SCHOOL REPORT IS CONSIDERED

Teachers' Minimum Salaries Not Being Cut, Cameron Document Looks Good

The Cameron report on educational costs was discussed at the regular meeting of the Prince Rupert and District Teachers' Association this week and is being further studied by members subsequent to the meeting.

With respect to the widespread reports carried in the press and over the radio to the effect that teachers' minimum salaries were to be cut, it was pointed out that Cameron report did not call for the reduction of teacher's minimum salaries and that the reports to that effect were completely false.

What the Cameron report does do is to recommend a new system of making grants from the provincial government to local school boards. School boards have to pay certain specified salaries to qualify for these grants and the grant system proposed by the Cameron Commission at first study would seem to be a tremendous improvement over the old system because for the first time it would commit the provincial government to make a financial provision to cover the bulk of the cost of paying of a large number of increments by local boards.

The teachers were generally of the opinion that the Cameron report would make possible, when implemented, an urgently needed improvement in teachers' salaries.

The meeting discussed the Prince Rupert teachers' salary situation, and Secretary Bruce Mickleburgh was instructed to communicate with the school board asking for an appointment for the local salary committee. The treasurer, R. McLean, reported that $44 had been collected to date in aid of the Ford strikers at Windsor.

POSSIBILITIES OF MAINTAINING EMPLOYMENT AND POPULATION IN THIS CITY SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED

Maintaining of employment and population at Prince Rupert in the face of a temporary cut-back in the payroll at the local dry dock was the principal subject of concern at a general meeting in the city council chamber called last night by the Prince Rupert Industrial Development Committee. Various avenues of meeting what appeared to be a serious impending local situation were explored. The discussion covered a wide range of suggestions and several resolutions designed to be productive of some benefit were passed.

At the outset of the meeting, which was presided over by Mayor H. M. Dagggett, the latest correspondence in regard to the prospect of the dry dock being used by the Canadian National Railways for the building of its new ships was reviewed. This included a telegram sent to H. G. Archibald, M.P. for Skeena, requesting him to bring up on the floor of the House of Commons the matter of these contracts seeking definite information as to the intentions so that an exodus of dry dock workers and their families might be averted and the necessary staff of skilled men retained instead of letting them go and aggravating unemployment and housing situations elsewhere. Mr. Archibald's reply quoted a non-committal statement of Hon. Lionel Chevrier, minister of transport, to the effect that 620 persons were employed at the dry dock at November 24, that the number would be reduced to between 400 and 450 at the end of January and to 250 at the end of February, that the pre-war employment at the yard had been between 90 and 100 and that the management of the Canadian National Railways was preparing plans and designs on completion of which definite statements would be made.

Windsor Strike—Union Plan Approved

Now Depends Upon Company As to Further Progress of Formula
WINDSOR, Dec. 8 (P)—The union-sponsored plan for settlement of the Ford strike in Windsor has received the approval of the Ford Local 200, and has been unanimously approved by the plant stewards of the same local. The plan now goes to the Ford officials, and if the company approves, it then will go before a general union membership meeting. So far, there has been no indication of what the company's reaction to the plan will be.

PROVINCIAL BUILDING
VICTORIA—Premier John Hart announces that release of building controls by federal government will enable the province to embark on several building projects delayed by federal controls. The governing factor will now be the availability of materials, he said. He did not state any specific project but said he expected a University of British Columbia building program would proceed at an early date.

al facilities and local services were being emphasized. "I think," said W. M. Watts "that Prince Rupert will never develop fully until we obtain a substantial industry such as a pulp mill which will provide cargo for deep sea vessels. I am sold on the idea that a pulp mill will be established in Prince Rupert in reasonable time."

Weakness of Dry Dock Here
A feeling was expressed that the ownership and management of the dry dock constituted a weakness. There was the possibility of a large and permanent shipbuilding industry being established on this coast.

