Federal Election?

DEFEAT of the Mackenzie King government on a want of confidence motion in the House of Commons at Ottawa, the possibility of which is projected quite definitely in the announced intention of the C. C. F. leader to support a Progressive Conservative amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, would, no doubt, precipitate an immediate general election in the Dominion since no other party than the Liberals could by any means command a mandate from Parliament.

While it is possible that the government might be defeated if all the opposing elements combined, it is rather questionable that such a combination would actually take place.

It is unfortunate that this should be the situation at a time when it would be so desirable to have a government that does not worry about its own security.

Farewell Visit

WLD like to say an adieu to a native fareweller, of at least, to W. T. Courtes, general superintendent of the Canadian National Railway in British Columbia, who has been here for two days on his last visit before his retirement.

Reading the Ads

HOW many people DO read newspaper ads? Six years ago, a group of advertisers in the United States started a scientific study of newspaper reading habits to answer that question.

Research experts go over an entire newspaper with a representative sample of readers, find out what they read on each page, and the percentage of readers who read any particular item.

BOARD PRAISES JANITORS' WORK

High School Students' Council Wins Enconium— Total Enrolment 1,110

Janitors of the city's schools who labored mightily at the coal pile to keep the classrooms at liveable temperatures during the late cold snap are to be recompensed for their extra work by the School Board.

The board decided at its monthly meeting last night to grant Mr. Irving, the janitor of King Edward School, an extra $16 to his monthly pay cheque for his efforts to keep that particularly cold and drafty building habitable. Janitors of the other three schools were granted an additional $8 each.

Enrolment at city schools during January, the board was informed by the monthly principals' reports, was 1,110, and attendance percentages ranged from 88 to 95.

At Booth Memorial High School, enrolment was 456, Principal W. C. O'Neill reported. Of these, 242 were in junior high and 214 in senior high.

The board was unanimous in moving that a letter of commendation be sent to the Students' Council at Booth High School for their notable gesture in using $160 of Students' Council funds for the purchase of a piano for the school and for setting aside $122 for the purchase of books to add to the science library.

At Borden Street Elementary School, enrolment was 195 and attendance averaged 95 per cent, Principal J. S. Wilson reported.

Conrad Street Elementary School had an enrolment of 194 and an attendance of 88 per cent, according to the report of Principal T. G. Bateman.

At King Edward Elementary School, there were 265 students enrolled, while the attendance average was 91 per cent, Principal R. G. Moore informed the board.

Accounts totalling $12,202 covering partial school costs in January were approved for payment.

Dr. R. G. Large has been appointed chairman of the finance committee of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce for the current year. Other members of the committee are Martin Stuart, Maurice Brydges and G. R. S. Blackaby.

A letter from H. D. Thain, city clerk, read at the monthly dinner meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night intimated that a request of the Chamber for a grant this year had been referred to the city's finance committee for consideration in connection with the preparation of the annual estimates.

Inquiry was made at last night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce if there had been any known developments in connection with the visit to the city last week of Kenneth Meek of Calgary, representing interests which have been holding an option on the big waterfront warehouse built during the war by the United States Transportation Corps and now in the hands of War Assets Corporation. It appeared that Mr. Meek had taken no one into his confidence as to possible plans for the much-discussed terminal property.

Whalen, manager of Prince Rupert Limited; Bulger, jeweler and optician; and Louis M. Felsen, goods clothing merchant, were elected to membership in the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce at last night's dinner meeting of the committee of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, requested by the president of the monthly chamber meeting in touch with his office on latest developments in connection with disposal of the former Royal Canadian Air Force seaplane base at Comox. The city has been needing for sufficient property to be used for municipal purposes.

WATER MARGIN IS SAFE AGAIN

Prince Rupert's domestic water crisis, brought about by zero weather, appeared past yesterday City Engineer E. A. Phillips said that water level in the back-up reservoir now stood about 11 feet, a safe margin.

Rise in the temperature caused hundreds of residents to shut off their water taps, many of which, it is believed, ran continuously during last week's cold snap.

