British Columbia Indians Present Case to Ottawa

Ask Less Discrimination, More Education and Representation

Cannery Companies Are Charged With Keeping Natives Down—Move to Bring Japs Back to Coast Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia Indians want less discrimination, more education and "no taxation without representation," the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia told a joint Parliamentary committee on Indian affairs Friday night. Thomas Gosnell of Port Simpson charged that west coast cannery companies were using financial pressure to keep the Indians down. These companies owned 85 percent of the boats and equipment used by the Indians. A move was being made to bring the Japanese back to the fisheries on the west coast, Gosnell charged. Gosnell pointed to Alaska as an example of where the government had bought canneries and allowed the Indians to buy them, the same Indians now operating them successfully.

A lengthy brief, signed by William Scow, president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia; Rev. Peter R. Kelly, chairman of the Legislative committee, and Guy R. Williams, representative of unaffiliated Indians of British Columbia was presented to the committee.

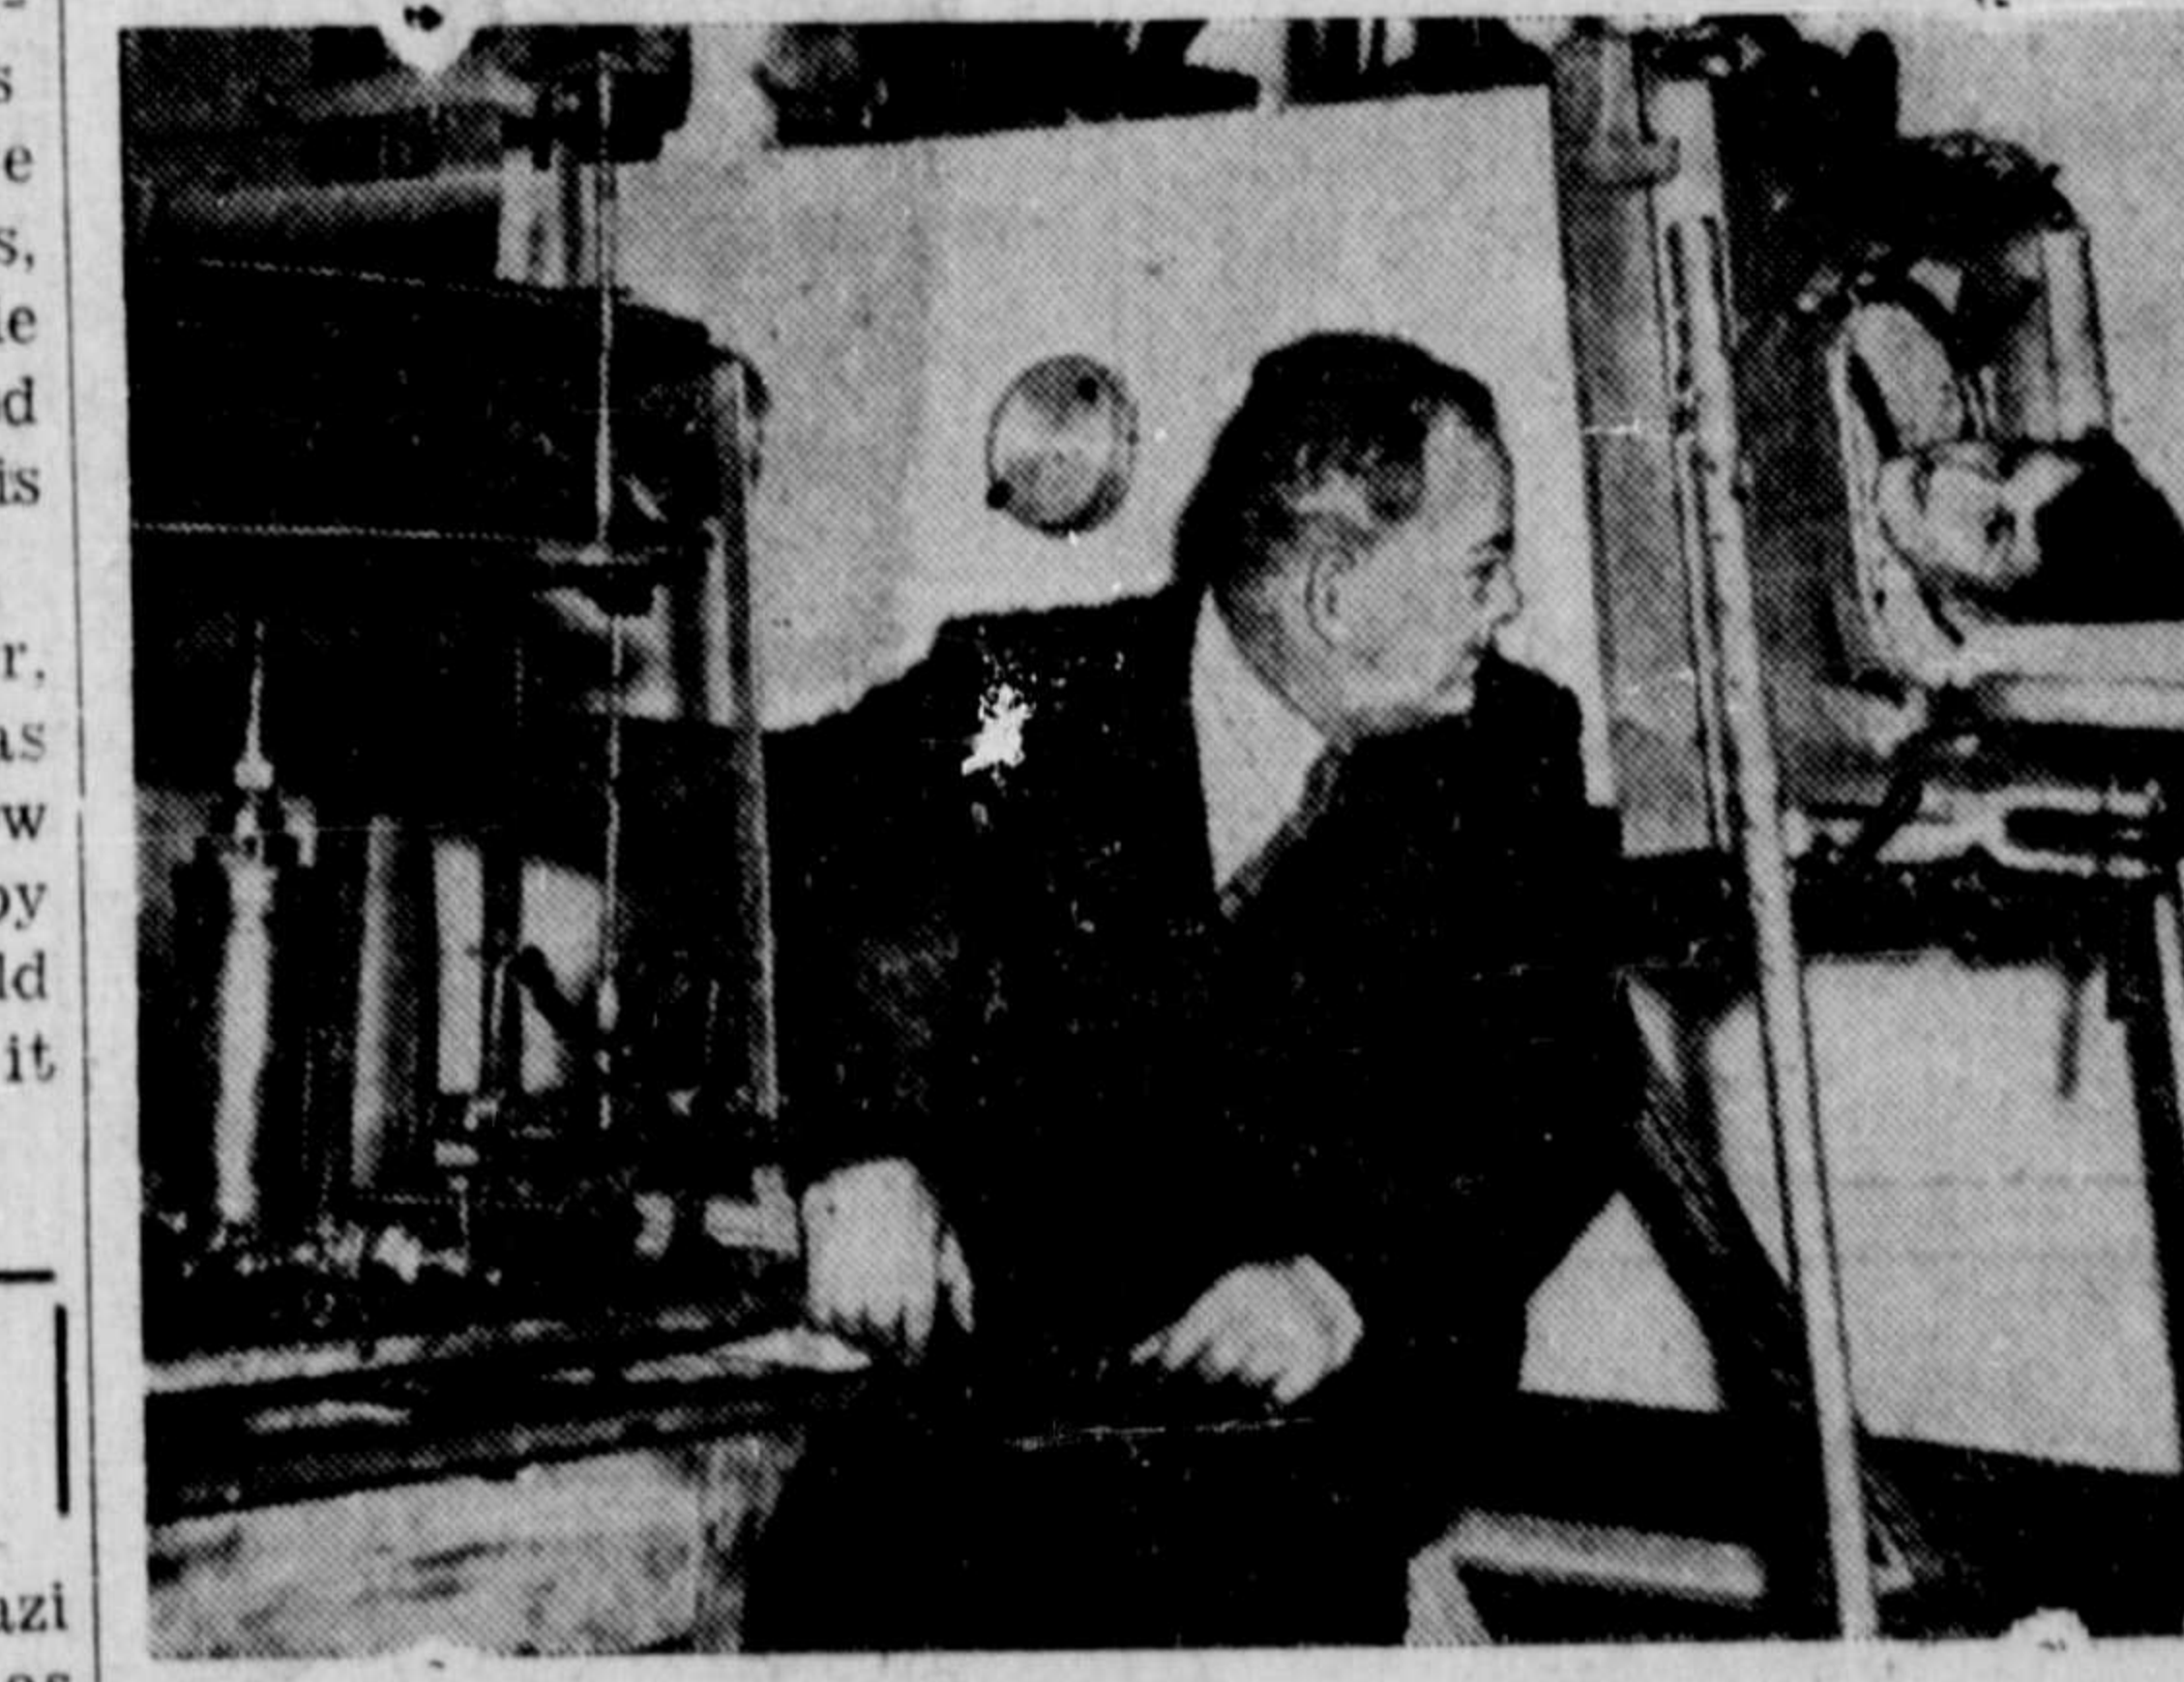

Aquitania Brings Many Passengers

MONTREAL, (CP)—When the Aquitania docked at Halifax Saturday from Southampton, she had on board one of the largest groups of passengers she has yet brought to the Dominion. The Canadian National operated four boat specials to handle the movement from that port. One train is carrying 342 passengers to points in western Canada.

The vessel will stop here in the course of a United States naval reserve training cruise. The visit will be informal. The J. W. Thomason, under command of Lieut.-Commander G. Gemmill, will leave on May 26.

MAY DAY DISORDERS

Worst Trouble Was in Palermo, Italy Where Eight Were Killed

LONDON, (CP)—Most serious of the disorders in Europe which marked May Day observances as the world's workers celebrated labor's traditional international holiday, occurred at Palermo, Sicily, where eight persons were killed and 33 wounded in a clash when two parading columns numbering 400 workers and peasants, were caught in machine gun fire at a crossroads.

