Hold Full of Water and Passengers Removed; Hull Believed Damaged

Vessel Badly Holed and Awaiting Salvage—Rescued People Going to Vancouver On Prince Rupert

After running ashore on Middle Reef at Idol Point, just north of Bella Bella in the inside passage, 115 miles south of Prince Rupert, at 10 minutes after 9 o'clock last night, Northland Transportation Co.'s big coastal liner North Sea had her No. 2 hold full of water this morning and it was believed that her bottom was damaged. The vessel, according to reports reaching here, was resting easily and awaiting arrival of assistance. Passengers and crew, numbering 150 in all, had been removed and taken to Bella Bella.

ENDEAVOUR TO SETTLE STRIKE

Latest Proposal of Minister of Labor Not Approved

OTTAWA—Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, offered a plan yesterday whereby an increase would be allowed in the price of coal in order that the $1.40 wage increase demanded by the miners in the Maritimes might be met. However, there would have to be an increased production guarantee.

The minister's new plan did not appear to meet with the approval of the miners' union.

Meantime, a final meeting is to be held in Halifax Saturday with a view to reaching a last minute settlement of the dispute which threatens a general strike against the Dominion Steel Co. in Cape Breton this week-end.

BEHEADED BY MAD LABORER

HAVANA—A Cuban laborer ran amok with a cutlass yesterday and, before he could be subdued and captured, he had beheaded a man and a woman and seriously injured several others.

MASTER AND DOG BOTH SHOT DEAD

WALL HEATH, Staffordshire, England—When 26-year-old Thomas Leslie Wilson walked out of the R.A.F. into civilian life in 1945 a black-and-white collie dog was by his side. "He's my greatest friend," he told neighbors. For a year, villagers often saw Wilson and his dog going for long walks together. One day Wilson was found shot dead in a deserted sandpit near his home. By his side lay a service revolver—and nearby lay the collie, also shot dead.

CARROLL REPORT FROWNS ON NATIONALIZATION OF COAL MINING

The long-awaited report of the Carroll royal commission, an exhaustive 400,000-word study of the entire coal industry in Canada, compiled over a period of three years, has been tabled in the House of Commons and asserts that the chief coal-consuming provinces of Ontario and Quebec must continue to rely mainly on U.S. supplies. The report frowns on nationalization of the coal mining industry, as urged by District 26, United Mine Workers' Union, which represents 13,200 miners in the maritimes. This photo shows the justices making up the royal commission on coal. They are, left to right, Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin, Mr. Justice W. F. Carroll, chairman, and Commissioner Angus Morrison, an official of the United Mine Workers in western Canada.

Canada - U.S. Defence

RUSSIAN protestations notwithstanding, there is no justification for anyone to suggest war-mongering if Canada and United States cooperate in northern defences. In fact, there would be inexcusable remissness if something along this line were not being done. Having not seen much in the way of such joint defence activities, hereabouts at least, since the war ended, we are glad to hear now that they are going on. If we had any criticism to make, it would be that there is not enough such co-operation.

Realists in appreciation of the international situation are persistently warning us that Canada should be looking to her defences as a measure of insurance against possible trouble emanating from the northern frontier—and the Arctic is now a frontier with Canada as a buffer. It is natural, therefore, that United States should be actively interested in seeing that Canada stays strong. And of course, Canada, in her new international position, should be making sure that she is in at least some measure prepared to defend herself.

Aggression, there is good reason to believe, is not dead in the world. A weak Canada might well be a greater danger to world peace than a strong Canada would be a provocative of war.

The current Soviet propaganda suggesting that Canadian-American defence collaboration is a menace directed to Russia strangely reminds us of the Nazi German fulminations of encirclement a decade or so ago when Hitler was paving the way to conquer the world and seeking excuse to wage war and make it look like self-defence.

It is nonsensical imagination for anyone in Canada to conjure up that either Canada or the United States are desirous of instigating any aggression. But the world being as it is, the two great nations of the North American sphere would be remiss, indeed, if they were not mindful of the possibility of a reverse aggression and were doing something about meeting it.

Premier King's assurance that a policy has been adopted along this line is reassuring. May its active implementation be speeded!