Shutting off the water main which serves the old Group Four air force camp also took considerable strain off the water supply, Mr. Phillips said. The Group Four pipeline contained a considerable number of leaks and was shut off Sunday.

SEEK THEFT INSURANCE IN SCHOOLS

Feasibility of insuring equipment against theft will be investigated by Schools' Secretary Mrs. M. M. Roper who was last night authorized to do so by the Board after it had received such a suggestion from the Parent-Teachers' Council.

Danger of valuable equipment such as motion picture projectors and radios being stolen or damaged was emphasized to the Board by a letter from the Parent-Teachers' Council. The letter bore the signature of Trustee Mrs. E. W. Becker, who also is a member of the Parent-Teacher Association Council.

Mrs. Becker told the Board that King Edward school had been broken into three times during recent months. It also was revealed in the meeting that Booth High School had been broken into last week and some plumbing fixtures damaged.

Only fire insurance is carried on the school buildings and equipment by the city at the present time. There also is public liability insurance covering accidents.

The Board authorized Mrs. Roper to investigate the whole insurance picture, segregating the policies as to buildings and equipment.

WAR ate up a lot of cotton—in military clothing, tents, tarpaulins, a thousand war uses—millions of yards of fabric, millions of pounds of yarn.

And, of course, war needs had to be served first.

Now that the war is over, it's the civilian market that's hungry for cotton—cotton for sheets and shirts, for dresses and underwear and for dozens of industrial uses.

LOCAL MARKET CHANGES HANDS

Fred Cameron and Son, Russell, Take Over Sterling Establishment.

An interesting local business change was announced today whereby Fred H. Cameron and son, Russell Cameron, become proprietors of the Sterling Food Market of which Mr. Cameron has been manager ever since its inception. The change, effective at once, was finalized yesterday by Eric Marsden, president of Sterling Food Markets, which is closing out its markets. The name here will be changed to Pioneer Food Market.

Mr. Cameron, Sr., is the doyen of local meat handlers, having started in the city in 1909 as delivery man for the old firm of Morrow & Frizzell on Centre Street. He continued with P. Burns Co. Ltd. and through to 1933 when Sterling Food Markets took over the Burns retail outlets. Meantime he had become manager of the local store for Burns.

Mr. Cameron Jr. was born in Prince Rupert and has lived here all his life. He served for six-and-a-half years with the Royal Canadian Navy and, since his discharge about a year ago, was with the Post Office staff in the city.

THIS AND THAT

The book you recommended was so interesting, I sat up all night to read it.

"O. P." SMITH BACK IN COLORADO
AFTER HIS 5000-MILE CANOE JAUNT

Otto Smith, formerly of Prince Rupert and now living at Cripple Creek, Colorado, has returned to that town recently after completing a 5000-mile trip by canoe from Vancouver to New Orleans. Smith, now 66 years of age, will be remembered here as a successful salmon troller baseball player who for several years ruled the city diamond as "Home Run King." He ended his journey, says the Times-Record of Cripple Creek, brown, rugged and fit-looking.

Traversing the "Northwest Passage" had been in his mind for some time, he said, and he started making definite preparations for it in 1945. No desire for publicity was in Smith's mind as he laid his plans; in fact, he avoided it every possible day. "It was for my own satisfaction," he declared. "It has meant a great deal to me to know that I was able to make the trip all alone, and with the simplest, lightest equipment, because I wanted to prove to myself that the spirit of the old pioneers and explorers was not dead and that what they could do, a man of this day and age can do."

SIXTEEN-FOOT BIRCH CANOE

On April 7 he launched his 16-foot birch veneer canoe in Coal Harbor at Vancouver, and began the long jaunt which, at that time, he planned to end in New York. Up the Fraser River the little craft made its way, fighting the swift current, and hampered by the ice which was just going out. The swiftness of the stream can be guessed at from the fact that it makes a drop of 1869 feet in 500 miles. Far to the north it paused at Prince George, then went across Summit Lake to Crooked River and then by way of the Paek and Parsnip Rivers to the Peace River. When Smith reached the head of the Peace River he was 35 miles west of where he started on his journey east. The farthest point north which he reached was 56 degrees, 15 minutes, which is north of Hudson Bay.

