SURRENDER AND OCCUPATION OF JAPAN IS GETTING UNDER WAY

Great Allied Naval Force Assembling at Tokyo — Capitulaton in Burma, Singapore and Hong Kong Are Near

MANILA, Aug. 27—The responsibility for the occupation of Japan will rest with the American Eighth Army, it was announced today by General Douglas MacArthur. Landings will be made at Yokohama and Takeyama as well as the two previously designated points near Tokyo—a naval base and an air field. Engineers will land at Izumi air field tonight in preparation for the main landings in 36 hours later.

Allied war vessels on Sunday entered Sagami Bay, just outside of Tokyo, only a few miles from the Kanto peninsula where the occupation forces of Japan are to commence their landings on Tuesday. The Allied naval force consists of an estimated 400 vessels including twelve American and two British battleships, 18 aircraft carriers, 22 escort carriers, 22 cruisers, 100 destroyers. They will enter Tokyo Bay Tuesday at the time the first landing of 10,000 United States troops and British bluejackets will be put ashore.

The Third United States fleet will be the naval force which, in the center of the Japanese capital city of Tokyo. Eighty-eight Allied planes will be the first landings at the air field on Tuesday in preparation for mass landings to follow on Thursday.

hundreds of big guns will be used to blast Tokyo of the first of any Japanese treachery. However, no such treachery is anticipated as aerial reconnaissance indicates that the Japanese are complying with pre-arranged instructions of General Douglas MacArthur, the Allied commander-in-chief.

Next Sunday has now been set as the date for the formal signing of the Japanese surrender. It is stated in authoritative quarters at Washington that at least half a million American troops will be put ashore on the day as an occupation force within the coming five months. In spite of typhoons, Allied naval and aerial forces are continuing a steady patrol of the shores of Japan. High winds and heavy rains have not been preventing the dropping of relief supplies for Allied prisoners of war.

Again Asserts His Innocence of Treason Before Oslo Court

LONDON, Aug. 27 — The leader of the Norwegian puppet government under the Nazis, Vidkun Quisling, has again asserted his innocence of treason before a court in Oslo.

On trial for his life, Quisling told the court yesterday that he had never sought to obtain conscription of labor in Norway and the deportation of Norwegian army officers to German concentration camps. Those charges were laid against Quisling by Major Fridtjof Hammerstein, who was aide to the German commander in Norway.

Quisling also declared before the court that he talked the Germans out of fighting on in Norway after the other German forces on the continent had surrendered.

NAZI SECRETS ARE UNEARTHED

Another concerns a rocket with a range of 3600 miles which could cross the Atlantic Ocean in 17 minutes.

It is also disclosed that the Germans were perfecting processes of making butter and also gasoline from coal.

Having been delayed because of mechanical reasons in connection with the naval gate at the entrance of the harbor, C.P.R. steamer Princess Norah was delayed for several hours in arriving in port today, finally arriving at 2 p.m. The vessel is northbound from Vancouver to Skagway.

Reasons of Surrender

Atomic Love of Emperor's Says

NORWEGIAN HEARTHS ARE NOW COLD BUT FUTURE IS BRIGHT

Fuel is Most Pressing of Norway's Problems Now That Food Situation Improved

LONDON, Aug. 27 — Three months of peace finds Norway a politically united nation which expects to get back on its feet in one or two years.

Five years ago Norway's political parties pledged themselves to co-operate for the best interests of their people while under Quisling and the Germans. That pledge will hold good at least until next October's elections.

Under this unity and with outside aid, the food distribution is already greatly improved. All Norwegians are receiving 1,400 rationed calories or more a day. All families now are able to draw such food as butter for the first time since last December, and there is unrationed fresh fish for the first time since 1940. Food is coming from America and Denmark, a little from Britain, and some wheat from Canada and Argentina, but Norway is stocking 70 percent of its own larder.

Main Problem Lack of Fuel

Norway's greatest problem, as in nearly all newly liberated countries, is lack of fuel. Preparing for a hard time this winter, the government is having as much wood as possible cut for civilian heating and cooking purposes. In the fear of a labor shortage Germans may be drafted for wood chopping. What coal is brought into the country will be used for traffic and industry.

Norwegian government and industrial leaders assert that the outlook for a general economic comeback is good. Industry, somewhat worn down under the Germans, is not too badly off. Many industries already are coming back, although others like textiles and consumer goods lack raw materials. Canneries are reviving rapidly, with their freezing equipment greatly improved under the Germans.

There is no export trade, but the nation hopes soon to be making regular deliveries of fish and pulp in exchange for coal from Poland, Britain and America.

Norwegians believe there will be no hampering of their efforts to re-establish the merchant fleet and old pre-war contracts. Most needed in Norway are consumer goods and industrial and agricultural machinery.

Politically, a popular swing to the left is so slight that experts will make no prophesy on the October elections.

H. M. S. DUKE OF YORK—Symbolic of the power of the British Navy which helped end the war in the Pacific, the great battleship H.M.S. Duke of York comes into the Japanese capitulation picture as one of the great array of Allied naval strength which will accompany General Douglas MacArthur as he goes to Tokyo this week to take over control of Japan. This is the flagship of Sir Bruce Fraser, chief of the British Pacific fleet.

Wartime Development of Royal Canadian Air Force On This Coast Revealed

Story Now Told of Defences Built to Meet Japanese Threat, Including Those in Prince Rupert Area

At the beginning of the war, the Royal Canadian Air Force on the west coast consisted of a small permanent force unit at Jericho Beach. From small beginnings, big things develop, strategic necessity having been the whip behind west coast development.

