Soviet Objects to Suggestion That Hitler Is Being Emulated

MOSCOW (CP)—The Soviet deputy foreign minister angrily charged today that the Soviet Union's position had been distorted when the United States deputy, Robert Murphy, said the Russians had sought to create a strong central government such as existed under Adolf Hitler. The session of the conference was adjourned after this statement.

Meanwhile, Soviet writers directed new attacks today against the United States and Great Britain, centering fire on the proposed American program to aid Greece and Turkey with a $400,000,000 loan.

SHOULD HELP TO CITIZENSHIP

Since the citizens of Canada must "pay the shot" for maintaining the country's 125,000 native Indians as government wards, it is in their interests to assist the natives to fit themselves for responsible citizenship, Indian Agent F. E. Anfield asserted in an address to the Rotary Club here Thursday afternoon.

FREAK MISHAP TAKES LIFE OF LOCAL VETERAN

De Marco Killed When Gun Explodes in Bunkhouse

A freak mishap claimed the life of a Prince Rupert employee of the Northern Construction Co. at Ocean Falls Thursday night when a fragment from a fire extinguisher which exploded cut an artery in the neck of Frank V. De Marco. He expired before medical treatment could save him.

De Marco is reported to have been handling the extinguisher which built up an inside pressure so great that it exploded violently, sending a jagged fragment into his neck. He and other employees of the company doing construction work at the paper town were in a bunkhouse at the time.

An overseas veteran, he is survived by his wife and two small children, living at 618 Eighth Avenue East. Mrs. De Marco, who was an English war bride, has been in Canada for about a year. She is leaving tonight on the Camosun for Ocean Falls and New Westminster. Interment will take place in New Westminster, where Mr. De Marco's mother resides.

Two Dead In Coast Murder-Suicide

REFUGEE SHIP BEACHED OFF PALESTINE—About 1,000 Jewish refugees, bound for the Holy Land, were aboard the 400-ton S.S. Shabtai Luzinsky when it was beached on the coast near Gaza, Palestine, recently. A large number of the immigrants made their way inland before the area was cordoned off by the army. Nearly all aboard were later captured and taken to Haifa. The heavily guarded ship, formerly the S.S. Susannah, can be seen off the coast, a machine-gun on the front end of the ship. On shore military personnel stand guard.

Chinese And Marines Clash

PEIPING (CP)—Five United States marines were killed and 16 wounded by armed Chinese in a four-hour battle at a marine ammunition dump near Tangu. Chinese military officers said that the attackers, whom they identified as Communists, suffered 100 casualties.

MACEY'S WIN SENIOR "B"

Take "Senior B" Championship With Win Over Co-op

The city's basketball season came to an official ending on Thursday night as Macey's nosed out Co-op in the final game of the Senior "B" championship play-offs 43-39. With the Senior "B" championship under their belts the Macey squad walked away with the much disputed Grotto Cup emblematic of the Senior "B" division.

Only briefly was the lead ever held by the Co-op, and that was in the first half of the opening quarter. Then the uptown lads settled down, taking over command from there on. At the first post mark the score was 11-9 with Co-op on the short side. Macey's were far in the lead after the whirlwind second frame closed up with the scoring standing at 25-15. Just after the third stanza got under way and with a 12 point handicap starting them in the face, Co-op began to move. They battled to within four points of the winners by the three-quarter mark, 29-25. The last frame was a real battle with both squads knocking hard at the other's defences. But the best either team could do was matched by their rivals. Co-op was within three points of Macey's with only two minutes to go. Then Macey's dropped a brace of charity tosses to move five points up. Co-op sank a field attempt but Macey's were awarded another gift shot and after making it count—the game was over.

The big gun for the night was Vern Ciccone of the Co-op aggregation who netted 18 points for his side but he did not have the support to carry the squad through for a win. Bob Gill was the high man for the Maceyites, pushing 11 counters through the netting. Co-op led in the foul department, nosing out Macey's 13 to 12. But it was Macey's night to win and it was their free throw shooting that gave them the victory. They netted 9 counters to Co-ops 5. This followed the pattern of the two opening games, each of them being won on free throws.

