SERVICEMEN ARE SATISFIED

Government Doing Everything Possible to Speed Transportation of Brides
OTTAWA—The Vancouver servicemen who went to Ottawa to argue that British brides be brought to Canada quickly now say they are satisfied the Army is doing all in its power to speed the transportation of brides. The Vancouver delegates conferred with Major-General A. E. Walford, the adjutant general, and officials of other departments involved. They said in Ottawa last night that they had been informed that the liners Letitia, Lady Nelson and Lady Rodney will start carrying dependents after January 3. The service delegates also said they had learned that all the wives and children still in Britain probably will be brought to this country by the fall of 1946.

The message follows a public meeting called last week by the local industrial Development Committee. "Every effort is being made to encourage laid-off workers at the dry dock to stay in the city pending your reply," the message to Mr. Vaughan states.

QUERY ON DRY DOCK

Canadian Legion Wants to Know—Housing and Employment Committees
Considerable discussion took place at the regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion Wednesday night regarding the possibility of the local dry dock being closed down and the leading government ministers at Ottawa, Premier John Hart, and R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, have been communicated with by wire in an effort to get a declaration of policy in this connection. The housing and employment situation also came in for special consideration, and special committees will deal with these matters in the near future.

Comrade John Connery was reported to be very ill but it is hoped he will soon be around again. There was a considerable volume of general business and several new members were initiated. In addition there were 15 new applications accepted, being mainly all from local boys who had enlisted originally from Prince Rupert.

He was stationed successively at Nelson, Victoria and Vancouver, retiring a few years ago from the company service. Besides the widow, Col. McMordie is survived by two sons, William and Robert. A brother, R. A. McMordie, who was also in Prince Rupert in the early days, lives in Vancouver.

BERLIN PEOPLE WAGE STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE

Face Rigors of Winter With Slim Rations; Food Situation Critical and Bartering General
By BARBARA WACE
BERLIN (AP)—Nobody in Berlin goes empty-handed! Everybody carries something to barter. Through the shell and bomb-blasted Tiergarten, grey-faced men and women push every type of hardcase and perambulator filled with fuel for the winter. Along city streets, furtively walking close to great piles of rubble and bricks cleared against the shells of buildings, men and women clasp black dispatch cases, often with rucksacks on their backs. Near shell craters filled with stagnant water neatly dressed old women hunt for blitz weeds to cook for supper. Slim frauleins in finery and silk stockings have big suitcases with them as they call "hello" to Allied soldiers in the Kurfurstendamm, or hold whispered conclaves with sturdy, high-booted Russian girl soldiers. For dazed-looking Berlin civilians, shopping is a complicated business. You see them around Allied messes or parked cars. They peer anxiously at the glass show-cases down the broad sidewalk of the Kurfurstendamm which once held luxury goods and now contain countless little cards with offers of exchange. There is little you can buy in this ghost-town capital. Bartering has become specialized. Watches for the Russians, cameras and silk stockings for the British and Americans, and cigarettes for food on the black market. This is the new currency. The exchange notices show fabulous bargains. One offers a grand piano for a winter coat. Another a dining room suite for "a little food." At an exchange mart a mother tried to exchange a set of her son's toy trains for a little flour, while outside a small girl of seven was begging soldiers for cigarettes so she could exchange them for something to eat. There are no shoes for sale. Only in one store did I see new goods for sale. These were enormous boots made of thick hairy carpet felt and five-inch thick wooden soles weighing five pounds, offered for "the cold days ahead." One small bookshop in the Kurfurstendamm has sparsely filled shelves with books saved from two bombed out anti-Nazi bookshops. The owner said that anything English was much in request, as were all books with nothing to do with the war. There were few children's books, for all juvenile literature, even picture books for toddlers, were full of Nazi propaganda and are forbidden now. Food coupons must be given up in restaurants. A typical menu in one restaurant contained potato soup with one slice of bread, vegetable stew with potatoes and beans, a cup of ersatz coffee without milk or sugar, a glass of real tea, or orangeade, marked "made with boiled water" for those fearful of disease.

WORKERS MAY VOTE AGAIN

WINDSOR—The newest plan for settlement of the Ford strike in Windsor will go before a mass meeting of union members Sunday. Union officials have decided to ask the opinion of the rank and file union members on a government proposal for a new vote on the labor department's settlement plan. The plan was turned down by a narrow margin when it went before the union members two weeks ago. If the workers give the go-ahead Sunday, the union plans a two-day vote.