R.C.A.F. planners foresaw the entry of Japan into this war, and saw an undefended coast lying along the Great Circle approaches from Japan to the North American continent.

Hence, by the time Japan entered the war, via Pearl Harbor, the R.C.A.F. had developed Patricia Bay as a land plane and seaplane base, and Ucluelet, Coal Harbor, Bella Bella, Allford Bay and Prince Rupert as seaplane bases.

These bases were all constructed and occupied and operated before Japan entered the war, a considerable number of Stranraers having been flown from the east coast via the United States, to augment the Sharks, Vedettes, Vancouver, Fairchild and Deltas then operating from R.C.A.F. coast bases. All of these types have long since been relegated to the limbo of forgotten aircraft, even though they served excellently an initial purpose.

Also prior to the Japanese entry, the Permanent Joint Board on Defence, Canada and the United States, was formed. Their first task was a strategic survey of hemisphere defence requirements. This included a comprehensive study of the west coast and the development of defence plans for both coasts in the event of the United States coming into the war. Developments at that time were most meagre in Alaska—in fact, almost negligible. Plans, however, were extensive, and pushed forward apace, as Alaska, in itself, was most vulnerable and dangerous as a stepping-stone to Canada and the United States. Hence, the support of Alaska by both Canada and Continental United States was recognized as a prime requirement, which a line of seaplane bases on the west coast could not fully meet. Nor could seaplanes be expected to meet any carrier plane threat the Japanese might make along the coast. Therefore the Joint Board and the R.C.A.F. planners foresaw and provided for an continuous chain of land plane bases from United States to the northern tip of Alaska. At Tofino and Port Hardy, modern land plane bases were therefore constructed to make it possible to move large numbers of land planes northward, as well as to augment our own Canadian coastal defences.

In addition to Sea Island, three suitable aerodromes were developed for training purposes and for availability to back up the Vancouver defences, namely,

Boundary Bay, Abbotsford and Comox.

In support of these bases, Jericho was developed into a modern repair depot, with Sea Island as a satellite, a large equipment depot was established in Vancouver below the Burrard Bridge, and an explosives depot at Kamloops.

Weather is Main Consideration In all coastal defence situations, weather conditions are a main consideration. Bad conditions may favor attack and hamper the movements of aircraft for defence. Hence, when for a time the Japanese were masters of the Pacific, it was imperative for the support of both Prince Rupert and Alaska that a line of inland aerodromes be developed. Therefore, an inland line of aerodromes was built, including Dog Creek, Prince George, Vanderhoof, Smithers and Terrace, with landing strips at Quesnel and Woodcock, all on a limited and emergency basis except Prince George, which was a most important link with the Northwest Staging Route from Edmonton to Whitehorse.

Landing strips and radio facilities have also been developed at Massett and Sandspit on the Queen Charlotte Islands, the latter having saved many U.S. and Canadian land planes caught out under difficult weather conditions and being unable to reach other land plane bases, either in the Panhandle or Canadian territory.

This system of aerodromes was useless with the then limited communications facilities. Hence a most comprehensive communications system was developed between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, including Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlottes, and linking up all the stations named above into an efficient system whereby all defences could be controlled from

Now That the War Is Over . . .

The question is naturally uppermost in the minds of Prince Rupert people—what is going to happen now that the war is over? There is, of course, no one so optimistic as to not expect that some sort of lag will occur in a community which, at the peak of its wartime prosperity, had an extremely busy population possibly quadruple of what it had ever known in pre-war days.

For their post-war prosperity Prince Rupert people pin their hopes on the development of the virgin natural resources of northern and central British Columbia in an expanding and greater Canada and Pacific coast.

An awakening Orient may well contribute to the utilization of this north coast port which was suddenly developed during war to play an important part in transportation of the sinews of war to Alaska, the far northern seas and the northern Orient.

The fishing industry, after having been shoved around during the war, will again be a relatively important industrial consideration here and the resumption of mining should be another help.

Before the war Prince Rupert had no highway connection with the outside world as it has today. Its existence may be counted upon to bring greater tourist traffic than ever before. The favorable publicity Prince Rupert received through the presence of thousands of American forces here during the war will, doubtless inspire greater tourist travel than ever here.

Battered about by heavy war traffic, Prince Rupert's roads and public facilities are in need of extensive post-war reconstruction and the civic authorities are already racking their brains as to how this necessary work will be financed. They see no other solution than that of extensive federal assistance, particularly since the present situation was brought about through excessive use in national defence interests.

The principal single wartime industry here has been shipbuilding and it has been announced that the shipyard here should keep operating on its present scale, with upwards of 1000 men employed, until January when the contract for China coasters will have been completed.

Outward movement of American and Canadian forces, which has already started, will keep the railways and steamships busy for the next couple of months.

By the end of the year, however, there is not much doubt but that Prince Rupert will be a good deal quieter town than it has been for four years or more. But later it is confidently expected that permanent benefits will be derived from the attention which was focussed on its strategic location and the development of its terminal facilities which occurred during wartime.

The Late "Bob" McIntosh . . .

There was no better known, no more highly esteemed pioneer figure in Prince Rupert than the late Robert Leck McIntosh who died at his home here Friday afternoon. As upright in character as he was in physique, none had more respecting friends than he and regret at his passing is widespread. Kindly and unostentatious, he had been full of good deeds and his memory will be fondly cherished by all who had the favor of having known him.

