Army of Attack Exceeds Normandy Operations' Most Intense Phase

Churchill Declares Decisive Victory In Europe Is Now Near

"Adventure For Freedom of Mankind" British, Canadian and American Forces

LONDON, March 24 (CP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a message to Field Marshal Montgomery's armies today, said "a decisive victory in Europe will be near" once the Rhine River line is broken and the crust of German resistance is broken.

Churchill, who was at Montgomery's headquarters when the Rhine offensive began, said "British soldiers will long be told how, with our Canadian brothers and valiant United States allies, this superb task was accomplished."

He described it as "a noble adventure for the freedom of mankind."

LOG CAMPS CLOSE DOWN

Manpower Situation Having Serious Effect Upon Industry—Mills Also Feel It

VANCOUVER, March 24 (CP)—Complete or partial shutdown in British Columbia logging camps within two or three months will be forced unless the worst manpower situation in three years is relieved, operators reported yesterday. John Burke, secretary of the British Columbia Loggers' Association, said more than 50 percent of the cold deck machines in camps were idle for lack of crews.

In addition, a critical lumber shortage is threatening delay of home building as sawmills begin closing down operations owing to unprecedented log shortage. Bad weather conditions during past months have harassed tug-boat movements along the coast.

U.S. INFANTRYMEN ADVANCE INTO SMOKE OF BATTLE AS YANKS REACH RHINE—Infantrymen of the U.S. First Army, driving towards Cologne and the Rhine, approach a cloud of smoke from a shell-hit building in Merssenich, Germany, as they advance through the blasted village. The First Army is reported fighting in the outer defences of the great cathedral city as the big push to the Rhine continues to make progress all along the Allied line, with reports that patrols have already crossed the river.

CCF Stand Reaffirmed

John McInnis of Prince George Speaker Here Last Night

The present Japanese situation in Canada is not a C.C.F. problem but one which has been inherited by the government from its own Liberal predecessors, John McInnis of Prince George said in a speech in the C.C.F. Hall last night. He outlined the history of oriental immigration into Canada after summarizing the development of the capitalistic system which he said must be replaced by planned socialism.

"We didn't create the Jap situation," he declared. "And, although I do not like Japs, I feel that the C.C.F. should stick by its belief that there shall be no discrimination on grounds of race, creed or color."

"In Canada, where we have a cosmopolitan population, if we can deport one citizen on racial grounds, we can deport them all. Deportation on racial grounds is illegal and no court in Canada would uphold such a move."

The Prince George man said that in 1906 the McBride government in this province had passed an act in the legislature designed to regulate the inflow of orientals by requiring that they pass tests written in English or some other European language.

"The bill was disallowed twice by the federal government and, when the legislature persisted in passing it a third time, it was vetoed by the lieutenant-governor," he said. "Later the Liberal government made a 'gentleman's agreement' with Japan which allowed 500 Japs to enter Canada each year."

"When the Japs attacked China the people who are so strongly against Japanese Canadians should have done something about it. They were in power but, instead, they accommodated the Japs by shipping them scrap iron."

Introducing himself as a student of Marx and other great economists, Mr. McInnis told his audience that the development of capitalism had reached a point where free enterprise is doomed.

"Capitalism functioned agreeably in its earlier years because there were always expanding markets and a large pool of cheap labor available," he declared. "However, technological developments have made it in recent years so that existing industrial facilities will be able

Raid On Jap Naval Base

SAN FRANCISCO—In the Pacific war, the latest word comes from the enemy. Admiral Nimitz has not confirmed enemy broadcasts telling of a giant carrier plane raid on the Okinawa naval base. It is in the Ryukyuu group, lying between the home islands of Japan and Formosa. The Japanese declare that the attacks were made Thursday and Friday.