Workers throughout Italy, except those in public services and utilities, left their benches and offices today in general strike to protest, at the ambush. The general labor federation did not say how long the strike should last but it was believed it might only be a few hours.

Five thousand Italians in Trieste were dispersed with tear gas and fire hose when they attempted to hold a parade which had been banned by the authorities.

The largest demonstrations for May Day occurred in Moscow where Premier Stalin reviewed a huge parade.

LONDON BRIDGE BROUGHT DOWN

Royal Navy Mans Span After Regular Crew of City Employees Walk Out

LONDON, (CP)—The Royal Navy began operating drawbridge spans of London's picturesque Tower Bridge today while a regular crew of city employees remained on strike. The bridge had been open, its span skyward, since Monday night when the walk-out occurred. It crosses the Thames in a heavily-travelled area and the walkout caused traffic chaos.

UTILITIES COMMISSION HEARING ON TRUCKING TRANSFERRED HERE

Quick action has been obtained by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and other northern boards in response to representations a few days ago to the Public Utilities Commission that the hearing in connection with the application of Canadian National Transportation Ltd. for a scheduled trucking licence on the highway between Prince Rupert and Burns Lake should be held in this area instead of in Vancouver.

A message received by Duncan Kerr, secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia, today from Dr. W. A. Carrothers, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, said the hearing had been changed from Vancouver on May 14 to Prince Rupert on June 4 and 5.

ROCK SLIDE ON RAILWAY

Train, Due From East Tonight, is at Least Fifteen Hours Late

A 350-foot rock slide, which came down over both the Prince Rupert and Vancouver lines of the Canadian National Railways track near Mount Robson at six o'clock last evening and was located by the section crew, was still blocking the traffic up to the middle of this morning and the train, ordinarily due from the East at 10:45 (standard time) tonight, was posted as being 15 hours late, which would bring it in at 1:45 standard (2:45 daylight saving) time tomorrow afternoon. Steam shovel and other equipment was busy this morning digging out the obstruction which appeared to be fairly deep.

Rescued By Fish Vessel

Crew of Doomed Freighter Saved In Storm Off Coast of Nova Scotia

PORT MOUTON, Nova Scotia (CP)—While pounding seas beat at the hull of the wrecked British freighter Wicklow Head, stranded on nearby Point Joli Head after running aground in a thick fog last night, thirty of her crew were taken off in a daring rescue operation yesterday by the fishing boat Ray Richards.

The other three members of the 33-man crew had struggled ashore early yesterday on the desolate rocky coast five miles from this southern Nova Scotia fishing village. Their lifeboat was pounded to splinters on the rocks.

Labor Is Returned

Victorious Day in Elections In Two Australian States

SYDNEY, (CP)—Labor governments were, apparently, returned to power in the state elections today in New South Wales and Queensland, but with reduced majorities, the Australian Broadcasting Commission announced.

DE-CONTROL RESTRICTIVE LAWS SCORED

Verbal blows at rising living costs and "restrictive" labor legislation were delivered by Stan Boshier, local Labor-Progressive Club chairman, before an audience of 30 which attended a May Day meeting in the Metropole Hall Thursday night.

Major problem facing Canada's workers today, Mr. Boshier said, is to have price controls reversed so that prices will return to levels comparable to last year and he urged that labor unions unite to put pressure on the government for this purpose.

"In order to bring this about, unified effort by all trade unions is essential, and it could be brought about by co-operation between the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress," Mr. Boshier said. "With such co-operation, we could arouse a show of protest among the workers and farmers that the government would be forced to adopt a policy allowing for better living standards."

On the other hand, he asserted, excess profits taxes on business should not be lifted at the present time. The recent decision of the government should be reversed and the taxes reimposed.

Mr. Boshier declared that "big business" is conspiring to scuttle the labor movement so it can reap "super profits" during the next few years. He cited American legislation designed to outlaw industry-wide bargaining and the closed shop as evidence of this across the border and "Bill 39" in British Columbia.

Particularly odious to the labor movement are sections of Bill 39 which allow for the setting up of company unions under the name of "employee organizations" and also provisions for large fines for workers taking actions illegally under the act.

HENRY MAKES SOME FRIENDS—Like the little boy who tossed an egg into the electric fan and then went out to spin his top, Henry Wallace sits at peace with two children at the foot of the memorial erected by U.S. servicemen at Frackleton, Eng., where an American plane crashed on the village school during the war, killing all but the two children shown with Wallace. They are Ruby Whittle and George Casey. There were rumblings in the U.S. Congress over Wallace's criticism of U.S. foreign policy in speeches he made in England.