Handling the whistles were Fred Calderoni and Ted Arney with Syd Woodside and Don Forward doing the scoring and timing.

Macey's—B. Menzies 6, B. Gill 11, J. Haugan 9, B. Pierce 2, A. Arnstam 1, M. Teng 6, E. Pierce 5, J. James 3. Total 43.

Co-op—P. Petersen 4, G. Vierck 3, V. Ciccone 18, O. Slatta, N. Sheppard 7, N. Pavlikis, C. Johnson, R. Menzies 7, F. Leland. Total 39.

RUHR MINERS RESUME WORK

ESSEN, Germany (CP)—Many Ruhr valley coal miners who went on strike Thursday in protest at food shortages went back to work today. Some 300,000 miners had walked out in spite of British warnings that their action might result in less, not more, food.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Cross, formerly of this city and now residing in Vancouver, arrived in the city on the Camosun yesterday afternoon from the south to pay a visit here with their daughters, the Misses Joan and Frances Cross.

SOVIET HOLDS WIVES

MOSCOW CONFERENCE

MOSCOW—A session of the foreign ministers' council, scheduled for last night, was called off after a special committee on certain aspects of the German peace settlement had bogged down. The United States is proposing that the Ruhr coal area and the Silesia industrial area be placed under United Nations control.

WOODSIDE OUT TO WIN BACK HANSON MUG

Syd Woodside, who has taken responsibility for managing the all star soccer squad which will try and wrest the Hanson Cup from the salty clutches of H.M. C.S. Uganda and Crescent crew men next week, has picked an aggregation of stalwarts who will practice at the Roosevelt Park field on Sunday.

The Hanson Cup, a handsome mug emblematic of local soccer sovereignty, was lost to the sailors during their visit here last September and has since reposed on the wardrobe mantle of H.M.C.S. Uganda. It must be won back at all costs. Mr. Woodside feels. At Sunday's practice, he will select the choicest of his 13 players to form the first-line eleven.

Players from whom the first string will be selected are: Herb Morgan, Andy Ronald, Bill Murray, Bob Armstrong, Ken Yeland, Dick Cameron, Dave Murray, John Murray, Doug Christison, Hank Dickens, Darrow Gomez, Nick Pavlikis and George Ferguson.

NEWFOUNDLAND IS NOT WANTED

New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Not Keen About Merging It

HALIFAX (CP)—Suggestion of a Canadian parliamentary that Newfoundland join with the Maritimes in one province was received without warmth today by Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick premiers.

The original suggestion was made in Ottawa by a parliamentarian who expressed the view that the Island colony would not be anxious to be a tenth province.

Hon. J. B. McNair, premier of New Brunswick, said: "Maritime union has been suggested at various times. I do not think there is any marked degree of opinion in this province favoring it."

Native Father Believed Killed Himself and Child

What is believed to be a case of berserk murder followed by suicide is being investigated by Coroner G. H. Hill of Ocean Falls today following the arrival there of the body of a 24-year-old Bella Bella native who supposedly took his own life after killing his year-and-a-half-old son and attempting to slay his wife as she lay in bed at their Bella Bella home at 7:30 Friday morning.

Brought to Ocean Falls Friday night in the provincial police boat P.M.L. 7 were the bodies of Charles J. Brown, the father, who reportedly died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head after allegedly killing his son, Rodnall Paul, with a blow on the skull with a hatchet during a fit of melancholy madness.

Brown's wife is in hospital at Bella Bella recovering from shock and bruises after she succeeded in wresting from her husband's hands the hatchet with which he apparently intended to kill her and their other small child in a threat to "wipe out" the whole family.

