, Yvonne Morin, Glenys Lashmar, Solveig Mork, Elspeth MacKenzie, Ruth Walton, Joyce Watts and Monica Holtby.

A pleasant item was the presentation by Mrs. Alex Mitchell of flowers and other gifts to Mrs. L. M. Felsenthal, wife of the manager of the Peoples Store organizations; Mrs. Mary Strachan, Mrs. Verbie Macdonald, Jean Backshas and Isabel Starup, who assisted the girls in their modelling, and to little Maxine Martin and Kay Lund. FALL PLANTING BEST FOR PERENNIAL VEGETABLES

Perennial vegetables such as asparagus, rhubarb and hardy onions are better planted this fall than next spring. Asparagus and rhubarb will be ready to harvest a full year sooner while the onions will produce a harvest next spring.

For the asparagus bed roots should be obtained and placed in a location which need not be disturbed during the life of the garden, since a good asparagus bed will last several decades. Deep, rich soil is required and the plants should be given ample room, with three feet each way between hills. Dig a hole a foot deep, spread the roots out and set the crown of the plant six inches below the surface.

Rhubarb is another long-lived plant. Six plants will suffice for the average family and they should be placed where they will not be disturbed, perhaps near the asparagus in a garden screen or border.

The hardest winter onion is the red perennial, sometimes called the Egyptian. This is one of the onions which instead of bearing seeds, produces at the top of the seed stalk a bunch of onion sets. These sets should be obtained and planted this fall, a foot apart in the row, in rows two feet apart; though few families will need more than one row.

This onion never produces a round bulb, but in the spring as soon as the ground thaws, it begins to grow stalks like green onions. Part of each clump may be pulled up and used, and this annual thinning, and ordinary cultivation, the plants will live indefinitely. The flavor of the stalks is mild in the early spring, but becomes stronger later.

Where winters are mild, some of the potato or multiplier onions may be planted in the fall and they will produce clumps of green stalks in the early spring. These must be set out each year as the entire plant is harvested. In the colder states these onions will not survive without a heavy mulch, and in some winters even this will not protect them.

LONDONDERRY, North Ireland, Oct. 26.—Field Marshal Montgomery, accepting the freedom of Londonderry, said his great fear was that disease would sweep through Europe and kill millions of persons.

Motor Coach Makes Nifty Utility Home

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sobey live in what might be called a "roaming house"—a 32-seat motor coach without motor and with good tires on all six wheels. In it they can roam at will—on tow.

They were bombed out of their house at Margate, so Mr. Sobey bought a smart blue motor coach took out the seats and sold them, installed a neat little kitchen stove and set up their new home at Lewisham, southwest London.

"Once you've lived in one of these," said Mrs. Sobey, a former circus performer, "you don't want a house. It's warmer in winter and in summer we cook on an oil stove outdoors."

"The windows slide down so it's easy to get lots of fresh air when you want it."

Soon the Sobeyes hope to be on the move again. They are looking for a new site to park their home, preferably in the more bracing air of the Kentish coast.

Next spring they may move their "roaming house" into the warm sunny places of Hampshire.

OXFORD, Eng., Oct. 26.—Lord Nuffield, British motor magnate, has donated another $45,000 to provide medical scholarships at Worcester College, Oxford. His gifts to the university now total $12,600,000.