Housing Disposal

WHILE, under normal circumstances, there might be valid objection to the government setting itself up in the home building business in competition with private enterprise, a housing emergency exists in Canada today, even more acute than during the war, so the government is well justified in preserving its wartime housing and making it fully available to the people who, in most of the centres of Canada, are so badly in need of shelter. If there is any criticism of this policy, much greater and merited would the criticism be if any other course were followed.

It is surprising to hear it even suggested by a person of Mr. Piggott's responsibility that the government should take down the wartime houses even if there did exist any understanding, when they were built, that such would be done. The time for any general taking down of wartime housing has certainly not yet arrived.

Holding Tourists

CANADA'S tourist trade has been greatly increased as a result of publicity. Even here in Prince Rupert we have been modestly active in publicizing our attractions by various means. Tourist attracting campaigns will continue to go on and we will continue to interest prospective visitors to the point of coming.

But it is one thing to attract tourists and another to bring them back. The maintenance of high standards in accommodation and the development of good roads are of the utmost importance. No efforts should be spared to see that visitors find conditions as advertised, as attractive as they might have been led to believe. Prince Rupert is certainly one of the places that might think along these lines.

For instance, we have been featuring a very attractive aerial view of this city. Is it nearly as attractive on the ground? Are we doing all we can to make it so?

WINS DECORATION — For "conspicuous aid to the people of Belgium and the government during the war," Mrs. Suzanne Silvercray Stevenson, sculptress, of East Norwalk, Conn., is decorated with the Order of the Crown of Belgium, the highest honor the Belgian government can give a woman. Mrs. Stevenson is well known in Ottawa, where her brother formerly served as Belgian ambassador.

POLICEMAN WINS MEDAL

James S. Gray Awarded King's Police and Fire Service Medal

WINNIPEG — The King's Police and Fire Service Medal, awarded only on rare occasions in Canada, will be given to a former Winnipeg city police constable, James E. Gray, now of Vancouver.

The King approved the award to Mr. Gray for outstanding service performed in Winnipeg in February, 1937. Arrangements for its presentation are not yet complete.

In February, 1937, Mr. Gray, riding in a patrol car in Winnipeg with Constable James Davies, followed a car which, on sighting the trailing cruiser, picked up speed and raced away over icy streets.

The two constables gave chase until the escaping car smashed into a snow drift and two men jumped out. One man swung a rifle in the constables' direction and ordered them to "stay where you are or I'll bug you." The officers recognized him as an escaped convict.

In complete disregard of the armed man's warning, Constable Gray advanced. The man fired and the bullet tore through Gray's heavy clothing but luckily did not wound him.

Constable Davies entered the fray and fired at and fatally wounded the bandit. The second man fled but was captured shortly afterward.

Chief Constable George Smith of the Winnipeg police recommended Gray for recognition, but the award was not approved by the time Gray retired from the force in 1939. The matter was later taken up at Ottawa.

Mr. Gray was advised recently that the award was approved.

JUNIOR CHAMBER PLANS TO GREET NATIONAL HEAD

The welcome planned for Paul Laframboise of Montreal, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, who will visit Prince Rupert on March 5 during the course of a western tour, will include a special dinner sponsored by the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber, possibly held aboard the steamer Prince Rupert.

Approval was given by last night's meeting of the Junior Chamber for general welcome plans and the details turned over to the executive. Mr. Laframboise will arrive here on the Prince Rupert on the morning of March 5 and will leave that evening for the east by train.

The possibility of holding the special dinner aboard the Prince Rupert in the evening will be probed by the executive. Special guests at the dinner will include representatives of the city, Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, service clubs, Sons of Norway and possibly other men's groups.

Tourist committee chairman Al Manson outlined plans for the erection of an attractive arch at the foot of the C.N.R. wharf ramp and received assurances of support from the meeting. The arch is to be decorated with plywood cut-out salmon which will be sold on a sponsorship basis to local merchants.

Mr. Manson paid tribute to the co-operation shown by railway divisional Superintendent C. A. Berner in this project. Erection of the arch is to be carried out by railway workmen with material supplied by the Junior Chamber, Mr. Manson said.

