

No Japanese Submarine or Surface Vessel Was Ever Sighted Near Prince Rupert

... of Closely Guarded Port Is... Only Shots Were on U... Vessels—Harbor Completely

(By C. W. Carney)

No Japanese submarine or surface vessel was ever sighted near Prince Rupert during the war, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, although warning shells were fired at ships which neglected to identify themselves, it was revealed by Royal Canadian Navy officials here.

Following yesterday's announcement of the closing down of the Prince Rupert naval base, which at one time had a maximum personnel of 1,250, Lieutenant-Commander F. N. Eddy, R.C.N. naval control service officer, made public, when interviewed by The Daily News, some hitherto closely-guarded secrets concerning harbor defences.

Occasionally boats tried to proceed into port without reporting to the R.C.N. Examining Vessel and, when this was tried, the examining officer communicated with Royal Canadian Artillery batteries ashore who fired warning shells across the ship's bow.

After this subtle reminder that the war was still on, the ship would, without fail, turn about and report to the Examining Vessel. However, when the ship docked her skipper would be summoned to appear before the naval control officer to account for his action, and later owners of the vessel had to report for the shells that were fired at their boat.

The boom defence at the entrance to the harbor consisted of steel anti-submarine nets strung at the Prince Rupert Dry Dock, stretched between two gate vessels. The net was one of the deepest used in harbor defences and this was necessary due to the great depth of water at that point.

With the placing of obstructions in Metlakatla Passage the harbor was completely sealed off, except for a small opening at one end of the boom to permit fishing boats to pass through. The water was too shallow at that end for submarines to navigate.

After the outbreak of war, Commander G. Borrie, Victoria, was appointed naval officer-in-charge here although at that time all there was to take charge of was the R.C.N. building on the waterfront, now used as a supply warehouse. Lieut. Commander (then Lieutenant) Come Stuart had been officer commanding temporarily before Borrie's arrival.

Commander Borrie was succeeded by Commander A. H. Bell, former Vancouver harbor master, and later a barracks was built on Second Ave. followed by the erection of an Officers' Wardroom and a Chiefs and Petty Officers' Mess.

In January 1943 Commander C. Wallace, Pictou, N.S., became naval officer-in-charge and in July of that year the Naval Drill Hall, which has figured so prominently in the services entertainments since, was opened.

Commander C. M. Cree, R.C.N., Quebec, New Mexico, came out of retirement to take over from Commander Wallace in September, 1943, and in the same month a building of four dormitories capable of accommodating 600 ratings was erected between the main barracks and the drill hall.

In October of 1944 Commander A. Wood, Duncan, succeeded Commander Cree and is still the Naval officer-in-charge, Prince Rupert.

The Navy establishment, in addition to the buildings mentioned, comprises a modern and well-equipped garage on Second Ave., a structure for the shore patrol office and mess, regulating office building, administration building and annex, and one of the finest canteens erected for servicemen in Prince Rupert, adjacent to the drill hall. Fishermen's Reserve Naval officials have given

Navy Band Was Morale Builder

A notable contribution was made to the morale of services and civilians alike by the H.M.C.S. Catham band. The organization arrived in July, 1943, and its first bandmaster was Chief Petty Officer S. E. Sutherland, who was later succeeded by Petty Officer Guy Noakes. Chief Petty Officer H. Sainsbury is the musical director at present.

During its stay here the band played a series of radio broadcasts over CEPR and in addition to its own concerts at the Naval Drill Hall it took part in each Victory Loan program at the Capitol. Each Victory Loan campaign found the band doing several parades.

The Navy dance band has been extremely popular. Its first leader, Bandsman George Ariss is now serving on the cruiser "Ontario" and Petty Officer Noakes directed it for a time but, for the past year, Bandsman Frank Dutton has led the orchestra and has done valuable work in the training of the combination.

Navy has had an enviable record in athletic competition in Prince Rupert. H.M.C.S. Catham won the Floor Hockey League championship last winter and also annexed the Canadian Armed Forces basketball title.

Navy Men Were Active in Sports... The sailors won the Area Soccer championship in 1944 and its softball club advanced to the semi-finals of the Senior Softball League the same year before being eliminated.

The Navy and Prince Rupert

If Prince Rupert was a base of such vital importance in war, it seems almost inconceivable that it should be abandoned in the permanent scheme of things for naval defence of these coasts.

The official announcement of the almost immediate closing out of H.M. C.S. Chatham comes as a surprise indeed for it had been the general and seemingly reasonable expectation that a permanent naval establishment would be maintained at this highly strategic point.

