Why do practically all of the most intelligent people on earth read the newspaper regularly? Because your newspaper tells you what you want to know—about what's going on in the world, about your own community, about your friends and acquaintances, about your markets and stores.

Just Among Ourselves . . .

We are told that a man from outside interested in buying out a local business was here recently and turned down the deal because he found that the people of Prince Rupert were disunited and pessimistic themselves. In view of that situation, he became dubious of the prospects although, before he started talking to local people, he was convinced those prospects were here. The resident pessimists and the knickers drove him away.

That may sound like a bit of straight talk but we are inclined to think ourselves that it is a condition that does exist here and which might as well be faced. It might be well if we searched ourselves in the matter. No doubt there are some people in Prince Rupert, more particularly those who have been disappointed, who have an unjustified defeatist attitude. It would not be so bad if they would keep it to themselves but the danger is that others may become infected.

Certainly, there is every reason for all in Prince Rupert to be sold on our own town ourselves. And we do think the most of Prince Rupert people are optimistic at heart although some of them may at times thoughtlessly let their gloom get the better of them and talk and act in a manner that is disadvantageous both to themselves and their community.

We talk of attracting new industries and new population to Prince Rupert. If we are going to be successful in doing that, the first thing is to have confidence and pride ourselves in what we have here.

It is good citizenship to VOTE

In the current campaign to put Prince Rupert on the map, we suggest that we commence right here at home and develop our own community spirit of pride and enthusiasm. If there are factors or attitudes that hamper such pride and enthusiasm, it is high time that we were getting about in joint and united endeavour to remove them.

This Is Our Chance . . .

On Thursday of this week the citizens of Prince Rupert will choose the men or women who are to be in charge of their most important community business in what may well be one of the most important years in the history of the city—a year which, in view of the circumstances of reconversion from a temporary war boom to an era of permanent progress or otherwise—will almost unquestionably mark a turning point in local affairs. It is just as simple as that and the people of Prince Rupert really ought to realize it. That is why every person who has a stake of any kind here—be it in ownership of realty, in the operation of business or in the holding down of a job—should be keenly interested in who are to be entrusted with the conduct of that business.

It behooves of us not only to be talking up civic affairs and taking a keen interest in them but, when Thursday comes, to go to the polls and, after serious consideration, mark our ballot papers for those whom we consider will give us the best job of work during the important period that is about to ensue. We want men who will be careful and mature in judgment and action but we also want men and women who will be able to combine practicability with vision and appreciation of the situation not only as it exists today but as it may exist a little later. Their actions during the coming year may have an important effect on framing the path of future progress here. There is important business to be done and we want competent, ingenious and imaginative people to carry it out for us.

The nominations closed today and we know who we have to choose from. We have the right and the privilege of making that choice on Thursday when the voting takes place. It is the opportunity we each and everyone have to actively express ourselves. It is not only good citizenship for us to vote. It is a duty to ourselves and the community. It is good business for us to vote.

Letters to the Editor

BALKAN SITUATION

Editor, Daily News:
I believe a comment on your Dec. 6 editorial concerning the Balkan situation is in order. Therefore I would appreciate a publication of this letter.

When the Soviet forces drove forward and liberated the Balkan peoples, they had the full support of the already existing people's armies. Marshal Tito's forces were created and supported by the Yugoslav people. Therefore it is absurd to say the people are being dominated and oppressed by them.

The evidence of the recent Hungarian elections proves conclusively that the Soviet occupation forces are exerting no pressure on the political trends of the Balkan peoples. Since their establishment, the provisional governments of the Balkan countries have broken up the large estates and distributed the land to the people. This represents to me a smashing of the last barriers of feudalism and a milestone in the path of progress for these peoples. In the Yugoslav and Hungarian elections the right to vote was granted to everyone over 18 years of age. These steps most assuredly have the complete support of the people.

Apparently, Mr. Editor, you are under the impression that the Balkan people are craving for a return to the good old pre-war days. You speak of the need of these countries to gain unity and independence while they are adequately performing this task under electoral conditions never before available to them.

L. GRIFFITH.

GEORGE CASEY'S IDEAS

Editor, Daily News:
I read with considerable consolation from time to time the efforts being put forward by the Prince Rupert Industrial Development Committee on behalf of Prince Rupert and the great north land in general. Their effort has been to spur the C.N.R. officials to keep faith with the people of the vast territory of which the C.N.R. is a part and to a large extent responsible for the inhabitation of the entire district opened up by the railroad. The directors are in reality trustees to the house of progress or stagnation.

