Active Remembrance . . .

Tomorrow we observe with full appreciation of the occasion the twenty-seventh anniversary of the ending of First Great War and we call it Remembrance Day. It is especially set aside for the renewing of our homage in reverent and respectful memory of those who fought and fell not only in that first conflict but now in the second even more terrible matching of the arms of modern warfare.

We rejoice that the fighting men have now discharged their task of battle and that peace has been restored. They have done their share in paving of the way for a better world and it is through no fault of theirs if the task seems still uncompleted and that man has not yet been convinced of the futility of sustaining the elements which provoke warfare. To eradicate those elements, therefore, is the task which on this Armistice Day we should, in fitting remembrance, dedicate our . thoughts and our efforts - every one. Surely, we should by now appreciate that, if we do not so actively dedicate ourselves, the inevitable result will be yet another war. And that will be a war the terrors of which can only be unspeakably estimated.

Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain spoke yesterday of the essentiality of a new attitude of human relationships. And that new attitude is something that we must one and all do our part in developing at the risk in failure of our own utter destruction individually and collectively.

So Remembrance Day this year presents a keener and more direct responsibility for us all. We live in peace of arms again today. Let us resolve ourselves to the task of pre- coming here. serving and perfecting that peace.

HAINES CUT-OFF

Editor, Daily News,-Thursday night's paper contains an article "released to 50 publications and nine national press feature services (including the Chinese)" containing the Call following: "Motorists may drive to Prince Rupert, board a steamer for Haines, Alaska, where they can drive over the Haines Road to the Alaska Highway." The above would be true IF any steamship would take your car to Haines, Alaska, which is normally not a port of call, or if the "Haines Cut-off," as it is known, was a real road, instead of existing only on paper. It was constructed as a war-time project and lasted only a few months. It is absolutely impass able and, unless re-located, always will be. Slides have carried it out in at least a score of places. This may seem conquerable by machinery but, unless re-located, all authorities agree the project is unfeasible. How can man conquer a number of glaciers as large as Mt. Hayes or bigger? It is doubtful if this will ever be a highway.

Church Services

To Start Earlier The moment of remembrance Phone 174 on Armistice Day will be marked by the observance of a one minute silence in all churches of the city at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. So that this may be done, the services in all the churches will be convened at 10 minutes to 11. "Ours is a plain duty, as we face the grave days ahead, to work without ceasing to make a press the true torch of world peace."-Harry S. Truman, President of the United States.

AMERICAN WATCHES ARE STILL SCARCE BUT OUR STOCK IS GRADUALLY BUILDING UP TO FORMER SHAPE

There are over eleven hundred Swiss watch factories and owing to war prosperity the country has been flooded with many brands which could not formally get established in Canada.

The jeweller must use his best experience and judgement to choose makes which will not cause trouble and expense later by going out of order.

Most people buy watches in the jewellery store for that reason and because the jeweller is able to make adjustments and feels responsible for the satisfaction the watches

Another advantage of our watches is that the prices have not advanced since 1941 when the price ceiling was established.

We handle practically all the well advertised and reliable makes, such as Elgin, Waltham, Hamilton, Bulova, Gruen, Longines, Omega, Tissot, Mercury, Seeland, and several other lowerpriced makes which we have tried out and found good.