Through his function as postmaster from 1906 for nearly thirty years and in other capacities, especially in the cultural and historical activities of the city, he played a useful part as a good citizen.

In the cemetery on the sunny Kalum Hill near Terrace, they will lay him to rest on Tuesday amid the clean and open surroundings which he knew and loved so well and with which, indeed, his own fine character was so synonymous.

LETTERBOX

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

Editor, Daily News:

Having become accustomed to the asinine and diabolical events of the past six years it seems strange that such a little incident as the election of a C.C.F. candidate in Skeena should produce such a feeling of calamity. Just what do you think the C.C.F. can do that would be worse than what our great statesmen of the past have done?

I expect the C.C.F. were just as much surprised as others to find themselves elected. Now there are the incredible election results in Britain. It seems impossible that Britain could have gone batty the same as Skeena. However, there must be some reason for these things and I have an idea that, instead of damning the C.C.F. etc., it might be a good idea to start looking about for the cause of such revolutionary happenings. Instead of throwing obstacles in the way of the new M. P. it might be a good idea to co-operate and see if he can think up any more stupid ideas than have gone before. He certainly will have to go some to beat the record to date. We can be thankful that he is not a great statesman like Bennett, Meighen and King.

People say that now we have elected a C.C.F. in Skeena, we will not get anything. In other words—the gang that we elected to work for us, will hold out on our money, and show us that they are our boss. Well if we get any less than we have had in the past it will be rather difficult to point out where one left and the other began so why all the worry? At least be British, give the poor fellow a chance.

He happens to be the representative of Skeena, not the C.C.F. alone. At least we hope so.

Let us take a look over the history of Canada and mark up all the great things accomplished by our heroic statesmen of the past. We do not expect a newcomer to compete with them, particularly a C.C.F. It will certainly tax his ingenuity to think up anything new, or more startling, but the world progresses and he may surprise us.

There was that bi-lingual matter in Quebec. Have you kept track of what that has become? Figure it yourself, and see who the Zombies really are. Not the French.

There was the C.P.R. (Unfortunately still is). Do you remember the 20 years taxes they got away with in addition to most of the best land in the West?

Then we have the G.T.P., and the Canadian Northern, and the P.G.E.—not to mention the Hudson's Bay Company.

We seem to recollect something about a Beauharnois deal and a Stevens Investigation. There was a Dairy Commission, a Co-op Commission, besides all those for which we paid, and for which we did not get any report.

We would appreciate being told just what the doubling of gold prices really meant. Of course inflation is a terrible thing but deflation might be O.K.—if it was the other fellow who was being deflated.

We are still in a quandry about that People's Bank—The Bank of Canada. We are still borrowing money and paying interest. By paying the interest we avoid inflation, you know.

During the past 25 years we have been roped into two great wars. However, we have succeeded in becoming a great world power—now that we are in debt 20 billions, besides what was taken from us in taxes (voluntary, of course) and those savings we hope to get back.

At present we have been sending men, material and money to Europe just as fast as ships could be built. The great idea being that until everything of value is shipped out of the country and given away, all same Santa Claus, that we are not doing our duty to the starving paupers of Europe. Canadians do not matter. They are big-hearted.

We might suggest the possibility of our having war criminals, as well as peace criminals in Canada, and leave their punishment to someone else.

Speaking about getting nothing for Skeena from a C.C.F. M. P. Just who is getting what. What are we getting or hope to get belongs to us and has been paid for many times over. Does Vancouver or the East think they are giving us anything. No doubt they have that screwy idea, as they have been on the receiving end so long they think they have a Divine right to all the profits and the West and North can just carry on with the potlatch end of the deal. I wonder why folks despise the four-legged swine and overlook the two-legged hogs. We better stop being suckers and get what is coming to us.

It may be too late to mend the past but we can at least hope there is a way to salvage the wreck. With the exhaustion of our materials, and the incredible debts of the country, it may be a tough proposition, but our great statesmen seem to think it is quite O.K. The time was when they shed large tears about a mere 50 million they could not pay.

So here are a few constructive suggestions and we certainly hope that the C.C.F., or some one, will do something about them. Otherwise the past will just be continued into the future.

You might try to recover our G. T. P. set-up into Rupert.

You might find out what is wrong about the Skeena Highway.

Also, why the South gets all the juice, while the North stays without power, but pays their bills.

If the Peace River outlet comes West, as it should, it would be something no one else could do.

Then, we still have the Alaska Highway under discussion.

Please ascertain the exact situation in regard to those bonds sent here by Britain, and the C.P.R. in particular. Just who is going to make a few millions at our expense? Do they comprise enough to warrant the government taking over the C.P.R.? These cover the steamships and always as well, we believe, and the government should get into that game. The C.P.R. should not be permitted to get all our war airports either.

Then there is the oil in the north and the millions of the people's money invested. Does the Standard Oil get away with it all or do we in the North get some of our own, instead of having to import it? That is one of these things we are also getting awfully damned sick of seeing pulled off. And people wonder why there are C.C.F.'ers and kickers.

Does Canada, by any chance, get any pay for all the stuff our statesmen are rushing to Europe just as fast as they can get the ships to carry it? Or are we just a nice big-hearted Santa Claus who will hold the sack, the same as after the other war? For starving paupers, we cannot understand why they are so fussy and must have only the best grades of everything, while we Canadians take what few scraps are left.

ZOMBIE.

