Army Mess Destroyed

Spectacular Fire on Sixth Ave. East This Morning

A spectacular fire which sent columns of black smoke towering into the morning air destroyed two wings of the Canadian Army garrison officers "B" quarters shortly after 6:30 this morning, causing the building's 35 occupants to dress hastily and escape to the street.

Hundreds of early rising citizens and military personnel watched fire departments of the city, army and navy battle the flames in the H-shaped tarpaper-sheathed frame building situated on Sixth Ave., just east of McBride St.

Mystery still surrounds the cause of the fire, which broke out in the "B" mess kitchen before the staff of C.W.A.C. cooks had arrived to start work.

"I woke up when someone cried 'Fire!'" an officer said. "The kitchen was ablaze but we all had time to dress." He was wearing battle dress and a pair of bedroom slippers.

Two wings of the temporary army building were badly gutted and the roofs destroyed, but the wing fronting on Sixth Ave was relatively undamaged.

City fire department received a call to the fire at 6:40 when already oily, black columns of smoke, impelled by flames which licked eagerly at the tarpapered walls, poured into the sky.

No equipment was saved from the kitchen or the rear wing but cots, wardrobes and personal effects of officers were snatched from the front wing and piled on Sixth Ave.

Tons of water were poured on the building by fire departments of the city, army and navy, and the fire was reduced to a smouldering state before 8 o'clock. One of the hazards encountered by firemen was globules of hot tar which splashed from the heated walls, burning the hands and faces of those who manned the hose nozzles.

Estimate of the loss caused by the fire was not available today. The burned-out condition of the kitchen makes it improbable that the cause of the outbreak will ever be learned.

While firemen were busy with the burning building, army watchers were alert to see that the flames did not spread to other army buildings, the garrison sergeants' mess and officers' quarters which stand nearby on two sides.

The Experts Say - -

KEEP MILK COOL—Don't give milk a place in the sun. Summer sun is warm and warm milk sours quickly as anyone knows, and that is reason enough for bringing the milk bottle into the house as soon as it is delivered.

But even if the back door step were the coolest place in the neighborhood, it would still be no place for the milk. Milk should be placed promptly in the refrigerator. The reason:

Milk is the best source of the important B vitamin, riboflavin. So susceptible is riboflavin to light that up to two-thirds of it can be destroyed if milk is left in a bright place for a couple of hours.

POTATOES MISSED—It took 200 years for potatoes to achieve their present popularity. Maybe the first methods of cooking had something to do with it. . . . potatoes stewed in wine or cooked with marrow fat and spices would have little appeal to modern palates.

But there is no doubt that people are missing their potatoes just now. Macaroni, spaghetti and noodles, good as they are, don't quite fill the bill, they might be used more often. As another alternative they suggest serving an extra vegetable and adding bread as a main course accompaniment.

Potato feast or famine, this noodle dish from the Consumer Section's heating kitchen is a good recipe to keep on hand. It provides a quickly prepared main dish that is substantial and tasty. A large mixed vegetable salad makes a perfect accompaniment.

of noodles in boiling, salted water until tender, about 15 minutes; drain and rinse under cold water; meanwhile melt two tablespoons of fat in a frying pan, add 3/4 cup of chopped onion and saute until onions are clear. Add 1/2 pound ground steak and cook until brown, stirring with a fork. Add one cup of well seasoned tomato sauce, 1/2 teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. Arrange the noodles and meat mixture in alternate layers in a greased casserole, top with 1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, for 20 to 25 minutes. This makes six servings.

"COOKING" EGGS—Eggs should be cooked—the word "boiled" is outdated—in water below the boiling temperature, whether they are to be soft or hard. High cooking temperature is what makes eggs like shoe leather or rubber. . . . because eggs belong to the protein foods and this food element does not take kindly to high temperature treatment.

Another interesting point about eggs is that in their cooking it makes no difference whether the yolks are pale or deep-colored, or whether the shells are white or brown.