CONTROL BILL GOES THROUGH

OTTAWA, (CP)—House of Commons gave third reading to the government's main control bill—the last of emergency legislation submitted for approval this session. The bill now goes to the Senate for three readings of its eight clauses embodying 57 orders-in-council. It continues for one year the government's authority to impose price and rent controls.

PRISON RIOT IS PUT DOWN

Night Long Disorder at United States Army Disciplinary Barracks

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (CP)—Two hundred and fifty of 800 prisoners who engaged in a night-long riot at army disciplinary barracks surrendered to their guards today. They surrendered after the commandant sent them an ultimatum over the loud speaker system.

One prisoner was killed and seven others were injured in rioting previous to the surrender. The disturbance started when white prisoners objected to eating with negroes.

More than 200 tear gas shells and grenades were lobbed into the cell blocks before the ultimatum was issued.

Year's First Cottonwood Raft Leaves Billmor

The first cottonwood sea crib to be dispatched from the Prince Rupert district this year left Billmor mill Saturday under tow for Vancouver, destined for Western Plywoods Ltd., where it will be converted into Veneers for furniture and industrial uses.

The crib, or Davis raft, was composed of 1,237 logs, scaling 900,000 feet board measure, and left Billmor in tow of the tug Island Commander, Capt. Goodwin. It cleared Billmor at ten o'clock Saturday morning.

The logs were collected at Billmor during 1946, being hauled from the Terrace district by Canadian National Railways. They were cut by C. L. M. Giggey, Terrace timber operator.

The huge crib was woven together with 33 cables of 1½-ins diameter, cables weighing five tons, and used 24 steel shackles, 75 cable clamps, the whole binding equipment being valued at $3,600, 20 per cent of which is of no value for further use.

The tug Island Commander, which is towing the raft, was formerly known as the Andrew Kelly, and was once owned by the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Co., which operated it as a trawler.

MUNICH HELLS HITLER AGAIN

MUNICH, Germany (CP)—Nazi posters praising Adolf Hitler as the ideal leader and announcing a new anti-semitic party appeared mysteriously on billboards in a central square here yesterday.

ENGLAND'S VAN HORSES HAVE THEIR DAY—Each year, around Easter time, London's van horses, those ubiquitous beasts of burden, who are seen daily carting goods and hauling freight, have their day. They are shined up and cleaned and paraded by the Van Horse Parade Society. One of the express dairies' entrants rears with anxiety as he gets ready for the show. This was the society's 33rd show. Prizes are given to the best van horses.

Gratifying Sum of $95.50

The value of steady continuous Junior Red Cross activities was demonstrated at Borden Street School yesterday afternoon when the sum of $95.50 was raised by a sale of pyrex pie plates, casseroles, potted plants, sachets, fancy work and toys, all these having been made available through work of the pupils.

Each grade also had on display some phase of Red Cross work with the senior grades running a program. Grade Six carried out a regular business session with Penio Penoff as chairman and Alice Nickerson as secretary. Reports were presented by Danny McAfee, circulation manager, Barry Lashmar, treasurer, Ronnie Rhodes, health convener and a program with Roberta Paul, convener. All wore Red Cross arm bands and Red Cross buttons, and had decorated the rooms suitably.

Grade Five staged a humorous skit in addition to other items. Edwin Vell, recently arrived pupil from Vancouver, provided outstanding items in his playing of the piano accordion. In addition to playing for his own grade he played for other grades and in the sale room.

The pupils were greatly helped by the valuable assistance of Mrs. S. A. Cheeseaman, Mrs. H. C. Flood and Mrs. Young.

Since September the pupils of the school have collected 12,878 coupons and as a result have been able to turn over for Junior Red Cross work over $200.

A. E. Macmillan, manager of Cassiar cannery, and Mrs. Macmillan and family arrived in the city on the Camosun yesterday afternoon from Vancouver en route to the Skeena River for the summer.

CRUELTY TO CHILDREN

Editor, Daily News—

In most cities they have an S.P.C.A. for the preventing of cruelty to animals. It might be a good thing if Prince Rupert had some such organization for the prevention of cruelty to children.

Trying to teach a child not to play with fire by burning the child's hand seems to me to be a very severe punishment for a four-year-old child or any age, for that matter. Have the proper authorities been notified? I've been told that a doctor was called by the father to treat the child when he got frightened at what he had done through his temper.