TO ASSIST WITH CONVENTION

Senior Chamber of Commerce delegate W. J. Scott, in a brief address, commended the group on its various enterprises and asked that the Junior Chamber appoint two delegates to work with the senior group on the convention committee which is preparing for the annual Associated Boards of Trade of Northern B.C. convention to be held here on August 6 and 7.

J. H. Jeffries, who acted as Junior Chamber delegate to the last meeting of the Senior Chamber of Commerce, praised the efficiency with which that group's meetings are handled, suggesting that the Junior Chamber could use that procedure as a pattern.

President A. P. Crawley appointed himself and Past President Clifford Ham as delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade convention committee. He also named a resolutions committee to draw up briefs for the provincial and national Junior Chamber of Commerce conventions and for the Associated Boards of Trade convention. The committee consisted of Clifford Ham, Al Rivest, Gordon Durkin and Jack McLeod.

A motion by Dennis Garon that the C.N.R. be approached and asked to restore the historic and valuable exhibits in its park, including a totem pole, was referred to the tourist committee. A further motion by Mr. Garon that competitions be arranged for the beautification of Roosevelt Park was placed in the hands of Mr. Jeffries for report at the next meeting.

Stuart Fusk and Hawthorne Graham were named delegates to attend the next meeting of the Senior Chamber of Commerce.

BAKED EARTH BOMBS

Bombs or grenades were first used in the 15th century. Early bombs were balls of baked mud filled with explosives.

Urges Clear Answers To Juvenile Queries

LONDON — The most satisfactory way in which to answer children's questions about sex would be to "bring back into everyday language six or seven words which now are regarded as obscene," Cyril Bibby, senior lecturer at the College of St. Mark and St. John, said in an address.

As this was not possible "parents should be encouraged to use the correct words in answering questions about sex instead of so-called simple alternatives such as "seed" and "nest" recommended for children.

"One keeps coming across parents who in their efforts to simplify things for their children only bewilder them."

Bread for China

Starving

Too weak to cultivate their war-torn fields, these Chinese farmers struggled ten miles to a relief station for a little soft rice.

Uprooted from their farms, women and children of Hunan Province, have been reduced to eating grass and roots.

There are millions like them. Peasant farmers form 83 per cent. of China's population.

Their one hope is the compassion of more fortunate peoples who can send them food, clothing, medical supplies, hospital equipment, NOW.

UNRRA's work is ending. Voluntary agencies must carry on.

Our interest in world welfare, our pity for a good neighbor who will be a good customer in days to come, bid us be generous NOW.

This is the only national appeal to be made in Canada within the next twelve months for Chinese relief.

Legion Honors Allan Davies

Long-term member of the Prince Rupert branch, Canadian Legion, in which he has served as executive member, secretary and zone representative, Allan M. Davies was honored at the monthly meeting of that organization Wednesday night by a presentation made by President Vic Houston in recognition of his service.

Mr. Davies, who has been transferred to the Victoria office of the provincial Forestry Department, sailed with Mrs. Davies on the Prince Rupert last night.

In making the presentation of a set of silverware, Mr. Houston spoke of it as a token of appreciation for the work performed by Mr. Davies over the years. Mr. Houston pointed out that Mr. Davies had been associated with soldier associations before the Canadian Legion was formed, and since the creation of the Canadian Legion he had rendered valuable service in several capacities.

Officers and members of the Legion wished the departing member good fortune in his new position.

NEW COUNCIL AT KINCOLITH

H. Doolan Elected Chief—Naskeena Runs Through Blizzard to take Indian Agent

Herbert S. Doolan has been elected chief councillor for the Naas River native village of Kincolith with Sam Lincoln as deputy chief councillor. W. F. Stewart is secretary and other council members are Francis Watts, Jeffrey C. Benson, Arthur E. Nelson sr. and Hubert Doolan.

The new council was sworn in by Indian Agent F. Earl Anfield who, with Inspector of Schools Davey, made the trip north in the departmental cruiser Naskeena. They encountered a veritable blizzard off Portland Canal and on up the Naas River which is frozen in down to Red Bluff below Fishery Bay, seven inches of snow falling in one night.