The next time there is some dressing left over when preparing poultry or dressed temperon you might consider the following way to use it up: spread it on bacon strips, roll up, fasten with toothpicks and cook in the oven till crisp.

KEEPING HOUSE IN WARTIME

Recipes for Summer Use Aim to Cook Food--Not Cook

How to cook the food but not the cook. A "hot" subject when the mercury soars for, while cooking can be reduced to a minimum, civilization has not yet reached the stage where cooking can be eliminated entirely even on the hottest days.

There are a number of things, all good kitchen practice at any time, that help to reduce cooking discomfort in hot weather.

The number of burners in use can be reduced by making the double boiler work overtime. Vegetables can cook in the bottom while the top is being used to prepare sauce or a dessert, and one burner and one pot can cook several vegetables at one time. "Choose the coolest part of the day for baking and let the oven cook the entire meal when it is needed for one dish. Today's recipes are chosen with the comfort of the cook as well as the later enjoyment of the family in mind.

FURNITURE WILL FOLLOW V-J DAY

NEW YORK, July 11 (P)—Chairs and tables will be stamped out like automobile bodies when the war is over. Wartime developments in the use of moulded plywood and lightweight metals such as aluminum and magnesium are expected to result in mass production of better furniture at lower-than-ever cost.

Laminated wood home furniture was introduced just before the war. Since then material has been used almost exclusively for glider planes, small seagoing craft and other vital war products.

J. Gordon Lippincott, head of Dohner & Lippincott, industrial designers, predicted that moulded plywood furniture would be in production six months after the Japanese war ends.

"Mass production cut automobile prices, and mass production of furniture should result in a better product for less money," he said. "The expanded plant capacity is so great that competition will force furniture prices down within three or four years when production reaches its peak."

Lippincott disclosed that moulding processes had been perfected through war uses, plants already were equipped with machinery to turn out plywood products, and that civilian production could begin as soon as materials were available.

"Furniture design may be greatly influenced by plywood," in the opinion of Mark Apfel, advertising director of Modern Age Furniture Co. "Bonding glues of such destructibility have been producing that plywood will be infinitely superior in strength and flexibility, pointing the way to stamped out and bent plywood forms of extreme versatility."

New Construction Ideas
Asserting that there would be revolutionary changes in furniture design after the war, Walter P. Margulies, interior design director of Dohner & Lippincott, said:

"New materials will bring an entirely new concept of construction." He added that furniture would tend towards round, flowing lines, instead of the squared off effects of the past, because design was determined basically by the qualities and limitations of the materials used.

Wooden furniture, he said, was built on a skeleton construction principle with joints and supports giving the piece its strength from within. Moulded plywood, on the other hand, acquires comparable strength from the outside through monocoque or "stressed skin" construction—a type exemplified by an egg.

The trend towards smaller homes, Margulies predicted, would bring "lighter weight,

Timely Tips

A Mottled Tan . . .
Is what you'll get if you put on sunburn lotion unevenly. But it's nothing to what will happen if you don't bother with any safeguards. The danger zones: time—noon; place—high altitudes or beside the water, and the surprise attack comes on a misty day when you think, "I'll not even get a tan today," for the diffused light on such a day can produce a painful burn.

It Smells Fishy . . .
May be said of a lot of things, but never of your hands, we hope. When you've finished preparing and cooking fish, dip your hands in hot, salty water. Rinse and then wash. That dip into the briny before washing with soap will guarantee no fish odor. The same goes for dishes too.

smaller and lower, more comfortable furniture—made to fit the human anatomy."

He said that plastic impregnated table tops would do away with disgusting cigarette burns and stains, while synthetic fabrics and synthetic and natural fibre combination weaves would be mothproof, fireproof, crease-proof and more sanitary than those now in use. Furniture men agree that while metals will be used widely in the commercial field, they will have little place in homes except for utility rooms.