From present appearances it would seem the authorities are going hog-wild in the matter of sudden disarmament. Even from internal economic standpoint, it might have seemed advisable to have had a more gradual process.

Years before the war in Europe began, before there was any serious thought that we might face grave danger from an enemy such as we did in 1942, the advisability of establishing a naval base at Prince Rupert had been advocated.

Now the base and facilities are already here, it is incredible that there should be a complete closing down such as appears imminent.

We had certainly not expected that this would be one of the sequels of war's end.

It is obvious that we have sound ground for making representations to the effect that Prince Rupert, possibly above all other ports on the Canadian Pacific coast, should be the site of a permanent naval establishment.

Supports Pattullo Argument

One of the financial authorities of the British Columbia cabinet has made the first public comment by any member of that government on the proposal at the recent Dominion-provincial conference at Ottawa that the Dominion government be given full rights to all income and corporation taxes and in return give provincial governments annual social services grants and other benefits.

Taking ground similar to that which has been persistently advocated by T. D. Pattullo, former Premier and Prince Rupert's member, Municipal Affairs Minister Herbert Anscomb, speaking at a banquet at the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, said that the provincial government is not in any position to give up her right to income taxes "for any consideration." Mr. Anscomb said the provincial government is not in a position to continue without getting back the right to collect the bulk of taxes levied in the province. He contended that last year the Dominion government took $146,000,000 out of British Columbia in taxes and "all we got back was $12,000,000. I say that now we need a greater part of these taxes if we are going to develop our resources and give our people a better standard of living."

All of which is indeed reminding of the Pattullo preachings ever since the abortive Sirois report conference.

Beware of Rackets . . .

Racketeers are out to prey on returning servicemen and the danger from people of this type is liable to increase during the coming months. To a man newly returned from service to his country and anxious to get into the civilian stream as soon as possible, the voice of these racketeers can sound very sweet. The Department of Veterans Affairs, on the alert to protect the interests of returning men and women, has issued a warning about the activities of these racketeers. The government may be on its toes to see that racketeers are squashed . . . but it is also up to the veteran and the citizenry at large to assist in the work.

We Shall Miss the Boys . . .

As we do the Americans, we shall also regret to see our own boys of navy, army and air force move out as many are already commencing to do. We had become very used to them and it is only now that they are leaving that we realize how close they had come to us in our daily lives.

We have had a great many men of the services here these last five years or so. They might have been at times rather trying to us but, looking back, we cannot but admit that they were all a pretty good lot whom, possibly, we did not fully understand and appreciate while they were here.

Nevertheless, we shall remember them all fondly and although they may soon be removed from us by long distances, there will remain the memories or happy associations during the stirring days of war.

NORTH ROADS AS GOOD AS DOWN SOUTH

Comparison of the Prince Rupert Highway with gravel surfaced roads in the south of the province is definitely favorable to the northern highway, T. N. Youngs commented after returning from a vacation motor trip during which he drove several thousand miles between Prince Rupert, Vancouver and Victoria. Accompanied by Mrs. Youngs and their son Norton Jr., Mr. Youngs also visited centres in the Okanagan.

"Our highway to Prince George is far better than some of the gravel roads in the Okanagan district," he said. "It is better engineered and has a smoother surface."

The highway between Penticton and Princeton is particularly rough, Mr. Youngs commented and the stretch between Princeton and Merritt is narrow and winding.

"It took us longer to drive the 59 miles from Princeton to Merritt than it takes an ordinarily careful driver to go from Prince Rupert to Terrace," he said.

However, some of the stretches on the eastern sections of the Prince Rupert Highway should be cleared of trees which in many places grow so close to the road as to overshadow it.

Mr. Youngs did not think that there was any immediate opportunity of getting a hard surface on the Prince Rupert Highway but agreed that it would be a good policy to press for a blacktop surface between Prince Rupert and Terrace.

"There would have to be considerable work done to protect the sides of certain portions of it from erosion but a blacktop surface to Terrace would be a fine thing for both places," he declared.

CAPT. HALL IS HONORED

Officers of First Reserve Battalion, Prince Rupert Regiment, Machine Gun, gathered Thursday evening in their mess at the Armory to pay farewell honor to Capt. J. R. Hall, training officer of the unit for over two years, who is leaving tonight for his home in Victoria. Capt. Hall, who is about to be discharged from the Army, was presented with a handsome leather club bag. The presentation was made by Capt. A. W. Burnip who spoke regretfully of Capt. Hall's departure, paying tribute to the part he had played in the important work of training as a result of which the unit had achieved a high place of efficiency. In replying, Capt. Hall suggested the possibility of his returning to Prince Rupert to take up permanent residence in civilian capacity. The commanding officer, Major C. J. Toombs, also spoke appropriately to the occasion.