Another resolution proposed by the industrial development committee, passed by the meeting and designed along national lines proposed that other communities and organizations be contacted with a view to stimulating a permanent shipbuilding industry in Canada.

In the matter of the pulp mill project it was suggested that the city, the provincial government and the power company should be approached with a view to offering concessions in any concern interesting itself in the establishment of a pulp mill. It was left to the committee to proceed along these lines if it was deemed advisable.

Finally, there was a discussion of what was being done in the way of rehabilitation measures generally in Prince Rupert. Bruce Mickleburgh, for one, felt there was a shameful lack of interest.

The meeting, discussion at which was contributed to by J. S. Wilson, Harold Ponder, James Nicoll, J. S. Black, W. F. Stone, Alex Mackenzie, J. J. Mulrone, Bert Hanson, George Anderson, G. S. Weatherley and others, concluded with a vote of appreciation for the excellent work that was being carried out by the industrial development committee.

Auxiliary Fire Department

It is an interesting suggestion which the Fire Chief has made that an active and energetic organization of young men such as the ranks of the Kinsmen's Club comprise should essay the function of an auxiliary fire fighting department for the city to supplement the paid department in the event of an emergency. It does not require a great stretch of the imagination to picture what a valuable function such an auxiliary organization could perform in the event of a serious and extensive conflagration which might quite possibly break out in the city at any moment. Such a body of men, properly trained and adequately equipped, might be of inestimable service.

During the war years Prince Rupert has been admirably equipped with fire fighting forces which were ready to assist whenever required in the protection of the community as well as the military installations. Now that is gone and the city is on its own again.

As for equipment for a voluntary fire department, there is a very good nucleus in what the A.R.P. had and which, it is announced, is being retained in the city.

Suggestion to Santa Claus . . .

A rapid trip through the shops reveals that the first peacetime Christmas is going to be much the same as those of wartime as far as interesting gifts are concerned.

Santa Claus, in fact, has got himself tangled up in reconversion problems, and isn't having any more success in solving them than his mortal colleagues.

It is true that peace is in itself a sufficient gift, and we in Canada have little reason to complain if we compare our lot with that of our allies in the British Isles and on the Continent. We have our homes intact. Even rationing is not going to reduce the size of our Christmas dinners. The shortage of goods is merely emphasized by the Christmas shopping season and it will not mar the spirit of the day.

Yet the shortage, temporarily and of minor importance though it may be, is another indication that the transition from war to peace is still far from realization. The average citizen feels frustrated when he can't find what he wants to buy so he has a fellow-feeling with the producers and distributors whose desire to serve him is also frustrated.

The whole system of controls is the chief factor in producing the sense of national frustration. The citizen is no longer greatly frightened by the bogey of inflation, and is even ready to risk the danger of a general increase in the price level, provided the goods will again be available. Neither his conscience nor the preaching of Donald Gordon is going to restrain much longer his natural desire to spend his money.

The most welcome gift that Santa Claus could carry in his pack would be a date for a new D-Day. The "D" in this instance stands for Decontrol. On that date, perhaps next April or May, all wartime controls would automatically come to an end. Notice given on Christmas Day would give everybody time to adjust himself to the return of the old order.

Is the request too much? Think it over, Santa Claus!

LONDON SPEEDS WORK ON HUGE CIVIL AIRPORT

LONDON, Dec. 8 (Reuters) — London's newest and largest civil airport—the £4,000,000 project at Heath Row, 20 miles west of London—will be ready to take its first transatlantic passenger plane by next summer, British air experts predict.

Hundreds of workmen, engineers and technicians are today expanding and developing this former Royal Air Force station into a base which Mr. Ivor Thomas, Britain's Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Civil Aviation, predicts will be "equal to any airbase in the world."

One runway has already been completed. Work is proceeding steadily on three others which will be ready for use by European and trans-Atlantic passenger air liners next summer.

