REACTIONS ARE QUALIFIED - BOTH INDUSTRY AND LABOR THINK THERE COULD BE GREATER BENEFITS

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Press survey of Canada-wide reaction to the new federal budget revealed today in a nutshell qualified approval by industrial heads and disappointment of trades union leaders that the income tax cut as announced last night by Hon. Douglas Abbott was not greater.

Financial and industrial spokesmen cheered the announcement that the excess profits tax of fifteen percent will be dropped December 31 although some thought it might have been dropped immediately.

Labor spokesmen were bitter at linking the reduction of the excess profits tax with a reduction in the personal tax. They said the reductions would not halt the campaign for higher wages and complained that exemptions in the lower brackets had not been changed.

Sweeping cuts in personal income taxes averaging twenty-nine percent or more for nine out of ten taxpayers were announced Tuesday night by Finance Minister Abbott as he placed before Commons the budget which is spiced heavily to the liking of men in the middle income tax brackets.

The reductions are effective July 1 of this year. For business Mr. Abbott announced abolition of the fifteen percent excess profits tax effective December 31. The thirty percent tax on corporation incomes remains unchanged.

There are minor alterations relating to business but no change in the broad scope of taxes applying to commodities such as soft drinks and chinaware, candy and furs, radios, liquor, tobacco and many other such items. The 25 percent luxury tax on jewelry remains.

This, in brief is an outline of what might be termed a "taxpayers' budget" aimed at reducing taxation levels which Mr. Abbott conceded would constitute "a serious impediment" to a full working effort and "a brake on individual drive and initia-

Present basic exemptions and allowances remain unchanged.

On the governmental side of the budget, Mr.

Abbott announced that he was budgeting for an estimated surplus of $190,000,000 providing Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia do not sign taxation agreements with the Dominion and a surplus of $80,000,000 if they do.

Mr. Abbott estimated 1947-48 revenues at $2,-459,000,000 against $2,984,000,000 in the 1946-47 fiscal year and expenditures at $2,100,000,000 against $2,632,000,000.

While the individual taxpayer receives preferred treatment in the budget, business gets little encouragement aside from the promise of the yearend abolition of the excess profits tax.

Personal income tax cuts range from as much as fifty-four percent in bottom brackets to about six or seven percent in top brackets.

A POPULAR BUDGET

IN CONTRAST to the dour and doleful documents of his wartime and realistic predecessor, James Ilsley, the first budget of Douglas Abbott, brought down last night at Ottawa, cannot but be hailed as widely popular. A personal income tax reduction averaging out at twenty-nine percent could be nothing else than that, particularly since it was more than the most of us had expected. With the war now over nearly two years, the most of people have been thinking that it was time for a real amelioration in the tax burden and it is definite easing up that has been accorded. Further the personal income tax payers will not have to wait until the end of the year to enjoy the relief but it will be applicable at the middle of the year.

It is not merely because it was the popular thing to do, not because the country's great obligations are met and certainly not because the money is not needed but because the people were getting sick of the high income tax and it has been sapping their iniative, enthusiasm and effort that actuated Mr. Abbott in reducing the personal income tax. Contributing factor may also have been too that the people of Canada, particularly the young people, were noting the much lower income tax "that Americans have been having and were being irked thereby, some to the extent of being actuated to leave the country.

The reduction of the income tax is, of course, the great feature of the budget which touches practically all earners in a direct and gratifying way. As had been hopefully anticipated, the excess profits tax which has been hampering business is to be abolished although it does not come off until the end of the year. The 30 percent corporation tax remains.

Mr. Abbott looks forward to a year of high production and income-better times than Canada has ever seen before in peacetime. His budget has been designed to encourage and foster such a happy state of affairs. Canadians will do well to arise to the occasion which has been presented.

Usually, people find foreign objects in cakes of only one variety-birthday cakes. However, Ambrose Brown, local waterfront worker, found that it was an unusal cake that he strange lode.

"I thought maybe I was getting presents." he said, telling how his molars had crashed into hidden metal as he topped off his evening thought to be an innocent white cake. "I was deceived."

If Ambrose had owned a car he might, by a stretch of imagination, considered one of the objects a present. It was a valve cap from an inner tube: a hard thing to test the teeth upon. The other object was a chunk of bacon, baked to the rigidity of a fir plank.

"Maybe semebody drove : meat truck through the batter," Mr. Brown said, by way of deduction.