SHORT SPORT

The business of identical twins competing for the same position in the same sport is becoming confusing in Britain. First it was the Bedser twins—Alex and Eric—on the Surrey county cricket club. Both are bowlers and nobody can tell them apart until they start tossing the ball—one is a fast bowler, the other a slow spinner. Now it's Alistair and Alan Palgrave-Brown. They are competing for the cox position in the Oxford boat for the big race against Cambridge in March. Fellow members of the two practice crews, from which the final eight will be chosen, are completely dark as to which is which. Somebody got the bright idea of one wearing a light overcoat, the other a dark one. On rainy or foggy days they wear the same colored raincoats. The trainer just takes their word that they are coxing the right crews.

Preston North End football club is swinging along merrily in the English league first division championship race and many supporters swear it's because they have music and laughter in their hearts. The players have a social committee and every week hold a dance in the stadium gymnasium at which the officials, players, their wives and current girl friends attend. About once a month they hold a "hot-pot social"—in other words a feed.

Charles Buchan, London News Chronicle football expert, says professional soccer, "at least of a part-time brand, is likely to spread to the continent very soon." Buchan said Holland's leading clubs, all amateur although broken-time payment is allowed, are in favor of taking the plunge. "In the circumstances they cannot be expected to reach the standard of the professional international teams and they believe they will be unable to do so unless their players are paid." Buchan said.

A London west end bookmaker reports what he calls the funniest bet made with him. It happened in 1941 when, just before the Lincolnshire Handicap, a farmer approached him and, producing an outside Spanish onion, asked whether he could lay him £100 ($400) to the onion on Gaston, a 50-to-1 chance. Onions were almost unobtainable those days and the bookie, a married man with homely instincts, took it. It wasn't very funny when Gaston led coming into the stretch, but gloaming overtook the long shot and won by a short head.

CLEAN YOUR MOTOR as you drive!

Ever see an automobile engine scrub itself? That's exactly what happens when you use RPM Compounded Motor Oil.

Both these bottles of oil were dosed with pure carbon. In the uncompounded oil (left) the carbon settled to the bottom just as it would settle on engine parts like the grimy piston ring.

In the RPM, see how the "detergent" (or cleansing agent) disperses the carbon particles harmlessly through the oil. They can't settle down inside the engine. Rings and pistons stay clean and the carbon drains out when the RPM is changed.

You can't judge motor oil by its looks—it may seem clean but only because it has let the carbon stay in your engine.

Remember, too, that RPM sticks to the hot spots that most oils leave bare. It is genuinely a premium motor oil.

PETITE FRENCH GIRL, FORMER ANTI-NAZI WORKER, TO BE MARRIED HERE

Miss Yvonne Couzigou, the first French girl to leave her homeland for Canada to become the bride of a former Canadian soldier, arrived in Prince Rupert on last night's train from the east after a 21-day trip by rail and steamer from Marseilles.

Miss Couzigou, petite, brown-eyed former worker in the French Forces of the Interior, a secret anti-Nazi organization, will be married Sunday evening to Jack Moran of this city, former member of the Seaforth Highlanders.

Meeting the incoming train at Vanderhoof to come here for the wedding was Mrs. Guttormson, the former Barbara Moran of this city, a sister of the bridegroom-elect.

Miss Couzigou, until recently employed as secretary and translator for the press officer in the British legation at Marseilles, studied English for six years in school and speaks it fluently. She was employed by the United States army for a time after the liberation of France. During the war she did stenographic work for the French forces of liberation.

"The Nazis didn't bother us much," she recalls, "but the Gestapo used to come and search our house quite frequently." On such occasions, she said, everyone in the neighborhood made considerable noise to warn each other. Her brother was drafted into the German labor service but wrote belligerent and critical letters home from the Reich.

"The Germans had two of their women live upstairs with us," Miss Couzigou recalls. "When we wanted to move them out, they told us they had heard us listening to our radio and would report us. We had turned the radio down very low to listen to BBC but apparently the broadcast had gone up the chimney which we had forgotten about."

The new resident of Prince Rupert says a coal shortage has hampered recovery in France and factories run but three days a week. She says the communists are very active politically but that the other two main parties, by sticking together, can keep them pretty well under control.

Miss Couzigou crossed from Southampton on the Queen Elizabeth to New York and paid a brief visit at Hamilton on the way here.