U.S. Workers Get Extended Holidays

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—President Truman has approved an adjustment of the holiday work-week to permit federal employees to have four days off at Christmas time and three days at New Year's. The White House said the President had asked all executive departments and agencies to establish administrative work weeks beginning December 24 and December 31. "For the employees whose work-week can be so arranged."

G.I.'S DUMP POISON GAS

KYOTO, Japan, Dec. 8.—Sixth Army troops racing against cold weather are destroying more than 3,500 tons of poison gas—enough to drench New York City—discovered on the small island of Okuna, 35 miles from Kure naval base.

It was estimated that it would take two months to dump all the containers filled with poison gas and ranging from 40-gallon drums to 90-ton vats in the ocean 5 miles from the nearest land.

Troops are trying to finish the job by December when cold weather will freeze some of the gasses—similar to mustard gas of World War I—making it impossible to clean up the two-square mile island before next summer.

Saturday Sermon INTERNATIONAL ORDER

By REV. R. A. WILSON
First United Church

"That the world through Him might be saved."—St. John 3:17

Industry has discovered the value of by-products. Nylon, for example, is one of the many valuable by-products of wood. My subject today is one of the by-products of the Christian faith, namely International Order. International Order is not a central matter in Christianity but the Christian religion has made and will make a great contribution to it. Christianity will further the world order by enlarging man's sense of his neighborhood.

The world's most urgent need is for order between the nations. Yet at the present time there is no effective international law at all. Some say that the reason for the failure of international law is that it has no "sanction"—that is, no police force to enforce its decrees. This is a secondary consideration. The real reason for the failure of international law is that there is no community in which it can function. Now, a community is a group of people held together by a sense of togetherness. Such a sense of togetherness or interdependence is the basis of law. Without that sense the law is merely a command such as a dictator might give. Within the democracies that sense of community has been built up slowly and with difficulty. The present imperative need for international order demands a new extension of genuine neighborliness between nations.

A noted American teacher, who was not himself a partisan of Christianity, once said that the two greatest stimulants to world progress were trade and Christianity. Both compel a man to take the other person's point of view. The producer, for example, produces goods which he does not want himself but which are wanted by others and thus his community is extended. The Christian comes under an inner constraint to love his neighbor as himself. It is true that there are some glaring exceptions to this truth in the history of trade but, wherever men have been true to Christ, they have taken His attitude of neighborliness toward their fellow men. Jesus looked at the crowds and was moved with compassion for them. St. Paul heard the man of Macedonia saying: "Come over and help us" and he went. So the story goes through the ages. It still goes on and it must go on with increased strength if we are ever to establish that sense of community and responsibility between nations which is the sole hope of enduring peace.

Mrs. J. Krikevsky was cashier. In charge of the various booths were the following ladies: Fancywork—Mrs. D. Santurbane, Mrs. E. Clapp and Mrs. T. Petroff.

Cardena Wears Peacetime Color

The peacetime atmosphere along the coast was bolstered today with the return of the Union steamship Cardena to her regular run garbed in a coat of fresh paint in pre-war colors. Fresh out of dry dock after her annual overhaul, the steamer Cardena, Capt. A. C. McLennan, arrived in Prince Rupert this morning proudly wearing her company colors after throwing off the anonymity bestowed by her six-year old coat of wartime gray. Old friends of the Cardena gladly greeted her as she returned to the harbor after three weeks absence—once more familiar in her black suit, white upper work and orange and black funnel. While she was in dry dock, the Cardena's run was taken over by the Venture. The Cardena arrived at 1:30 a.m. and sailed south on her return later in the morning.

George Anderson Reports On International Fisheries Commission Conference—Hair Seal Proving Valuable.