More "V" Bomb Attacks

LONDON—The people of Britain have been warned by their Home Secretary, Herbert Morrison, that v-bomb attacks on the United Kingdom may increase. Speaking to a luncheon of Middlesex County air raid wardens, Mr. Morrison said, "as long as the war in Europe continues, the Germans will not relax their efforts. I know that they will not slacken now that they are in the last lap."

"The reciprocal nature of foreign trade would make it necessary for Canada to underwrite her own purchases in foreign markets which would result in Canadian capital assisting in the creation of foreign industries which would later compete with Canadian industry, he asserted.

"The need of Canada was for long term national planning in a manner such as had enabled New Zealand to achieve economic stability, he assured his audience.

Nick Birg was chairman of the meeting.

Officers Drowned

Lost Lives at Langara Island White Going Ashore in Dinghy Which Capsized

Two ground officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force from Seal Cove station, Prince Rupert, were drowned at Langara Island, Queen Charlottes, at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. One body has been recovered. The other was swept away in stormy seas.

The two officers, whose names are not revealed pending confirmation of advice being received by next of kin, had left Prince Rupert by aircraft Friday morning for Massett whence they proceeded to Langara aboard the motor vessel Stewart.

They were going ashore at Langara from the Stewart in a dinghy which capsized, the two officers and three airmen being thrown into the rough seas. The three airmen managed to struggle ashore and the body of one of the officers was carried to the rocks whence it was soon recovered within a few minutes by men on shore. Artificial respiration was applied for four hours but without success.

The body of the drowned officer is still at Langara awaiting transport to Prince Rupert.

PROROGATION BY WEDNESDAY

Session Nearing End—Pattullo Objects to Powers Given Minister in Highway Act

VICTORIA, March 24 (CP)—Premier John Hart indicated in the Legislature yesterday that he was aiming towards prorogation next Wednesday. He told Harold Winch, C.C.F. leader, that, if the business was not completed Monday, the sitting would continue Tuesday and, if not finished then, could go no further.

During the session the Legislature gave third reading to 14 bills, passed eight through second reading and advanced four in committee stage.

The Highway Act amendment, piloted by Hon. Herbert Anscomb, minister of public works, was held over when T. D. Pattullo, Prince Rupert, said it was too wide, that it gave the minister "power to go anywhere and do anything he likes," without the approval of the lieutenant-governor in council.

Montgomery's Men Are Spearhead of the Newest Assault On Germany

"H" Hour Strikes at Dawn for What May Be Decisive Battle On Western Front—Canadians Playing Prominent Part

(By Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent)

WITH BRITISH FORCES ON THE RHINE, March 24 (CP)—Along a broad front north of the Ruhr, British, American and Canadian troops stormed across the Rhine today to assault the gateway to the north German plain. The attack of ground troops was followed dramatically by a tremendous airborne landing behind the river line in a thundering climax to the western front campaign.

Bridgeheads were established rapidly by British and American assault infantry in a moonlight crossing during the night.

Scottish troops of the British Second Army won a bridgehead at Rees while British commandos entered Wesel, across the Rhine from Xanten, which was captured by the First Canadian Army in the closing hours of the army's offensive which ended March 10. Rees is ten miles down the river from Wesel.

The Highland Light Infantry Regiment of Galt, Ontario, was the first Canadian regiment over the Rhine, crossing shortly after dawn into the Rees bridgehead. For concentrated fury of attack, the Rhine crossing operation eclipsed the Normandy landings.

LONDON, March 24, (CP)—The big new push is on. Tremendous Allied armies have crossed the lower Rhine. They made the new Rhine crossing in assault boats and with airborne landing north of the Ruhr. The crossings were made on a broad front by Allied forces of Field Marshal Montgomery's Twenty-first Army group. The airborne landings were made by troops of Lieut. General Brereton's First Allied Airborne Army. The Twenty-first Army group is believed to include the First Canadian Army under General Crerar, the British Second Army under Lieut. General Dempsey and the United States Ninth Army under Lieut. General Simpson.