From the Peace River he portaged across to the South Heart River, then went into Lesser Slave Lake, down the Little Slave River to Athabasca River, portaged over to Edmonton because the water of the Beaver River was too low to navigate, down the North Saskatchewan River, past The Pas, near which is Cumberland House, where the fur traders take off for MacKenzie Basin and the Hudson Bay country, through Cedar Lake to the Winnipeg River, down Lake Winnipeg to the great Lake of the Woods and along the international border lakes to Gunflint.

Here he decided to change his route and go south instead of continuing on the eastward route to New York, as it was getting late in the season and he was afraid of striking ice in the Lake Ontario region. So from Gunflint he went to Grand Marais and into the Saint Croix River, and from this stream into the Mississippi, which he followed to New Orleans. From there he went into Lake Pontchartrain and along the Inter-coastal Canal to Morgan City, La., where he packed up his canoe to ship by freight and

"Grace," said her father from the head of the stairs, "is that sweetheart of yours an auctioneer?"
"No, father, why?"
"Because he keeps on saying, 'he's going—going, but he hasn't gone yet.'"

One Negro was worrying about his chance of being drafted for the army. The other consoled him.
"There's two things that can happen boy. You is either drafted or you ain't drafted. If you ain't drafted you can forget it; if you is, you still got two chances. You may be sent to the front and you may not. If you go to the front you still got two chances, you may get shot and you may not. If you get shot, you still have two chances, you may die and you may not. And even if you die, you still has two chances."

An English society matron, visiting a farm in her new W.A. A.P. uniform, and feeling very patriotic, coldly eyed a young farmer, busy milking a cow.
"And how is it, my good man, that you are not at the front?"
The farmer took a straw out of his mouth, spat and replied:
"Because, ma'am, there aint no milk at that end!"

"I never heard such impudence in all my life. You have a lot of nerve to call yourself a lady's maid."
"I don't call myself a lady's maid now ma'am, but I was a lady's maid before I got this job."

Father—"So you love my daughter?"

Suitor—"Love her? Why I would die for her. For one soft glance from her sweet eyes I would hurl myself off a lofty cliff—glad of the chance to sacrifice myself in her name."

Father—"Well I forbid the marriage. I'm something of a liar myself and one is enough in a small family like ours."

Ephraim had put on a clean collar and his best coat, and was walking majestically up and down the street.

"Aren't you working today, Ephraim?" asked one of his acquaintances.

"No, suh, Ise celebratin' my golden wedding, suh."

"You were married 50 years ago today?"

"Yes, suh."

"Well, why isn't your wife helping you to celebrate it?"

"My present wife, suh," replied Ephraim with dignity, "ain't got nothing to do with it. She's de fo' th."

His mother-in-law had written to say that she was on the way to live with them for the duration of the war. As she approached the house she saw a large crowd. Pushing her way to the front, she gasped when she saw what damage a midnight fire had done—at the heap of bricks and charred furniture.
"Dear me," she said, her face livid, "I didn't think he'd go as far as that."

The angler had just landed a fish when the inquisitive woman chanced to be passing.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "that poor little fish!"

The angler replied: "Well, madam, if he'd kept his mouth shut he would not have got into trouble."

A dapper little man applied for a separation order to be made out against his wife on the ground of cruelty.

When asked by the magistrate if he could prove his case, he replied meekly: "One night I dreamt I won $100,000, and the following morning my wife nearly killed me for not putting it in the bank before I woke up."

Two navvies were having a meal at an eating house. One of them had been hacking at a steak for quite a time but without much success. Turning to his mate he said in a loud voice: "Tain't the food wot does yer good 'ere, Alf; it's the blinkin' exercise!"

"My husband has the strangest hobby," said Mrs. Smith to a friend, "and I never knew anything about it until yesterday. I found in his desk a queer looking ticket inscribed Mudhorse 10 to 1. I asked him what it was and he told me it was a relic of a lost race. Isn't it interesting?"

"Newspaper advertising has brought us quicker and larger response than any other form of advertising," says E. W. Rose, president of a pharmaceutical manufacturing firm.