Optimism May be Difficult but Worry is Not Helpful, Declares Bishop

Commenting on the apprehension of some people regarding the post-war period, Rt. Rev. J. B. Gibson, Bishop of Caledonia and rector of St. Andrew's Cathedral, urged the congregation during his sermon yesterday morning to "be not over-anxious about tomorrow."

Most of our anxieties centre around the physical—food, clothing and shelter—said Bishop Gibson which, in turn, is caused by excessive self-pity. Food, drink and clothes are necessary, but they should not be allowed to become the main interest in living, he added.

Although a man would have to be an optimist to look forward to the next few years with optimism, he went on, God's promise of aid should be a tremendous factor in the future.

The Bishop depicted worry as a vice of the mind and, although he conceded that at times it was difficult not to worry, he cited the case of St. Paul, who refused to worry even in the most trying situations.

In conclusion, stated the Rt. Rev. Gibson, "Why do you worry, why do you fret? God is not done with this old world yet."

Supper at St. Paul's for Rev. and Mrs. M. B. Anderson

The congregation of St. Paul's Lutheran Church gathered at a farewell supper in the church parlors Sunday evening for Pastor and Mrs. Magnus Anderson who are leaving for the south this evening.

I. Feness, on behalf of the congregation, spoke words of appreciation for the work done and presented the pastor and his wife with a generous purse, wishing them good wishes and success in their new parish.

The Chapel Choir presented Mrs. Anderson with a lovely glass tray embossed in silver together with a bottle of perfume.

Directions Given for Serving Fruits and Vegetables in Jelly

A sparkling gelatine salad, encasing fruits or vegetables within its quivering walls, is the perfect answer to summer meals. It is simple to make and takes but a moment to unmold on crisp salad greens.

Make your salad in individual miniatures or turn out a family size mold on a large platter and garnish to make the ideal centerpiece for your table. For a cool main course on a hot day, fill a jellied tomato ring with green salad and devilled eggs, or cottage cheese.

Here are directions for three kinds of gelatine bases. These offer unlimited variety, using the fruits and vegetables in season.

Foundation Aspic for Vegetables

1 tablespoon gelatine
½ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1-3 cup vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

Soften gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Add hot water, vinegar, salt and sugar. Stir until sugar and gelatine are dissolved. Cool slightly before adding vegetables. Pour mixture into a wet or lightly greased mold or individual molds and chill until firm. Using 1½ cups mixed vegetables this makes six servings.

Foundation Jelly for Fruits

1 tablespoon gelatine
½ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice
1-3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Add hot water, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Stir until sugar and gelatine are dissolved. Cool slightly before adding fruit. Pour mixture into wet or lightly greased mold or individual molds and chill until firm. Using 1½ cups fruit this makes six servings.

Tomato Jelly Salad

2 tablespoons gelatine
1½ cups cold water
2½ cups tomato juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Combine tomato juice, salt, sugar and Worcestershire sauce. Heat to boiling point, add soaked gelatine and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add lemon juice. Pour mixture into a wet or lightly greased mold or individual molds, and chill until firm. Six servings.

IT LOOKS GOOD — IT TASTES GOOD

For almost every occasion a refreshing drink is the perfect thing to serve. Use fruit juices as a base, put in plenty of ice and mix with sparkling water. Make your drinks attractive to the eye as well as appealing to the palate. A little grenadine or maraschino syrup will give a lovely pink color and add flavor, too. Colored ice cubes, made with pure food coloring are attractive, or you might add a mint leaf, a maraschino cherry or a fresh berry to each ice cube before freezing. Slow freezing is best because fast freezing causes rapid expansion and the desired effect of the decorated cube is lost.

Fresh cherries and berries are pretty additions to a drink and a thin slice of lemon or lime floating on top of the drink is a colorful addition. Mint is always a cool-looking attractive decoration. For drinks with a lively appearance, as well as good flavor use sparkling water instead of tap water in mixing. A good quality sparkling water retains its sparkle until the drink is finished, never becoming flat and flavorless. Try sparkling water with all your summer fruit drinks and see how much better they are. Peaches are plentiful now and here's a drink using them:

Sparkling Peach Freeze
One-third cup sieved ripe peaches
¼ cup Maraschino syrup
Sparkling Water
Mash and sieve peeled peaches and combine them with the Maraschino syrup in a tall glass. Fill glass with ice cold sparkling water. Garnish with 1 or 2 Maraschino cherries. Serves 1.

FRUIT DRINKS POPULAR—

Homemade fruit drinks are popular these hot days with the shortage of many commercial beverages. They provide extra liquids needed by the body in the summer. One unusual thirst quencher uses blueberries.

Here is the recipe for this Blueberry Quench: Pour one cup of boiling water over one cup of blueberries, add grated rind of one orange and one lemon; simmer slowly for five minutes. Rub through a sieve. Add 1-3 cup of sugar and a few grains of salt; stir well. Add juice of one orange and one lemon. Cool. Before serving, add three cups of cold water. This makes about six servings.

If you can spare the necessary preserves coupons, honey makes an even better sweetener than sugar, since, for equal quantities, it provides more sweetening, and dissolves more completely.

A variety of fruit juice and honey mixtures may be prepared and kept in the refrigerator for a day or two to be combined with commercial sparkling water at a moment's notice when guests drop in.

Fruit punch for eight can be made from two cups of water, ½ cup of honey, two cups of orange juice, ¼ cup of lemon or lime juice, one cup grapefruit juice and a pint of sparkling water. This allows one tablespoon of honey per glass but this amount may be reduced to one teaspoon each, or ¼ cup for the recipe, if desired.