Governor of Netherlands East Indies Is Not In Favor of Referring Dispute to United Nations

BATAVIA (CP)—A British spokesman said today and two companies of the Third and Fourth Gurkha Division and a battalion of the British Airborne Division have arrived in Java to augment the military force engaged in restoring order. The acting Governor-General of the Dutch East Indies has rejected Indonesian suggestions that the dispute over Indonesian demands for independence be referred to the United Nations organization. It is a matter between the Indonesians and the Dutch, he held. Indonesian leaders in Sumatra are joining those of Java in demanding complete independence from the Dutch.

SURVEY OF U.S. INSTALLATIONS COMPLETED HERE

E. E. Poole of Edmonton, appraiser for the Dominion government, said Thursday that his surveys of United States government installations at Prince Rupert had been completed and that pricing of the buildings and equipment will begin shortly in Vancouver.

"We have surveyed every United States building in the installation and have tabulated the amount of lumber in each building," Mr. Poole said. "That part of the job is complete and we will soon start to put prices on the buildings and equipment."

This would be done in Vancouver on the basis of the survey which he and Major J. Hart, United States government appraiser, have made, Mr. Poole said. However, completion of the appraisals by no means indicates that the property will come up for immediate disposal. Mr. Poole's estimates of prices for the wartime buildings and equipment must first be submitted to Ottawa where the Canadian and United States governments will consider them jointly. Not until agreement has been reached between the two governments on the evaluations of the units in the installation here will the title to the property be turned over to War Assets Corporation. This might take several weeks or months. After that, the time of disposal of the property will rest with the War Assets Corporation.

Dr. Macdonald Is Still In Europe
Major John Macdonald, former director of the Public Health Unit at Prince Rupert, is still serving in Europe with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps but expects to be back in Canada within the next two or three months. At present in command of No. 10 Field Hygiene Section at Appeldoorn in Holland and in charge of hygiene for what remains of the Canadian Army in Holland (about 28,000 men), he expects to leave the continent for England on January 7 and to be home a month or two later. Mrs. Macdonald and two sons are now residing in Vancouver.

C. C. KETCHUM, CITY PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

A Prince Rupert pioneer who helped clear the townsite in 1908 passed away in the Prince Rupert General Hospital this morning. He was Claude Charles Ketchum of 721 Lotbiniere Street, a logging operator along the north coast until ill health forced him to retire about two years ago. He was 68 years old. Born at Owosso, Michigan, Mr. Ketchum came to Prince Rupert in 1908. Tall timber grew on the part of Kaien Island now occupied by Prince Rupert and, immediately on his arrival, Mr. Ketchum started logging it. He used to tell of felling trees on the present site of the Catholic Church. During his residence in Prince Rupert he conducted logging operations along Ogden Channel and later on Kumeleon Inlet. Surviving are his wife and two daughters, Mrs. J. E. Wide and Mrs. Peter Kalviek in Prince Rupert. A son-in-law, Peter Kalviek, is now in Winnipeg after returning from three years service overseas. He is expected to arrive in the city on Sunday night. Funeral service probably will be held on Tuesday.

MORE TOURIST TRAFFIC DUE

United States to be Greater Reservoir Than TORONTO — "The United States will provide an ever greater reservoir for our tourist trade than it was before the war," A. A. Gardiner, general passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways, predicted in an address to the Toronto Electric Club.

He said this was due to the high place Canada had gained in the regard of the people of the United States through their firsthand and intimate knowledge of the war effort. The railways will again, as in the past, Mr. Gardiner stated, co-operate actively with federal, provincial, regional and other organizations whose activities are directed towards increasing Canada's participation in the tourist trade. In this field, he said, greater opportunities than ever lie ahead.

The Civic Election . . .

Turning out in near-record numbers yesterday despite the fact that there was no mayoralty contest which is usually the piece de resistance of a civic election, the people of Prince Rupert displayed a healthy renewal of interest in municipal affairs. It is to be hoped that this is just the inauguration of a new acceptance of responsibility and manifestation of active interest by the citizens in community business generally. Possibly, the old apathy is at last being dropped off. If it is, it will be all to the good.