BASKETBALL

Prince Rupert Defeats Ketchikan By Close Margin; Series Now Evened

Prince Rupert came through last night to take the second game of the international series from the visiting Ketchikan team by a close 48-to-45 margin. It was close all the way with both teams battling hard. Neither squad ever had a very big lead, and this situation kept the fans on their toes all the way to the closing seconds of the game.

Prince Rupert's turn for the scoring honors came last night when Ted Arney and Joe Davis supplied the shooting power for the locals. Ted was high man with 33, followed by Joe with 14. For the visitors it was Lars Farstad with 13 points.

Saturday night's high men, Mills and Ludwigsen, were not the threat last night that they were in the first game.

Rupert led at the end of the first quarter by a close 16-14 score. This was the quarter in which Arney really shone. He obtained 13 of his team's points in this frame. The second period was definitely taken over by the Alaskans when within a few minutes of the opening they spun on to lead by 7 points. But before the half was over the locals had narrowed it down to two points to end up with Ketchikan still out in front 27-25.

After the breather the pace speeded up with Rupert coming into their own with the fast breaks they displayed. The fourth quarter was nip and tuck all the way with visitors driving hard to overcome the narrow margin. Prince Rupert really had to keep on their toes when, with just a couple of minutes to go, the visitors started rolling but before they could whittle the score down any more the game was over. This was Prince Rupert's first win and puts both teams on an equal footing for the clash tonight in their last meeting. The victor in tonight's game will be the winner of the three-game series.

The officials were working hard last night keeping such a fast game under control and praise was due to Johnny Comandina and Fred Calderoni for the fine job they did as referees. A total of 35 fouls was handed out—18 to Ketchikan and 17 to Rupert.

Ketchikan—Ludwigsen 6 (11), L. Farstad 13 (5), R. Farstad 6 (4), Mills 12 (4), Phillips 5 (4), Erickson 3, Bolduc, Total—45.
Prince Rupert—T. Arney 22 (3), Houston 2, R. Holkestad 3 (4), Dominato (3), Davis 14 (3), Haugan 2 (1), Vuckovitch 2, D. Arney, M. Holkestad 3 (3), Murray, Beynon, Total—48.

GYRO CLUB DRUBS GROTTO

The high flying Gyro squad took the hapless Grotto team for a 37-18 drubbing in last night's warm-up junior hoop battle. Gyro romped through from the opening whistle, piling up the score all the time with Grotto very seldom even threatening their supremacy. Leading 8-4 at the first quarter mark, Gyro met a bit of trouble in the second frame as Grotto narrowed the margin down to 14-11 at the half-way mark. But, from then on in, it was Gyro's game with the winners leaping forward in the third frame. Grotto were held to one point in the third quarter as the Gyro quintet rolled on with an additional 11 points. The quarter closed with Gyro in the lead 25-12. Grotto fought back gamely in the last period to overcome the gap but nothing could stop Syd Woodside's boys last night. Don Scherch was the spark for the victors netting 14 points.

Fighting for their first win of the current season, Watts & Nickerson will do battle with the Canadian Legion in tonight's prelude game.

HOOP TALK

Last night at the Civic Centre before a howling audience the current edition of Prince Rupert's basketballing all-stars out-hustled, out-shot and out-played the best Ketchikan could send down this way and the victory was one of the most important in the annals of the popular winter pastime in that it marks the coming of age of a new bunch of players that must now take up the reins to defend the name city teams have won throughout the country this last ten years.

The outstanding player of the evening was Ted Arney who picked up 22 points and showed great fight throughout the entire forty minutes, his first full game in inter-town competition. Arney didn't play over his head by any means but he did take conditions in his stride and showed little evidence of stage fright such as has been a handicap to him while playing in previous games this season against outside teams.

Another lad who finally hit the pace expected of him by his many ardent admirers was big Joe Davis, until last evening, had been finding it difficult to get rolling and his showing on Saturday night was far from pleasing. He proved a comper and a worthy successor to some of the older boys who have hung up their strips.