For Field Marshal Montgomery the clock struck for H-hour and his greatest battle since El Alamein. He had three armies standing along the banks of the Rhine from Arnhem to Dueseldorf. They were waiting for the signal to plunge across the last big water barrier on the open road to Berlin. Front dispatches said the men were confidently prepared to finish quickly the job they started in Normandy on the sixth of June.

British, Canadian, and American fighting men stood watch on a 65-mile front, with the enemy nervously wondering just where the blow would fall.

Reuters News Agency reported in London this morning that a German broadcast said a big Allied offensive had begun over the Lower Rhine.

"Monty's" crossing of the Rhine is the third. The American First Army's Remagen bridgehead has been stretched to thirty-three miles.

To the south, an American Third Army dash across the river has established a firm bridgehead. The enemy account of the Third Army landing said it was made at Oppenheim, which is roughly between Mainz and Ludwigshafen.

The Third Army sprang across the river Thursday night and completely shocked the Germans. They were so taken back that not a shot was fired for twenty minutes and it was two hours before any Nazi big guns barked.

Enemy reports early today said that General Patton's American Army had crossed the Rhine River at two points between Mainz and Ludwigshafen and that the First, British Second and American Ninth were also crossing at the northern end of the line.

This report followed an earlier statement by Berlin that Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery seemed to be ready for a grand scale crossing of the lower Rhine on a smoke-shrouded 65-mile Twenty-first Army group front from Dueseldorf to Arnhem where German targets were blasted by massed artillery and bombers.

While enemy reports were saying that assault crossings had already been started, Allied supreme headquarters at first maintained silence. Front line correspondents were cramped by security regulations.

The American Third Army, along the upper Rhine to the south, captured Mainz, with a population of 160,000, and Landau, fortified Palatinate road centre.

The Bombing of Japan . . .

Some four years ago when the first foreign planes flew over Japan, they dropped propaganda leaflets to the Japanese people, pointing out to them the folly of war and the cruelty of their sons and brothers in the battle on the Asiatic mainland. The planes were Chinese and the fact that they carried leaflets instead of bombs was noted widely in the world's press though none rose to declare that the action would in any way hasten victory as would have a broadside of blockbusters.

Today the military bombing of Japan has become a reality and the world now leans back and asks itself how and how long the Japanese can take it. This is a fair question and though even the military don't know the answer, some factors are clear to anyone.

In the first place, Japan is in a different situation from Germany when the Allies began bombing the Reich in force. Germany had air superiority, she had the advantage of poisoning the threat of invasion on Britain, whence came the bombs at her vitals, so part of the RAF had to stand by for possible defense action Japan has no visible air cover and her anti-aircraft firing is ineffective.

In the second place, two things have been demonstrated by air power in this war. One is that airplanes do not occupy territory or even break civilian morale. Fear of the latter was the dominant line of thinking done before this war by the so-called military experts. The second is that air power can forestall amphibious invasion. It was air power that saved Britain from German occupation. Knowing this, it is probable the Japs are saving part of their dwindling air force for the expected Allied landing attempt.

These things being true, the next factor is to know at what time the Allies concentrate enough air, sea and land power at any one point to make a landing in Japan. And if such a concentration cannot be made soon, then certainly the thing to do is to go where the enemy has his main army, China, and there to battle with him.

Seizure of Japan will not be like invasion of Germany, either. The Japanese "mainland" consists of four major islands. No certain one of these can contain all the defending forces, or the others would be left undefended. To move defending forces from one to another, merely because the Allies had landed on the other would be folly. Thus by threatening landings on two or three of the islands, we may be able to minimize the defending force where the main landing is made. Then when we have seized some ground we shall be able to provide air cover for invasion of the other islands. This air cover likewise can help forestall Jap movements from one island to the other for defense purposes, though the waterways are narrow and not hard to traverse.

