Mr. Dalton announced that the financial year had ended March 31 with a "recoil" toward a balanced budget resulting in a deficit smaller than had been anticipated. He estimated a prospective surplus of £248,000,000 ($992,000.000) made up of the difference between estimated to-£3,181,000,000 ($12,724,000,000).

The chancellor also hinted that there would be no extensive tax reductions announced. There would, however, be "some changes in taxation, some up, some down," he said.

Gardening Interest

INLESS there is a sufficiently large attendance at tonight's annual general meeting to make apparent a reasonable measure of interest, Prince Rupert Horticultural Association will probably go by default for another season. Meantime, the executive is making an earnest appeal for Prince Rupert gardeners to turn out and keep the Association alive by offering their leadership and assistance.

In a community that professes a desire to be beautiful and attractive, the function that a strong and well organized Horticultural Association can play is not difficult to estimate. It does not take much imagination to see how important it can be. Those already interested in gardening can find therein a common meeting ground for their mutual benefit. What is more important they can get others interested in gardening and beautification all of which is to the good for the community.

It certainly does not speak very well for a city that cannot get enough gardeners together to keep such an organization alive, particularly here in Prince Rupert which has been described as "The Garden City of the North."

One of the satisfying things about gardening is that one can spend as little energy or money as one wishes. Unlike some strenuous hobbies, this one is elastic. There is scope for the most elaborate planning and designs, for an immense amount of exercise if one feels that way. On the other hand, if time or health are limited, or if one feels like loafing, then one ran have a garden to suit that mood, too. One cannot say that a small flower garden is less beautiful than a large one, but there is a difference in the amount of work involved.

It is really amazing the results in satisfaction and beauty gardeners can get from a tiny plot of flowers. And they will not take much work either. A little digging and a few packets of seeds or boxes of started plants are all that are needed. If one has more time it can be enlarged and, as one's interest grows, more frills can be added.

BETTER DAYS

DRINCE RUPERT, which was described in the Legislature as a "neglected city" and which has certainly not gone forward according to the promises of forty odd years ago, seems at last to have had a break. It is to have a great industry.

The provincial government has persuaded the Celanese Corporation of America to establish a plant on Watson Island, eight miles from the city, and to spend $15,000,000 on buildings and equipment. Approximately 1000 men will be employed in the woods and the mill, thus establishing quite an important payroll for Prince Rupert.

An interesting feature of the bargain with the Celanese Corporation is the corporation's undertaking to maintain the forest area allotted to it in perpetuity. Thus while forests will go and forests will grow, the plant on Watson Island, it is promised, will keep on rolling along.

Prince Rupert has tried grain exporting and has tried shipbuilding. They have not proven very satisfactory. Its fishing industry has been better. Now it is to have pulp which may prove the beginning of better days.

INDEPENDENT FISH BUYERS

NORTHERN BRITISH COLUMBI

HEAD OFFICE LOCATED AT PRINCE RUPERT

We take pleasure in announcing the opening of our operations for the 1947 season and take this opportunity of familiarizing you with our camp managers for this period.

As the 1947 fishing season was drawing near we endeavoured to procure the most efficient and reliable camp managers to operate our camps. We have succeeded as you will note. We have also tried to obtain the best of equipment to further facilitate and accommodate the fishermen during their period of operation. We have partly completed this aim by equipping two new and modern fish camps.

It is our hope that all the fishermen will have a very prosperous season

CAPT. BILL FLEWIN — Will again take over the helm of the M.V. Hillside. He will be at the service of the fishermen who may desire urgent and special orders.

CAMP NO. I

Located at

Wark Canal

"Red", who is returning for his second consecutive season at this location, is a very capable person with a pleasing personality.

After completing a very successful season in 1946, he is even more ready and willing to co-operate fully with the fishermen to the best of his ability. He will operate one of our new modern camps.

CAMP NO. II

Located at

Goose Bay-Dundas Island

ELEF LASSESEN — An older and more experienced manager who has proven his capabilities to us as well as to the fishermen, has chosen this location for his camp for the season of 1947. This being his fifth year at this job, his natural ability and knowledge will go well towards serving and satisfying the fishermen.

CAMP NO. III

Boat Harbor—Dundas Island

WILLIAM MORRIS—It is well known that Bill is one of the most experienced and most popular camp managers in these parts. His friendliness and personality has made him a favorite with the fishermen. His efficiency and energetic ability have also won him praise from fish camp operators. We are very pleased to have him back in our employ. He will also operate one of our new modern camps.

CAMP NO. IV

Located at

Squadaree—Stevens Island

ED LATTERY — Another experienced and popular camp manager whose energy and capabilities go well toward giving the fishermen the service they so well deserve. This being his third year at this type of work, his popularity has grown more with each passing season. He has chosen this camp for his area of operation because of the fact that this was his original and favorite location.

CAMP NO. V

Located at

Summerville Bay (May 10-June Zayas Island (June 15-July 20 Stonehouse Bay (July 20-Sept.)

JACK ALLEN — A pioneer of camp man We are very fortunate in having Jack of this camp. As this camp is not a state one, a versatile person, quick to win it is necessary. He accomplished this to entire satisfaction of both the fishermer has employers during the season of 1946.

BASKETBALL IS WOUND UP

Business of Season Concluded at Meeting Last Night

The Prince Rupert Basketball Association formally closed the 1946-47 season last night by finishing up the unfinished business of the year at a meeting of executive.

The Basketball Association's new constitution was presented for a brief reading by the members and a vote to recommend it to next year's league was passed.

The members in attendance last night felt also that, as the season was now pretty well finished, a celebration at this time would be a little anti-climactic so, plans for a big basketball dance and banquet were dropped.

President Arthur Murray was SHORT SPORT ***********

The current clamor for revision of Grand National Steeplechase rules could be prompted by those who lost their shirts when unknown Caughoo romped home over the second largest field in the history of the classic -but the howls may bring re sults. Many experts believe that conditions of the world's toughest steeplechase should be changed to limit the size of the field.

Proposals are being made for the race to be run either in tw divisions, with the best horses in the first division and others running with "bottom weight" in the second division, or tha the race be run in one division with "bottom weight" horses eli minated. Supporters of this suggestion maintain that lower class horses cluiter up the field and make the race more of a lottery than it ought to be. They stress that horses carrying the minimum 140 pounds—as Caughoo did-have won only twice in the last 30 years.

On the other side of the fence are those who believe luck will always play a great part in this unique 41/2-mile chase. Those who hold this view say they are more than willing to take their chances that an unconsidered outsider will come up every now and then to add lustre to the event and money to their pockets. This group also maintains it is a fallacy to think that the bigger the field, the greater chance for mishaps. For instance, this year 17 horses—and jockeys officially completed the course or about 30 per cent of the field

CITY COUNCIL PLANS VISIT TO KETCHIKAN

Recognizing the value of close relationship with Alaska, city council plans to visit Ketchikan as a body during the American patriotic celebration on July 4. The idea was warmly approved by his colleagues when laid before them by Alderman George Casey last night.

"I think we should also invite the Ketchikan city council to visit us on our national holiday—July 1," Alderman T. B. Black suggested in speaking in favor of Alderman Casey's motion. Council agreed that would be a good idea, too. Quipped Alderman Youngs. who second Alderman Casey's motion: "We might be able to make a ball game out of itthere are nine of us."
