LEGION SCORES DEMOB PLANS

VANCOUVER, May 12 — Robert McNichol, provincial secretary of the Canadian Legion, in a prepared statement, condemned the proposed demobilization and rehabilitation plan for active service troops in Europe as "indirect coercion."

Under plans announced by the government Thursday night the highest priority for return to Canada will be given men who volunteered and are accepted for service in the Pacific war.

"We are in favor of having the draft system in operation until the end of the Japanese war," the statement said. "It isn't fair to ask those long service men now overseas to volunteer until they have been sent back to Canada."

RIDICULOUS ROAD TALK

Olof Hanson Comments On Statements Being Made In Regard To Highway

"It is simply ridiculous to talk of the Prince Rupert Highway going to be closed up," said Olof Hanson, late Member of Parliament for Skeena, Saturday afternoon in discussing the present position of the highway.

Mr. Hanson explained that the military authorities, having intimated that the road was no longer required, the $11,000,000 project was now in process of being turned over to the provincial government. Meanwhile the road was passable, notwithstanding the snowslides which had blocked it near Kwinitsa.

It was nonsense to talk of the road being closed up or abandoned. It would, of course, be maintained like other roads of the province.

Prime Minister Pledges Empire and Commonwealth To Finishing Job Of War

Does Not Want Another Form of Totalitarianism in Europe—Freedom, Democracy, Liberation Must Be Real LONDON, May 14 (CP)—Efforts of the British Empire and the Commonwealth are pledged by Prime Minister Winston Churchill to the twin tasks of perfecting peace organization of the United Nations and to inflicting total defeat upon Japan.

Mr. Churchill, in a world-wide broadcast Sunday night, made it plain that, with those tasks ahead, he does not intend to relinquish voluntarily the reins of government otherwise he would not have minded being "put out to grass."

The Prime Minister said that, in perfecting peace organization, "we must make sure that those causes which we fought for find recognition at the peace table in fact as well as word." He asserted that totalitarianism government must not take place of German strong-arm rule in liberated countries.

It should be made sure that the causes of freedom, democracy and liberation should not be distorted.

Mr. Churchill disclosed that the recent occupation of Europe had shown that the Germans had been preparing to launch a mighty long range artillery which might have ruined London as Berlin had been laid waste. Evidence had also been found of preparations for a renewed campaign of intensive submarine warfare. Only the invasion of Europe had headed these off.

The Prime Minister called his people back to work and sacrifice for the war against Japan in support of the United States, which had been of such great assistance in winning the war in Europe, and for the protection of Canada, Australia and New Zealand which had thrown their greatest resources to the support of the Motherland in its darkest hour. "We would be unworthy if we did not fight forward until the whole task is done and the whole world is safe and clean," declared Churchill.

Mr. Churchill denounced Premier Eamon de Valera of Eire for imperilling Britain. Only the support of North Ireland had prevented Britain coming to "close quarters" with de Valera while he frolicked to his heart's content with the Germans and Japanese. He extolled many brave South Irishmen, however, who had fought in the Allied cause.

PLANE TOOK FIRST SUB AFTER WAR

HALIFAX, May 14 (CP)—An R.C.A.F. Liberator captured the first German submarine to surrender after the enemy capitulated in Europe. The aircraft was based on Newfoundland. It sighted the fully-manned u-boat on the surface and the pilot went down low, ready to attack. There was a sudden scramble on the submarine and a black flag—the designated sign of surrender, was run up. The sub was turned over to the Navy when surface vessels arrived.

There was an excellent response everywhere, particularly at the canneries, said Mickleburgh.

ISLANDS TO GO LIBERAL

So Predicts Olof Hanson—Applewhite Busy Campaigning—Is Off Down Coast

"Applewhite will get more votes on the Queen Charlotte Islands than any of the other candidates," predicted Olof Hanson, retiring member for Skeena, Saturday afternoon following his return from a campaign tour to the islands in company with E. T. Applewhite, the Liberal candidate.