We do not expect the real landing in Japan for some months but there well may be a "Dieppe" type of experimental raid any time, now that air power has moved into Japan's backyard. Before the greatest military operation of the war can be undertaken, some such type of test may be expected, and then is when the world may gain some indication of the probable length of the war.

Ontario's Bombshell . . .

Ontario, which has ere this often done unusual things politically, has had a provincial government defeated on a direct want of confidence issue in the Legislature and Premier George Drew, who has been operating with a minority Progressive-Conservative government, will take his challenge for a mandate to the people at an early election. No doubt, it would be desirable for Ontario to have its provincial political atmosphere cleared up but whether a provincial election thrown into the midst of a federal campaign will do so is something that is much to be doubted. In fact, from this distance, it seems that it might have been in the better interests of Canada's greatest province if such a contest could have been staved off at this time.

Of course, there have been certain political difficulties in Ontario. One of the chief has been Col. Drew's own individualism which has aroused not only his political opponents but certain sections of his own normal party support. The fact that he chose to force an issue in the face of obvious defeat was just an illustration. And, of course, there are those elements in the Ontario Opposition who must play their political game and who could hardly be expected not to rise to the Premier's own challenge. Winston Churchill might be able to make a go of these kind of challenges in his Parliament but George Drew, egotistical as he may be, should never have expected he could get away with it in Ontario where they always take their politics so seriously.

With Mitchell Hepburn back as king pin of the Liberals and the C.C.F. now a factor to be reckoned with there, we can look forward to a political dogfight in Ontario which will possibly eclipse the interest in the more important federal election within the province itself and will command attention throughout the country.

And what will probably come of it will be a continuation of an unsettled political situation in Ontario just as there is there now.

Theatre Restaurant Augments War Funds

OTTAWA, March 24 (C)—The Capitol Theatre Tea and Lunch Room—unique war work assignment of the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club—has turned in $52,000 to the club's war charities fund since it was started four years ago. The tea room, which specializes in inexpensive lunches and substantial afternoon teas, was set up on the theatre's mezzanine floor to raise money for charities and also to help relieve noon-hour congestion in Ottawa's few downtown restaurants. Members of the club take turns staffing the restaurant. In the past month 9,826 meals were served.

YUGOSLAVIA DEVASTATED

American Woman Aids Croatian-born Husband in Relief Work

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, March 23 (C)—Many Yugoslav families of four and five have only one garment apiece, says Joyce Balokovic. "In the terribly devastated region along the Adriatic, 80,000 villages have been wiped off the map and you can walk miles and see nothing but ashes and burned villages."

Mrs. Balokovic is the American wife of the Croatian-born violin virtuoso, who is now an American citizen. She is co-founder with him, of the American Committee of Yugoslav Relief, vice-chairman of the committee's women's division and a prime mover in its emergency campaign.

"Naturally we are working overtime because the need is so terribly great," she said in her New York apartment overlooking the East River. "Dr. Ivan Subasic, the Yugoslav premier, and Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, the under secretary of state for foreign affairs, have cabled us about the existing state of affairs."

"They say conditions could not be worse. In the liberated areas along the Adriatic, the earth has been scorched by Nazi flame throwers. In some parts of the country there is almost a complete want of clothing and boots. Many people are living on roots and grass.

"Thousands of children are homeless orphans, wandering over the countryside. Thousands more are in imminent danger of death.

"In some parts of the country there seems to be plenty of food, but the transportation system has been pretty well wiped out. In the interior there is no salt, and people have developed goitre and terrible teeth. To relieve the situation, peasant women have carried 60 and 100-pound sacks of salt from the sea, walking barefoot through the enemy lines into the interior. These women are among Yugoslavia's many heroes."

Mrs. Balokovic said that, to date, the American Committee of Yugoslav Relief had collected between $800,000 and $900,000, which was being dispatched in the form of medical supplies, clothes and food.