According to reports reaching Prince Rupert Friday night, Mrs. Brown was awakened at 7:30 Friday morning in their Bella Bella home by her husband, who threatened to kill her with the hatchet he carried. She wrestled with Brown as he approached, managed to take the hatchet from him and screamed wildly for help.

At this, Brown rushed from the house and ran half a mile to some mooring floats where he entered a fishing boat and took a 30-30 calibre rifle with which he shot himself in the head.

When his wife arose from the bed, she discovered the body of their son, Rodnall Paul Brown, who had been killed by a hatchet blow on the head before she had been awakened by her husband's attack.

In the possession of the provincial police at Ocean Falls is a letter addressed to Dr. Fraser, superintendent of the Bella Bella Hospital, believed to have been written by Brown, but unsigned, which stated that he intended to wipe out his entire family.

REASON FOR RASH ACTION

Reason given in the letter for Brown's mental condition, which exploded in Friday's murder-suicide, was that he had contracted an infection some weeks ago while in Prince Rupert and that he had brooded about it, fearing that he had infected his whole family.

When word of the tragedy was sent to Ocean Falls, Cpl. Harry Norman of the provincial police boarded the P.M.L. 7, with Skipper W. J. Mason, to investigate. They brought the bodies of Brown and the child to Ocean Falls where an inquest is being held by Coroner C. H. Hill.

With Mrs. Brown in the Bella Bella Hospital is her small baby, whose life she probably saved when she resisted her maddened husband.

TRYING TO END STRIKE

Conference on Maritime Coal Tie-up to Be Held Next Week in Ottawa

GLACE BAY, Nova Scotia (CP)—International Secretary Tom Kennedy, one-time right hand man of John L. Lewis, will attend a conference in Montreal next week in an effort to end the 49-day-old coal strike which has left 13,000 miners idle and paralyzed eastern Nova Scotia's most important industry.

TRADITIONAL FUNERAL HERE

Elaborate Masonic Rites Planned for Chinese Patriarch

A traditional Chinese funeral, the first ever to be held in Prince Rupert, will lend its pagantry and color to the final rites of Seu Lung Fong, patriarch of the local Chinese community who died here on Thursday. Arrangements are being made by the Chinese Free Masons Lodge of which deceased was a leading member.

According to present plans, the funeral will take place on May 4 and the body will be kept above ground until that time. The Free Masons Lodge has set the date back a month to allow time for invitation to members of other lodges throughout the country to attend the rites.

Deceased, who was a naturalized Canadian, lived in Canada for more than 50 years, the last 26 of which he spent in Prince Rupert where he operated a grocery and confectionery store on Third Avenue West until his retirement 10 years ago. He was 78 years old.

He is survived by one son in Canada, Tim Fong, who is employed as cook in a local cafe. His wife and several other sons survive in China.

Deceased had been chairman of the Local Chinese Free Masons Lodge for several years.

COME TO CHURCH SERVICES

SATURDAY SERMON

The New Testament and against a backdrop of prisons and hospitals is a word, and every imaginable word, and death. If it were Lord.

formula in finding the solution to a problem. He could not explain the formula but, without knowing the meaning of the formula, he can still apply it and get the answer to the question. Theories are pictures which help us to understand how the formula works. If a particular theory does not help us, we can reject the theory without rejecting the formula. Some people think that the theory mentioned above is very unhelpful and perhaps it is if we are looking at things in the police court sense but, if we think of the punishment as a debt that is due and we cannot pay and somebody else has to "stand the racket," we are surely in the realm of common experience.

For years I was greatly helped by the simple story of a little boy called John who broke his sister Mary's doll. It is all very well for the parents to forgive John but what about Mary and her doll? The forgiveness will not mend the broken pieces. And John has not the resources to repair the damage. So the wise parent will contrive a way in which he will repair the damage—a way which will not entirely excuse John but will in fact use his resources to the extent they can be used.