The trend towards modern furniture is more pronounced than before the war, with industry surveys indicating that 50 to 55 per cent of postwar furniture will be modern. Furniture supplies now are at the lowest point since the beginning of the war. Manufacturers do not expect improvement until Japan is defeated.

Realizing their affinity for dirt, the soap ration for small boys in Britain has not been reduced and they will have no new coupons to leave their ears dirty. But except for young children and babies other Britons now have to get along with a reduced soap ration. This is just one of the many reductions in rations that the British people are taking in order that supplies may be freed to assist the rest of Europe.

Oil and fat stocks are to be reduced by about 350,000 tons by the end of July; shredded suet is to be rationed. The weekly ration of bacon has been reduced from four to three ounces while British consumption of meat will be 15 pounds less this year than last. It was only 115 pounds in 1944. This year's Christmas bonus of half a pound of sugar has been cancelled as well as the option of buying sugar on certain coupons so that in all Britons will have 300,000 tons less sugar this year.

MOTHER MISUNDERSTOOD
A Canadian mother, misunderstanding the way the Family Allowances Act works, wrote the Department of National Health and Welfare enclosing a cheque for eight dollars. "My son is fifteen," her letter stated. "Thank goodness he will be sixteen next year!"

Victory Gardeners' Bonus . . .
Is the pleasure of eating the really young vegetables culled in thinning. Beets pulled when the roots are the size of the little finger and cooked tops and all, pencil-thick carrots as well as young onions, kale and turnips give extra flavor to your meal and do your garden a world of good for the thinning.

Ottawa Women Make $50,000

By MARJORIE MINNES
Noonday rendezvous for army officials, parliamentarians, civil servants and business folk, the Women's Canadian Club tea room, located on the circular mezzanine of a large Ottawa theatre, has served over half a million Canadians, both Ottawa folk and visitors to the capital, in the last three years. Proceeds from the project have now passed the $50,000 mark.

Outside of the cost of the food and the dietitian's salary every penny is devoted to the club's war work. Prominent Ottawa women are the waitresses, the cashiers and the cooks. Over 200 of them give their services every week.

"Successful beyond our wildest expectations," was the enthusiastic comment of the president, Mrs. Harold Burland. "Of course, when we opened in 1942 we didn't count of prices staying as they were then. We felt that our tea room bills would just naturally increase as time went on. Surprisingly, they have hardly increased at all.

"If the restaurant situation hadn't been so desperate, we would never have chosen to make our $50,000 in a tea room. It's so hard to make money when food is involved. However, the city needed our help. We needed the money for our war services work and the first thing our 1,000 members knew they were in a $25,000 a year business.

"Our volunteer workers certainly have played a big part but it is only because of price control that we have been able to feed over 500 hungry Canadians every day at reasonable prices, and plan our large-scale marketing in an orderly and economical way."

BOOTH SCHOOL BEATS ALLIES

Deadlock in Ladies Bowling League Is Broken

Booth Memorial High School's peppery team met their severest test of the season last night at Gyro Park and emerged with a 6-2 victory over the Allies to stretch their winning streak to four games in the Ladies' Softball League.

The triumph broke a tie for first place which existed between Bo-Me-Hi and the previously undefeated Allies.

Chalking up two runs in the initial inning and four in the second, the high school nine thus gained a comfortable margin early in the game and were never in danger of losing it.

Betty Hamilton hurled her fourth straight win for Bo-Me-Hi, while Margaret Morgan, of the Allies, saw her winning skein for the season snapped at four games.

The score by innings follows:
Allies 000 100 1-2
Bo-Me-Hi 240 000 x-6

Batteries: Allies—Morgan and Butterworth; Bo-Me-Hi, Hamilton and Cowie.

Sport Chits & Chatter...