Mrs. Balokovic is a slender, brown-haired, grey-eyed woman. After graduation from Barnard College, she sang for a time on the Chataqua Circuit, to the horror of her mother who wanted her to be a missionary, and then met and married Balokovic. Since then she has assisted herself to helping his career. Once the Balokovics sailed for an Australian concert tour in their own two-masted schooner and, while he practised concertos in a swivel chair riveted to the deck, she navigated the vessel straight as a die to South Sea ports.

UNITY BEGINS WITH "U"

We all realize, now, that we must have unity between the United Nations if we are to win this war and prevent another.

But do we realize that we cannot have unity between the nations without unity within them?

Unity does not mean that we must all think alike. It does mean that we must respect the thoughts and rights of others, and that we must be prepared to stick together.

Unity, like charity, begins at home!

What you and I say over the back fence multiplied by what all Canadians like us are saying—that is public opinion.

Are we personally building or breaking down unity? Do we like to pick holes in our fellow citizens who go to different churches, belong to different races, believe in different political creeds?

Do we like to repeat funny (but malicious) stories about the British, the Americans, the Russians and our other allies?

Ottawa, Washington, London, Moscow cannot make us united unless we truly want to be. Nations are groups of people—you and me multiplied. We are a democracy. It's up to us. Unity begins with "U."

HERE'S HOW to fill in your FAMILY ALLOWANCE registration form

Every family will receive through the mail in the next day or two, a Family Allowance Registration Form. You are urged to fill in this form immediately. First cheques will be mailed in July, 1945, but only to those eligible families which have returned the completed form. You are therefore acting in the best interests of your children when you fill in the form and return it immediately.

Family Allowances are being paid for every eligible child under 16 to help parents in the raising of their children—to help pay for medical, dental and nursing services, to help pay for better food, clothing, shelter, and to assist in equalizing opportunities for all children.

Follow the instructions below. There are only seven questions—completing the form will take only a few moments. Do it as soon as received and ANSWER EVERY QUESTION.

If you do not receive a form through the mail, you can get one from the nearest post office.

QUESTION 1. PRINT IN BLOCK LETTERS (LIKE THIS) the names of your children under 16. Write out the month of birth, then give day and year. Write name of place where each child was born. Complete each line by stating your relationship to child, and if father and mother are applying, fill in both "relationship" columns.

QUESTION 2. Here the father and mother must both sign if both are at home. Then give the address to which cheques should be mailed. PRINT THIS IN BLOCK TYPE (LIKE THIS) under both signatures. The mother should not sign her husband's first name. She should sign her own first name, such as Mrs. Alice, Mary, Joan, etc.

QUESTION 3. If only one person has signed under question 2, state the reason why the other signature cannot be given. Give full details. It is not enough to say Father or Mother is "away"—state where and for how long.

QUESTIONS 4, 5, 6 and 7 on the other side of the form must also be answered either "Yes" or "No". If the answer is "no" to questions 4, 5 or 6, please fill in the details required, giving name of child, or children concerned. In the case of No. 5, if you have any children under 16 not living with you, list their names, give the reason and be sure to give the complete address as to where they can be visited. If the answer to No. 7 is "Yes", give the details required.

BE SURE TO ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS— You will then cause no delay in mailing the first cheque in July, 1945.

Tonight's movie will be "Hangmen Also Die."

Sunday evenings the concert is turned over to the local service personnel. Starting off the program will be songs by Regina Moore with John Moore on the guitar. Sweet songs by Florence Fleming of the C.W.A.C. will follow. The audience too will have its part when Art Shaw of Navy calls on them to join in and sing. The second half of the program will introduce Bunny Gell of the Wrens. Following will be the ever-popular two from Seal Cove—Bob Fleming at the piano and Angelo and his violin. This is the first of these programs by the Services.

Air Force and Navy clinched first and second places respectively in the Floor Hockey league standings by virtue of their wins last night at the "Y" Gym.

Flash and Gibson were outstanding for Air Force with three goals each while Auger starred for Fortress putting in both goals.