Those who were elected to city council and school board are no doubt worthy of the trust that was imposed upon them. They will have important work to do and may be counted upon to face the job with courage and resolve to employ their talents to the best and most generous advantage in the furtherance of civic and community affairs. No doubt, they will sometimes think that they have a thankless task but that will not matter as long as they are working to the best and utmost of their ability.

The new aldermanic board is adequately representative of various interests and sections of the community although labor has lost strength, this indeed being a notable factor, the council being evenly divided between Civic Labor Federation and independents with the Mayor in the King's seat. The fact that there is new blood should be helpful.

It is satisfactory that the three by-laws were passed by such substantial measure. Of course, nothing else but that had been expected.

Stewart Percival McMordie

The passing at Vancouver of Lieut. Col. S. P. McMordie, D.S.O., has removed another of the most prominent personalities of the early days of Prince Rupert.

Col. McMordie, was, indeed, one of Prince Rupert's most distinguished pioneers for the activities in which he played a leading part were unusually diversified. He helped to carve the city out of the rocks as a contractor in the building of the streets.

He was among the first to enlist in World War I and, having had military experience with the old militia unit here, he was immediately commissioned and soon went overseas where he served as a fighting officer with distinction until he sustained severe wounds, including extensive shrapnel injuries and the loss of an eye. But that did not put him out of service and he went back to France in connection with army railway construction and later was an administrative officer in England. Deservedly he was awarded the Empire's second highest military decoration.