All in all, Prince Rupert had a winning ball club all the way last night and, with the steady influence of Sev Dominato and Bob Houston, there is little reason to predict anything less than victory in the final game of the series tonight. Ketchikan has a smart team and one that cannot be taken lightly, however, and it is definite that they will

SEAWEED MAKES SCOTTISH BOOM

British Bomb-Blitzed Families Find Post-War Employment On Wild Argyllshire Coast

DUNSTAFFNAGE, Scotland - This is Scotland's post-war "boom town."

Built on the wild Argyllshire coast for workmen servicing convoys that sheltered in Loch Elive behind the Isle of Mull, Dunstaffnage now is "overflow" housing for crowded Oban and its people earn their living in a seaweed factory a few miles away.

Before the war the townsites, historic home of Scottish clansmen, had only a few farms and a strip of waste land. Then, in 1942, the Admiralty decided to move in a floating dock. Shipping casualties were heavy and the wild, hilly country afforded enemy planes less opportunity for damage than city ports.

More than 1,000 Royal Marines were put on the job. Bulldozers levelled the muddy ground and in a few months more than 200 homes were built.

To make Dunstaffnage as self-contained as possible, a canteen, recreation hall, school and church were provided. Across Loch Elive in the hills around Benderloch a dam was constructed and waterpipes laid.

WAS HAVEN FOR BLITZ VICTIMS

Tradesmen and workers of all kinds were brought in with their families, mostly from the heavily-bombed Portsmouth and Chatham districts. They found comfortable two- and three-room apartments, with every modern convenience.

End of the war brought an end to their jobs because the dock was towed away but Oban had a serious housing shortage. The Admiralty gave the complete town to the municipality.

Next problem was to find jobs for former war workers who wanted to stay in the Highlands. A seaweed factory in the village of Melport, south of Oban, wanted to expand. Workers now travel back and forth by bus.

Today Dunstaffnage is one of the few west coast settlements that has survived the peace. Its conversion of a derelict district into an industrial area has been so successful that many Argyll residents hope something similar can be done for the Highlands in general to reverse the depopulation trend of recent decades.

LOCAL WOMAN IS BURIED MONDAY

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Vena Bernardson, wife of Andrew Bernardson, was held Monday afternoon at Grenville Court chapel with Rev. R. A. Wilson of First United Church officiating. Interment took place in Fairview Cemetery.

During the service, which was well attended, the congregation sang the hymns "Abide With Me" and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." In tribute to the deceased, Mrs. Terry Fortune sang the solo "The Old Rugged Cross," which had been a favorite hymn of Mrs. Bernardson. Mrs. J. C. Gilker was organist.

Pallbearers were S. Hallgrinson, Louis Anderson, Einar Johnson, Thomas Mulhern, Walter Ballinger and Paul Taranger.

Deceased, who was 48 years old, was born at Churchbridge, Saskatchewan, and came to Prince Rupert in 1934, shortly afterward marrying Andrew Bernardson, who is at present in hospital. She also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Anderson of Winnipeg; her mother, Mrs. S. Loptson of San Francisco; eight sisters, one of whom is Mrs. Peter Pritchard of Prince Rupert, and two brothers.

Native People Missing

Monday afternoon by boats from Nelson Bros. Port Edward, Atlin Fisheries, and by Roy Innes in his own boat and James Bolton in his boat.

Bolton took his boat up toward Point Lambert Monday evening and found himself caught in an ice floe. However, he was able to get his boat free while the provincial police were arranging to have a boat sent to stand by for their possible rescue.

Although a slender chance exists that the party may have made it safely to shore, the feeling persists among natives and others who know the Lower Skeena, that they have met with tragedy.

Temperature at the time was down to zero and there was a strong wind on the river. It is believed that the N.F.B. 5 attempted to cross the Skeena at Port Eslington just as the tide passed its flood peak and started to recede. Ice, which is pushed up the river on the rising tide, comes down again in huge floes which can grind through the hull of a boat in a short time.

With Mr. Spalding on the boat was his whole family. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett have seven children at Port Eslington.

BUILDING UP BOY SCOUTS

Maj.-Gen. Spry Plans Bigger and Better Organization

OTTAWA, © — Canada Boy Scouts' Association is undergoing an administrative house-cleaning at Dominion command headquarters here in a turreted, old stone home on Metcalfe Street.

