Immigration Policy . . .

A sensible and practical immigration policy for Canada is expounded by J. S. McGowan, director of colonization and agriculture, Canadian National Railways, a speech by whom before newspaper editors in Montreal is reported in the Daily News today.

Too long now have we been narrow-mindedly fearful of some spectre of competition which we conceive might operate in some way to the disadvantage of those of us who are already here if we were to open the gates in a substantial degree to new immigrants. The fact of the matter, and it has been proven in the past, is that Canada has enjoyed its greatest prosperity when the bars to immigration were most highly lifted and our lands were rapidly filling up with new population. It made a chain of activity and industry and business all around and everyone benefited.

But there are other aspects to this question of immigration. We have a great, unfilled country here—a country which has long been envied by the crowded peoples elsewhere in the world some of whom have made efforts in the great wars to capture our land by force. Had they succeeded in their aims, they would have used this country to better advantage than we have done in the past—to better advantage than we seem resolved to do—even today.

There is somewhat of a moral phase involved too. People of the crowded European nations, starving and oppressed, are seeking new homes elsewhere. We may not have to admit them all. Indeed, as Mr. McGowan suggests, there should be a measure of selection. But if we are good hosts, we shall probably have good guests who will eventually become part of our national body.

As citizens and families we are urged to share our housing with those people who have none. Possibly we might think of our nation as a great house which has room and to spare for good people of less fortunate lands who for well justified reasons seek homes in this new world where they would be free to live in liberty and security. Is it not our obligation to share with them, apart from any advantage which we can rely would accrue through putting our country to more full and fitting use?

Prince Rupert is the central port for one of the most potentially rich hinterlands in all the world. We have natural wealth that is going to waste for simple lack of development. Rich as it is, this area is one of the most sparsely populated in all the world. Right here we have much to gain from an active immigration policy for this Dominion. With such a meagre population, we can never flourish.

It is not just speaking idle words when we say this area needs more population and a more positive national immigration policy.

SAW ACTION AT OKINAWA

Col. Von Auron Tells Rotarians of Fighting Transportation Corps

Classification of United States Army Transportation Corps troops as non-combatant is a bit of an exaggeration to Lt. Col. C. S. Von Auron, Okinawa veteran, who commanded a port detachment which unloaded supplies and ammunition for the American forces during what was one of the bitterest campaigns of the Pacific war. "Although we were Transportation Corps troops we saw action on Okinawa," he told Prince Rupert Rotary Club members during a speech at their weekly luncheon meeting on Thursday. "For tactical purposes we were charged only with defending ourselves—and the Jap had to practice a great deal of ingenuity to get himself captured."

Lieut. Col. Von Auron, who was the thirteenth U.S. officer to arrive at the Prince Rupert support of embarkation early in 1942, and served here for 22 months, landed in Okinawa with the 53rd Port Unit on April 24 of this year, 24 days after the first troops landed. He left Okinawa in October, having served through the whole campaign. "We landed on the south beaches," he said. "We thought that the fighting would be all over by the time we got there but, as we approached the island, we saw more fireworks than you could shake a stick at."

The first night they pitched pup tents in a bivouac area three miles inland, directly between two airfields. There were no air raids that night but the second night the Jap planes came over. "We had fox holes by that time and we pulled our helmets down to our heels and ran for a fox-hole," he chuckled.

Lieut. Col. Von Auron was sent in command of a detachment to Naha, capital of the island, to land ammunition. His men unloaded from ships onto landing craft and brought it through the narrow harbor entrance under fire. Three men of his company were killed—one by sniper's fire and two by falling anti-aircraft fragments.

To protect the ammunition camp from infiltration, they set up a machine gun and killed several Japs.

The Transportation Corps had 10,000 men on Okinawa handling supplies and ammunition and, when the Japanese surrendered, the Transportation Corps was making preparations to carry supplies for the assault on the homeland, he declared.