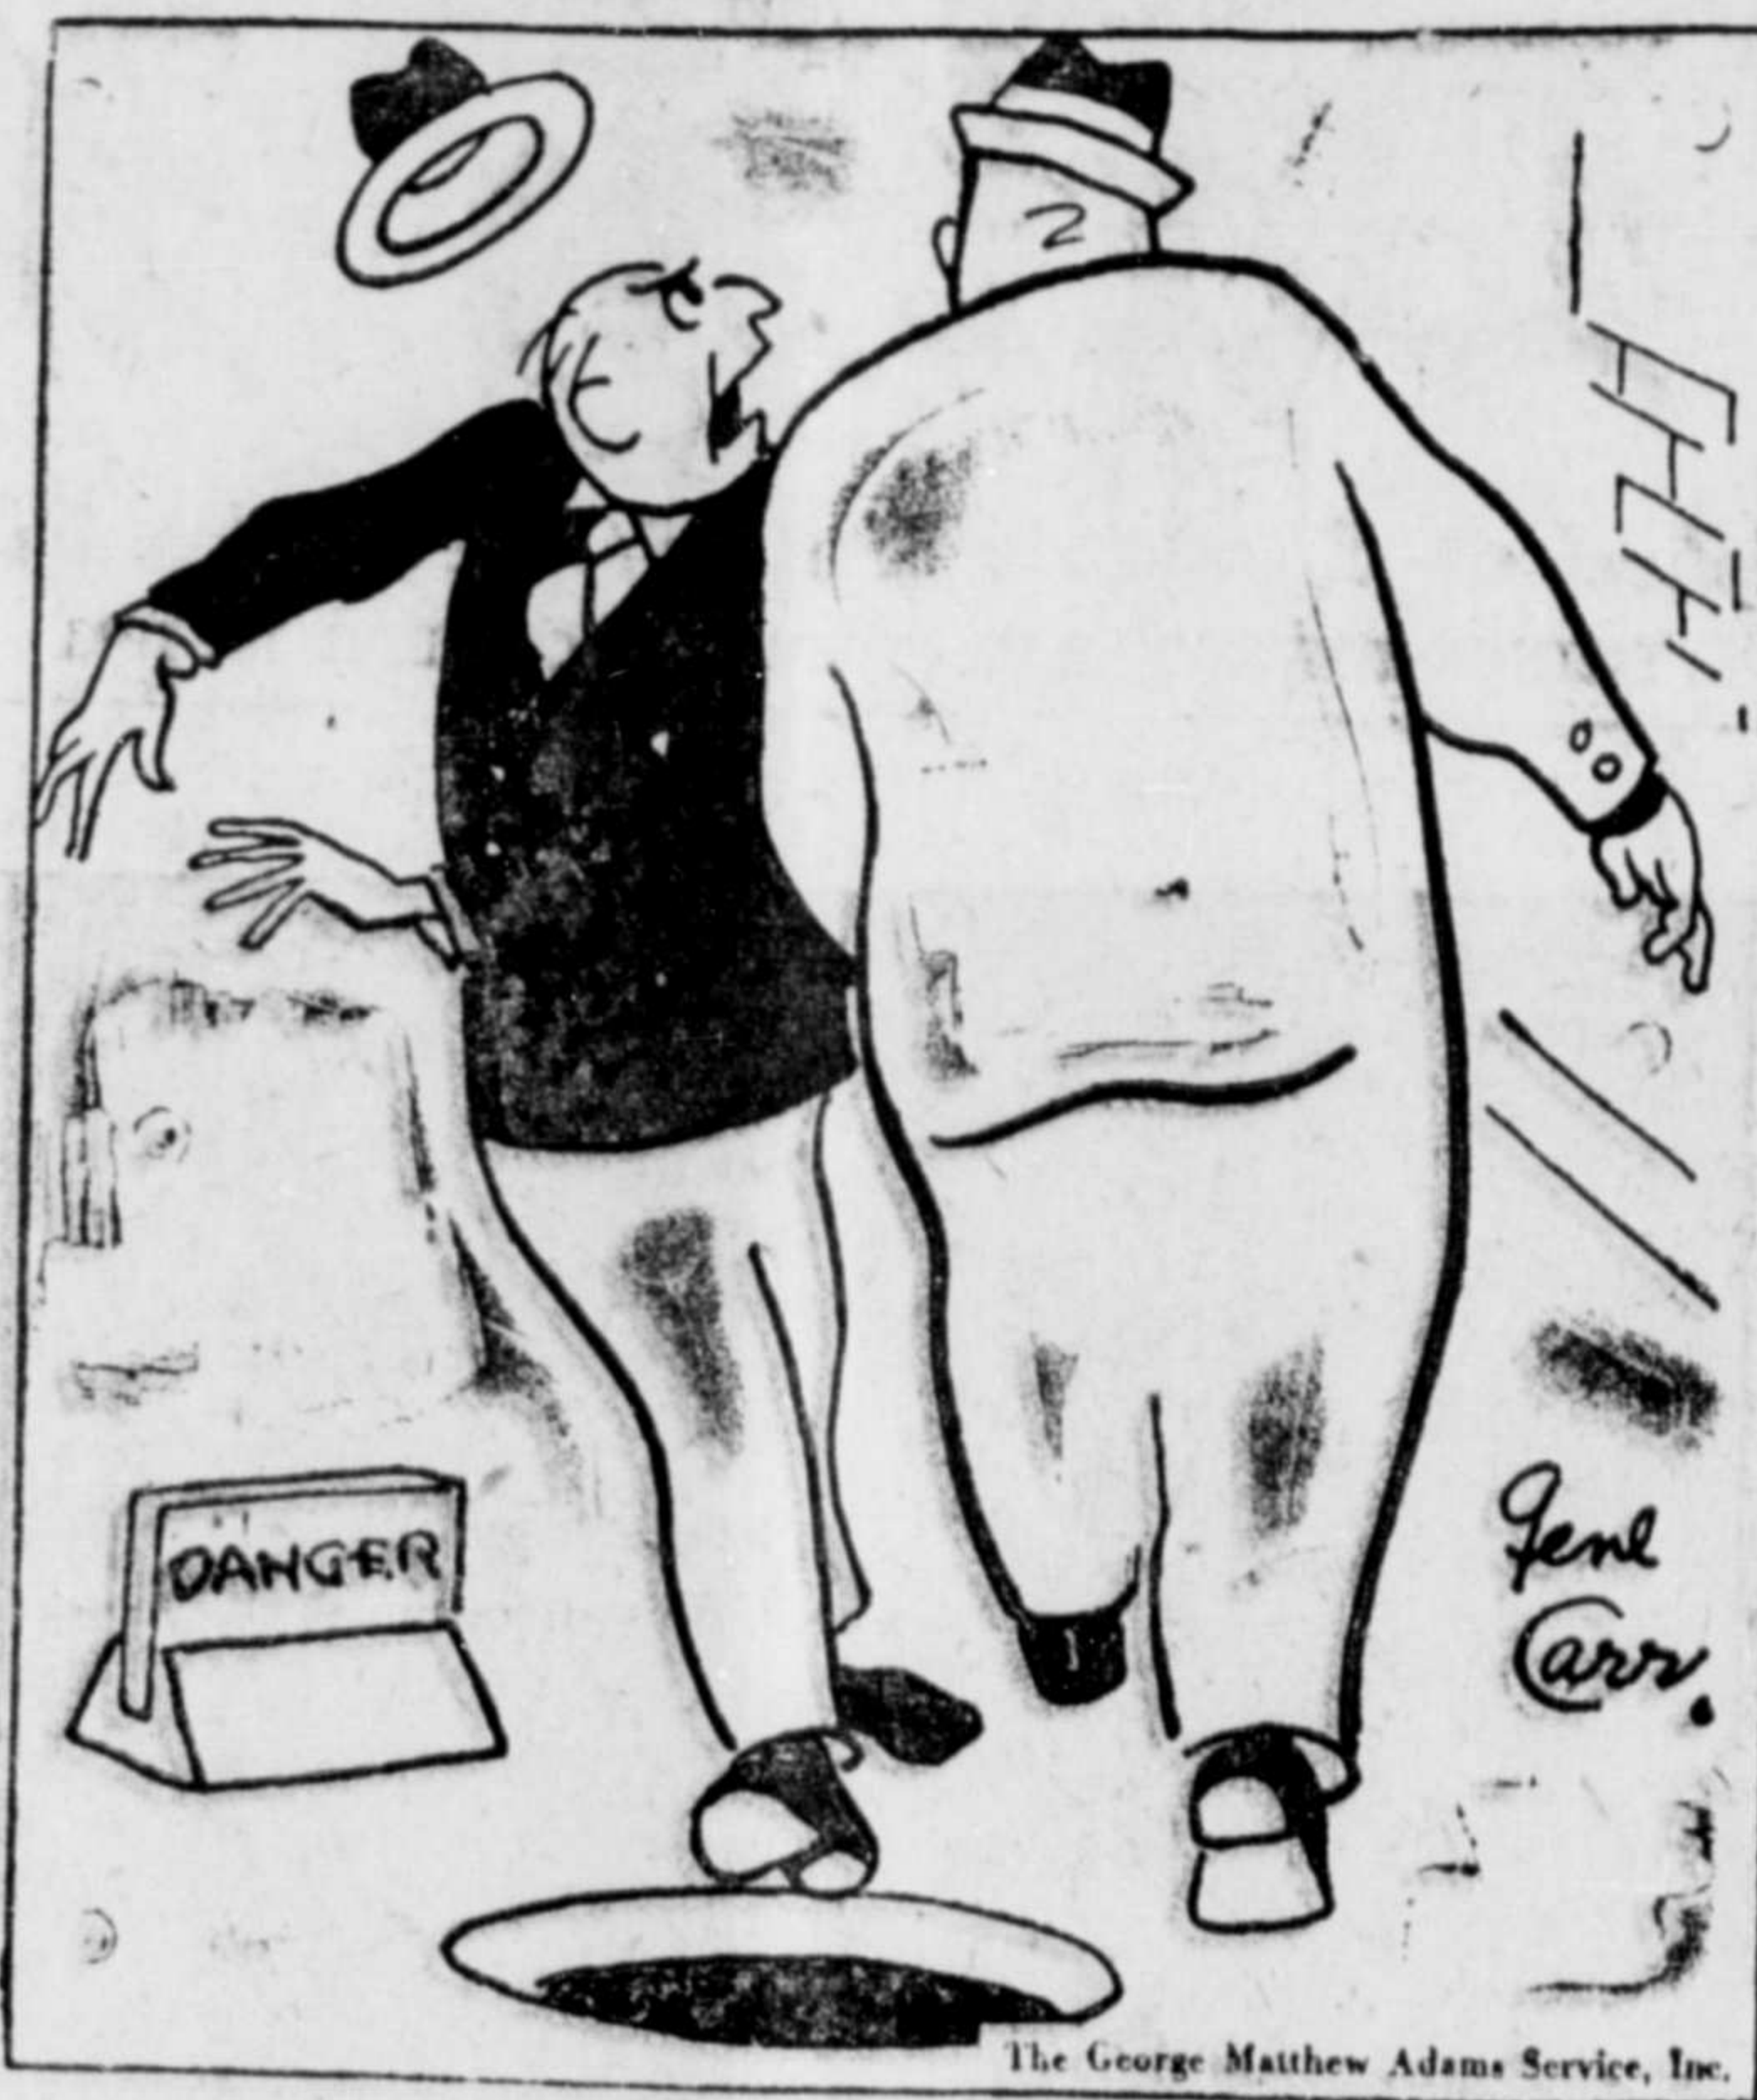

The ending of the war brought Co. McMordie back to Prince Rupert and he resumed contracting business. Probably his most valuable service to the community was in his capacity as police magistrate for several years. On the judicial bench he showed a fairness and fearlessness which became a byword. Later he became mayor and gave efficient and conscientious service.

