Help Ourselves and Others

Canada emerges from the war in favored position among nations. Our homes and factories have escaped devastation; our manufacturing resources and skills have increased enormously; our program of price ceilings, wage controls, taxation and war savings has kept our economy sound; we produce vast quantities of goods and materials the less fortunate countries need and want. Our prestige is high abroad; we have many friends.

We shall have no trouble selling our products . . . our fish, our farm foodstuffs, our metals, our timber. But many of our former good customers are nations who have been trampled down by war; their resources dissipated; their factories

The tulips will do their part, each bulb (if of flowering size) producing a flower on schedule exactly in the spot you planned; | for there is no flower more dependable in the working out of color effects.

The oldest of these classes is the Breeder, so called because the old Dutch breeders grew them to produce striped varieties, which were highly esteemed centuries ago. The solid colors of some flowers in each planting would "break" into gay stripes and blotches, and these were the desired kinds. It is now known that they were afflicted with mosaic disease carried by aphids, and in American plantings they are rogued out, to prevent the spread of the disease.