Some of the headaches suffered by Branch Rickey since the Mahatma took over as Brooklyn Dodger president in 1943 have been eased by one Goodwin Rosen, a pugnacious looking outfielder from Toronto. Rosen, a five-foot-ten southpaw swinger who weighs only 172 pounds in his heavy flannels, is one of the most feared batters in the circuit. When the season reached the one-third mark Rosen found himself with a .355 average and right among such National League clouters as Tommy Holmes, Whitey Kurowski and Mel Ott. He was the power in Brooklyn's surprising surge to the top in the league standing. He played a pretty good centrefield, too.

"Do you know that I'm really a $40,000 player as far as Brooklyn is concerned?" said Rosen, the day after he had hit safely in 12 straight games. "The Dodgers bought me from Louisville for $29,000 late in 1937 and then last year they paid Syracuse another $29,000 for my contract." Rickey took a terrific riding for the latter deal. The fans and writers were down on him. It was that they couldn't see Rosen, but Rickey was parting with two veteran pitchers—Fritz Ostermueller and Bill Lohrman—and $20,000.

Rosen didn't get much of a chance last year. Though he played in 89 games he was used only when versatile fellows like Augie Galan, Luis Olmo and Frenchy Bordagaray were called on for infield duty. Goody reported to Bear Mountain in a lackadaisical mood this spring when he saw that Dixie Walker, Olmo and Bordagaray were figured on as regular outfielders with Red Durrett, now with Montreal, and Morrie Aderholt as the rookie possibilities.

Rosen was ready to quit baseball for a businessman's life in his native Toronto. But he spoke up for a chance, got it and is now making good with a bang. The 31-year-old fly chaser got his start in 1932 with Binghampton, N.Y., in the Eastern League. He followed with five seasons as lead-off batter at Louisville, hitting over 300 four times and .293 in 1935. When Brooklyn bought him in 1937 he got in 22 games and hit .312. The next year he batted .281 and in '39 was optioned to Montreal, recalled and released unconditionally to Columbus where he played 10 games and batted only .212. Columbus refused to go Goody was sent to Syracuse where he remained until Rocky "unearthed" him a year ago last May.

Rosen attributes his current success to 15 added pounds and the fact that he's loose at the plate. He used to hold his left elbow close to his side and never really cut loose with his swing. Goody's bat helped Syracuse get into the Little World Series in 1942 and 1943. Manager Jewel Ens of the Chiefs called him "my money player" because Rosen was always coming through in the pinches. Rosen played under Burleigh Grimes on three different clubs, at Louisville, Montreal and Brooklyn. Goody is one of the finest gentlemen in Brooklyn even though he could easily be mistaken for a pugilist. His nose was flattened in 1928 in a high school football game in Toronto.

Byron Nelson and Johnny Revolta Tie

DAYTON, July 11 (AP)—Toledo's master golfer, Byron Nelson, tied Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Illinois, for the low qualifying score in the annual P.G.A. tournament at Dayton, Ohio. Nelson shot an eagle three on the 17th hole to come in with a four-under-par. Revolta carded a 78. Both players had totals of 138.

Phil Farley Wins Ontario Golf Open

TORONTO, July 11 (AP)—Phil Farley, Toronto-Scarboro amateur, won the Ontario Golf Association's combined open yesterday. He added a three-under-par 69 to his morning round 73 for a total of 142. Runner-up Nick Wisnock of Hamilton had 144.

IVINGHOE, Buckinghamshire, Eng. (AP)—Three boys, aged 8 to 11, lost limbs when a trench mortar exploded after they found it on a road.

LOOKING OVER BALL LEAGUES

No games were scheduled in the major leagues yesterday but four United War Fund charity games were played. The Boston Red Sox defeated their cross-town foes, the Boston Braves, 3-1. St. Louis Browns blanked the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-0. The Phillies nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics 7-6. The Washington Senators defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3.