Cans of blended orange and grapefruit juice will soon be available, the Prices Board tells us, and this drink makes an excellent base for a variety of iced fruit drinks. For the final touch of elegance use equal parts of water and lemon juice to make the ice cubes for this beverage. Small quantities of sugar or honey may be used for sweetening.

Have you tried canning peaches with the skins left on? If not, here is a tip from the home economists of the Agriculture Department. Leaving the skins on is not only a time and labor saver but a taste saver too. They add an interesting contrast in texture, and the peaches retain their fresh color and flavor.

Timely Tips

A Grill Trick

If you are cooking on a grill, here is an idea for turning out a casserole that would vie with any oven dish. Cook your vegetables and meat or fish on top of the grill in a closely covered saucepan until tender. Use a minimum of boiling water in the bottom to prevent sticking. In another pan make a white sauce using the water or juice and pour over the cooked food. Top with bread crumbs or grated cheese. Then turn the grill upside down over the pan for a few minutes and brown the crumbs.

You Can't Lose 'Em

Baby never loses her mittens when they are attached with a ribbon hung around her neck. You can borrow her style using plain tape with one pot-holder at each end. This way you will have them at instant call.

Routine—Old and New

The belles of 1827 followed an intricate cleaning routine for silk stockings. "Half a pint of gin, four ounces of soft soap and two ounces of honey well shaken, then rub silk with a sponge (wetted with the foregoing mixture) upon a table, washing through two waters in which you put ox gall to brighten the colors and prevent running." After that our routine for rayons sounds simple. Gentle squeezing in lukewarm suds, using tender care in rinsing and rolling in a towel to remove moisture.

Of General Interest

Replacement Impossible

In the case of a lost ration book, coupons for the purchase of sugar for canning cannot be replaced because the Ration Administrator has no way of knowing whether these had been used before the book was lost.

Dollar Stretcher

Servicewomen, returning to civilian life, can stretch their dollars by understanding the principles of price control. "What About Us?" a pamphlet on inflation especially written for young women may be obtained from the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa.

Notice To Vacate

A discharged member of the armed forces, who wishes to live in a dwelling which he owned or occupied under lease from a relative at the time of his enlistment, need only give the present tenant three months' notice to vacate.

Wash the peaches thoroughly and rub off the fuzz with a clean cloth or tea towel. Cut in half, remove the stones, and can the fruit according to the Consumer Section's tested methods.

Since peaches are one of the sweet fruits which require little sugar, they need only a thin syrup. Thin syrup is made in the proportion of one cup of sugar to two cups of water, and a very thin syrup, in the proportion of one cup of sugar to three cups of water.

With meat rationing just around the corner, ways to improve tougher cuts—which will require fewer coupons—are the talk of the day. One sure method is to freeze the meat quickly in the freezing pans of the refrigerator just before cooking. Let it thaw out again and pop it into the frying pan. Freezing makes the meat tender by bursting the tiny cells as the liquid in them expands. The method is best used only with strong-flavor meat. Flavor of mild meats is apt to suffer.

The Combined Headquarters established at the Jericho Golf Country Club property, Vancouver, where the Operations room is in immediate contact with all stations and sub-units.

Western Air Command was organized into Two Groups, one with Headquarters in Victoria, and the other with Headquarters at Prince Rupert, over-all direction and supervision being maintained by Command Headquarters.

A complete system of Radar coverage was embarked upon at a comparatively early stage in the war, involving the construction and operation of a series of Radar Stations on Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlottes, also in the area between Cape Scott and Cape St. James, linking up with an American system through Alaska and the American coastal system south of the border.

Thus, by this system, complete outer coverage was maintained, such that all approaches to vulnerable areas such as Prince Rupert and Vancouver were adequately covered. Augmenting this seaward-looking system was an upward-looking type of Radar, assuring coverage of high-flying aircraft in any approach to Victoria or Vancouver, and enabling our Fighter to be guided to their interceptions by Radar. This Radar system, in addition to picking up aircraft, was also capable of picking up surface vessel at considerable distances. It has been in 24-hour operation ever since installation.

Whereas numerous suspicious objects were picked up and investigated, its main function proved to be Navigational air for aircraft engaged in operation or transportation duties. Many aircraft were saved by Radar when lost or in difficulties, as it was a simple matter to give them their location by radio when once seen on the Radar.

These Radar stations fed their information into Filter Rooms at Group Headquarters, whose task was to identify friend from foe and to classify traffic. Later, when the operational Groups were disbanded, the information was fed in direct from Filter Rooms to Command Headquarters. Practically all types of R.C.A.F. aircraft were fitted with Radar for sea or aircraft search.

Augmenting the Radar system was the Aircraft Detection Corps, organized the length and breadth of the coast. This volunteer organization performed outstanding service and were excellently tied in to the Pacific Communication System. It was a splendid example of civilian and service co-operation.

A Radar-controlled Fighter organization was developed, together with the necessary Fighter Sector Control Rooms at Tofino and Patricia Bay, manned by skilled personnel, a large number of whom had overseas operational experience.

Patrol of Coast Was Continuous

From the first day of entry of Japanese into the war, until a few weeks before V-J Day was proclaimed, R.C.A.F. aircraft have been covering the sea approaches and the sea traffic lanes by long and arduous patrols, extending, as the range of aircraft increased, out of five hundred and six hundred miles, and more latterly reduced to three hundred miles from base.

This vigil was maintained in the face of difficult weather conditions and the even more difficult conditions of boredom. They were closely tied in with Naval operations in the Joint Operational Control Centres, and with U.S. systems of patrol, north and south.