Can you visualize how this child must have suffered. Surely something can be done about this matter.

Thank you, Mr. Editor.

A SYMPATHIZER.

FORMER DOMINION WRESTLING CHAMP LIVING QUIETLY HERE

It was just thirty-five years ago yesterday—May 2, 1912, that Steve Murphy, then a husky young 212-pounder, now 285-pound Steve Dumas, retired bridge-builder and hotel operator, living quietly in Prince Rupert, lost the Dominion heavyweight wrestling championship which he had held for three years.

Steve does not talk much about his career on the mat any more, but he was induced to open up by an old friend on the Daily News staff yesterday. It was on July 4, 1909, at Prince Rupert, that he won the title from Walter Anderson, fifteen successful defences following, until he was defeated at Edson, Alberta, by Jack Connell, the "British Columbia Wild Cat." It was a two hour and ten minute engagement with Steve winning two falls and losing three.

One of those who saw the Edson fight was Joe Brenner, who is at present a patient in the Prince Rupert General hospital.

Steve started his mat career at Duluth, Minnesota, when 20 years of age and engaged in all in 57 bouts. His last match was in Flint, Michigan, in June of 1917, when he lost two falls, after winning one, to Gus Sorenson of Detroit.

Steve is a native of New Richmond, Quebec, and has been a resident of this part of the country for more than 25 years. With "Dude" Robertson, he was at one time operating the Kit-sault House at Alice Arm. Then he went for several years to the Northern Manitoba Mining country, returning here several years ago to take up permanent residence.

In spite of his 65 years he is still strong and powerful. "I work hard and don't touch any liquor," he confided.

Douglas Clark of the extension department of the University of British Columbia, specializing in co-operative and credit union subjects, arrived in the city on the Catala this morning from Bella Coola, after spending a few days visiting the fishing camps out of here, will proceed to Burns Lake and other interior points.

Cecil Fitzgerald is sailing by the Camosun tonight on his return to Vancouver, after a visit on Home Oil Distributors Ltd. business. Mr. Fitzgerald was local manager of Home Oil before the war.

three months, the annual meeting of the organization decided Thursday night.

The club will include this as a major resolution in the brief which it is preparing to submit to the extension of provincial Rod and Gun clubs in Vancouver at the end of May. The convention is sponsored by the game department.

Reason given for the proposed extension is that ducks and geese in this area actually belong to local population which do not migrate to any great extent and that the open season on them would have little effect on bird hunting in areas where the migratory flocks stop.

The local club wants the season extended from November 1 to January 30, instead of to January 15 as it exists at present.

The election of officers resulted in the following members taking executive positions for the next year:

President, J. T. Langridge.
Vice-President, R. G. Van der sluis.

Secretary-Treasurer, Fred Grimble.

Executive: Ned McLeod, George Abbott, John Walker, Forbes Lee and Norman Martinson.

Mr. Van der sluis was named delegate to the provincial convention in Vancouver at the end of May.

The club has asked sportsmen in other areas of this district to submit resolutions to be included in the brief which Mr. Van der sluis will present at the convention. Requests have been made to Terrace, Queen

Charlotte Islands and other areas.

The meeting was informed that a supply of Kamloops trout eggs, requested by the club for stocking Rainbow Lake, will be sent from provincial hatcheries in the south. The order placed with the game department was 100,000 eggs.

"She's here every day—trying to get in the last word."

LIFE in this Prince Rupert by BIDDEE JINKS

Letters, says Noah Webster, are written or printed communications. A more general definition might be that letters are those things left undone which should have been done long ago. Numbered among the sins of omission, they lie around in our minds tugging for attention with all the persistence of a teething child whining at its mother's hemline. (And the hemline is coming down for an easier reach.) They come up in turn before us. This one, then that one, which we should have written weeks ago. Guiltily, intensely, we determine to not let another day pass before writing. Well, not two, anyway.

And on a day whose weather makes letter-writing lovely by comparison; one which forbids going out or dares any soul to come in; with a chin-line rigid in its do-or-die; with pen and ink before us, and besides those implements of war a great heap of unanswered letters, at last—at long last—we sit down. It will be done in one sitting, and this is it.

Once started, it is rather pleasant. Amidst the flow of ink and thought comes a sudden wonderment at being found so childish about so simple a thing. Now, why would a person not take a little time each week for letters, instead of allowing them to pile up? It is no new resolution of course, but never again... positively never.