In the International League the Montreal Royals took both ends of their doubleheader with the Toronto Maple Leafs. Montreal won the opener 4-2 and the nightcap 8-4. Meanwhile the Baltimore Orioles trounced the Jersey City Giants twice—11-2 and 10-7. The Rochester Redwings trounced the Buffalo Bisons 10-3 and the Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Newark Bears 6-5.

No games are scheduled in the major leagues today. In the International League three games are listed—Syracuse at New York, Jersey City at Baltimore, and Buffalo at Rochester.

WANT STOCK SHIPPED HERE

Stock Raisers of Lakes District Think Local Abattoir Should Be Used

BURNS LAKE, July 11—A gathering of local stockmen and farmers from the Lakes District decided to protest against the custom of shipping the bulk of the local beef cattle to Edmonton where it is processed and returned to Prince Rupert. In former years a large quantity of meat products was shipped direct to Prince Rupert which is only twelve hours by rail from the Burns Lake stockyards. From Burns Lake to Edmonton the stock is in the cars for seventy-two hours. The shrinkage is considerable and there is also the added expense of returning the processed beef. There is believed here to be no reason for this as the Prince Rupert abattoir is quite capable of handling the beef supply for that city.

MANY TRAINS ARE REQUIRED

VANCOUVER, July 11—When the Queen Mary arrived in New York today with 6,195 of her soldier passengers Canadian she was met at docks by nine Canadian National Railway special trains, according to information received by Wm. Stapleton, general passenger agent C.N.R., Vancouver. Of the 13 railway cars needed for the movement, 20 were dining and 29 sleeping cars.

Enroute to their homes, 737 soldiers are destined for Vancouver. They will travel in two special trains leaving New York this evening.

In addition to the special trains from New York, many more, requiring a great number of sleeping and dining cars, will be needed for the movement of troops returning to Canada July 14 on the Ile de France and the Letitia, and July 16 on the El Nile, from Halifax. The number of soldiers arriving on these ships is estimated to be 11,000, requiring 25 special trains to carry the servicemen to destinations as far as Vancouver.

MY CHOICE of Aldermanic candidates is Thomas B. Black because he is in my opinion the best man of the three candidates. He has been a resident of the city practically all his life and is deeply interested in the welfare of his city. He is young, energetic, has good judgment and practical knowledge of city affairs and knows the city intimately. He is not tied to any political group and can make all decisions freely in the best interests of the city.

Mr. Black came within a few votes of being elected last December and by offering his services again, he shows his courage and consistency in his desire to serve the electors faithfully.

Playgrounds At Terrace

TERRACE, July 11—For the past three months a group of voluntary workers has been busy every Thursday evening at the Terrace Ball Park. The project has been the building of a children's playground suitable for kiddies of pre-school age.

Two sets of swings, a large sand play-box and a set of teeter-totters have been installed and on a fair day a large crowd of happy "customers" keeps the swings in motion from sun-up to sun-down. An indication of the popularity of the playground with the youngsters is the fact that the iron rings one set of swings have been worn right through and have already been replaced.

A pleasing tidy effect has been obtained by enclosing the entire playground with a trim picket fence painted a gay window-box green.

The project was conceived last winter by the Citizens Forum and a committee comprising Bruce Barr, E. Haugland, Fred Gibb and George McAdams has been in charge of the work. All of the lumber was donated by the three sawmills while Chris, Haugland provided the cedar posts. Hardware, paint and other materials were donated by Johnson & Michiel and other local merchants assisted with cash donations. Hon. E. T. Kenney wrote from Victoria to swell the subscription list with a handsome cash donation. Jeff Lambly and Jack McLeod gave valuable help in hauling sand and other materials. In all a total of eighteen citizens gave their time and labor and a troupe of Boy Scouts, under direction of Rev. Hills, cleaned the grounds of dangerous glass and rubbish.

Next year the committee hopes to add a slide and a shallow wading pool. The new playground is an addition of which Terrace may well feel proud and serves as a splendid example of what can be accomplished by a united community effort.