Fighter squadrons from Western Air Command have until recently been maintained at a high state of readiness and efficiency, a large percentage of the aircrew having had overseas operational experience. Balloon chasing was one of their more recent tasks.

Two squadrons of fighters were sent to the Aleutians for the defence of Alaska, as well as two Bomber squadrons to lower Alaska, the Fighter squadrons actually getting into action against the Japanese. This occurred prior to the Japanese attack on Kiska and continued for approximately one and one-half years.

The picture of West Coast development is not complete without reference to the magnificent system of flying control which has been established to assist aircraft in their many arduous duties. This organization has proven to be the best known solution to the problem of aircraft flying over mountainous terrain and far out to sea. A part of this organization is the Directional Finding system, by which aircraft can obtain bearings from practically all R.C.A.F. Stations, the main Directional Finding Units, however, being located at Prince George, Tofino, Patricia Bay, Sea Island, Boundary Bay, Sandspit and Dog Creek. It is very closely tied in with Radar and with the American system.

The problem of supplying these numerous outlying bases was a very substantial one, which required the development of a large R.C.A.F. Marine Section, with a great variety of boats, including everything from small tenders to crash boats, special type scows and supply vessels. One of the great problems of supply was the maintenance of Radar bases, which, generally speaking, were most inaccessible, and difficult and hazardous to maintain.

Construction engineering and physical maintenance of R.C.A.F. bases has been a major task. The bases were, in the first place, constructed for the R.C.A.F. either by contract under the Department of Transport or under the R.C.A.F. Works and Buildings organization, the latter developing a considerable force of Construction Maintenance units, 9 C.M.U. being allotted to this command.

1943 saw the wind-up of Elementary and Service Flying Training on this coast. This was succeeded by operational training, i.e., final training to fit personnel for operations. There were three very large Operational Training Units in Western Air Command, namely Boundary Bay and Abbotsford, under a single command, for high altitude night bombers; Patricia Bay for flying boat coastal operational training work, and Comox for heavy transport operational training. These units produced a large number of trained crews which have since seen service in many operational theatres, as well as flying boat operations on the east and west coasts.

To operate all of these various types of units has required a

RAIN NEEDED AT TERRACE

Vegetables Facing Drought Damage Unless Long Warm Spell Is Ended

After three rainless weeks, there having been only one-quarter inch of precipitation since the first of August, Terrace farms and gardens were badly in need of moisture with the prospect of peas and some other vegetable crops drying up, it was reported by Nigel Sherwood, official meteorologist at Terrace, who was in the city over the week-end for a brief visit. On Friday 90 above was recorded at Terrace. Three weeks previous the official thermometer had risen to 91. Driving in from Terrace with C. J. Norrington, Mr. Sherwood mentioned how the clear, hot weather was experienced until Tyee was reached when they ran into foggy cool of the coast.

Mr. Sherwood reported that there is a splendid crop of apples at Terrace, the popular Yellow Transparents, which make such smooth appearance, now being at their very best.

THREE ACRES YIELD $900

FRANCOIS LAKE, Aug. 27—From the Parkview Farm of Ed Mohr and son near Wistaria, samples of red creeping fescue showed 90 per cent germination. Three acres of the valued grass produced a ton of seed which will net $900 to the growers while the cut-over field will make rich fall pasture.

substantial headquarters organization and decentralization throughout the Command. The diversified nature of the work has required specialists in many branches, and large administrative, technical, construction engineering and supply staffs. A large medical organization has been developed, specializing in aviation medicine and in the medical care of personnel. This includes small hospitals at practically all stations and special Command hospitals at 3 Repair Depot and Sea Island; also Convalescent Hospitals, namely No. 5 in Vancouver and No. 6 at Colwood, the former handling all orthopedic bases and the latter general medical cases. These Convalescent Hospitals have been sponsored and assisted by prominent citizens in Vancouver and Victoria respectively, and have fulfilled a most important function. Mention should be made of the work for civilians that the R.C.A.F. local hospitals and medical staffs have performed up and down the coast, and the many mercy flights which have been undertaken in aid of seriously ill or injured civilians.

The Auxiliary Services of the R.C.A.F. have performed magnificent work for the R.C.A.F., notably the YMCA, which has undertaken in a large measure the recreational programs throughout the Command, and the Legion, which has done such splendid work in the Educational field. The R.R.A.F. has had its own Personnel Counselling service, which has been functioning for approximately a year and a half, making available in an organized manner the wealth and material developed through R.C.A.F. Headquarters, Ottawa. The counsellors have, in all cases, been trained men and women, whose service has been most magnificent with respect to rehabilitation counselling.

Women Play Important Part

The Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. in Western Air Command has performed many and varied important functions. Women have been used most extensively in the routine control of bomber reconnaissance, fighter and flying control operations. They have rendered a great service administratively and also in connection with the commissariat, W.D. dietitians supervising the food and messing organization.

Another service which has done magnificent work is the Chaplain service, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, who have looked after the spiritual welfare of the personnel wherever they were to be found, and who have done outstanding service in the many difficult situations to be found at the outlying bases of the R.C.A.F.

SMITHERS

Inactive during the war years, the Fall Fair Association is launching in a short time what they expect will be a worthy successor to the fairs of by-gone days.

Pit-Lieut. Doug Kerr, D.P.C., returned to his home last week after completing a tour of 38 missions over the European continent and a two years' service with No. 6 Bomber Group of the R.C.A.F., attached to the R.A.F.