Lately, the explanation offered by an English writer, C. S. Lewis, I find even more satisfy because it goes into the question as to why Christ should die. This is it, in brief—In order to become reconciled to God, we must repent or surrender. We are inherently rebels and a rebel must lay down his arms, be prepared to see that he has been wrong and get ready to start again from the beginning. Now, that is a hard thing to do. It involves killing a part of yourself and dying a kind of a death. And the more we need to do it, the more impossible it is for us to do it. You see, repentance is not a demand which God makes but simply a description of the "road back." To ask that God receives us without repentance is the same as asking to go back without going back. We've got to go through with it. But the same badness which makes us need it also makes us unable to do it. Can we do it if God helps us? Yes, but that means Him putting into us a bit of Himself, so to speak. He lends us a little of His reasoning power, and that is how we think. He puts a little of His love into us and that is how we love one another. But how can God help us to repent, suffer and submit? For those are things which in His own nature He never does. So the one thing which we need to do most is find a road which God in His own nature has never walked. How can He share with us that which He has not? But supposing God became a man—suppose our human nature which can suffer and die was amalgamated with God's nature in one person—then that person could help us. He could surrender, suffer and die because He was man and He could do it perfectly because He was God. Here is why He who had no need to suffer and die for himself, suffered and died for us, to help us to do something for ourselves that without this aid we could never do.

Miss E. P. Trevison and J. M. Gray of Ocean Falls, who are to be married here, arrived in the city on the Camosun yesterday afternoon from the paper town.

Easter Meditation

—the season of rebirth and re-hope—this is the time when we pause to re-estimate the spiritual values in the light of the Holy and the Glorious Victory of 1947 years the events on which the faith of all Christians concentrate at this time and always cling.
the significance of Easter, the inherent hold the events of its conception have come to have the affairs of us all, whether we appreciate or not, the necessity of revivication of the er inspiration, are suggested in the words of message of General A. Orsborn, international of the Salvation Army:
"No matter what else men of today may think about the crucifixion of Jesus, they do not argue over the historical fact which Easter celebrates. Every calendar used Christendom witnesses to it. Every business letter written by that calendar carries the acknowledgment of the fact that he was born a stated number of years ago and dies, as an established fact, that he died, as a young at the hands of the occupying power in the turbulence of the little country of Palestine. Quite apart from the significance of His death, the geography taught throughout the world takes note of it, and history records His passing by human violence, from the scene of human action."
The great difference between this fact of history and all others, suggests General Orsborn, is in some strange way which we cannot estimate, we are more concerned with this than all other points in the long record of events upon earth.
Why do we feel like this? It is not because of an emotional reaction to an oft-told story. Emotions are moved, it is true, by every thought of Calvary, but this matter goes deeper than that. We are brought to Calvary by sin, by need of forgiveness, by sense of guilt, by identity with the human race in its need of a Saviour. There is something about Calvary.
Even when men do not kneel in humble prayer at Calvary; even when they stand hostile or indifferent, they cannot escape their share in this great scene in all history. For here God broke in on the human race in His final revelation of Himself, and all men are vitally concerned.
Unfortunately, for many Easter is nothing more than a passing calendar event, a mere break in the rhythm of life because Christendom has chosen to celebrate Easter with a holiday festival. It is the Christian belief, however, that thought of Easter in its true sense is a sustenance with inner consolation, feelings of frustration, failure to find anything more in life than the struggle to escape its burdens, or to bear them stoically, without understanding them.
And Gen. Orsborn continues:
"As I have travelled the Old and New Worlds during the past few months I have been deeply impressed with the urgent need for a restoration of faith amongst men—in each other, faith in human destiny, and above all, faith in God.
"The spirit of weariness and fear is so widespread, it is almost utterly depressing were it not for our personal knowledge that faith can be restored if we will accept the truth of life in God.
"Calvary invites us to seek the cure for this dread disease. Never before has the need been so great, for every increase in men's powers over Nature increases their peril if they live without God. All this widespread restlessness, this breaking down of hedges and admitting of serpents, this casting off of restraints and defiance of truth has its path in it. So we are seeking to rouse a sense of personal interest in the Cross of Christ."