In the second game Navy defeated Soo Suds 9-2 in a wild game which was full of penalties. Navy had 7, four of these in the second period. Soo Suds had four—one a team penalty for having too many players on the floor and the other three to Maranacci, including a misconduct, the first in the league. McNulty scored both his team's goals on assists by Bill Jack and Chuck Martin. Dennison scored three for Navy with Owens and Gill scoring two each.

Playoffs commence next Thursday. Navy will meet the CHEESE—Cheese, a food celebrated since Bible times, should not be considered as just a condiment but as an important part of our diet, Dr. L. B. Pett, Director of the Nutrition Division says.

"Important nutritionally because of its high percentage of calcium and protein, it is one of the bone and muscle builders. So be generous when serving it, remembering that it is a food," he said.
"Cheese is not a modern food—the boy David in early biblical stories carried rich gifts, including cheese, to the young warriors in camp. Later, during the conflicts between the Moslems and Christians, it was an important food in the defenders' army and was a part of the booty sought by the invaders.
Canadian cheddar cheese, produced largely in the areas around Belleville, Ont., and Lake St. John, Que., is being shipped at the rate of 125,000,000 pounds a year to Britain, and in smaller quantities to the three services, R.C.M.P. outposts, the British West Indies, and Newfoundland. A quarter-pound package goes into prisoner-of-war parcels, but with so much being exported, plenty is still put aside for civilian needs.
A recipe for cheese puffed, suggested by the Agriculture Department Consumer Section, is economical and can be prepared in advance—it is actually improved if it is thoroughly chilled before baking.
CHEESE PUFFIT—The recipe requires 12½-inch slices of stale bread, ½ pound of cheese, sliced, four eggs, 2 2-3 cups of milk, ¾ teaspoon salt, pepper and paprika.
Trim the crusts from the bread. Arrange alternate slices of bread and cheese in a greased baking dish. Beat eggs slightly, add milk and seasoning and pour over the bread and cheese. Cover and keep in the ice-box until ready to bake. Set in a pan of hot water, and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees fahrenheit, until set . . . about 45 minutes. (If thoroughly chilled before baking, the puffed will puff up like a soufflé). This makes six servings.
CHEESE ROAST—Another delicious cheese main course, suggested by the Agriculture Department, is cheese roast. Combining cheese and beans, both high in protein, it is especially good for lunch or supper.
The recipe calls for two cups of grated cheese, two cups cooked white beans, ¼ cup finely diced celery, one teaspoon minced parsley, one egg, two cups, soft stale bread crumbs, two tablespoons, mild fat and salt and pepper to taste.
Drain the beans, mash with a fork and add, with the celery and parsley, to the cheese. Add slightly beaten egg and mix thoroughly. Melt fat, add crumbs and seasoning, mixing well and cooking until slightly browned. Add to cheese mixture until stiff enough to shape into a loaf. Roll loaf in remaining crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees fahrenheit, for about 30 minutes, or until nicely browned. Serve hot with tomato sauce. If desired, a small onion, finely chopped, may be added to the roast. This recipe serves six.

CANADIAN BELLE IS ECONOMIST

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 24 (C)—Canadian beauty has been recognized in Washington, famed for its good-looking girls, with the name officials there have given Mrs. Phyllis G. Turner, Prices Board administrator of oils and fats and one of the Dominion members of the Combined Food Board.

They call her "the glamor girl of the Canadian government."

Mrs. Turner was appointed the board's only woman administrator in December, 1941, succeeding Dr. George Hilton to whom she had previously been technical adviser.

Anyone, interviewer or businessman, who meets her in her office, is impressed not only with her beauty, but also with her thorough knowledge of economics and wartime controls.

The reason for her success at her exacting job of seeing that fats, oils and soaps are evenly distributed, was defined by a peanut importer from Toronto whose request for permission to import more peanuts was turned down.

"She says 'yes' very quickly, but she says 'no' very slowly and politely and saves your feelings," he summed up.