Prince Rupert, at one time called the terminal of the G.T.P., was supposed to play a leading part in the trade of the mighty Pacific Ocean. I still can hear the echo of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's voice from the steps of Prince Rupert's first court house on Second Avenue in 1910 on what was then the question of the hour—Canadian expansion and development of the Port of Prince Rupert.

I regret to say that, insofar as expansion is concerned, the C.N.R. directors are reactionary.

However, I believe Prince Rupert is on the verge of a step forward in her industrial development and largely through the enterprise, courage and hard work of the Fishermen's Co-operative Association who are now bringing to completion Prince Rupert's third cold storage and ice producing plant at Fairview Bay south of the elevator.

As organization is primary to any business undertaking, I hereby suggest to the directors of the Fishermen's Co-operative Association that they apply for a brewery license and proceed at once to erect a brewery and commence the brewing of beer. Such an enterprise is long overdue in this great north land and can be no other than a success from its first day's operation. Who is more worthy of the increment of such an enterprise than the families who comprise Prince Rupert's fishing fleet, the rank and file of the Fishermen's Co-operative Association.

Further what would be strong with giving the interior farmers and ranchers a hand in making use of the soil under their domain by getting into the business of canning milk, vegetables, berries, chickens or anything that can be produced and canned. The products of the soil all can be grown and consumed in the land of the north. The opportunity is within ourselves if we will co-operate and stick together. There is no need for us longer to remain a vassal of the south. The good Lord will help us if we try to help ourselves.

In conclusion may I ask all those good friends who for the past twenty-five years have on different occasions supported me for city council honors to place their confidence in John Mulroney in the forthcoming civic election. He is a gentleman I have found to be progressive, intelligent and broad-minded. I feel he has the interest of Prince Rupert at heart and will work for its development.

GEO. B. CASEY.

DRY DOCK AFFAIRS

Editor, Daily News:
Please permit me to enter a complaint for publication in your newspaper as early as possible.

As a resident of Prince Rupert since 1909 I feel that the situation developing at the Prince Rupert dry dock is becoming detrimental to the workers and the city of Prince Rupert. The workers have received since V-J Day no comment whatever from the management through either the press or the labor unions on the future expansion of the facilities.

We are well aware that foreign countries are asking for ships from Canadian shipyards but, apparently, this is of little concern to our dry dock management. Mr. Allan must be well aware of the C. N. shipbuilding program but seems very reluctant to release any information to the workers and business men of Prince Rupert.

I am sure that the maintenance of the dry dock is of immediate concern to all new businesses that have opened in Prince Rupert. As I have no axe to grind and no fear of dismissal from the dockyard, I would like to see some new blood injected into the management to prevent us from returning to the "old man's home" conditions of pre-war years.

I would like to inform those concerned that I have been a member in good standing of the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union since 1912.

WRITES TO 1000 MEN

"Ma" Allison Has "Sons" in Services in Every Part of World VANCOUVER, Dec. 10.—The postman never fails to bring a fat handful of letters to a certain house in Vancouver. They're always addressed to Mrs. May Allison, but inside the salutation usually is "Dear Ma."

The letters come from almost every country where Allied soldiers have been serving. You see, Ma's family is more than 1,000 strong and it takes a lot of letters to keep up with every member.

Mrs. Allison had 11 children—nine daughters and two sons—when the war broke out. When her sons joined the armed services it was then she began her career as a one-woman entertainment unit. She estimates she has served thousands of dinners to servicemen.

Ma kept track of her giant family in a little black book which now contains addresses throughout Britain, the United States, British West Indies, South America, Mexico, South Africa and Newfoundland.

Last Christmas Ma had 30 guests for dinner and the postman brought her greetings from 300 lads she had previously entertained.

She knows definitely that three of her "sons" have been killed in action. But it's hard to keep up with casualty lists published in other countries. In some cases letters have ceased to come and she suspects the worst.

Through newspaper efforts alone, nearly five million dollars was raised in Canada to aid civilian victims of enemy action throughout the empire.