ONE EASTER MORNING
(By Vera Martin)

Esra Thornton raised a grizzled head from the pillow and reached for the blind. Lifting one corner, he peened out. "It's raining, Mother," he said without turning. "Good day to sit in."

Back on the pillow again, his rugged features smoothed into utter contentment; a man taking a well-earned rest. Nettie must still be sleeping. Good; an extra hour was what she needed. And then she moved. "Know what day this is, Esra?"

He always wondered why her voice held that peculiar softness in the early morning. Ponderingly, he answered, "Easter Sunday, ain't it?"

"Yes. And I was fixin' that we'd go to church t'day, you and me."

"Oh... we went last Sunday didn't we?" When she didn't reply he spoke again. "I think we'll take today inside, the weather bein' as it is." He pulled the log-cabin quilt up to one ear and burrowed deeply.

"Whatever you say, Esra." It was a tranquil voice. "I'll be settin' breakfast for you after a bit."

Gently she slid out of bed. But everything that Nettie did was done gently. She'd never changed—except to improve. Even her looks he liked better all the time. Her hair was nice turned white, parted in the centre and drawn smoothly away from a wide, unruffled brow. Come to think of it though, her eyes hadn't changed a whit. They were still alert and young, still as brown as the first day he saw her.

Opening one eye, he watched her disappear through the door, tying the long belt on her woolen gown as she went.

Presently the pungent fingers of brewing coffee stung the semi-consciousness of Esra Thornton, and he was wide awake. So this was Easter Sunday... Another one!

Queer how the smell of that coffee brought more than it's own offering. Not that he would let Nettie know that he remembered—but he did!

Nettie was young that day. His bride. It was their first Sunday in their own home, and it was Easter. He was proud of her, and the home he had built for her. They had never moved like some folks. Danced if it wasn't this same bed—without the spring-filled mattress, of course—that he lay on that morning and from which he had risen eagerly to find Nettie already in the kitchen with breakfast ready.

Corn cakes and bacon, she had made. And coffee. The table was laid with that pretty set he got for them at a sale. Still had it somewhere; for Mother taught the girls real care about them dishes when they were growing up. She had a way with children, Hattie did. No trouble with them.

He guessed she had forgotten about that morning. Sure! after so long, you couldn't expect her to remember. Didn't know why he did unless it was Malda getting married last week, and them being by themselves again. Hard to think they had raised a family, he and Nettie, thought Esra, pulling on his trousers. He ran a well-knuckled hand through his thick hair and made for the kitchen.

"Up, dear?" Nettie turned the bacon and looked into the oven almost in one motion.

Yep, her waist was thicker but not like some women he knew. Comfortable, Nettie was. He liked her that way. Then his gaze moved from his wife to the table, resting almost reverently there.

It was set for two, as it had been so long ago. But he had forgotten how dainty that border was on those dishes. Tiny red roses clustered together midst a pale green leaf. They had taken his eye that day at the sale, and they took it now.

Awkwardly, he stepped forward to pick up a cup. He ran a thick fore-finger up and down over the curve of the delicate handle.

"Pretty, ain't they?" he said tonelessly into the cup.

"For any sakes," Esra! Let's get settin' before them corn-cakes cool." Nettie bustled his chair into place and turned the old, worn cushion on the seat. "You like them pipin' you know."

"I do at that... You remember everything, don't you girl?"

Esra said grace more slowly than was his wont. And when he attacked his breakfast, there was nothing lacking in his relish of it. Still, his jaws moved as if in unison with a formulating thought.

Finally he raised his bushy brows in the direction of the clock. "Is that the time?" he asked in astonishment. "Still early tho." Then he smiled across the table with suppressed eagerness. "How about us goin' to the church this morning, Nettie," he said simply.

THAT'S how a South American would say "asphalt shingles". But strangely enough, here in British Columbia, most people would simply say "Duroid" shingles instead.