Children Are Provided For

Care Arranged for Orphans As Result of Recent Skeena River Tragedy

Prompt provision has been made by the Department of Indian Affairs for the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bennett of Port Essington who have been left orphans as a result of the recent ice tragedy in the Skeena River when a party of seven natives, including Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, lost their lives.

On Monday two daughters, Mildred and Lucille, were taken on the Agency launch Naskeena to Port Simpson where they have joined the family of 20 girls at Crosby Residential School. They settled quickly and are, apparently, quite happy, according to Indian Agent F. Earl Anfield who saw them yesterday.

Three boys—Wilfrid, Sidney and Henry—left on the Coquitlam Tuesday for Alert Bay residential school.

The youngest child, aged three, has been placed in the care of her uncle, Titus Campbell.

All the children were fully outfitted with new clothing provided by the Indian Department.

The remaining children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Spalding, both enfranchised Indians, have been placed with Mrs. Matthew Wesley and Mrs. Dopsun, the latter a sister of Peter Spalding.

ASKS HIGHER TRIBUTE FOR FLYERS SHOT DOWN—S/Sgt. Ann-Comko, of Monessen, Pa., sister of one of five American flyers shot down over Yugoslavia last August, has unsuccessfully appealed to the U.S. army for more impressive monument, at her expense, in Arlington National cemetery to the memory of Cpl. Matthew Comko, her kid brother, and the men who died with him. The head stone for the common grave is 22 inches wide and stands 24 inches above the ground. Army spokesmen pointed out that this is larger than average. Photo shows S/Sgt. Comko placing a wreath on the grave of her brother and his heroic comrades.

Equality, Tolerance Needed For Growth of Canadian Greatness

The need for equality and tolerance among Canada's varied racial groups is a vital requirement if this country is to fulfil its destiny as a great nation. Most Rev. Anthony Jordan, Bishop of the Roman Catholic Vicariate of Prince Rupert, emphasized in an address before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club Thursday afternoon. Speaking on "Canadian Citizenship," Bishop Jordan dwelt on the sources of greatness and individuality inherent in the Canadian way of life, then continued on to warn of the need for unity and tolerance which, he said, are required to weld those attributes into a fabric of national greatness.

"Since New Year's Day," Bishop Jordan said, "the Canadian Citizenship Act has been in force. By it, all natural born Canadians and those having taken out citizenship papers have been designated Canadian citizens. The bill outlining this status was proclaimed in the House of Commons on July 1, 1946. The many speeches made during the three readings of the bill all stressed the good effects that ought to flow from this new designation. "Indeed, there is exhilaration in the heart and on the lips when one says: 'I am a Canadian citizen.' It will be with a gesture of pride that we shall hand to representatives of other countries our passports which read: 'John Doe—Canadian citizen.'"

"This laudable pride is meant to achieve a great aim in this country, an aim for which every one of us ought to strive unrelentingly. This aim is well expressed in the words of Paul Martin, Canadian Secretary of State: 'For the national unity of Canada and for the future greatness of this country it is felt to be of the utmost importance that all of us, new Canadians or old, have a consciousness of a common purpose and common interests as Canadians.' "In this declaration of intention, one thing depends on another; Canada never will reach her destiny, will never realize her future greatness unless there is unity and solidarity among her citizens. "The greatness of a people ordinarily springs from two things—First, from the soil on which they dwell, and, second, from the exercise of the inalienable, God-given rights common to all men, together with the faithful discharge of the duties and obligations arising from these rights. "The effects of the soil, of the physical characteristics of the land in which people dwell is subtle, but real and unmistakable. We have only to consider the typical inhabitants of any country, the hills and valleys, the natural resources, the historical events that have moulded him, to realize how inexorably his country has made him what he is. There is excellence in each and in all together, yet with a variety of fine qualities that is an ever-amazing source of wonder and awe. "Johnny Canuck, gone forth across the seas, has been subject to the scrutiny of the peoples he has rescued or fought against and what they have seen is in great part due to the relentless action, at once gentle and fierce, of the little ports of the Atlantic provinces, of the St. Lawrence valley with its flaming autumn maples, of the portages and lakes of the east, of the sunsets and bitter cold of the prairies, of the foothills, mountains and sea of the west, and of the unconquerable vastness of the lonely north. "This Canadian is like no other man, but an excellent representative of humanity at its best. "Likewise, in the use of his rights and in the acceptance of the duties and responsibilities growing out of them, the Canadian is fashioned in a way that makes him recognizable whenever he meets his fellows. A believer in God, law-abiding, reverent, generous with being demonstrative, courageous without being reckless, a good family man, a good soldier, honest salesman and a gifted diplomat, the Canadian has made himself and his country respected throughout the world.