An hour elapses, then two. The pen does not seem weary, but the fellow on the end of it begins to think longingly for a mimeograph. Writing one letter after another is tiresome. Repeating the same phrases and bits of news to everybody becomes even more grueling. Yet there is no help for it. After such a lapse, a letter must be interesting—and lengthy. And if anything is more disgusting than a Christmas card without a line in it, it is one of these hasty notes from some well-meaning soul who nevertheless expects a full-bodied letter in reply. Like this one, fifth from the top: "Just a line in a hurry."

It reads: "We are all fine, but it's awful busy. Hope you are too. The weather here is lovely—just perfect. We'll expect to hear from you soon. Love—" Now that if a person could do it that way there wouldn't be much to this letter-writing. Few lay claim to such a gift, if it might be termed as such, and certainly you are cut. So—

The next day finds yesterday's enthusiasm diminished but not entirely drained away. Neither are the letters an entirety. Another two take form and night comes on, and closes down about a knight clad in rubber armour. Some noble soul has done nobly—and its own what relief in well-earned self-esteem, and wings to freed conscience. Surely, life holds few moments of such utter and complete contentment.

The post office soon brings returns. The broken thread of friendly intercourse is resumed in small gossip, news of planting-time and of a hard prairie winter. Vivid pictures of younger days at home come back—or a holiday spent "back there" become real again, each sprinkled over with a special dew that opens anon new recesses of memory and thought. What friends! Real friends, so forgiving—and so glad to get your

FINE CONCERT BY CIVIC BAND

Pine competence and versatility were displayed by the Prince Rupert Civic Band in the varied program which constituted its initial public appearance under the baton of Bandmaster Peter Lien before an appreciative audience in the Civic Centre last night.

In addition to the selections by the band, the program included presentations by guest artists that rounded out the excellent instrumental fare and left the audience with the realization of what a sound basis for musical development Prince Rupert has in its newly formed band.

The band showed remarkable cleanness of tone throughout all numbers, ranging from soft, dulcet reverie "Dawn" by Bennett, to the most stirring marches.

Mr. Lien showed complete control over the instruments throughout the concert, uniting them into a unit that has definitely earned the title of "band."

While all selections were well received, possibly the most popular were the Selections from "H.M.S. Pinafore" with lilting Gilbert and Sullivan melodies. The band was fortunate to have the services of clarinetist Thos. Johnstone for solo parts in this and other selections.

The program, opened with a brief introduction by Fred Conrad, who introduced Bandmaster Lien, continuing in martial spirit with the stirring "Maple City March" by Chamberlain in which the band showed excellent precision and spirit.

Guest artists included Bert Cameron, violinist, who played "Were My Songs With Wings Provided," by Ahan, and "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak, Accompanist was H. T. Lock.

Mrs. Roy Wicks, second guest artist, sang Strauss's "Im In Love With Vienna," "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," by Kern, and "Mighty Lak' a Rose." Andy McNaughton accompanied at the piano.

The band was composed of the following members: Neville Gerard, T. A. Johnstone and Terry Parsons, clarinets; William Duffson, saxophone; George Brown, Olafur Eyolfson, trumpets; L. H. Stevens, horns; Alfred Shrub-sall, Nick Pavlikis, baritones; Roi Judge, C. F. McCarthy, trombones; Morris Teng, Reg. Martin, Basses; Robert Woods, drums.

Pleasing individual instrumental work was shown in the solo trombone performance of Roi Judge who played "Asleep in the Deep" and the duet for trumpets "From Vienna's Past" played by George Brown and Ole Eyolfson.

Other numbers by the band were "Operatic Mingle," "The Middy" (March) "Organ Echoes" (serenade) and "Colonel Bogey" (march).

W. J. Nelson of this city is finding it wintry around Taku. Mr. Nelson, who is in the Customs Service, left for the north recently. Frequent storms have to some extent been interfering with the air service along the Taku and at Tulsequah. Mining development is being planned there.

Lady Musicians O.K. But Lack Steam

VANCOUVER—Albert Steinberg Vancouver symphony orchestra concert master, said in an interview that he considered women musicians just as good as men, but that "they lack steam."
"They are co-operative, good sportsmen and as punctual as men," he said, "but because of their emotional and physical make-up, they lack steam."
In the Vancouver symphony 21 of the 80 members are women—nine violins, five second violins, four cellists, two violas four players and one flautist.
"If the woman is a better performer than the man—then the woman is," he remarked. "But too many women might lose tone for the orchestra."