Lieut. Col. Von Auron said that the Okinawa natives were "the dirtiest that I ever saw in my life." They were used by the Americans to do limited tasks but were not strong enough to do heavy work.

The 53rd port company was organized in Honolulu especially to take part in the Okinawa campaign.

Lieut. Col. Von Auron, who is the husband of the former Crissie McLeod of Prince Rupert, will remain here on leave until December 27 when he will leave for posting at San Francisco, accompanied by Mrs. Von Auron.

Guests at the meeting who were welcomed by President James Thompson were Norman Kristmanson, Alex McLeod, Moncton, N.B., and Rupert Fulton.

JOSEPH BOULET LAID AT REST

High requiem mass for the late Joseph Boulet, pioneer resident of the city, who passed away quietly earlier in the week in Prince Rupert General Hospital, took place this morning at the Pro-Cathedral of the Annunciation with Father W. F. Lantagne officiating. There was a considerable congregation of old friends of deceased. It was a choral service with Charles P. Balagno presiding at the organ. Interment took place in the Catholic section of Fairview Cemetery. Pallbearers were Fred Belanger, Henri Letourneau, Henry Bourgeois, J. Langlois, Gilles Royer and Peter Leclair.

POLICE STAGE SHAM MURDERS

LONDON, Nov. 30 (C)—Sham murders are staged daily at the Metropolitan Detective Training School, where carefully selected detectives undergo an eight-week course. Besides solving such crimes, they undergo unarmed combat, weapon handling, and receive lectures from doctors, lawyers and specialists in various fields. Veteran Scotland Yard instructors teach them the best use of laboratory equipment in crime solution.

Demand Excess Fare For Artificial Leg

DUBLIN, Nov. 30 (C)—Because he lost a leg in 1918 a County Wexford flour miller has been asked to pay excess fare on a trip home from England. He was stopped at the barrier at Westland Row Station, Dublin, and told he must pay extra on the artificial leg he had brought back with him—because a spare leg wasn't classified as personal luggage. The miller, Henry A. Davis of Enniscorthy, lost his leg when a hand grenade hit him as he led a platoon against a German trench at Arras. He won the Military Cross and since then has worn an artificial leg. He says he won't pay the excess demanded on the new leg he bought.

BOMB REMAINS

BURWELL FEN, West Suffolk, Eng., (C)—The Burwell Fen village council has decided to let a 500-pound live bomb remain "to save bomb disposal men from unnecessary risks." The bomb, dropped three years ago, is 25 feet below some cultivated ground.

DECORATION — WITH BAR

WE are proud of this bar of Tedanac brand "A" Grade Zinc. A veteran of two world wars, it once again returns to its place on the "Civvy Street" market as an important provider of peacetime jobs for Canadians. Ninety per cent of the cost of producing this bar is paid to Canadian labor—either directly by us or by firms from whom we buy supplies and services.

We are now making around 15,000 of these 50-lb. bars of zinc each day, enough to supply Canada's yearly requirements in a few months. Therefore, if these bars are to be year-round full time Canadian job-makers, three out of every four must be sold outside Canada.

The factors that sell metals on the world markets are no different from those that sell foods at the corner store. The buyer looks for the best quality at the lowest price. So our aim today is still better quality, still higher efficiency, still lower costs—which means bigger markets, more jobs and higher living standards—the normal course of free enterprise. This aim can only be attained if Labor, Management and Government co-operate to the fullest extent, constantly keeping in mind that Canada's prosperity and the prosperity of each one of us depends on the sale of Canadian goods on the world markets.

The Hull Volants scored a surprise 4-2 victory over Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in a Quebec senior hockey league game played in Ottawa. In Lachine, Quebec, the Drummondville Cubs made their debut in the provincial senior hockey league by coming out on the wrong end of a 9-2 score in a clash with Lachine Rapids. Stratford scored a 7-4 triumph over the Toronto Staffords in an Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" match.