While results of the conference between representatives of the fishing industry and the International Fisheries Commission at Seattle last week cannot be gauged at this early date, the meetings did indicate a fairly clear division of opinion between members of the halibut fishery and the bottom trawlers, according to George Anderson, delegate of the Prince Rupert Deep Sea Fishermen's Union. Mr. Anderson returned Wednesday from the south. At the conference were some 75 representatives of fishermen's organizations and fish products dealers who presented their views to the International Commission. Prime concern of the halibut men was the extension of authority of the Commission to give it jurisdiction over all types of coastal fisheries, with particular regard to regulation of beam trawling activities, which halibut men fear is causing damage to the halibut grounds. Mr. Anderson said that a proposal made by him to trawlers' representatives that scientific information in regard to both types of fisheries be pooled under authority of, and for use of the International Commission received an indifferent reception after trawlers' delegates had said that independent scientific research sponsored by them had been under way for some time.

Following the general conference, the fish products dealers conferred with the Commission, and it is on the results of the representations of all groups that the Commission's actions will depend, Mr. Anderson feels. He is firmly convinced that the future welfare of the west coast fishing industry will depend largely on the extension of the authority of the International Fisheries Commission to cover all types of fishery, instead of just the halibut industry as is now the case.

Union steamer Cassiar arrived in port here this morning from Vancouver and left again at noon for Masset and Port Clements. She will return Sunday, then leave for Vancouver by way of the south Islands.

A sure sign that the fishing season is closed is seen in the hordes of gulls and crows which are haunting the city and waterfront with their "silver cries." After having spent the summer around the canneries and fishing camps, they have now returned to winter in the city.

Skins of the hair seal, once considered worthless, now have a market value considerably above the bounty value of $5 a seal, paid by the Dominion government. Bounties have been paid this year in British Columbia for 1,500 seals. Market for the skins is in Alaska and Yukon where Indians make them into parkas, moccasins and fur clothing, both for their own and tourist consumption. Black and silver furs have a higher market value than yellow ones. Baby and unborn seals are also in demand.

CHRISTMAS IN BRITAIN

London Stores Have Few Presents Not Made of Wood or Paper for Shoppers

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)— Britain's first peacetime Christmas in six years will be a wooden and paper one.

Toys, trays, and book-ends of wood are about all crowds thronging through London stores can find to fill their Christmas lists.

And for tree trimmings—scraps of colored paper and white or yellow candles.

Since housewives know that sparsely filled shelves are bound to empty quickly, Christmas shopping started early. Most of the stores made some effort to decorate. One has bits of red and green paper around pillars. Another, one of the more exclusive, has found scrubby little trees to set up in its toy department. Their branches have clearly borne the joys of more than one past Christmas.

Few War Toys—Mostly Wooden

Toys consist of wooden trucks, carts, animals, blocks and little alphabet games. There are plenty of model airplanes for lads with their hearts on the skies, but there are few model tanks, soldier dolls or other reminders of grim days.

There are no mechanical toys and very little sports equipment. Electric trains, roller skates or bicycles are out of the question.

For young ladies of two to 12, there are pink and black-faced dolls of cotton. Though none have delicate porcelain noses or real golden curls, they are undoubtedly just as lovable companions.

Prices are fabulously high. A tiny puff of cotton that looks like a cat is $3. Crepe paper hats—the kind that used to cost five or 10 cents each—are 50 to 75 cents.

Clothes are impossible to think of as Christmas gifts. They all take coupons, which are precious to threadbare Britons. The joking gift-giver can find a few fancy gee-gaws that should make for merriment on December 25, however. Pink and white lace garters or daring red satin ones are on sale for about $1.50.

Housewives are already collecting staple rations for Christmas dinner, but there will be very few turkeys or chickens.

Whisky and gin is likely to be just as hard to ferret out as yuletide as it is now. But Britain is planning on a merry, peaceful Christmas.

BETTING AT RACE TRACKS

Over $42,000,000 Was Wagered
In Canada During Year 1945

During the 1945 horse racing season in Canada a total of $42,193,258 was wagered through the pari-mutuel machines. This was $5,125,059 more than was wagered in 1944 and the largest amount bet since the record amount of $45,580,845 in 1929.