REV. A. O. AASEN

Rev. and Mrs. A. O. Aasen arrived in the city last evening on the Catala from the south. Mr. Aasen, formerly of Vancouver and more recently working out of Minneapolis, is here to take over the pastorate of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. He will meet with the congregation Tuesday night.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MORGAN

Funeral service for the late Mrs. C. Morgan, who passed away last week was held at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 2:30 Sunday afternoon with Bishop J. B. Gibson officiating. Interment took place in Fairview Cemetery. A number of friends attended the service, joining in singing the hymns "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Abide With Me." Peter Lien was organist. Pallbearers were William Wiffin, William Bussey, George Owens, B. Sheppard, T. Fitzgerald and J. Brett.

SERVICEMEN NEED PRIORITY

Claim Impossible to Get Silk Stockings on Discharge

REGINA, Dec. 10 —Discharge servicewomen, happy over the courses they can take and the gratuities they receive, have one complaint—no stockings.

Some in Regina expressed the view the clothing priority slip they received on discharge should include priority on at least one pair of silk stockings as well as the one tailored suit to which it entitled them.

One of them put it this way:

"Give me my gratuities and a pair of nylons and I'd be in heaven."

Four women's hosiery departments explained to a reporter they did not recognize priority slips in the purchase of silk stockings.

Discharged servicewomen, said clerks, took their chance with others whenever stockings were on sale. One servicewoman said she found being in uniform jeopardized her chances of buying stockings. Some shops felt

Timely Topics from Terrace

CHURCH LADIES ARE VERY ACTIVE; BAZAAR IS HELD; ANNUAL MEETING

A bazaar held by the Catholic Women's League of the Sacred Heart Church at Terrace proved very successful socially and financially. The doors of the Orange Hall, in which it was held, were thrown open to the public on Saturday afternoon and, from then on, those in charge found themselves very busy. Tea was served at small tables laid with pretty luncheon cloths and centred with candles and Christmas foliage. Serviteurs were Mrs. J. Gordon, Helen Prystay, Johanne Kofodo and Betty Bissonette. Mrs. J. Spitzel, Mrs. E. Whalen, Mrs. H. Cote and Mrs. J. Normandeau were in charge of an attractive display of articles which were quickly sold. In the kitchen Mrs. James Lever, Mrs. J. Desjardins, Mrs. J. Harris and Mrs. Rolfson were busily occupied in providing refreshments for the tea tables. Mrs. G. Hipp was cashier and Mrs. Seaton hostess. Rt. Rev. Anthony Jordan Bishop of the Roman Catholic vicariate of Prince Rupert, and Father Racette, parish priest at Terrace, were in attendance and moved among the crowd extending a hearty welcome to all those present. In the evening there was a card party followed by a raffle.

The dance held Friday evening in support of the Terrace Parent-Teachers' Association was a real success due in large measure to the efforts of Mrs. Lindberg, Miss James, Miss Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. S. Campbell, Alex Houlden, Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Hauland.

In respect to the memory of William S. Anderson, who died on Wednesday evening, the Skeena Mercantile was closed all day today while the funeral was being held.

Reports showing a successful year just ended, the ladies having been both active and enthusiastic, were presented last Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Matthew's Anglican Church. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Head. Officers elected were as follows: Honorary President, Mrs. T. J. Marsh; President, Mrs. Bert West; Vice-President, Mrs. W. C. Soarke; Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Dan McMillan; Altar and Flowers Secretary, Mrs. C. L. M. Giggie.

women in uniform didn't need silk hose.

Servicewomen, who were moved from place to place, had no chance to become "favored customers" in shops where patrons of long standing were catered to. Though they were allowed to wear silk stockings in off-duty hours and during summer, many servicewomen did not buy stockings and so had no reserve stock on which to fall back.

Canadian newspapers have supported Fresh Air Funds to give working mothers and underprivileged children a summer vacation since as early as 1887.

BUSY YEAR FOR PREMIER

Mr. King headed a multi-party Canadian delegation in person but left before the finish to conduct the general election campaign.

He travelled across the country from the Pacific to the Atlantic, addressing some 10 public meetings and spending three days in his own constituency of Prince Albert. The country gave him a majority of the seats in the new House of Commons although much smaller than his pre-election majority.