New Briggs Service to Start May 12, Southeastern Leaving Frisco This Week-end—Halibut Season Opens

To inaugurate a new shipping service linking southeastern Alaska with the British Columbia port of Prince Rupert and the transcontinental Canadian National Railways, Briggs Steamship Co.'s motor vessel Southeastern was to leave San Francisco this week-end for Prince Rupert and Ketchikan. This announcement came today from Stanbridge Agencies Ltd., which is to be Prince Rupert agent for the line. The service is to start from Prince Rupert May 12. The Southeastern has been at San Francisco for several weeks, being reconverted for the new service and outfitting. Phillip G. Briggs, head of the company, who has been in New York, is to make the trip north in his new vessel. T. H. Gustafson, manager of the company, is to fly north from San Francisco to be in Ketchikan and Prince Rupert in advance of the Southeastern's arrival.

Cargo will be at Prince Rupert awaiting the Southeastern's arrival to be loaded for Ketchikan and other southeastern Alaska points. It originates from the most part in the Minneapolis area to which the territory is now looking for its source of supply instead of Seattle. Return cargoes of fish products are being organized in Southeastern Alaska for transshipment east, by rail from Prince Rupert to the United States.

The Southeastern will operate from Prince Rupert to such ports in Southeastern Alaska as Ketchikan, Wiangell, Petersburg and Juneau.

With a fair-sized list of passengers including a few who went on to Alaska, Union steamer Camosun, Capt. Alex McLennan, arrived in port at four o'clock yesterday afternoon from Vancouver and Ocean Falls, sailing at 1 o'clock this morning for Ketchikan whence she will return here this evening southbound. The Camosun had some 125 tons of freight for Prince Rupert.

During a recent two days' session of the annual meeting of the Fisheries Council of Canada at Ottawa, plans were discussed for an educational program to be carried out among fishermen, processors, wholesalers and retailers on the most advanced scientific methods of fish handling. It was also decided that the council would develop plans for implementation at a later date, of consumer education on the high protein values of fish in daily fare and the proper preparation of fish dishes.

The first of the vessels of the halibut fleet which began fishing in Area Two on Thursday are expected to start arriving here with their catches within the next few days, possibly Monday or Tuesday, thus turning the spigot in what some believe will be the biggest and shortest—halibut season in the history of the coast.

However, while the fish houses stand ready to receive the first catches of the season, the fishing companies' camps located on islands closer to the fishing grounds, already are receiving halibut caught by the smaller boats, mostly trollers making a brief play for halibut before going after salmon later this season.

Operators of many of these smaller boats planned to deliver daily to fish camps, thereby relieving themselves of the need to pack ice from Prince Rupert and make the return trip loaded. Their daily catches would be packed in ice at the cannery camps and brought in larger quantities to Prince Rupert by Packers.

Most of the regular halibut fleet has cleared port by today, and when they start delivering here, the buyers will be among the busiest men on the waterfront. This season will see a return of open, competitive selling of fish such as used to prevail before the war on the exchange.

First stop for most of the fishermen has been Martin Johnson's herring pound at Hunt's Inlet on Porcher Island, where they loaded live herring baits. Johnson is said to have captured about 350 tons of herring in his pound this spring, which is selling for $6 a barrel or $60 a ton.

Those who got out to the grounds in time to begin fishing Thursday got a bit of a setback from the weatherman. Strong winds churned the waters of Hecate Straits during most of Thursday, making it too rough to handle gear. However, Friday was calm, according to report, and, by the general set of the weather, it looks as if it were calm on the grounds again today.

Thursday's blow will set back the first boat arrivals by 24 hours. The halibut fleet experienced bad weather for a short time during the early part of the season two years ago.

MATTER OF CONVENIENCE

Rumblings of discontent have been heard from the waterfront in regard to a comment published in this column last week which remarked that several former Prince Rupert fishermen are moving back here from Vancouver to make their homes because mooring facilities here were more "convenient" than at the southern port. Fishermen who have struggled for more than a quarter of a century to have the wharves for their boats improved suggest that this implies that the moorage here was termed "better" than at Vancouver. It was not meant to suggest this. By "convenient" it was meant that the moorages are more conveniently located to their homes than in the south. Specific remarks made by some of the fishermen in question were to the effect that, if they were called suddenly to their boats at night, they could get there within a matter of minutes in Prince Rupert, while in Vancouver they had been forced to live several miles from the waterfront, and it took a good deal longer to reach their boats if emergencies arose. It is also pleasant to think that they are returning because they consider Prince Rupert a good town to live in generally. However, there was definitely no intent on the part of this column to slow down the local fight for better fishing boat moorage.

It is understood that Col. Cy Peck, V.C., residing near Victoria, will revisit Prince Rupert next autumn. He is expected in September.