In 1945, the Dominion Department of Agriculture supervised pari-mutuel betting at the tracks of 26 racing associations, which held 35 race meetings for a total of 307 days' racing, nine more days than there was racing in 1944. Trotting or harness racing do not come under the supervision of the department.

Supervised horse racing is held in six provinces. Ontario, with 98 days' racing accounted for a total of $25,907,764 wagered, at which $17,459,110 was clicked through the windows at four tracks in Toronto with 55 days' racing. Hamilton, Fort Erie, Niagara Falls and Ottawa absorbed the balance of $8,448,654. British Columbia wagered $6,859,334 during four tracks. About 80 per cent of the 56 days the horses ran of the total was bet at three tracks in Vancouver in 42 days, and the remainder at one track in Victoria which had 14 day's racing.

In Manitoba $3,869,183 was wagered in 28 days at two tracks in Winnipeg.

Money wagered in Alberta totaled $2,667,823 in 39 days, 19 at Edmonton, 19 at Calgary and one at Claresholm where a one day meet rang up $1,279 in bets.

In 70 days racing in Quebec $2,179,529 was rung up in the pari-mutuels at four tracks in Montreal.

The largest amount wagered at one meet was $2,419,059 at the spring meeting at Woodbine Park, Toronto.

During the 1945 season, $1,588,345 was paid in prize money to the owners of winning horses.

Government Takes Big Cut
The Dominion Government takes five per cent of every dollar wagered on race tracks, the provincial government takes five to 10 per cent—five in Alberta and Saskatchewan, five and one-half in Quebec, seven in British Columbia and 10 per cent in Ontario and Manitoba. The racing association takes seven per cent on the first $20,000 bet on each race, and one per cent less as the total bets advance by $10,000, with the minimum at three per cent.

SCHEDULE FOR LADIES' BOWLS

National Hockey League clubs participated in two exhibition games Thursday night. In Lachine, Quebec, the Montreal Canadiens trounced the Lachine Rapids 18-6. In Saint Hyacinthe, Lestear Patrick's New York Rangers tumbled the Saints 10-1. Both the Rapids and the Saints are members of the Provincial Senior Hockey League.

In a scheduled Quebec League encounter in Sherbrooke, the Victoriaville Stars defeated the Sherbrooke Randies 5-2 and advanced into a second place tie with the Saint Hyacinthe Saints. Nine points ahead, and leading the league, the Lachine Rapids.

The baseball congress, meeting in Columbus, Ohio, has approved a $150,000 budget to develop non-professional baseball in 1946. Half of the expenditure is earmarked for the promotion of town and industrial baseball. Other congress plans include publishing of 500,000 free rule books, the formation of a minimum of 200 leagues, the awarding of 550 trophies to recognized league and tournament champions, free instruction to three thousand members of the National Association of Non-Professional Umpires and the creation of a minimum of 300 district tourneys to qualify teams in 48 state championship meets. These will precede the twelfth annual national finals which will be held at Wichita, Kansas, on August 16 to 28.

of the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament yesterday, the old Iron Master—Henry Picard—took a one-stroke lead over the defending champion, Dutch Harrison. Picard, playing his first tourney after a six-month layoff, scored a three under par 67 yesterday for a total card of 136. Harrison's 68 yesterday gave him a 36-hole total of 137. The pre-tourney favorite, Ben Hogan, is tied with Orville White. Jug McSpaden, Fred Annon and Jim Ferrier at 140.

In Truro, Nova Scotia, last night, the Pictou Refitters swamped the New Glasgow Bombers 13-3 in the second game of the Antigonish-Pictou-Colchester pre-season series for the Memorial Cup.

Three major discoveries in the single year of 1932 made most present-day atom-splitting development possible. The discoveries were the neutron, positron and heavy hydrogen.
The Zoroastrians of ancient Persia built their temples around natural gas vents in what is now the Baku oil fields, and thus obtained the eternal fires which they worshipped.