Under the direction of youthful, energetic Maj.-Gen. Dan Spry, chief executive commissioner, the organization plans to develop and expand its activities across the country. First step will be "Plan Opportunity," an outline for scout officials of the purposes of the movement and how it affects its 100,000 followers.

"We are starting our house-cleaning at home," says Maj.-Gen. Spry, "and then we are aiming our sights for a better and greater organization across Canada."

Part of the headquarters renovation plan has been the turning to microfilm of almost five tons of records and documents. The discarded paper will be turned over to the Scouts' own salvage drive.

The Dominion command moved into its own new building in 1931. The home belonged to the late Thomas Birkett and was purchased with the help of a good friend of scouting, R. W. Leonard of St. Catharines, Ont., who left $29,000 to the association.

Crowded for space in the large old home, the Dominion command is renovating the building and having rooms divided into smaller, separate offices to make for greater efficiency.

Part of the building holds trophies and tokens brought to Canada by scouts attending jamborees in various parts of the world.

There's a boomerang brought from the 1935 jamboree in Australia, a golden arrow from the English jamboree in 1929, a gold key from the 21st anniversary at River Moot, Scotland, and a silk pennant from Hungary in 1934. One scout brought back a Jacob's staff from the Dutch jamboree in 1937.

One of the command's prized trophies is a South African Kudu horn similar to one captured from a Zulu native by Lord Baden-Powell, late world chief, during the Boer War.

SHORT OF GLASS
DUBLIN, © — Ire faces a shortage of glass bottles and sheet glass because of a restriction on the production of sodium carbonate, a vital ingredient, in English plants that are running low on fuel.

The investment of $17,374,000 in newspaper advertising over a period of 60 years has resulted in a yearly volume of close to $20 million for one store on Chicago's State Street.

According to F. S. Adams of New York City, the seven-week newspaper strike made visible impressions on the life of that community with retail businesses, theatres and sporting events suffering the greatest hardships.

"O. P." Smith Canoe Jaunt

himself boarded a Southern Pacific train for home.

He had a number of adventures and close brushes with disaster, which he passes off lightly. While in the Fraser river, his canoe caught fire from flying sparks, and he burned his hand rather badly in extinguishing the blaze, which destroyed a little of his equipment and burned thru one-ply of the canoe.