His versatility extended beyond business and public service activities. He was a keen sportsman—in the strenuous athletics such as football in his college days. He was Prince Rupert's champion tennis and billiard player, despite the ocular handicap.

He was also a pianist of some accomplishment. In social circles he was known as a "perfect host."

The Daily News joins with the many old friends in expressing sentiments of regret at the passing of Stewart Percival McMordie and in extending condolences to Mrs. McMordie and her sons.

COST OF SHIPS DOOMS SEALING

Colorful Newfoundland Industry Has Virtually Disappeared Under Variety Of Handicaps

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.—The sealing industry of Newfoundland, punctuated with a long history of adventure and tragedy, apparently is fading into the rugged past of the island. One explanation is the cost of ships which, with the exception of the steel steamers first used in 1905, can be employed only two months and not used in other work during the rest of the year. The last fleet to sail for the icefields was in 1941.

That the industry is practically obsolete is obvious from the figures of ships and men employed—in 1906 there were 25 steamers and 4,061 men, while in 1936 these had been reduced to eight steamers and 1,460 men. In 1936 the catch was about 150,000 seals, valued at around $200,000.

When seal hunting was one of the important factors in the industrial life of St. John's, in 1855, the St. John's Seal-skinners' Union was formed. It is the oldest trade union organization in Newfoundland, and one of the oldest in the New World. In those days, when a man could skin 300 or 350 seals in nine hours or so, Newfoundland was exporting 440,828 seal skins annually. The gradual decline of the industry is shown in the figures for seal skins exported. In 1805 the number was 81,099; 440,828 in 1850; 203,585 in 1900; 183,689 in 1936. The largest figure is for the early year of 1831.

when 686,836 found outside markets and the lowest figure was in 1920, with 33,985.

May Sail In Spring

Although it is believed that some firms formerly engaged in the industry are planning to replace some of the sealing ships, any plans will have to wait the return of more normal conditions in the shipyards. No definite plans have been made but it is not unlikely that the Eagle, the sole survivor of the wooden ships, will make a voyage next spring. The sole survivor of the steel ships once used is the Nascopie, now used by the Hudson's Bay Company in its trading operations in the far North.

The only remaining attempts at the moment to revive the once important industry is made by shoremen around the north coast, who sometimes succeed in getting remunerative catches. The conditions are subject to the vagaries of wind and tide, and the fishermen practically have to wait for the seals to come to them.

The whale industry of Newfoundland has also decreased in importance until only one firm is engaged in the industry. The whaling plant is at White Bay, and last year about 130 whales were captured.

One of the foremost Australian newspaper publishers says that the role of the press in a democracy is that of a "public opinion parliament" in which every kind of grievance can be aired and investigated.

FOR loved ones coming home . . . for all such occasions . . . there's a spirit of welcome in Maxwell House. This grand coffee opens hearts and loosens tongues . . . there's warmth in its THREEFOLD assurance of enjoyment.

Count first the FINE QUALITY of its Latin-American coffees, each skillfully selected for some special feature of flavor, mellowness or body.

Then the EXPERT BLENDING—A Maxwell House tradition for generations—that combines them all in one delicious, completely satisfying blend.

Last—the remarkable Maxwell House RADIANT ROAST which develops the full strength and flavor of every bean evenly . . . and thoroughly.

For this threefold reason Maxwell House is always "Good to the Last Drop!" Make it your regular coffee.

HOW CAN I ???

By ANNE ASHLEY
Q. How can I make cut flowers last longer?
A. The stems of cut flowers should be clipped every day to prolong their freshness. Another help is to add a couple of aspirin tablets to the water in which they are kept.
Q. How can I improve the flavor of lemons?
A. Place lemons in water until they are wanted for use. The skin will not only be kept from hardening, but the flavor will be improved.
Q. How can I easily shift a rocking chair around the room?
A. Try rubbing floor wax on the rockers of the heavy chairs, and see how easily they can be shifted around the room.