WILL MISS AMERICA BE FROM HERE? GREAT CHANCE FOR DISTRICT GIRLS

Northern British Columbia is going to be represented in this year's "Miss America" Pageant, to be held during the week of September 3 at Atlantic City, New Jersey. The "Miss America" Pageant is an annual event sponsored by a non-profit organization of Atlantic City civic leaders. The board of directors

Dorothy Giske Is Queen Candidate

A second candidate has been nominated for the honor of Queen of the Civic Centre Carnival. She is Miss Dorothy Giske the pretty choice of the Moose Lodge. The other candidate for the throne is Miss Beatrice Didrickson, choice of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the "Miss America" Pageant is to find beautiful, healthy and talented young women and to help them gain recognition in the particular field of art to which they aspire. Scores of girls who have participated in previous "Miss America" pageants have found careers on stage, screen or radio, or as professional models, etc. During her tenure of the title, "Miss America" earns more than $10,000 and has a Hollywood contract awaiting her if she is interested.

The "Miss America" franchise for Northern B.C. is held by the Civic Centre Carnival Committee of Prince Rupert, a subsidiary of Northern B.C. Agricultural Association, and the rulings of that committee will be authoritative as regards the selection of "Miss Northern British Columbia."

Local elimination contests are already in progress at various points between Jasper and Prince Rupert and Prince Rupert's local candidate will be selected at an elimination series to be held on the first three days of the Civic Carnival which opens August 6. The winners of all the local contests will then be judged for the title of "Miss Northern B.C." who will represent this part of Canada in the Atlantic City Pageant. "Miss Northern B.C." will be sent to Atlantic City at the expense of the committee and will be provided with a substantial wardrobe. While in Atlantic City she will be accommodated and entertained by and at the expense of the "Miss America" Pageant. She may, if she so desires, be accompanied by her mother or some other chaperone (who must be over 30 years of age) who will also be taken care of in Atlantic City by the Pageant but whose travelling expenses must be found by herself.

Contestants for the Northern B.C. title may be sponsored by any organization, business firm, newspaper or radio station in the franchise area. They must be Canadian citizens and legal residents of the district, single (never having been married) and between the ages of 18 and 28. They should possess talent—the ability to sing, dance, play musical instruments or entertain in some similar way—and, of course, beauty of face and figure, irrespective of height or weight.

While "Miss Northern B.C." may not achieve the ultimate title of "Miss America," there is no reason why she should not. There is no dearth of beauty and talent in this part of the country and this contest provides a grand opportunity for those possessing the required qualifications.

Sea Breezes from... SEAL COVE

Strolling around Seal Cove on Saturday evening I ran into a work bee under the direction of Rev. E. W. Scott. Here is the story. A group of young men and ladies went painting the church. The Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary provided afternoon tea. Later the Senior Branch of the W.A.

gave the workers a real good supper which was much appreciated by all. Then it was back to work until 11:30 p.m. The painters were Mr. and Mrs. Stan Baldwin, Miss Kerrigan, W. Dalzell and son, Albert, Ed Pettif, Vaughan Tattersall, Charles E. Graham, Rev. E. W. Scott and Maureen.

During the evening Miss Mary Dalzell, the new young organist, played and sang, her lovely voice filling the church and cheering the volunteer painters.

Will somebody stop praying for rain? The painting is not finished.

Thanks to Rev. E. W. Scott, the rectory is now one of the beauty spots at Seal Cove. There is a beautiful new walk from Sixth Ave. down to the bus stop at the Circle. Ted Capstick, Terry Parsons and Charles Graham helped to make this new path to St. Peter's during their leave from the Navy. Then the church began to do things as, unless a new foundation could be put in at once, it would topple over. Carpenters could not be had for love or money, so Mr. Scott got busy and did the job himself. Saturday night was the climax of all this hard work. Edward Scott has set a good example to the youth of Prince Rupert and the congregation of St. Peter's.