Although the Smithers girls' softball team came through with an easy win over Hazelton, the men's baseball club was defeated by a score of 10 to 1 in a second game Hazelton downed Terrace 8 to 7.

Mrs. H. Wearne of Quick has received word from Philippa Woodall's parents to the effect that she has arrived safely in England. Mrs. Wearne accompanied Philippa to Quebec and saw her off on the S.S. Strathead.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harker arrived here recently to make their home at the Smithers airport where Mr. Harker will take over duties with the Department of Transport, radio division.

ARE PRAYING FOR SOLDIER'S RETURN

Sam Schaffer of Tschenuk Lake May Recover But Will Be Long Time

FRANCOIS LAKE, Aug. 27—Sam Schaffer of Tschenuk Lake, one of the best known boys of the central lakes district, is reported to be making good progress at Shaughnessy Military Hospital in Vancouver towards ultimate recovery from the effects of severe wounds which he sustained in Germany this spring. At first, it was feared that he would be hopelessly paralyzed but army doctors are now hopeful that in a couple of years he may be restored to perfect health. Meantime his wife and three children—Fred, aged 4, Keith, 3, and Mary Jane, 2— anxiously await his return some day.

Sam joined up and went overseas in 1943. He served in France and Holland and made the crossing of the Rhine. While in training at Vernon before going overseas he saved the life of one of his soldier friends from drowning.

SILVER WEDDING AT FRANCOIS LAKE

FRANCOIS LAKE, Aug. 27—Echo Valley Ranch, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Deeder, was the scene of a quiet but joyous gathering of intimate friends and relatives when the occasion was the observance of the silver wedding anniversary of the couple. The mothers of both Mr. and Mrs. Deeder graced the occasion which was attended by John R. Walker, his son, Andrew, and Barney Mulvany.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Walker brought two gallons of ice cream and a magnificent cake while the wedding presents so delighted Peg Deeder that she was unable to write her weekly article.

FERRY SKIPPER IS RESOURCEFUL

How Big Combine Was Delivered to Progressive Francois Lake Rancher

FRANCOIS LAKE, Aug. 27—An innovation in ultra modern farm machinery was introduced by William Bickle of Grassy Plains when he shipped in the latest model of a self-propelled ten-ton combine in order to harvest his 1000-acre crop of timothy seed and to salvage the crops of many of his neighbors where short straw conditions and heavy heads would have meant a big loss under the old-fashioned method.

The combine exceeded the capacity of the obsolete Francois Lake ferry but the resourceful skipper, Bruce Little, lashed two heavily loaded trucks on the bow, loaded the $8,000 machine on the stern and cable-lashed it above and below the pontoons, making at stern landing at Southbank and unloading without mishap.

WAR WIDOW FOR FRANCOIS LAKE

FRANCOIS LAKE, Aug. 27—Preparations are being made to welcome to Tschenuk Lake from Scotland the widow and little daughter of Lance Corporal Thomas D. Gilgan who joined up with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment in the early stages of the war and was killed at the Battle of Cassino in October, 1944. Mrs. Gilgan and child expect to leave Scotland for Canada as soon as travelling conditions improve.

FARMER MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

Neighborly Spirit Demonstrated to Neil Kelly of Tschenuk Lake

After spending several months in the Prince Rupert General Hospital, where he had undergone a critical operation from which he had made a complete recovery, Neil Kelly had returned to his Tschenuk Lake farm and resumed operation with his customary vigor, only to meet with an unfortunate accident. While putting up the hoisting rigging at his hay barn he fell from the peak of the lofty roof, breaking his shoulder and a few ribs. He is now at the Burns Lake Hospital.

Many of his neighbors decided that it would not be a great sin to break the Sabbath instead of going fishing and by 9 a.m. the teams of Jack Gilgan and Earl Deeder were on the scene, with the pioneer farmer, John R. Walker, showing the way. Following his lead were Ken Olson, Hugh and Peter Neave, Andy Walker, Andy Anderson of Burns Lake, and Don Hawley of the JP ranch at Francois Lake. Several of the less fortunate hay-makers brought their lunches and missed a royal dinner served at the Post Office, farm by Mrs. John Gilgan.

Province to Take Terrace Hospital

TERRACE, Aug. 27—Rumor is current in the village that the provincial government may be taking over the military hospital buildings here now that the war is over and they will hardly be further required for national defence purposes. It has been suggested that the buildings and site would be ideal for sanitarium purposes of some kind.

ELECTRICITY AT TERRACE

Answer from Provincial Government Regarding Taking Over Being Awaited

TERRACE, Aug. 27—Gordon Kerr, whose Terrace electric light plant was recently burned out, has agreed to take charge here for the British Columbia Hydro-electric Commission which is expected to take over the local electric light and power utility. Formal application that the provincial government take over was recently made by the community but no answer has been received from the government although it is hoped here that the answer will be favorable.

Meanwhile nothing is being done locally in the matter of replacing the power plant and resuming a community service.

The effect of the recent fire is that there are now no street lights in Terrace and half the dwellings are dark except for lamps. However, about half of the local business premises have their own electric light plants.

MUSIC and MUSICIANS

The H.M.C.S. Catham band's concert scheduled for Sunday afternoon on the Court House green was cancelled due to wet weather.

With one of the West Coast's most distinguished musicians, Pierre Monteux, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony, on the podium, the Philadelphia Orchestra broadcast its regular weekly concert Sunday afternoon.