A Grand Milk for Babies

NOTHING but milk—good whole milk with only part of the natural water taken out, and all the food value left in—Carnation's a very fine milk for babies.

There are three big reasons... First, it is as nourishing as milk can be—and provides extra "sunshine" vitamin D to help build bones and teeth. Second, it's safe, because it is sealed and sterilized... keeps indefinitely in the unopened can. Third, it's readily digestible because heat-treatment makes it a soft-curd milk.

Smiles

It Happened In Court
A lawyer was examining the witness.
"You say you had no education," he said sharply, "but you manage to answer my questions smartly enough."
"Well," answered the witness sharply, "you don't have to be a scholar to answer silly questions."—London Answers.

For Variety
A man was running along the street shouting at the top of his voice, "No! No! Certainly not!"

A policeman stopped him and said: "Here, you! What's the idea?"
"It's all right, officer," was the reply. "I'm a 'yes' man on a holiday."—Toronto Globe and Mail.

It's Germany Stuff
A private, after collecting his pay, counted the money by wetting his finger and leafing through the bills.
A nearby soldier said, "Hey, don't you know that money is full of germs?"
The private grunted: "Brother, no germs could live on my salary."

RECREATION
BY JIM NAST

Did you know that reading ranks third on the list of leisure time pursuits of young Canadians? According to a survey conducted by sub-committee on recreation of the Canadian Youth Federation, there is a greater interest in reading than is ordinarily believed. Forty per cent of Canadian adolescents read from 5 to 15 books a year while the top 10 per cent read one book a week. If you are interested in entering the "book a week" league you will also want to know how you can obtain a continuous supply of good books. They can be obtained right here in Prince Rupert. The Prince Rupert Public Library has from three to 4,000 volumes of fiction and non-fiction. Many more are on order and will be on the shelves shortly. If the reading material you desire is not included in this selection, possibly you could obtain it from the Open Shelf Division of the Public Library Commission in Victoria. Upon inquiry to Victoria, full information will be forwarded to you regarding the books which are available, together with an explanation of the free library service they offer. Should a copy of "A Readers' List of Books in the Open Shelf Division" fail to satisfy your literary appetite, you could investigate the free library service offered by the Department of University Extension at the University of British Columbia. An enquiry addressed to either library will bring you a more complete explanation. British Columbia ranks high among the provinces of Canada in free library services so let's take full advantage of them.

Ottawa—Word has been received from Jerry Mathisen, the provincial director of recreation, that the progress in Prince Rupert's "Rup-Rec" program received "much favorable comment" at the National Council of Physical Fitness held in Ottawa recently.

Senator Charles Bishop, who watched history in the making for forty years as a press correspondent in the House of Commons in Ottawa, recently joined the ranks of working newspapermen who have been honored by Senate appointments.

ROTARY SEES CANNERY FILM

Entertained by Moving Pictures—Collection for Old-Timers' Dinner

Prince Rupert Rotary Club members were "taken through" a salmon and herring cannery at Port Edward by the medium of a motion picture which was the entertainment feature of the club's weekly luncheon meeting Thursday. The film was shown by George Peters, local railwayman, whose hobby of photography has built up a rich library of local scenes and industries.

An appeal by President James H. Thompson for individual contribution to the elder citizens' Christmas dinner fund sponsored by the Women's Co-ordinating Council brought a response totalling $37 when the hat was passed around. In addition $25 is being contributed from club funds.

Mr. Thompson announced that next week's meeting would be devoted to club business following the luncheon.

Guests at yesterday's meeting were E. E. Poole, Canadian government appraiser for War Assets Corporation; G. Gottfred, superintendent of Canadian National Telegraphs, Edmonton; C. A. Radford, traffic manager, C.N. Telegraphs, Edmonton, and George Peters, of Prince Rupert.

Find Eczema Cure On Kitchen Shelf

NANAIMO — J. Galloway, prominent dog breeder, discovered by accident not long ago that ordinary liquid blueing is a cure for eczema. It all happened when his favorite dog, suffering from the malady and doomed to be shot, changed her fate when she bumped into her mistress in the family laundry and caused a bottle of blueing to crack and spill over her. A week later tufts of hair grew where the liquid had discolored the inflamed skin. It was then Mr. Galloway began applying the blueing daily until the animal's coat was restored. Other dogs here are taking the cure and making fine progress. The ones with eczema like the blueing because it stops itching and burning.