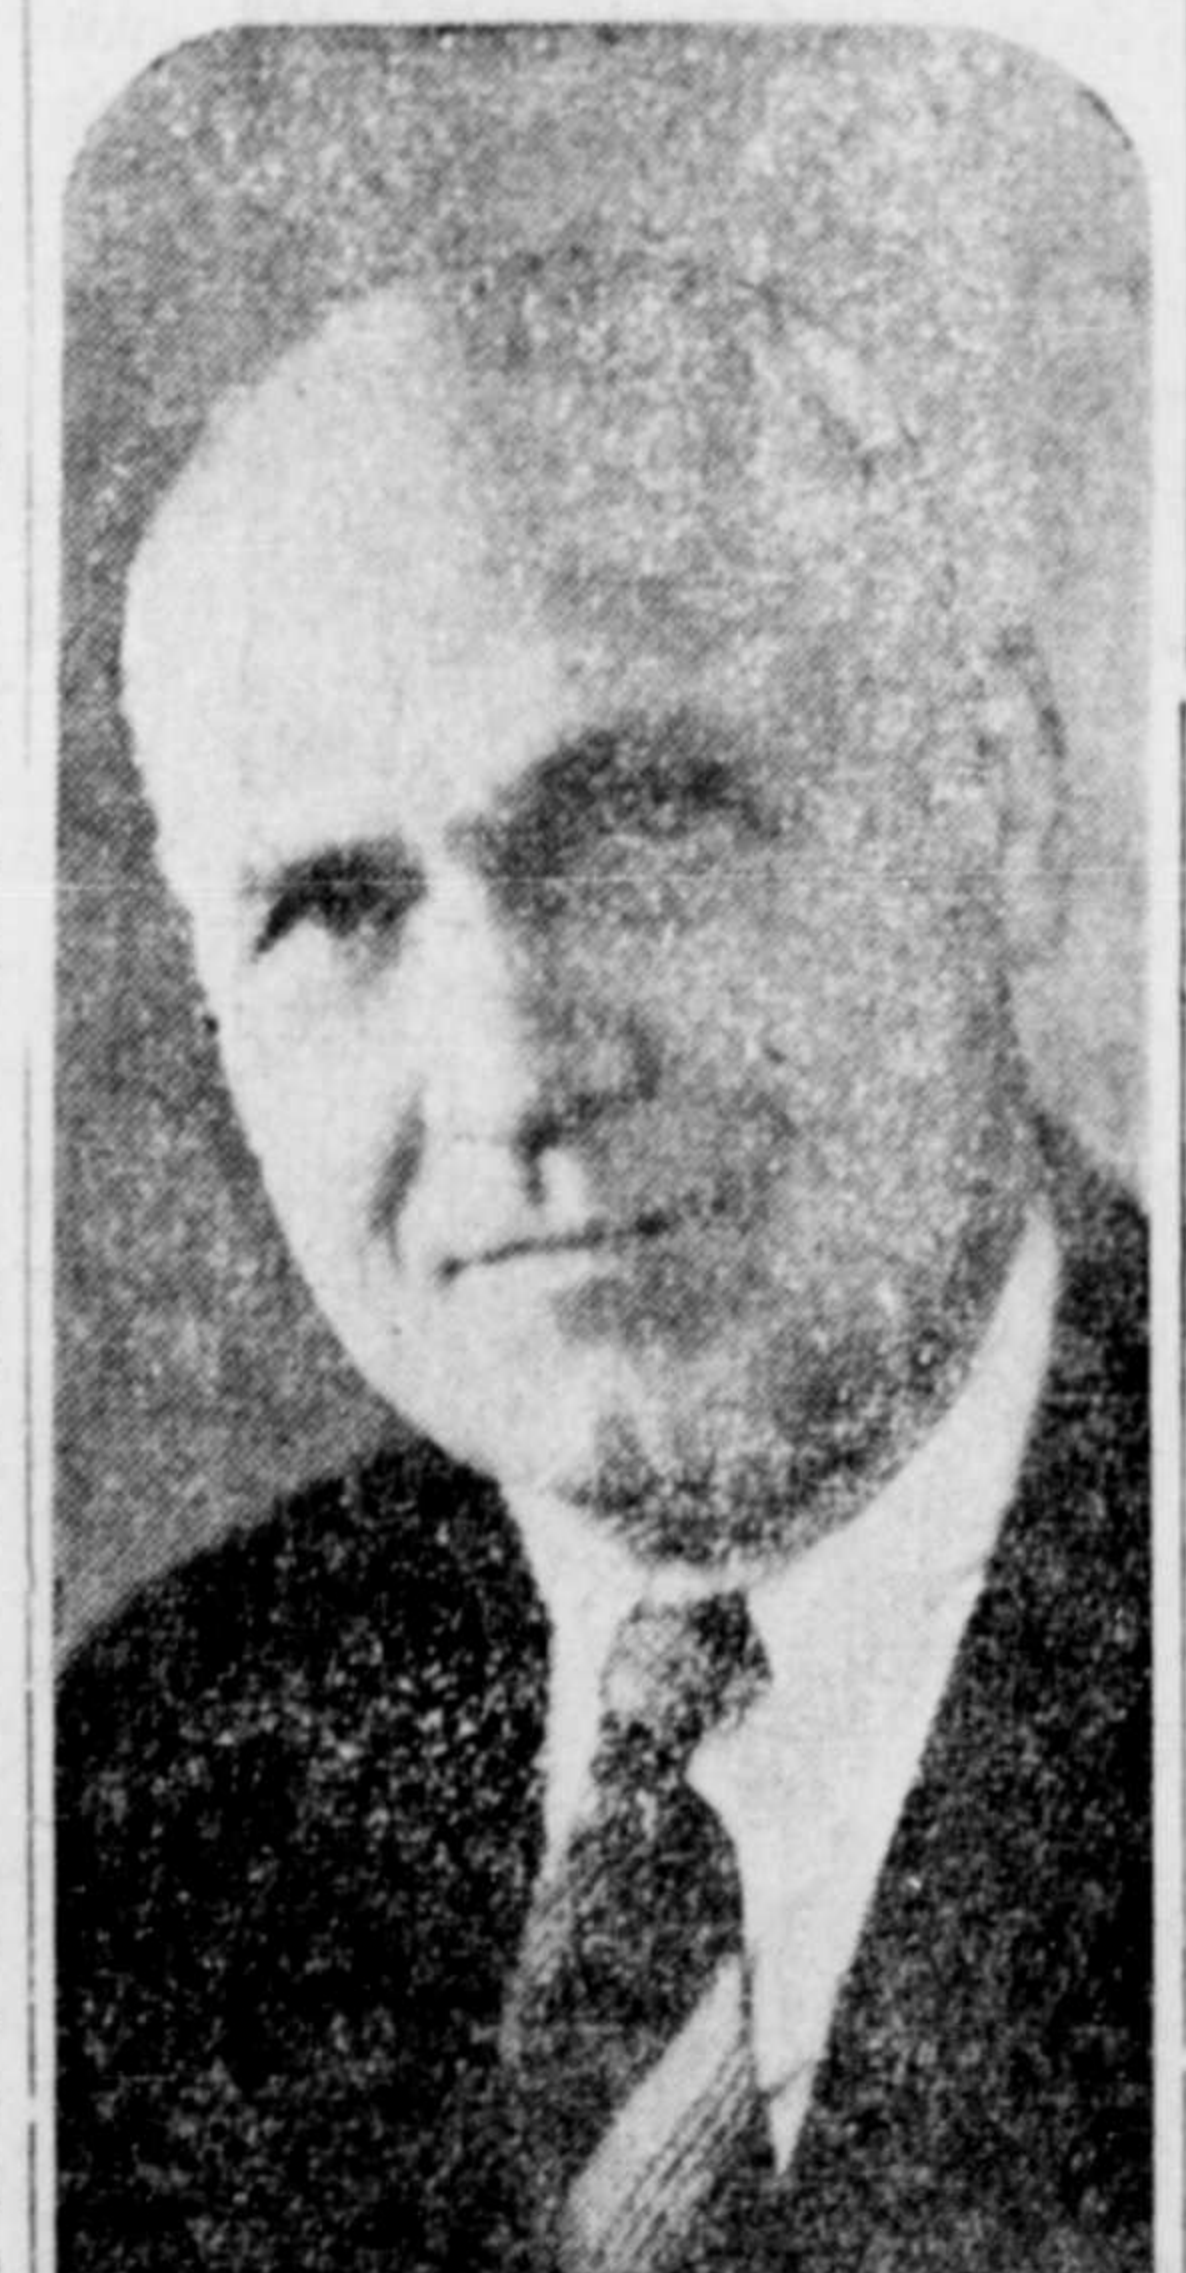

Near Gunflint his canoe overturned in a rapids and he lost his fishing rod, glasses, shoes, clothing and "grub". The canoe, unharmed, was righted successfully and Smith was invited for breakfast by a sportsman who had a large fishing lodge on the lake. The invitation was most welcome, as by then he had been without food for some time.

Next year Smith plans to take his canoe to Grand Marais on Lake Superior, and take up his journey east where he left off, continuing on to New York City. Not until then will he have the satisfaction of feeling that his ambition has been realized, and that he has traversed the entire Northwest Passage.

JAPS CONDEMNED
YOKOHAMA—In the United States War Crimes court at Yokohama, two Japanese prison camp officials were sentenced to death by the court for atrocities leading to the deaths of several prisoners of war, including Pte. Benjamin Neufield, of Nelson, B.C.

Advice was received at the meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night that a proposed tour of a British Columbia Products Bureau "Made in B.C." travelling display through the central interior and on to Prince Rupert, has been postponed from this spring until September. The local Chamber has already offered to assist in connection with the visit to this city.