SOMETHING LACKING IN CANADA STILL

"Yet, without, there is something amiss, an incompleteness, a sense of unfulfillment, that, especially in recent years, has given rise to much soul-searching both in private and in public. Thoughtful Canadians know that there is no great sense of unity in this land in spite of all legal ties that bind us together. It takes more than law to make a nation. Recently, someone wrote that what was needed was a common ideal in this country. An ideal assuredly is needed if we are to obtain the things we seek. "We seek equality. The equality that can make ours a harmonious fellowship. This equality is not to be found in uniformity. There is no such equality in the most intimate family. The range and diversity of human skill, talents and degrees of development are immense and are intended by nature. "The equality we seek comes through the uses to which these diverse talents are put. Equality in rights and equality in the duty of service. A greater equality in material things, since it is in material things that all our citizens have most equal needs.

"All men need food equality, and shelter, and clothing and access to education. Until men start with that basic equality—the fulfillment of their actual bodily necessities—we cannot make a true structure of society, in which each, according to his abilities, may rise equally from the base upon which society is founded. If we think that men must compete for bread, we have never understood the Lord's Prayer.

"This equality is an ingredient of true unity in any nation. Besides, we Canadians have another great need; it is a need for a wise tolerance and patient understanding among the two great language groups that make up the overwhelming portion of our population. "English-speaking Canadians and French-speaking Canadians share equally the responsibility in this ever-present, delicate matter. Language is more than race and more than blood. It is the native and unconscious instrument of the most precise expression of a man's thoughts; it is the embodiment of his deepest instincts; the natural outlet for the spontaneous, the refuge of his soul. Without his own language a man feels that his personality, yes, even his thought, has become reduced. "When representatives of the British government took over this country in 1763, they found 60,000 persons speaking the French tongue. That group has grown until it now numbers over 4,000,000. Along with its language, it retained, and still fosters its own culture. Alongside these French-Canadians and to some extent, intermingling with them, there are several millions more whose mother-tongue is English and whose racial origin is British. If Canada is to become a great nation, these two groups must work out a solution which will allow them to grow and develop into a tapestry wherein the interests of the country at large are paramount. "Nearly all men and women of Canada hailed with glad delight the emphasis which the recent bill placed on nationality. However, a few, very few, saw in this act of Parliament a retrogression to the lane of nationalism when we ought to be leading the procession on the highroad to One World. "Such a protest reveals a false view of true nationalism; it would confine the meaning of nationalism to the Master Race theory. Our desire to be known as Canadians is born of the wish to develop all the fine traits manifested in the representatives of the many nations that have a home in this land. "Just as a good family, living according to the laws of God and the country, is the best contribution to our domestic society, so, too, the millions of Canadians far from setting themselves in opposition to the rest of the world, will be in the best possible position to con-

NEW ORE CARS FOR IRON MINE

Million Tons to be Shipped From Ontario Mine This Year

MONTREAL—To handle increasing production of iron ore by the Steep Rock Iron Mines near Atikokan, Ontario, the Canadian National Railways have placed an order for construction of an additional 250 new all-steel 50-ton capacity ore cars. The award of the order to the National Steel Car Co. of Hamilton was announced here by D. McK. Ford, vice-president of purchases and stores.

The mine, which was the bed of a 15-mile lake until 1944 when 72 billion gallons of water had to be pumped out of it and its flow diverted, produced 531,800 tons of ore in 1945. Last year production swelled to 823,800 tons and estimates made by the officers of the company for this year indicate that well over a million tons will be mined.

tribute to worldwide understanding and harmony.

"The true Canadian is a lover of truth and right. He extends the hand of friendship to his neighbors in Canada; and besides, he is ready to greet good men from many country and to each he will say 'Fellow citizen.'"