Big League Meeting in Chicago Comes to Peaceful Conclusion

CHICAGO — The big league baseball meeting in Chicago ended on a note of peace—the major leaguers and Commissioner Happy Chandler apparently agreed to bury the hatchet. With the wind-up came the announcement of approval of unlimited night baseball for 1946.

In amateur hockey rink encounters last night, the Edmonton Flyers defeated the Calgary Stampeders 6-5 in a Western Canada senior hockey league game played in Edmonton. The Sherbrooke Randies scored four goals in the last period to defeat the Saint Hyacinthe Saints 6-2 and pulling into a third-place tie with the Saints in the Quebec Provincial Hockey League. The game was played in Sherbrooke in a Maritime senior exhibition. Moncton defeated Amherst 7-4 and over in the Halifax Senior City League, the R.C.A.F. trounced the Crescents 8-2.

Prominent in the prizefight business, Louis Diamond, has died in Hot Springs, Arkansas. He was 55 years old. Diamond had been currently managing Gus Lesnevich and, during his long career, he had also managed Johnny Buss, the bantam and flyweight titleholder, and Marty Burke, the New Orleans heavyweight. Diamond was regarded in boxing circles as one of the smartest ballyhoo men in the game.

The only game played in the National Hockey League circuit Wednesday night saw the Detroit Red Wings come from behind to gain a 2-2 tie with the Boston Bruins on Boston ice. With the victory, the visitors kept alive their jinx over the Bruins, the Boston club having been unable to top the red shirts in a regular scheduled league tussle since December 28, 1943. The first period passed scoreless. Boston drew first blood on a goal by Dit Clapper early in the second stanza, lobbing a 50-footer through goalie Harry Lumley. Herb Cain put Boston two ahead when he hammered in a forward pass from Cowley but the lines were changed for the resulting face-off and Ben Buidolin knocked the pins from under the Bruins by drawing an interference penalty. That was the signal for the Red Wing offensive and Detroit packed the Boston zone. Carl Liscombe dropped one in behind goalie Paul Bibeault's back and veteran Murray Armstrong put in the equalizer.

Maple Leafs Beat Canucks

MONTREAL—The upset of the evening in the National Hockey League saw the lowly Toronto Maple Leafs nose out the Montreal Canadiens, circuit leaders, in a top-drawer match on Montreal ice. The 4-3 Montreal loss was the first defeat suffered by the Habitants on home ice this season. From Toronto's point of view, it enabled the slow-starting Leafs to move out of a cellar place tie with the New York Rangers. Montreal now stands one point ahead of the second place Chicago Black Hawks.

The Toronto club displayed the form that carried them to the Stanley Cup victory last season. They showed a lot of fight throughout, coming from behind an early 2-0 Canadian lead. For their part, the Canadiens suffered from a week rearguard.

Doing the honors for Toronto were Bob Goldham, Jackie Hamilton, Billy Taylor and Sweeney Schriener. The Montreal goals were tallied by Joe Benoit, Elmer Lach and Toe Blake.

Black Hawks Beat Rangers

In the other National Hockey League tussle last night, the fleet Chicago Black Hawks visited, and trounced, the bottom place New York Rangers, 7-4, placing the Windy City club in second position in the league standing. The victory saw Chicago break its third-place tie with the Boston Bruins and step one point ahead of the Detroit Red Wings.

Three third-period goals spelled victory for the Hawks. The Rangers jumped into a two-goal lead early in the game on counters by Lynn Patrick and Alex Shibicky. Max Bentley and Clint Smith neutralized the New York goals, but Lynn Patrick's second counter of the night made it 3-2 before the period was out.

In the middle stanza, Chicago jumped into the lead on scores by George Gee and Doug Bentley. Alex Shibicky countered on a solo effort to tie the score.

And in the final session, Max Bentley, Clint Smith and Red Hamill tallied for Chicago.

Peace in 55 years?

Here's a fight that's far from over—against tuberculosis, the dread plague that still kills more Canadians between 15 and 45 than any other disease.

Your annual purchase of Christmas Seals since 1900 has helped cut the TB death rate 75%! And TB can be wiped out—some authorities say by the year 2000.

Yet wartime conditions give TB a new lease on life—human life.

So please, help us bring up the reserves. This year, buy extra Christmas Seals. Remember, there can be no peace treaty with tuberculosis.
