ELECTRIC "TIN FISH" STOWED ON SUB-The crew of a submarine re-provisioning at an advanced base in the Pacific, stow an electric torpedo below decks. These electrically-driven weapons, a carefully guarded secret during the war years, now are revealed by the navy to have accounted for over 1,000,000 tons of enemy shipping. The torpedoes are driven by electric motors powered by specially designed lead acid type storage batteries, and are gyroscope-controlled. They leave no tell-tale wake behind them as the conventional steam-turbine driven torpedoes do. Over 20 feet long, they weigh about a ton and a half.

He attacked the inconsistency of C.C.F. candidate William Brett, who, he said, had defied the declared policy of his party of ultimately taking over complete ownership of business.

"The C.C.F. said that the ultimate in their policy is complete ownership but Mr. Brett has said that small businesses will be allowed to make a profit," he said.

Mr. McGeer, in a lengthy speech flayed socialism in all its forms from England to Saskatchewan to British Columbia.

Nova Scotia Election . . .

Not surprising was the return to bower in Nova Scotia of Premier Angus Macdonald and his Liberal government. Unique, however, was the fact that it should have been swept back into office by a majority even greater than it enjoyed at dissolution. This is something unprecedented in post-war politics and can be regarded as a great testimonial and appreciation of a good administration.

As significant as anything was the reduction of the C.C.F. strength

The British Budget . . .

If Britain expected anything in the way of an immediate new utopian era from its new Labor government the budget of Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton once and for all dispels any such anticipations. Instead Mr. Dalton, frankly and honestly, tells his people, as any conscientious chancellor would, of course, have to do, that there is to be more, and tighter belt fastening and that R. C. H. "Forgotten Women" Fight For Rights

LONDON, Oct. 25 (P) - Miss Florence White, national organizer of the Spinsters' Association, told a large meeting in the Kingsway Hall that, as a result of the war, one of every five women in Britain will remain unmarried. Miss White said lack of recognition of the need of spinsters had earned them the title of "Forgotten Women."] "That name should be a spur to us to carry on the fight for our rights," she said. The meeting passed a resolution demand ing reduction of the pension age of insured women from 60 to 55.