A Modest Official

Mrs. Turner is modest about her achievements, but she is eager to talk of her outside interests such as the Canadian-American Women's Committee in International Relations or which she is chairman of the Canadian section.

She has just arranged for two student teachers from Edmonton, Anne Herman and Catherine Pierce of the University of Alberta, to go for a month's exchange to State Teachers' College at New Haven, Conn., as part of the committee's work.

Two American girls, June Sprague of New Haven and Jeanne Smith of Stamford, Conn., are already at the University of Alberta for a month and they will take back much important knowledge of Canada. We are hoping to arrange exchanges of students in the middle and far west, too," said Mrs. Turner.

Born in Rosland, B.C., Mrs. Turner studied economics at the London School of Education and the University of Marburg, Germany. After her husband's death she returned to British Columbia with her two children, John and Brenda, and later was appointed chief research economist with the Tariff Board and the Dominion Trade and Industry Commission. She came to the Prices Board on loan from them

MONTGOMERY'S MEN

The American Seventh Army captured heavily fortified Pirmasens in the Siegfried Line. Lieut. General Omar Bradley, who reported yesterday from Twelfth Army group headquarters that the Allies can now cross the Rhine "most anywhere at any time," said American losses have been comparatively light. Bradley is commander of the American First and Third Armies.

The Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy participated in the launching of the new offensive as well as the Royal Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The operation was launched under brilliant moonlight conditions.

The airborne operation was described as the greatest in history.

There were four crossings of the river in all. The Montgomery forces had penetrated four miles east of the Rhine by early today.

Two of Germany's strongest armies are opposing the Allied Twenty-First and military observers warn against expectation of too speedy a victory.

They were cut on broad, square shouldered lines with snappy collars and revers.

Suits in bright colors, pastels and checks had coats well down

AA rations go farther with a Ford V-8 Engine

MERCILESS TESTS on the battlefield were not included in the program when Ford engineers designed the V-8 engine. But five years of war have only proved what a grand engine the Ford V-8 really is.

If you've been slogging a Ford truck through axle-deep mud for mile after mile over war-torn roads, you know what a stout heart the V-8 has.

If you've been nursing the family car along on an AA ration book, you know what economy of gas can mean to a V-8 owner.

There's good news for future Ford owners. Constantly through these war years the V-8 engine has been refined and improved. When you get your new Ford, you'll get several years' engineering advancements lumped into one.

Prof. John Russell of the University of Manitoba designs the setting for all ballets while his wife, Betty, designs many of the costumes. One of the momentous moments in the club's history came recently when they visited Ottawa as guest artists on the Canadian Celebrity Series program. Two sell-out benefit performances held in Winnipeg provided travelling expenses and as Miss Lloyd put it, "We were awfully pleased to go."

ANYTHING BUT LIFE

Problem Of India

British Effort Being Made to Ease Situation

LONDON, March 23 — An appeal for Britain to make a gesture which might solve the Indian problem and thereby enable the British Commonwealth all the more easily to make its full contribution to post-war reconstruction has been one of the outstanding features of the conference of the British Commonwealth of Nations deliberating here the past three weeks.

Sir Muhammad Zafrulla Khan, leader of the Indian delegation to this conference, suggested this new approach to India's problem. From the outset he admits the difficulties of the situation in India and although the mission associated with Sir Stafford Cripps failed, nevertheless, he appealed to Britain to make a further effort to break the existing British-Indian deadlock.

Proposal Offered

As a help to that end he advanced the following proposal: the British government should announce that it would be prepared to implement any agreed settlement that might be put up on behalf of India within one year from the cessation of hostilities against Japan.

Failing such a settlement within that period the British government could place before Parliament itself proposals concerning a future constitution for India designed to place India on a footing of complete equality with the Dominions.

It would have to be made perfectly clear that the solution which the British government may arrive at would only be provisional and would continue in force only so long as the Indians themselves were not agreed upon an alternative.