The trip was made aboard the power vessel F. H. Phippen, Capt. Cecil Morrison, and Hanson and Applewhite were accompanied by S. E. Parker. There were good meetings and cordial receptions at Massett, Port Clements, Tiell, Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate. Rev. J. M. Murray, Anglican missionary, was chairman of the meeting at Massett, W. J. Rennie presided at Port Clements and Dr. Dunbar McCool at Queen Charlotte and Skidegate. Mr. Applewhite expressed himself as pleased with the reception he had been accorded. The Queen Charlottes were, apparently, flourishing.

After a Saturday night pause in the city, Mr. Applewhite was off again early yesterday morning aboard the Phippen for a tour down the coast which will include Bella Bella, Butedale, Hagsneborg, Bella Coola and Ocean Falls. Oscar Haveroy, prominent local Norwegian leader here, is his companion on this trip.

CANDIDATES ARE HEARD

Archibald and Irvine Sunday Night Speakers

C. C. F. federal candidates of two ridings—LAC Harry Archibald of Skeena and William Irvine of Cariboo—spoke in public meeting to a gathering of about 100 in the Oddfellows' Hall last night.

Candidate Archibald described the riding of Skeena as a natural set-up for the public development of the area's resources and expressed the desire to see a "Skeena Valley Authority" an economic development based on a network of government-built power projects.

He lauded the extent of "political action" evident among members of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Union workers at Stewart and urged that other union members take similar interest in national politics.

The welfare of returning veterans was inextricably bound up with the economic condition of the nation as a whole, he disclosed, and, if the capitalistic profit system continued, there would be a recurrence of "pitiful attempts of veterans of the first world war to make homes" in the central interior district.

LAC Archibald criticized the British tendency to believe that the present Japanese ruling dynasty might be useful to the Allied powers after the war as a nucleus of leadership for the beaten Japanese people.

If they think they can impose the old dynasty on the Japanese people after the war, then there is no hope for the future," he declared.

He urged an immigration policy for Canada "governed by the trade unions, and not by the C. P. R."

The modern economic trend makes the social ownership of primary industry necessary and desirable, Archibald asserted.

"The state should own the big monopolies. You have seen huge government-owned war industries functioning and you have seen privately-owned smaller industries prosper at their side. You have the choice of going into a state economy on your own dictates or of going into a state economy on the dictates of big business," he concluded.

Challenge To King and Bracken

William Irvine posed a hypothetical challenge to Mackenzie King and John Bracken, respective leaders of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties.

"How do they propose to escape the evils of unemployment, high agricultural debt and war if they retain the same system of government which produced those things in 1939 and the years which preceded it?" he asked.

He charged that the Liberal and Conservative parties platforms were not competent to fill the task of maintaining employment after the war.

"The C.C.F. will not only finance the war debt but will employ everyone in Canada who desires to be employed and will banish fear forever," the Cariboo candidate declared.

He scored the stand taken by the Labor Progressive party that "labor and capital should unite under the capitalistic system."

"In that case you would have the workers trying to tell the capitalists how to be capitalists," he said.

Following the speeches, a collection was taken. Ald. George Hils was chairman of the meeting.

LOST HIS PANTS BUT SHOT BEAR

Patrick Michel, Francois Lake Indian, Has Narrow Escape

FRANCOIS LAKE, May 14—Patrick Michel, Indian, came close to being killed on Thursday evening by a large black bear. He was walking at dusk near Nourse Creek, Francois Lake, with his rifle under his arm when he stepped alongside the bear which had evidently been sleeping. It reared up and struck at him, ripping his pants off his thigh and lacerating it, necessitating his being taken to see the doctor.

The bear lost its balance and Patrick managed to scramble back about 12 feet and shoot. The bullet went through one forearm and out the forearm, smashing it. The next bullet passed across the head behind the eyes and he came crashing down.

The bear had evidently been in a fight not so long ago as his nose and one ear had been torn and healed.

THREE GIRLS IN ARMY LIFE

Life in the Women's Army Corps is the theme of "Keep Your Powder Dry," feature picture at the Capitol this Monday and Tuesday. It is a drama replete with thrills, laughter and pathos...

Lana Turner is cast as a wealthy social butterfly who joins the corps to prove her patriotism and, thereby, inherit a fortune.

Laraine Day is the spunky daughter of an army general. Third in the triple star constellation is Susan Peters as the wife of an ill-fated tank corps captain stationed in the South Pacific.