Monteux gave excellent readings of the "Egmont" overture by Beethoven and the ballet from Stravinsky's "Fire Bird Suite." Violinist Isaac Stern as featured soloist played the Concerto in E Minor by Mendelssohn.

Alexander Hilsberg, concert master of the Philadelphia Orchestra, has been named associate director for the season 1945-46 to succeed Saul Caston, who recently was appointed conductor of the Denver Symphony Orchestra, Etude Magazine reports.

The Toronto Philharmonic Symphony's radio broadcast from Varsity arena, Toronto, last week featured a saxophonist, Sigurd Rasher. The saxophone is so seldom heard as a solo instrument on a classical concert that there was practically no music written for the instrument with symphonic accompaniment in recent years until the skill of Rasher inspired a number of noted composers to do so.

Eric Coates' composition, "Saxo-rhapsody," gave the Denmark-born alto saxophonist ample opportunity to display his amazing technique and he made the most of it.

Ignace Straszewski, assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic, led the orchestra through three excerpts from "The Damnation of Faust," by Berlioz, which included the minuet, Will-o'-the-wisps; Dance of the Sylphs, and the Rakoczy March.

The strings and woodwinds gave an impressive performance, but poor acoustics in the Varsity arena as usual, proved a great detriment to Canada's leading symphonic organization.

Membership in the revived community band at Prince George is increasing with 33 players now on the roll, and with special arrangements being made for a beginners' class.

Rev. and Mrs. Magnus B. Anderson and family are sailing tonight on the Princess Adelaide for Vancouver enroute to Patterson, California, where Mr. Anderson has accepted a new pastorate after having been here for the past couple of years as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

S. G. Copeland, formerly with the provincial police here and more recently in the American Transport Service, has accepted a position in the office of the Hanson Timber & Lumber Co. at Smithers and will be leaving for the interior a week from today to assume his duties.

Miss Mary Sargent passed through the city at the weekend, returning to her home in Hazelton, after spending a holiday in Vancouver.

BEAUTY IS FAREWELLED

Send-off Saturday Evening As "Miss Northern B. C." Leaves for Atlantic City

Not only Prince Rupert's and Northern British Columbia's but also all of Canada's challenge for selection as "Miss America" in competition with the most beautiful and talented girls from practically all the states of the Union, Miss Georgina Patterson of Prince George left here on Saturday night's train for Atlantic City where the great beauty finals will take place. As she left she was given an enthusiastic send-off.

The petite interior brunette, who had been here for a couple of days of intensive rehearsing and entertainment prior to final departure, rode to the train in George Dybhavn's sedan which was decorated with ribbons and streamers and a banner with the "challenge" theme which was affixed to the rear platform of the train just before it left.

The United States Army post band led a procession to the depot and, as the train pulled away, played "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and other lively numbers appropriate to the occasion.

Feature of a number of presentations made to Miss Northern British Columbia was a handsome shower bouquet. This presentation was made by Ald. Nora Arnold on behalf of Mayor H. M. Daggett. Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Rorie and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Stevenson took a leading part in the send-off.

Having been joined at Prince George last evening by her mother, Mrs. A. M. Patterson, the aspirant for international beauty honors is today speeding eastward to Toronto where she will spend three days for final outfitting before proceeding to Atlantic City.

This evening Georgina will arrive in Edmonton, where George L. Rorie, secretary of the Prince Rupert Civic Centre Carnival, has arranged for her to be the guest of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Tomorrow night the Winnipeg Junior Chamber of Commerce will play host to her and on Thursday, August 30, she is slated to arrive in Toronto. In the Ontario provincial capital she will have three days to obtain her wardrobe for which a minimum of $400 has been set by the Prince Rupert committee.

She will leave Toronto Saturday and is due in at Atlantic City, New Jersey, the next Monday afternoon when she will report in as a contestant. Starting September 5, Wednesday, the contest will continue until September 10, when the results will be announced.

Charm and talent will count for as much in the contest as beauty of face and figure, so "Miss Northern B.C." has prepared a song and dance routine. The contestants will appear in evening gowns as well as bathing suits and the latter will have to be of the one-piece variety.

SHORT SPORT

Rain forced the postponement of the Port Edward vs. Barrett Senior Softball League semi-final game yesterday as well as the baseball game on Acropolis Hill between the Prince Rupert All-Stars and the Acropolis Browns.

The British take their cricket seriously. When Wally Hammond, captain of the English test team, allowed D. K. Karmody to come in as substitute wicket-keeper in the fourth of a series of test matches against Australia, sports writers went back 115 years to prove that substitution, although unusual, was quite within the recognized laws of cricket. S. G. Sismey, regular Australian wicket-keeper, was injured and J. A. Workman, one of Australia's original team of 11, took his place. Workman did his best, but while losing only three wickets England scored 51 extras with Workman behind the stumps.

Carmody is a good wicket-keeper but he was Australia's 12th man, and it is against normal practice for a substitute to play anywhere other than in the field. When England came to bat on the second day, however, Hammond sportingly suggested that Carmody keep wicket and Australia accepted the offer. Then the cricket experts got out their books.

A similar incident occurred in 1905 in a Test match at The Oval, it was disclosed. The Laws of Cricket, dated 1830, came off the shelf and were found to state: "No substitute in the field shall be allowed to bowl, keep wicket, stand at the point or middle wicket, or step behind to a fast bowler, unless by the consent of the opposite party." That phrase, "unless by the consent of the opposite party," seemed to meet the situation, and it was generally agreed there had been no infraction of the hoary regulations.

The match, incidentally, ended in a draw.