When an alternative is agreed upon, it would take the place of the provisional contract.

Such plans would be considered significant as a clear indication of Britain's contribution to the Allied cause and would show to the world that Britain really is only waiting for an agreement among the Indians themselves before granting its maximum freedom within the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Under such conditions the onus of responsibility would then fall largely upon Indian politicians themselves if no satisfactory agreement worked out.

The provisional granting of a dominion status to India would also be evidence of Britain's confidence in India and its future co-operation.

It would of course be naive to imagine that there are not great obstacles in the way of the realization of this project on both sides, British and Indian. Yet in Sir Muhammad's view, this proposal should go far either to accelerate an agreement among the parties in India or toward persuading them to accept a provisional arrangement for an interim period in which such a plan could be tried out.

Plan Supported

Sir Muhammad's suggestion is strongly supported in a letter to The Times of London by Sir Frederick Whyte, widely known authority on India, who writes: "Many thoughtful Indians share the view implied by Sir Muhammad Zafrulla Khan that we shall sooner or later have to cut the Gordian knot, and some Englishmen at least who have knowledge of India agree with them in this. There is reason to believe too, that Englishmen serving in the Army in India are unhappy about the continuance of the present deadlock."

Britain, Sir Muhammad said, despite war stress and strain, has made great strides in other directions, such as social security and a new orientation of colonial questions. He said he could not believe Britain would be content to accept defeat in the case of India, despite the difficulties and complexities of the problem.

This British Commonwealth Conference, it should be noted, is not official, but its representatives include some leading authorities from the various dominions whose opinions certainly carry much weight because of their knowledge and experience of the problems and territories involved.

"PRIMITIVE MAN" HERE

Excellent Cast in Comedy Coming to Capitol Next Monday and Tuesday

"Her Primitive Man," coming Monday and Tuesday to the Capitol Theatre, is a diverting comedy in which a brilliant cast, headed by Robert Paige, Louise Allbritton, Robert Benchley, Edward Everett Horton and Helen Broderick, keeps the action and the laughs geared to a fast pace. Paige is a non-too scrupulous adventure author who voluntarily turns guinea pig when a socialite anthropologist invades the jungle in search of a man-eating head hunter.

As the anthropologist who brings a "specimen" of primitive civilization to New York to learn what makes him tick—and then falls in love with him—Miss Allbritton is beautiful.

Benchley's appearance as the publisher of Paige's pseudo-adventures. His wrath is aroused to the boiling point by his writer-client's machinations.

Edward Everett Horton is the bartender pal of Paige, who connives in putting over the hoax on Miss Allbritton and her rich relatives.

One of the liveliest scenes occurs when Paige crosses pandemonium in a swanky New York hotel, thereby reducing a hotel clerk, played by the inimitable Walter Catlett, to a state of nervous collapse.

Others in the all-start comedy line-up include Helen Rodrick, Ernest Truex, Nydia Westman, Sylvia Field, Oscar O'Shea, Louis Jean Heydt, Florence Lake and Stephanie Bachelor.

PAINTERS' MEETING

Vancouver Union Officials Are Speakers—New Members Are Welcomed

Robert Stevenson, organizer of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' Union of America, and William Paige, head office representative of the Carpenters' Union, both of Vancouver, were the principal speakers at a meeting of the local Painters' Union Thursday night. There was a substantial attendance including a number of new members, who were duly welcomed, and several other visitors. R. L. Bayzand, president, was in the chair and was assisted by A. Lawrence, recording secretary, and T. Evans, financial secretary. Other speakers were J. S. Black, business agent for the Carpenters' Union; A. Wallin, president of the Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council, and J. J. Mulroney, secretary.

In the course of a general discussion, it was pointed out that membership in the Painters' Union was not limited to dry dock workers but was open to all members of the craft in the city.

There will be another general meeting of the Painters' Union on April 6, when new members will be initiated.