You see, Duroid has become so well-known that many people think it applies to ALL asphalt shingles. Actually, the name "Duroid" is an exclusive trade-name that appears ONLY on shingles made by Sidney.

Genuine Duroid shingles have an enviable reputation for dependability and long service.

The city basketball champions were awarded their 1946-47 trophies Thursday night as nearly 300 hoop fans watched. At the half-time intermission in the Senior "B" game, the Bo-Me-Hi Rainbirds of the Ladies' League and the Gyro Club of the Junior division were given their respective trophies.

T. Norton Youngs handed the new Civic Centre Trophy to Captain Doug Shier of the Gyro team. Mr. Youngs mentioned briefly Gyro's fine record of only one defeat in the season as a good example of their claim on the trophy. This trophy was presented by the Civic Centre for annual competition so Gyros will be the proud holders of it for the next coming year.

Lieut. Eric Jones, R.C.N., on behalf of Commander C. M. Cree, presented the Bo-Me-Hi Rainbirds with the Commander Cree Trophy. The Rainbirds have won the trophy every year since it was put up in 1944. Captain Betty Hamilton received the cup on behalf of Coach Alex Bill and her other teammates.

After the last roar had died away, following the Senior "B" game, the Civic Centre Trophy, the Grotto Cup and the Civic Centre Good Sportsmanship Trophy were presented to the respective winners in an impressive ceremony.

Mayor Nora E. Arnold presented the Civic Centre Trophy to the Senior "A" champions, the Bo-Me-Hi Rainmakers, after making a short address. Captain Ed Cleone received the trophy for the Rainmakers mentioning briefly the fine opponents they had had in the B.C. Packers and the Savoy Hotelmen.

Bert Morgan presented Macey's captain Bud Pierce with one of the most bitterly fought for trophies, the Grotto Cup. Mr. Morgan noted that this cup had been in existence since 1922 and so is one of the oldest trophies still in competition in Rupert.

Following this presentation T. Norton Youngs stepped forward to make the announcement of who the Civic Centre Good Sportsmanship Trophy would be awarded to. The crowd fell into a breathless hush of expectation but Mr. Youngs, with a subtle flair for showmanship, kept them on their toes in suspense. Then just as the crowd was nearly exhausted with the suspense he called on Bob Houston of the B.C. Packers to step forward and receive his trophy.

The crowd was nearly unanimous in approving the popular choice. It is agreed that Bob is one of the best sports in Rupert. He is also the coach for those high spirited Macey players.

During the game a collection was taken which the Civic Centre is turning over to the Basketball Association to help pay for the costs of any players who were injured during the season. The Civic Centre also donated the free use of the gymnasium on Thursday night.

All those trophies will be on display at the Civic Centre in the near future—just as soon as the new trophy display case is erected. But right now they will

NEW COAST SHIP IS DUE IN MAY

Present expectation is that the third of the Union Steamship Co.'s reconverted Castle Class corvettes for service on this coast, the Chilcotin, will make her first call at Prince Rupert on May 9, coming north for two weeks on the Ocean Falls-Prince Rupert-Ketchikan run in place of the Camosun which will be withdrawn for annual overhaul. The job of reconversion of the Chilcotin is now nearing completion at a Vancouver shipyard. During the height of the summer season, the Chilcotin will be engaged in running special tourist cruises.

CHORE NEVER ENDS

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Painting Sydney's two-mile harbor bridge is a job that never ends. It takes five years to paint it from one end to the other and by that time it's time to start over again. Rust would attack the 52,000 tons of steel if the structure weren't painted.

Game Warden Ed Martin returned to the city on the Camosun yesterday afternoon from a brief trip to Vancouver.