Another interesting incident at Thursday night's gathering of officers was the presentation of certificates of qualification to Major C. J. Toombs, Captains W. R. McAfee, T. W. Brown, A. Ostaschower, T. N. Youngs, W. D. MacKay and J. A. Teng and Lieutenants A. S. Nickerson, Edward Garner and W. J. Scott.

OFFICER OF ARMY WEDS

Miss Margaret Percival is Bride of Lieut. Robert M. Stuart

A popular local military officer and a civilian employee of the United States Army here were principals in a pretty wedding in St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral Wednesday evening where Rev. James B. Gibson, Bishop of Caledonia, united in marriage Lieut. Robert M. Stuart, R.C.E.M.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Stuart of Bracebridge, Ont., and Miss Margaret S. Percival, daughter of Mrs. Ernest Percival of Toronto. It was the first marriage of a Canadian Army officer in Prince Rupert.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Lieut. Greenough of the United States Army, wore a pale blue figured dress with dark brown accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of roses and white gladioli. Her bridesmaid was Miss Peggy Saunders, also of the United States Army employ, who wore a brown and aqua blue dress with brown accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of tallisman roses and yellow gladioli.

Capt. John R. Hall of the Prince Rupert Regiment was groomsmen.

Following the Cathedral ceremony, a reception was held at officers' mess of Prince Rupert Defences where Lieut. Col. Richmond was the host. Suitable toasts were observed and refreshments were served.

Lieut. and Mrs. Stuart are taking up residence in Prince Rupert.

SHORT SPORT

It now appears that the Kinsmen's Club is going to sponsor an entry in the Prince Rupert Women's Basketball League this season. The club has expressed itself as interested in backing a team if a league is operated and it will be very strange if a circuit is not operated since there were around 40 civilian girls alone playing basketball here last season. The Kinsmen have asked for more information about the team and this will probably be provided at the club's next meeting by a delegate from the squad.

The Bo-Me-Hi girls' team is scheduled to start practices soon and will doubtless enter the Women's Basketball League. There'll be ample opportunity for new players to come up with the Booth team this year since there is only one mainstay from last season's quintet, June Berg, the guard.

SOFTBALL GIRLS FAREWELL PARTY

A farewell dinner dance and banquet was held last night in the Commodore Cafe in honor of two of the girls' softball teams of Prince Rupert—the C.W.A.C.'s and the Allies.

Captains of the clubs, Margaret Morgan of the Allies and "Bea" Scott of the C.W.A.C. proposed toasts to the guests present. Each of the girls paid glowing tribute to the members of the opposing teams for their spirit and co-operation.

Rube Sher, coach of the C.W.A.C.'s, acted as master of ceremonies.

Guests included the following: John Cross, New York City; Jean Sadaway, Delhi, Alta.; Mervin Willoughby, California; Margaret Morgan, Peace River; Herbert W. Bandy, Los Angeles; Helen Wright, Vancouver; Lois McLeod, Edmonton; J. C. Lemski, Vancouver; L. M. "Maffie" McKnight, Bannock, Sask.; M. H. LOOKING OVER BALL LEAGUES

Lefty Hal Newhouse came off the Detroit Tigers' sick list yesterday to pitch the league leaders to a 5-0 victory over the New York Yankees. It was Newhouse's sixth shut-out and his twenty-second victory of the year. The second place Washington Senators eked out a 3-2 win over the St. Louis Browns while the Boston Red Sox shaded the Cleveland Indians 1-0. The Philadelphia Athletics swept a double-header from the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 9-2.

In the National League, the New York Giants downed the Chicago Cubs 2-0 while at Pittsburgh the Brooklyn Dodgers took the measure of the Pirates 3-2. The Philadelphia Phillies and the Cincinnati Reds split a twin bill as the Reds took the first game 6-2 but lost out 8-6 in the nightcap. The St. Louis Cardinals shut out the Boston Braves 4-0.

In the International loop, the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Buffalo Bisons 8-6 while the Montreal Royals walloped the Rochester Red Wings 14-9. The Syracuse Chiefs belted the Jersey City Giants 12-4 and the Newark Bears trimmed the Baltimore Orioles in both ends of a double-header 3-1 and 13-9.