The voters of Prince Albert whom he had represented from 1926 turned against him and he found himself without a seat. He found one in Glengarry in Ontario but had to fight a by-election to get it. He won the contest without making a speech or appearing in the constituency during the campaign but after the election made several visits to get acquainted with the people.

San Francisco was just the start of international discussions for Mr. King. There he led the Canadian group in taking a stand for moderation as between the big powers who wanted control over the international organization vested in their hands and the smaller states who fought for equality. The Canadian position was that an organization was necessary and that no organization which did not have the full support of the major powers could work.

Visited Britain For Conference

After the election Mr. King returned to San Francisco to sign the United Nations charter on behalf of Canada and there met President Truman for the first time. During the winter he travelled to Washington and Hyde Park to attend the funeral of his close personal friend and co-worker, the late President Roosevelt.

October found him travelling to Washington again for a meeting with President Truman, one of the same sort of conferences he had been accustomed to hold with Mr. Roosevelt. He was then on his way to England and what he intended to be a visit to western Europe.

From that he returned to join with President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee of Britain in establishing Canadian-American-British policy on atomic energy.

The prime minister launched his dominion-provincial conference during the summer and soon afterwards met parliament for the second time in the year, a belated regular annual session.

His cabinet underwent changes both before and after the general election. New ministers came in to replace those retired or defeated at the polls.

Mr. King was at San Francisco when the European war ended and broadcast a message to the Canadian people from there. The necessary adjustments in policy to shift emphasis from Europe to the Pacific were made by long distance communication between himself and other ministers and he was in Western Canada when he announced plans for sending naval, air and military forces against the Japanese.

The end of the Japanese war in August came on the heels of the dropping of the first atomic bomb and Mr. King was one of the few men in the world in on the secret of their preparation.

His two personal election contests during the year brought the number of his personal elections to 13 of which he won 10 and lost three. The general election was the seventh in which he led the Liberal party and his fifth victory in a national election.

"Nothing is more essential for international co-operation than that there shall be a free flow of news around the world."—Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain.

TELLS ABOUT
CO-OP MEETING

Recent re-organization of the Co-operative Union of Canada as a conference at Winnipeg was designed to make the nationwide body a more effective instrument in spreading the co-operative idea and to enable it to keep a watchful eye on legislation affecting co-operatives. Breen Melvin, field worker for the Extension Department, University of B. C., told a meeting in the Oddfellows' Hall last night.

Sponsored by the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative, the meeting had an attendance of 75. T. H. Sorenson, Co-op cold storage plant manager, was chairman.

Mr. Melvin said that the three major objectives decided on by the Winnipeg conference were:

- (1) Concentration on the development of consumers co-operatives.
- (2) Increasing the present national membership of 1,000,000 by another 500,000.
- (3) Increasing the facilities for training co-operative personnel, particularly returned servicemen.

The Co-operative Union of Canada is composed of members from the provincial co-operative unions and, when re-organization is complete, there will be representation from every province. Mr. Melvin said. The new president is Ralph Staples of Toronto.

Prince Rupert delegate to the Winnipeg conference was Sam Snidal of the local Fishermen's Co-operative.

Following Mr. Melvin's talk he showed films, one showing the social and economic progress brought about by the Tennessee Valley Authority and a travelogue of the Great Lakes.

MAKING FIVE

LONDON, Dec. 10 (Reuters)—A new five-ton lorry, capable of 40 miles an hour fully loaded, will be produced at the rate of one every 12 minutes by the automobile factory at Yaroslavl, 150 miles north of Moscow, when reconstruction of the factory is completed, Moscow Radio said.

The first of these lorries—which will be called the "YA-200"—will leave the factory early next year.

Ernie Ratchford Back On Old Job

After six years, another of Prince Rupert's long service overseas veterans is back on the old civilian job. He is Ernie Ratchford who was being welcomed back this morning as he resumed his rounds for the Canadian National Express Co. following his return a few weeks ago after seeing a lot of action aboard with the Royal Canadian Artillery. He was one of the originals with the old 102nd, went active at the first of the war and was a sergeant on discharge. "Everything seems different," Ernie remarked cheerily. "It seems strange working again after six years." Evidently, he did not count soldiering as working.

My policy throughout has been to represent all classes of citizens impartially for the common good.

If my service on the City Council to date, meets with your approval may I respectfully request your continued support at the forthcoming civic election.
