ONE OF ATLANTIC'S WORST COLLISION TRAGEDIES—Submarines had no part in this fire, although the tanker was a victim of the Battle of the Atlantic. She was burned after a collision at sea, an ever-present wartime danger of darkness, fog, storm and the necessary absence of navigation lights and signals. Apart from sinkings by the enemy, this was one of the worst Atlantic tragedies. Her gasoline caught fire after the collision, burning up the deckload of tighter aircraft. When the fire died down, the tanker, 19 bodies and a few survivors were brought in to Bay Bulls harbor in Newfoundland. But the gasoline and the aircraft were lost. The time: 1942, when every aircraft and shipload of gasoline was worth more than its weight in human lives.

Looks Like Canada Packers' Strike May End-Work May Resume Thursday

TORONTO, July 31 (P-The already widespread strike of members of the United Packing House Workers of America today threatens to expand beyond the branches of Canada Packers

There seems some hope that the original strike in the five Toronto plants of Canada Packers may be settled shortly but the Saskatoon plant of Inter-Continental Pork Packers Limited will go on strike on Thursday if no settlement has been reached by that date.

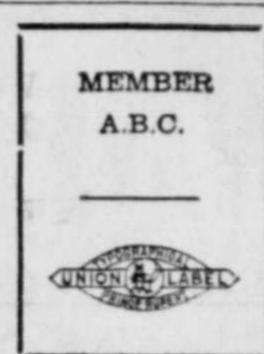

Besides Toronto, there are single plants of Canada Packers strikebound in Winnipeg, Edmonton, Vancouver, and Peterborough.

A union-sponsored arbitration proposal has been accepted by Canada Packers President J. S. McLean. Renewed negotiations are expected to begin today and the men may be all back to work by Thursday.

British Railway Strike . . .

The new labor government of Britain runs into the threat of a general strike of railway workers as one of its first purely domestic problems. A crisis arising from such a strike might have some complications, particularly in view of the fact that nationalization of the railways is one of the major pledged plans of the new government. The appeal of the president of the National Union of Railwaymen to "play the game" and stay on the job during negotiations with the companies would indicate that a strike at this time would be neither unanimous or authorized.

Possibly the workers who staged the walk-out at the week-end were overly impatient. With Union heads urging the railway workers to control themselves and the labor government having at least some say and influence in connection with the negotiations either directly or indirectly, there should be little danger of a general strike being precipitated and a partial or abortive strike would not help the cause of the workers as their union president suggests.

British Columbia Strikes . .

Meantime, British Columbia appears to be having its strike troubles. Meat packers at Vancouver have gone out in sympathy with those of the Canada Packers in Toronto, whose strike has also been joined by the company's workers at Peterborough, Winnipeg and Edmonton.

A meat packers' strike might easily paralyze the distribution of meat in short order.

Serious also at this particular time when vegetables, fruit, fish, etc., are in season would be a tie-up of canning plants which might be an early sequel to the strike of American Can Co. employees. Certainly, the strike would have no sympathy with the public which often neither knows nor cares much about the actual matters in dispute.

LAUREL-HARDY COMEDY HERE

Servant problems of today, blended with a bit of European intrigue and governments in the latest Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy comedy "Nothing But Trouble," due this Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre. The antics of the comical pair blend laughs with a little tense drama, which, however, ends in hilarity.

Comedy highlights include the mad gcramble of wealthy folk in an employment agency, trying to get servants, and the nearkidnapping of Laurel and Hardy by Mary Boland, as one of the frantic servant-hunters, the ludicrous attempt of the two to be chef and butler, their cooking mishaps, their comical adventure with a lion, a hilarious corner lot football game and a usually comic climax.

Intermingled with the laughs is a plot against a little exiled king, an evil uncle who tries to do away with him to usurp his throne "after the duration," and the part the comedians, who become his friends, unwittingly play in effecting the rescue.