Fifty thoroughbreds still are eligible for the 1946 running of the $10,000 Added King's Plate at Toronto's Woodbine Park next May, following payment of 15 dollars by the November 15 deadline. The announcement is made by the Ontario Jockey Club. Nominees for the three-year old classic are 24 colts, 20 fillies and six geldings.

Fight promoter Mike Jacobs announces that he plans to stage one of two heavyweight championship bouts next summer in the Los Angeles Coliseum. However, Jacobs has refused to divulge the site of the Joe Louis Billy Conn title fight scheduled for June.

Big Tourist Year Coming

Twenty Million Vacationists to Spend $300,000,000 in Canada

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — Twenty million vacationists leaving an estimated $300,000,000 in Canada is the tourist industry's 1946 prospect. This is the prediction of experienced observers at the Canadian Association of Tourists and Publicity Bureaus conference, held in Toronto recently.

Keynoting the conference was delegates' opinion that "friendly courteous service" must replace a take-it-or-leave-it attitude if the tourist industry is to attain its maximum proportion.

Two of the important resolutions adopted by the conference were: That the association sponsor a publicity week prior to opening of next year's tourist season. The object—to impress on Canadians the great value of the industry and to secure greater co-operation in the provinces.

That the association urge all provincial governments to enact legislation setting up a plan of registration and classification of business catering to the tourist industry, if such legislation has not already been passed.

Seek More Accommodation

T. H. R. McNally, who is expected to assume executive management of the association, stated that the conference gave serious consideration to the question of tourist accommodation, other than large hotels and well-managed lodges and hunting camps. Opinion, generally, was expressed that, with conspicuous exceptions, Canadian camps and cabins were antiquated and unequal to future demands.

Returns from questionnaires sent out by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to businessmen catering to tourist trade have made information on the tourist industry more accurate. Mr. McNally said. He added that if figures on the tourist trade look like boxcar numbers to some Canadians, it only indicates that the extent of the industry isn't fully realized.

Conference delegates elected as president Edwin G. Rowbottom, Deputy Minister of Trade and Industry in the British Columbia government. Vice-Presidents are: Paul Beaulieu, Quebec Minister of Trade and Industry (newly elected); Harold Connolly, Nova Scotia Minister of Industry and Publicity, and John S. McDairmid, Manitoba Minister of Mines and Natural Resources.

CANAL BROUGHT LIFE AND DEATH

MONTANA, Switzerland, Nov. 30 (AP)—When a new tunnel replaces an irrigation canal here next spring it will mark the end of a 500-year period in which the canal brought death and life to this community.

The two-mile tunnel, cut through a mountain, will out-mode the six-mile canal, called the Isse de Roh, which 500 years ago was hewn into solid rock along the precipices that have taken scores of lives.

This section of Switzerland is dogged by almost annual droughts. To bring moisture down here, waters from the glacier were tapped at 9,775 feet. The canal, about three feet deep and three feet wide, in many places had to be channeled through wooden conduits.

Every farmer in the community is required to work at least 10 days each year maintaining the canal. Day and night the conduit must be watched for breaks—avalanches frequently bury long stretches. When the farmers below observe that the water flow has halted, they spread an alarm and as many mountain men as are needed climb the mountain to repair the break.

When that happens women pray and men abstain from strong drink. In the nearby cemetery at Lens is a corner set aside for those who have tumbled to death from the lofty crags along the route of the canal.

Lions have been known to jump as far as 20 feet, and also can clear a barrier nine feet high.

Asks Two Rations Biggest Soldier

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Guardsman A. E. Nightingale, biggest soldier in the British Army, who is six feet 8 1/2 inches tall and weighs 273 pounds, is going to ask the Food Ministry for two ration books when he is demobilized from the Grenadier Guards.

"In peacetime any Guardsman over six feet one inch was allowed to draw double rations, but I believe I am the only soldier serving today with that distinction," Gdsm. Nightingale said.

His size is a problem for his shoes are size 15 and he wears 19 1/2 inch collars. A special bed was built for him in Windsor Castle barracks and uniforms have to be made specially to fit his big frame.