Two Fish Boat Launchings This Week-end — Yachtsmen Getting Into Action for Season

Two fishing boat launchings were scheduled for this week-end—one a new halibut boat and the other the re-built halibut veteran Parma which, to all intents and purposes, is a new boat although she still retains her beautiful schooner-yacht lines. The Parma, which Capt. Harold Helland has had re-built at the dry dock, will go into the water on the high tide shortly before 2 o'clock Sunday morning. A new 41-foot halibutter built for Capt. Bert Shepperd at Cow Bay Boat Works was launched at 1:30 this afternoon. The Parma entered the dry dock last fall. After her engine was removed, she was hoisted onto the ways in the ship shed by cranes. Workmen stripped her down until nothing more remained than her keel and a small portion of her underwater planking. Formerly measuring 69 feet in length, the Parma was extended to 75 feet during the alterations.

Parma was originally built in Vancouver in 1904, then rebuilt in 1921. She operated under the managing ownership of Peter Parkvold for a number of years until taken over by Harold Helland who now operates her. Among the fastest vessels in the fleet, she is expected to still turn up 10 knots with her heavy diesel engine. Particular pride of the dry dock and her owner is the Parma's forecabin, which is a product of loving craftsmanship by dry dock workers, who made it into probably what is the most convenient and comfortable crews' quarters of any fishing boat on the coast. Fellow fishermen and shore workers today are congratulating Capt. Helland on his fine vessel and wishing him many successful trips to areas Two and Three in the Parma.

Capt. Bert Shepperd's 41-foot halibutter was christened Primrose by Mrs. Shepperd at its launching at Cow Bay Boat Works this afternoon. The trim lines of this vessel have received the admiration of fellow fishermen while she stood on the building ways. The Primrose, which Capt. Shepperd expects to have rigged in time for the halibut season, will be powered by a 110 h.p. Chrysler Crown engine.

Resumption of trawl fishing following the "strike" for higher prices last month has resulted in deliveries of flatfish to local fish houses although on a limited scale. Only a few of the beam trawlers are operating, among them the Colnet, Endeavour, Zenard, Katharine Ann.

Atlin Fisheries is completing work on the upper works of four new camp scows which will be placed at strategic spots on the Islands and coastal bays during the salmon season. The Co-op also is readying 10 camp scows for similar purposes.

YACHTING FLEET FULL OF ACTION
The Prince Rupert Yacht Club was a fairly busy place on Good Friday when the air was filled with the roaring of motors as boat owners took their crafts for a holiday spin. Others improved the time by working on their boats after the winter lay-up. Among the lucky ones, who were free like the gulls, were Dr. W. S. Kergin, whose Full Moon was last seen headed toward the harbor mouth at 2:45 p.m., and Capt. Thomas Fraser, whose Blue Jay followed in similar direction.

The government snag scow Essington, Capt. W. F. Robertson, is now out of dry dock after her winter overhaul, and is making repairs to the fishermen's floats east of the dry dock. The scow will repair other public works moorage facilities along the waterfront before heading up the Skeena and Naas Rivers for its usual channel-clearing operations.

Union steamer Cataia, Capt. Ernest Sheppard, on her regular weekly voyage on the Vancouver - Bella Coola - Skeena river-Prince Rupert route, arrived in port at 5 o'clock this morning from the south, sailing at 7 a.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

With a sizeable list of passengers including a few early season round trip tourists, Union steamer Camosun, Capt. Alex McLennan, arrived in port at 3:30 yesterday afternoon from Vancouver and Ocean Falls, sailing at midnight for Ketchikan whence she will return here this evening to sail at 9:15 p.m. on her return south.

Having on board considerable general cargo for local delivery including coal, cement and piles, Frank Waterhouse freighter Southholm, Capt. William Gleason, arrived in port at 1:30 yesterday afternoon from Vancouver and left today for Inverness cannery to further discharge cargo. Proceeding south the Southholm will call at Butedale and Namu to pick up fish oil and meal and will then call at Port Alice on the West Coast of Vancouver Island to load paper.

Judge W. E. Fisher, who has been on a brief trip to Vancouver, returned to the city yesterday afternoon on the Camosun from the south.
